LONDON, Dec. 17 (Canadian Press).—The Westminster Gazette's Angora correspondent says he learns from a reliable source, that the Turkish Minister of Agriculture, Sabr Bey, has gone to Moscow, ostensibly to study Russian agriculture, but that he is really charged with a mission to negotiate Russian support of Turkey in the event of war over Mosul.

The correspondent adds: "There is a thick atmosphere of suspicion here which is difficult to dissipate. The situation must be taken most seriously. Many Turks profess ardently a desire for friendship with Great Britain, but quick friendly methods following the league's decision are essential if the hostile elements are to be disarmed."

LONDON, Dec. 16.—(Canadian Press.)—The British Parliament will be prorogued for the holiday season next Monday. The new session starts early in February.

COUNTY ROADS WILL BE INVESTIGATED

Expenditures of Public Moneys To Be Checked Up.

TORONTO, Dec. 17 (Canadian Press).—As an outcome of the inquiry into the road building accounts in Osgoode Township of the County of Carleton, G. L. Squires, Deputy Minister of Highways, announced last night that it was proposed to have investigations in several townships of that county. It was not the present intention of the Department, however, to extend the probe to other counties. The recent township inquiry had shown some discrepancies in the books, workmen having been credited with working on such manifestly impossible dates as June 31 and September 31, and also upon dates which had fallen upon Sundays. He thought that carelessness in keeping the accounts was probably at the bottom of the discrepancies.

"Just tell the flip gentleman what you'll do to him, when you get loose—pretty now, an' polite, ol' dear. Aw! that ain't pretty, Poochie! Say, Sister, yu'd better stick your fingers in your ears. When Pooch is sore, what he says ain't fit for publication in the 'Police Gazette'."

It was all very incomprehensible, Lacy reflected uncomfortably. Sweetie's charge of intimacy on the part of the girl at his side with a grotesque figure like Pooch was impossible, and made purely through malevolence, of course. But with him she must be connected in some way.

He decided he must talk with Sweetie. She was shrewd but voluble, and if voluble might say too much. However, he did not feel so much like pumping her when he had left the other girl and had joined the slim figure now at the rail. Pert as were her shrap little features, hard the snappy black eyes, her face was attractive, pathetic as well—almost that of a child, he thought, yet as old as the ages with a wisdom it should not have had. And feeling the pity of it, he made a bad beginning.

"You've got too good a mind, little one," he said, "to waste in a game like this."

"For Gawd's sake, haven't you any other line?" she retorted tartly. "You was handing that to Sister a minute ago. But I notice, like most sky pilots, you pass the hat first, and fifty grand's some c'llection, I'll tell the world."

"That's so. Well, I'll can the sermon. It's your lead—or, is this any better?" And, muttering to himself, "Rotten taste with the other looking on, but I must find out about that ship," he placed his arm around the tight little waist, and not at all tentatively. At which Sweetie softly yielded to his embrace and her arm stole round him in turn.

A moment or so they sat, conversing in slangy and inconsequential nothings, she snuggling closer, when suddenly his hand closed on hers, like a vise.

"No you don't!" he exclaimed.

She giggled. "As a dip, I'm a dumbbell," she said, not at all embarrassed, "but never mind; go on don't let a little thing like that bre a petting party."

"You're right. Such a contretemps but adds to the needed spice to love."

"'Country town adds spice!' Say, are you thinking of going ashore to Bayville? You are the limit," she added, "and no three miles to you neither; you stretch clear to Bermuda."

"Speaking to that motion," he replied, "I wonder if that ship'll be where the Swede promised."

"Wise, aren't you?" she asked sweetly. "You think just because you've loved me up a little I'll give you that info'. Well, you can leave your fin there awri', but that's all the good it'll do you."

Now, during this conversation Connemara had first looked volumes, then tossed her head, again returned to study the darkness over the lee rail. Several times she repeated this maneuver, though discreetly, as she pondered over his status with the gang and, what seemed more important, with the girl. He was undeniably charming; but, then, charming men were sometimes strangely interested in girls far beneath them. And too, charming men made, so those experienced said, the most expert of criminals. He was brave, handsome—of course that was not to the point—but he seemed so eminently well bred and—well, anyway, Connemara also was finding things a bit incomprehensible.

But what was that staccato put-put off their quarter! That good-looking Harvard boy back again? She made out the lines of the oncoming bulk. It was longer and beamier than Bob's little craft; larger even than the Bloody Nuisance. And that gruff hail was not at all like the gallant Bob's.

"Stand by, or we'll fire!"

"Golly!" said Connie. "They're looking for my salary again. I knew it was too good to last." And reaching for support, instead of the rail she clutched the hand of Lacy, who, at the sound, had sprung to her side.

The bald pate of the Scot, like a moonlit desert with an auburn morage, appeared once more over the cockpit. He chuckled audibly.

"Ye've lost, Davie; there's the Swede."

"Yes, confound your Scotch dourness, or whatever you call it! I believe you monkeyed with that engine on purpose."

He shrugged his shoulders hopelessly, adding, "All right, I've picked my man; you pick your 'un, old Scot. And I hope you get killed."

But immediately the demand was repeated from the leader of the crew whom they could dimly discern through the murk, and Lacy turned to the girl.

"Can you swim as far as that shore—if we get in trouble?"

With her nod of assent, he picked her up bodily and almost threw her in the cockpit, growling out, "Lie low; they may fire"; then, tossing a life belt after her, temporized with Fate as personified in that insolent voice, by running to the wheel and ordering McTish to address the newcomers as they circled round them.

"Who is it speakin' us?" roared the latter through cupped hands. "Are ye some o' them damned revenooers?"

"You bloody Scotch stool pigeon, bring that sea-goin' hack of yours alongside or we'll blow you to—" The wind muffled this last, but the speaker's geography, Connie was sure, was impressively accurate.

A moment Lacy reflected, as he caught the gleam of a six-pounder. There were seven against the two, nine if you counted Doc and Pooch, who would be freed the moment the others came aboard. His brain, working with lig tning rapidity, showed him only one possible way out—a chance in a hundred, at that. The Swede's craft was an old tub, the nose of their own of steel. It was a desperate expedient he had in mind, but it might succeed.

"All right," he called, "we'll go about. You heave to and wait for us." And whirling the wheel, he swung the nose of the Bloody Nuisance and covered the five boat's lengths of clear water that now lay between them, and before the bewildered crew on the other boat had time to diagnose the maneuver, were upon them.

Amidships the Bloody Nuisance struck stoving in her enemy's side, and blunting as she did so her own gallant nose. There was a crash, the shearing of shorn timbers and plates, a wild medley of oaths, and the smaller boat backed out, as the other craft listed, the water pouring through the gaping wound in her side.

But at this point their own engine balked; and time had been lost in the extrication. There was not enough clear water now between the two crafts to repel the boarders.

Up chain and rope, and over the rail they swarmed, six of them, the seventh falling backward with the bark from McTish's revolver, which, however, was instantly knocked from his hand.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FASCISTS SEEK CURTAILMENT OF PRESS FREEDOM

ROBBING PEOPLE.

ROME, Dc., 17 (Canadian Press)—The contrast between the Facist and the Liberal conception of state craft was brought into striking relief during the course of Tuesday's debate in the Senate on the Fascist bill curtailing the liberty of the press.

The measure was vigorously attacked by Senator Ruffini who declared that its passage meant robbing the people of one of their most sacred rights while Senator Cippico replied that the law was considered a neecssity for the present status of the Fascist state which maintains that liberty, even liberty of the press, is not an inalienable right but a concession on the part of the state and that therefore the state is justified in curtailing it whenever advisable.

Wheat Prices Fluctuate Within Narrow Range

CHICAGO, December 17. Canadian Press. — Fluctuating nervously as the result of conflicting estimates of the Argentine exportable surplus, wheat prices have averaged lower today in the early part of the Board of Trade session. The fact that the Liverpool market failed to reflect fully yesterday's advance on this side of the Atlantic was a depressing influence. Aggressive buying however developed on declines in price.

Chicago opening gures unchanged to 1 3-8c lower, new style December $1.74 1-4 to $1.74 3-8, and May $1.69 to $1.70 1-2 were followed by a moderate set back all around and then by many rapid changes within a range of 2c.

Corn and oats ruled easy in line with wheat. After opening 3-8c off to 1-8c up, May 84 1-2 to 84 5-8c, the corn market showed declines all raound.

Oats started 1-4c lower to a shade advance, May 45 3-8c to 45 1-2c and then held near to initial figures. Lower quotations on hogs acted as weight on provision market.

Speculators Return To Industrial Stocks

NEW YORK, Dec. 17 (Canadian Press)—Speculative interest in the stock market today switched back from rails to industrials, many of which were bid up one to five points on what appeared to be short covering. The demand for stocks was influenced by easier call money rates, apparent ease of any extended forced liquidation on the recent decline and the cutting of a long expected mellon on American Can.

Motors, which were the principal targets for selling pressure during the last week, snapped back vigorously, Mack Trucks and Chrysler each bounding cp five points from their morning lows, while several others moved up one to three points.

Mine Market Featureless Stocks Remaining Steady

TORONTO, Dec. 17.—(Canadian Press.)—This morning's session of the Standard Mining Exchange was featureless, with the volume of trading very light and no particular trend to the market. Columbus Kirkland, and Consolidated West Dome, the stocks most heavily dealt it, were very steady. Goldale and Argonaut sold silghtly lower. Teck Hughes and Vipond made a bright spot in the list, advancing respectively one and two points. The silvers were firm, Castle Tretheway gaining two and Canadian Lorrain five.

Trading Very Light But Tone In Toronto Firm

TORONTO, Dec. 17 (Canadian Press)—Trading was very light on the Toronto stock exchange this morning, but the market showed a generally firm tone. Brazilian, Smelters, and Brompton were again the leaders with Canners preferred and twin city being fairly heavily dealt in. The latter two held unchanged, however. Consolidated Smelters was the outstanding feature, selling up three and a quarter points to 149 1-4. Brazilian strengthened a quarter and Brompton likewise improved slightly. British Columbia Fishing receded a point and a half to 60 1-2. Canada Bread issues moved substantially, common losing two at 58 and preferred gaining one at 98.

During the seocnd quarter of this year 226 people were killed or died from injuries received in accidents in London's streets.

C.N.R. Will Pay Pension To Tot Orphaned In Wreck

TORONTO, Dec. 17 (Canadian Press)—Sir Henry Thornton, in a letter to Hon. W. F. Nickle, attorney general, states that the Canadian National Railways will pay little Hilda Mould, aged three years, $25 a month until she is 17 years of age. The child was the only survivor of a level crossing accident at Scarboro Junction early in October when a fast train struck the car containing Baby Mould's parents and three other persons. Mr. Nickle was on the train and brought the Mould child to Toronto. He has since taken a great interest in her welfare.

MANY HAPPY RETURNS.

RT. HON. W. L. MACKENZIE KING

LLOYD HARRIS WILL HAS BEEN PROBATED

Estate Slightly Over Half a Million—Mostly in Stocks.

TORONTO, Dec. 17 (Canadian Press).—The estate of the late Lloyd Harris, as inventoried by the Surrogate Courts, is valued at $517,449.18, of which $377,556 is in stocks. The main stock holdings are 6,500 shares of Massey-Harris of par value of $630,600, and estimated market value of $252,240; 1,131 shares of Russell Motor Car Co., Ltd., with par value of 360,000 and market value of $18,000. After a few bequests and the disposal of the Harris home in Brantford to his daughter, the will of Mr. Harris states that the residue is to be divided into two parts, from which the income from one-half is to be paid to the widow and from the other half to the daughter, Mrs. Frances W. Paterson, and on her death to be paid in equal parts to her children.

John W. Widdup, "friend and secretary," is to receive the income from $50,000 during his lifetime.

SEVEN NATIONS PAY UNCLE SAM

Britain Pays $92,310,000 of Principal and Interest.

WAR OBLIGATIONS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.— The Treasury yesterday received payments aggregating $95,253,371.85 from seven foreign governments on account of their funded indebtedness to the United States. The entire amount will be applied toward the reduction of the public debt.

The Governments making payments were Great Britain, Belgium, Czechslovakia, Finland, Hungary, Lithuania and Poland. It was the largest amount ever received in a single day by the American Government from its World War debtors. Two of the nations making payments—Belgium and Czechslovakia—negotiated debt-funding agreements with the United States that have not yet been ratfied by Congress, but made their payments in cash to cement the understandings.

While these seven nations were making their payments the Senate Finance Committee approved the debt agreements with Italy, Rumania, Latvia, Belgium, Esthonia and Czechoslovakia. The agreements with Great Britain, Finland, Hungary, Lithuania and Poland were ratified some time ago. Italy recently made a first payment of $5,000,000 in advance.

The largest payment yesterday was by Great Britain, amounting to $92,310,000, of which $68,310 was for interest and $24,000,000 for principal, and as authorized by the terms of the settlement, was made in obligations of the United States which were accepted at par. It represented Britain's sixth annual payment of interest and the third annual payment of principal. The payments of the other countries mere made in cash.

Belgium's payment was $870,000, representing her first semi-annual instalment of interest.

Czechoslovakia paid her first semi-annual instalment of principal. It amounted to $1,500,000.

Finland made her sixth semi-annual payment of interest and the third annual instalment of principal, the total amounting to $180,650, of which $133,650 was for interest and $47,000 for principal.

Hungary's payment represented the fourth semi-annual payment of interest and the second annual instalment of principal. The total amounted to $39,611.25, of which $29,593.25 was for interest and $10,018 was for principal.

Lithuania made her third semi-annual payment on account of interest. The payment amounted to $45,678.38. The remainder of the interest due, amounting to $45,000, will be funded in accordance with the option given in the debt settlement agreement.

Poland, with $500,000, made her second payment on account under the terms of the debt settlement. The remainder due will be funded in accordance with the option given in the debt settlement agreement.

The youngest player ever to win the United States amateur tennis championship was Oliver Campbell, who was only 19 when he captured the coveted title in 1890.

Letters Addressed To Santa Claus Carefully Handled Post Office Forwards Them To Where They Get Attention

NEW YORK, Dec. 17 (United Press).—More than 2,000 letters addressed to Santa Claus have already been received at the New York post office. This number will probably be swelled to 5,000 before Christmas.

Many of these letters are answered. Department stores, charitable organizations, individuals and the Santa Claus Association apply for them, and send presents to children whose letters obviously show that they would not receive gifts in any other way.

The force of the local post office has been increased by 1,700 extra sorters and special delivery messengers, carriers and chauffeurs.

CHURCH PROPERTY COMMISSION FUTILE

Chairman Says Applications of Many Bodies Cannot Be Handled.

TORONTO, Dec. 17 (Canadian Press—The Ontario Church Property Commission has decided to make no order on the application of the continuing Presbyterian minority of Knox Church in the town of Durham for provision of some sort for their accommodation. They asked that the former Methodist Church, the smaller of the two churches, should be given them.

Chairman Falconbridge said this morning the Commission had now heard 50 cases, and he was becoming daily are convinced of the futility of applications under the section of the Union act on which the Commission operates. He thinks that in many cases the minorities had better negotiate with the majorities than consult the Commission. Minorities all over the province, he said, had exaggerated ideas of the powers of the Commission and were disappointed when they found the Board could do nothing for them.

SIZE IS LIMITED.

LIVERPOOL, Eng., December 17. Canadian Press. — Princess Mary (Viscountess Lascelles) officiated today at the launching and christening of the warship Rodney in the shipyards of Cammell, Laird and Co., at Birkenhead.

The Rodney when commissioned in 1927, will be the largest battleship in the world. Under the Washington treaty its displacement is limited to 35,000 tons.

The armament is also restricted but the vessel will probably mount nine 16 inch guns in three triple turrets, instead of having only two turrets as formerly. It is etsimated the contract will bring $35,950,000 to the ship yards.

POWER CANAL

This map illustrates the plan of the Niagara Falls Power Co., on the U.S. side of the river, to draw water from the Niagara river above the Whirlpool Rapids, carry it nearly two miles across a peninsula and give it a drop of 90 feet nearly opposite the Hydro's Chippawa canal powerhouse. In this way 200,000 horespower could be developed. The cost of development would probably be twice that of getting power at Niagara Falls proper. The map indicates the location of the Falls and of the N.F. Power Co.'s main powerhouse. The heavy ticked line indicates the route of the proposed canal.

Dear Worthy Mistress.—We, the members of Eastern Star Lodge No. 525, are pleased to have you with us to-night, and it affords us great pleasure to express to you in some small amount of our great appreciation for your persevering energy and jealous efforts in promoting the interests of our Lodge through the past year. You have quietly discharged your several interesting duties as our Worthy Mistress with marked punctuality, promptness, patience and dignity, thereby adding to the respect and prestige of your exalted station amongst us. KOCH CANOT FORM CABINET

COULDN'T TAKE PART.

BERLIN, Dec. 17 (United Press).—The attempt of Erich Koch, Democrat and former Minister of the Interior, to form a new Cabinet to succeed the resigned Luther regime has failed. Koch to-day reported to President von Hindenburg that he was unable to get together a Cabinet on the lines of the big coalition which Hindenburg had advocated.

Socialists' opposition to Koch's programme led to his failure.

For Baby

For the lucky ones who boast a baby in the family, and for those in search of gifts for these important personages, the "baby bunting" sleeping-bags pictured here will prove opportune indeed. As warm as toast and smart "as anything" in fashion, they are carefully designed to give comfort and freedom of movement, yet so constructed as to be impossible for the most athletically inclined to wiggle out of. View A is of a most practical nature. The back has an extension buttoning onto the front, making it possible to open the bag right out flat. The hood is joined to the bag and all the edges are bound with wash ribbon. Soft woolly eiderdown would be nicest to make View B from. The extension has been omitted from the back and the lower edges stitched together. The right front buttons over the left and a wider width of ribbon was used to bind the edges. No. 1252 is in sizes 6 months and 1 year. Size 6 months requires 1¾ yards 36-inch, or 1 yard 54-inch material. Two yards of ribbon is required for binding the edges, and ⅛ yard elastic for front of hood. If the hood is lined ⅜ yard 36-inch additional material is required. Price 20 cents.

Our Fashion Book, illustrating the newest and most practical styles, will be of interest to every home dressmaker. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

FRIDAY DECEMBER 18.

A fairly active and fortunate day may be predicted on the judgment of the dominant planetary figure. Business and finances are under the benefic sway of Sol, semi-sextile Jupiter, an aspect supported in its fair auguries by the sextile of Mercury to Venus. This encourages all finer writings and publications, oratory, dealing in women's wear, jewelry and art materials and also favors new contracts generally. It is a time for fulfilled hopes and wishes, with little of detriment. But postpone travel.

Those whose birthday it is are encouraged to a year of enterprise and adventure in many broad channels of trade and professional activity, but they are enjoined to be careful in making changes and in travel. A child born on this day should be clever, versatile and ambitious. It may be fond of music and song and should be eloquent and prolific as an orator. It should succeed in its undertakings.

LAST BOAT OF SEASON.

"Sir Thomas Shaughnessy at Fort William.

FORT WILLIAM, Dec. 17 (Canadian Press).—The closing of the season of navigation at the head of the Lakes is still delayed, word being now received that the Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, which holds the record for being the last boat to clear for several seasons, is on her way up and is expected to dock here today. If she follows her traditions she will leave with cargo as soon as she can be loaded and be again the last boat to go through the locks east-bound. Two years ago she passed the Soo locks on Christmas Day. The American lock is closed and it is not that recently come up as well as the Shaughnessy have come through the Canadian lock.

EVENING FROCKS FOLLOW SPORT STYLE'S LEAD

New Gowns Are in Two-Piece Models of Dainty Materials and Colorings.

By Annette Bradshaw.

The vogue for two-piece day frocks has been well established for some time. Frocks of this type are necessarily youthful, and this may account for the fact that two-piece day models have been the leading fashion for some months past.

Two-piece frocks for evening, however, are altogether new. They are just beginning to appear in the smartest shops, and they are being received with favor by women of discrimination.

At the left is sketched an effective dance frock which follows this two-piece vogue. The color is a delightful sea-green. The crepe skirt is made accordeon pleated and circular, and joined to a plain straight bodice. The bodice is a trim slip-on affair which fits close about the hips, where it is banded with a strip of gold metallic ribbon. With this costume the young girl wears gold beads and gold earrings. Her slippers are gold and her stockings flesh color.

The frock at the right is of white chiffon and satin, trimmed with crystal beads. The circular chiffon skirt is joined to an underbodice. The upper part of the frock slips on over the head and is made to fit rather tight with points which extend down over the top of the skirt and are also embroidered with crystal beads.

Other versions of the two-piece evening frock are more tailored in line, but with equally lovely materials. We see a silver and white brocade which has inset pleats at the sides of the skirt and a deep V neck finished with a narrow collar of the material.

THREE ACCIDENTS.

DAINTY FROCK.

Simplicity is the keynote of this dainty georgette jumper frock fashioned on the popular flaring lines. It is in the new porcelain shade which is expected to be popular next spring.

6,089 RUM CARS YEAR'S CAPTURE

And 182 Boats Seized in War on Liquor Traffic.

BUY EVIDENCE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Prohibition agents spent more than $112,000 in purchasing "evidence" from bootleggers during the fiscal year ended June 30, it was learned at the treasury department.

Buying liquor from illicit vendors aided the dry sleuths in rounding up law violators, but many of the officers were made deathly sick from sipping the evidence. No agents died of alcoholic poisoning during the year, but ten lost their lives in line of duty.

Bootleggers who fall into the arms of the law are unconsciously strengthening the government forces. Liquor traders lost 182 boats and 6,089 automobiles during the year, and this equipment is being overhauled by federal shops to be placed in commission against rum-runners.

The automobiles will be given to the border patrol units of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews and to regional prohibition administrators for use of their agents, while the boats will reinforce the custom patrols and dry navy.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

BETTY RIDES IN A QUEER LITTLE CART.

"Oh, dear!" Betty almost sobbed when her little girl friends went flying by in their pony cart, "I wish I could take a ride. I never get to go riding."

"Oh, hello there, Betty," whispered a tiny voice and Gocomeback, the wee Travel Elfin hopped down on the porch steps beside Betty. "What's the trouble, this lovely day? Want to take a trip with me?"

"That's just it," replied Betty, wiping away her tears. "I was just crying because Mama wouldn't let me go with the girls. Sure, I'll go with you. Where to?"

"Well, I was on my way to Japan," replied Gocomeback, "but if there's any other place——"

"Let's go to Japan," cried Betty, and before she knew what was happening, she found herself standing in the land of cherry blossoms.

"Oh, I know," chuckled Gocomeback, "we'll take a ride," and he blew on his magic whistle and up trotted a funny looking fellow in short knee pants and a loose white waist, between the shafts of a two-wheeled cart. He pulled up in front of Gocomeback and Betty and they both climbed aboard the seat of the queer two-wheeled cart. The fellow gathered up the shafts and away they jogged hippy-tee-hop, hippy-tee-hop giggle, giggle, over the rough roads, past the pretty little houses, all open to the passer-by, down the roads to the center of the little town.

They met little children on their way to school, with their books tied up in big handkerchiefs swung over their shoulders. Mothers with bags tied on their back, with little baby heads sticking out of them. All were dressed in long, gay colored kimonas tied at the waist with pretty bright colored sashes.

Everyone seemed happy and gay, and soon Betty and Gocomeback were merry too.

On the streets of the shop district, the hucksters were seated on the ground, their wares spread out before them. Some had fruits, some had games and toys and Betty and Gocomeback stopped for a few minutes and watched them.

"Riding in this, what-do-you-call-them, Gocomeback, makes me think of the camel ride I had at the circus one time," said Betty.

"This is a jinrikisha," laughed Gocomeback, "and I'll bet we have had just as nice a ride as your friends have in their pony cart. Are you sorry you came?"

"Goodness, no!" replied Betty holding tightly to the sides of the cart so she wouldn't fall out in the bumpy road. "It's been great sport, thanks to you, Gocomeback. But we'd better go back to America now, for I must help Mama."

The words had hardly left her lips when she found herself standing in her own backyard. Betty thanked Gocomeback for her ride and ran into the house to help her Mother with the work.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

What should be done with or for a nervous child?

I have heard this question at least a thousand times. It is on the tongue's end of many a mother. It is the query of endless numbers of public school teachers.

Since Freud put forth his theories, "complexes" have become the theme of many discussions. We hear a lot about "psycho-analysis" and other foolishness. Most of the nonsense of this sort taught and believed these days is worthless rubbish.

If it were academic discussion, merely, it could be tolerated as a form of social amusement. Unfortunately, many persons, particularly otherwise charming young women, are so enamored of these sophistries that they fall victims to all sorts of nervous symptoms.

Among young persons we meet some who have emotional and mental disturbances. They are held by fears of various sorts. Some of them are so close to an actual loss of mental freedom that they are on the borderland of functional insanity.

A sane person holds no ideas so fixed as to be incapable of discussion and perhaps of readjustment. He is ready to listen to new evidence, to weigh it and to accept it, if it is logical and convincing. He is mentally free. His mental processes are not congealed and crystallized.

A person possessing what the experts call "imperative ideas," is lacking in that freedom of mind which characterizes perfect sanity. Add to this mental defect the fears—the "phobias," the doctors call them—and we have a bad combination.

All the symptoms I have mentioned are included in what the medical profession describes as "psychoasthenia." Of this condition there are several forms.

For instances, there is a type of psychoasthenia in which everlasting doubt is the chief symptom. The victim is never sure of the result in any computation. He must go over the figures, time and time again. He demands repeated explanation. All the painful details must be recited over and over. He goes into the most careful and painstaking research, never quite satisfied with any conclusion. These persons are scrupulous to the nth degree, painfully so.

Another type is possessed of an obsession. He wants to kill, or to steal, or to do other criminal things. He must fight the evil inclination all the time. The tendency to inebriety may be classified here. There is an impulse, irresistible perhaps, to get drunk or to take some harmful drug.

These mental disturbances are of little consequence if they are associated with ill health. With the return of strength and vigor will come mental restoration and freedom of the mental process. They are far more difficult to deal with if they are not founded on some physical state which is readily discovered and treated.

Children must be watched and their mental and physical welfare should be sensibly directed. Every care must be taken to guard against debilitating or damaging habits. Personal hygiene should be taught just as religiously as reading and arithmetic.

Whatever else you do, don't fuss over baby and coddle your child. Let him have freedom enough to develop a decent self-control.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

S. W. Q.—How can I treat pyorrhea?

A.—It would be advisable to consult a competent dentist and have him outline the necessary treatment.

ONCE UPON A TIME — RIP VAN WINKLE—III (WASHINGTON IRVING) — by W. J. ENRIGHT.

NEW YORK LIKES CANADIAN GAME

Lobby of Great Rink Like Foyer of Opera.

SOCIAL AFFAIR.

From the land of ice and snow, there came to New York last night a new game to celebrate the formal opening of Madison Square Garden. The new arena was thronged with a capacity gathering of 17,000 spectators, which included many of society matrons of this c - and Canada, who lent their patronage to the occasion in aid of the Neurological Institute of this city.

Just before the game the spacious lobby looked like the foyer of the opera. Fashionably gowned women were there in furs and jewels. It was a hockey crowd de luxe. Flashes of cerese, magenta, Nile greens, scarlets and royal purples colored the boxes. Vendors ambled among the spectators with their apples, oranges and souvenir hockey sticks.

Society caught the spirit of the hockey fans. There was none of the reserve and aloofness of the typical society gathering. The crowd was there to have a good time enoying the sport of the Dominion. It was a typical sporting occasion with the applause of the lovers of the game perched high in the galleries.

The top gallery filled first and then the mezzanine gathered in its thousands of spectators. Last to fill were the promenade seats and boxes which filled while the West Point Band and the Bugle and Drum Corps from the academy tooted military airs.

A Perfect Hockey Plant.

The new rink is a perfect hockey plant. The smooth, glassy playing surface is the largest on the National Hockey League circuit and the skaters could be seen from every seat in the arena. The game has changed somewhat since it was seen here years ago at the old St. Nicholas Rink. There are now six players instead of the seven-man teams, the cover point having been dropped to speed up the game. In the game now there is a neutral zone in the centre of the rink in which there is no offside play. This change was also made to increase the speed.

If this impressive gathering at the inaugural of the pro game here is any criterion, New York is to like its hockey and like it immensely. It was long after the time for starting the game when the Governor-General's Foot Guards Band came on to the ice. They were resplendent in their red coats, gold braid and great shakos. They formed on one side of the rink and on the other was the military band from West Point with its trim blue uniforms, the white-lined capes thrown back over their shoulders.

The Canadians, in their fiery red jerseys, were first on the rink and lined up with the Foot Guards. Then came the New York players in striking hockey suits which were a riot of red, white and blue, with a galaxy of stars sparkling from their manly chests. They were a fine looking lot these New York players. Each team was led by a color bearer flying the emblems of both clubs.

Great Reception for Visitors.

The music started the outburst of enthusiasm and there it continued throughout the evening. The two bands with players faced each other across the rink while the Foot Guards played "God Save the King" and the West Pointers played "The Stars and Stripes." No sport in any man's town ever got the rousing greeting that Canada's great game got in Rickard's new amphitheatre last night.

This was no common or garden variety of sporting event. It assumed the importance of a momentous event with a capital E. Much water will flow under the Brooklyn Bridge before New York witnesses a sporting carnival with so much fuss and ostentation as that which attended the Garden's gala opening and the introduction of pro hoceky in Gotham.

Montreal Canadiens and New York Americans sold "show me" Gotham Canadiens pro. hockey, and sold it big despite the fact that New York was beaten 3 to 1 in a game at which blase Canadian hockey fans would have turned up their noses.

It wasn't a good game and New York was beaten, and soundly beaten, yet 23,000 people in the greatest rink in the world ate it up.

QUEEN SHOPS EARLY.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—(Canadian Press).—Queen Mary is doing her Christmas shopping early. On a tour of shops Tuesday she bought about 100 toys, most of them made by former service men.

MYLES THOMAS SOLD TO YANKS

PRICE NOT NAMED.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17. (Canadian Press).—Myles Thomas, star right-handed twirler of the Toronto Internationals last season, has been purchased by the New York Yankees. In making this announcement yesterday prior to his departure for his home in Cincinnati, Manager Miller Huggins said the Yankees had outbid several rival big league clubs, but declined to disclose the purchase price.

Thomas, since first coming to the Yankees for a trial in 1921, has developed rapidly in minor league ranks. After finishing the 1921 season with Hartford, Conn., in the Eastern League he went to the Reading Internations in 1922, and has starred with Toronto for the past three years, winning 27 games and ranking among the most effective twirlers of the circuit this year.

In the shake-up of Yankee forces for 1926, which already has involved the departure to other fields of Al Mamaux and Ernie Johnson, veteran pitcher and infielder, Manager Huggins also has sent Paul Wanninger, shortstop, to St. Paul in the deal which brings Catcher Pat Collins here, and given Howard Shanks, veteran infielder, his unconditional release. Shanks came to the Yankees last season from the Red Sox.

NEW LEAGUE COMPACT.

Four Hastings County Towns Are Close Together.

MARMORA, Dec. 17.—The formation of the new Hastings County Hockey League is chiefly due to the fact that Madoc, Stirling and Tweed consider Havelock at too great a distance from these respective places to travel to. The four teams comprising the new league, namely, Marmora, Madoc, Tweed and Stirling, were the old formation of the Trent Valley League. In each town it was felt that a double schedule for the four teams would be more advantageous than a single one in which five competed. It was eventually decided that Havelock might, for economic reasons, be dispensed with. As a result, Havelock and Hastings share with Campbellford in the continuance of the Trent Valley League. Prospects are not only rosy for the initial season of the new League, but with Stirling having gone to the expense of a fine covered rink and other factors in evidence, the satisfactory continuance of the League for several seasons is practically assured.

MAROONS WON AT PITTSBURGH

GAME WAS ROUGH.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 17 (Canadian Press)—Montreal Maroons subdued Pittsburg in a bitterly contested game here last night, 4 to 2. A fast pace was maintained throughout the battle and the game was the best seen here this season. The opening period saw the Pirates tally both their goals while the Maroons rang up but one marker. Milks and White registered for Pittsburg while Seibert scored for the Canadians. Roughness cropped up in spots.

SIKI MURDER MAY REMAIN A MYSTERY

Mohammedan Funeral For One Time Champion.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17 — While police shook their heads and merely said, "Hell's Kitchen cooked his broth," friends of Battling Siki, the exotic prize-fighter, who was killed here Tuesday, yesterday planned a Mohammedan funeral for their idol.

The body will be washed while prayers are chanted; clad in pure white, and buried without a casket in the fresh earth—as is the custom of the faith.

The mulatto girl from Memphis, whom Siki claimed as his wife, was understood to have given her approval to the burial of the fighter, according to the rites of his native people.

Police listened to the gossip of "Kell's Kitchen" yesterday; visited pool rooms and the places where characters of that bloody district make their headquarters; but frankly admitted they had little hope of solving the question of who shot Siki.

CANADIAN BANTAM CHAMPION

Bobby Eber, the new native Canadian bantam champion. He lost his title to Howard Mayberry eighteen months ago and regained it last week from Vic Foley, of Vancouver, who took it from Mayberry at Vancover a year ago. Ebber had to come from behind to beat the champion, but he did and won fairly and squarely, though the margin was narrow.

HAVELOCK LODGE CONFERRED DEGREES

L.O.B.A. Members Visited Petherick's Corners, Where New Lodge Was Opened.

HAVELOCK, Dec. 17.—The degree team of the McGill L.O.B.A., Havelock, proceeded by motor cars to Petherick's Corners on Monday evening for the purpose of installing officers and putting on degrees in the newly formed lodge in that district. On reaching the hall at 8 p.m. they found it crowded with candidates desiring to become members. Mrs. Smith, D.M., and several members from Marmora lodge were also present. The Grand Organizer, Sis. Proudman of Ottawa, conducted the service of installing the officers and the degree team, under Sis. McGill, W.M., of Havelock, carried out their duties in a most fitting manner.

The new candidates soon discovered they had become members of a most sacred, religious order, whose foundations and degrees were built on the Bible and whose obligations compel them to extend freedom of religious worship to all and special privileges to none. The following officers were elected for the coming year:

W.M.—Sis. M. Spencer.
D.M.—Sis. E. Simpson.
Chaplain—Sis. L. Irvine.
Secretary—Sis. M. Petherick.
Recording Secretary—Sis. J. Dunk.
Treasurer—Sis. P. B. McKenzie.
1st Lec.—Sis. M. Scott.
2nd Lec.—Sis. M. Thompson.
D.C.—Sis. M. Southworth.
Inner Guard—Sis. J. Reid.
Outer Guard—Bro. A. Spencer.
Guardian—Bro. E. Irvine.
Auditors—Bros. E. Spencer and J. K. Petherick.

After refreshments were served the happy event was brought to a conclusion by singing the National Anthem.

FARMER MISSING.

Car in Regina—No Trace of Driver.

MOOSE JAW, Sask., Dec. 17 (Canadian Press).—Missing since he left this city for Regina by automobile more than two weeks ago, James Cruickshanks, a farmer from the Riverhurst district, is causing anxiety to his wife by his absence. The missing farmer had in his possession, it is believed, a bank draft for $1,200, for on reaching Moose Jaw he intended depositing the draft, though inquiries on this point have not been productive of results. The car which Cruickshangs was driving has been located by the police at a Regina garage, but of the man himself no word has been received for two weeks.

The whole of Sweden is able to boast only three golf culbs.

IDLE TILL CHRISTMAS.

HAROLD (RED) GRANGE

Recent Illinois University rugby star is nursing an injured arm until his team opens its Florida invasion Christmas Day, meeting an all-star team at Coral Gables.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

To the Sporting Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I see the juniors are going to organize, but what about an intermediate team. From looking over the district it seems that there should not be much trouble in forming an intermediate group including Lakefield, Havelock and Peterboro and probably Campbellford and Hastings. I don't know whether Peterboro can muster a team or not, but there should be enough material. Havelock cleaned up this section last year until they met Kingston and should be lined up with Peterboro and Lakefield intermediate O.H.A. teams. They have the players, and if they chose could arrange all their games for Peterboro ice, or most of them, as it would leave them that much better at the end of the season. It certainly will be a mistake not to make an effort from both a local intermediate team and league. A little missionary work in town and around the district should put it over.

INSIDE GOLF.

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

By CHESTER HORTON

Sport Page—Run cut .... sG5).

To accomplish a hitting swing, as differing from a swinging hit, the player might keep in mind the idea of making the clubhead attain its maximum velocity at a point two inches, say, directly in front of the ball. Then, too, keep in mind that in order to make the clubhead attain its highest speed at the ball the objective should be this point in front of the ball because otherwise the tendency will be to stop at the ball. Many golfers go along for years persistently stopping at the ball without knowing they are doing so. The player whose club shoots upward toward his head quickly after it meets the ball is quitting at the ball. This habit costs both distance and direction.

COLBORNE, Dec. 16.—Colborne curlers held their annual meeting recently and are preparing for an enthusaistic season. The meeting was well attended, and much interest was evidenced. Officers and committees were elected as follows:

President—Harry S. Fowler.
Vice-President—J. F. Wilson.

VARSITY GAME A GREAT START

Students Here Monday To Clash With Peterborough Seniors.

Monday's game with Varsity at Brock Street Rink will give Peterboro fans their first chance of the season to look over this year's team and a crowded rink will undoubted greet the students and Petes when they skate out. The local management is congratulating itself upon being fortunate enough to secure Varsity, Allan Cup finalists last year, as the attraction for the opening game. The students are a colorful team and under Connie Smythe's direction will give Peterboro a battle throughout every second of the hour. They are stronger than last year with the addition of Ned Wright and Trottier, and with Louie Hudson leading the attack the homesters will have to travel at top speed for the whole distance if they hope to win the verdict. It will be a fine start to what promises to be a great hockey season.

TANNERY MEN HAVE CLUB ROOM

U. F. O. Hall Has Been Secured as Meeting Place in Omemee.

OPENED SATURDAY.

OMEMEE, Dec. 17.—Through the instrumentality of Mr. W. S. Bennett, the superintendent of the Japan Shop, the U.F.O. Hall has been secured as a club room for the employees of the Omemee Tanning Company who care to spend an evening in social intercourse, cards, music, etc., and become acquainted with the many strangers who have already settled in town.

The opening of the club was held on Saturday evening, when Mr. Bennett outlined the motive of same and later introduced Mr. W. S. Edwards, the president of the company, who gave the boys a very interesting talk. Other speaks of the evening were Messrs. E. H. Mitchell, Harry Lamb, T. Duguid and A. Leper. These speeches were interspersed with plenty of song and other music, and, needless to say, a jolly evening was spent as all were keyed to the highest pitch in their new quarters.

About 75 men are already employed, and it is expected that this number may soon be doubled.

School Concert.

The annual school concert of No. 9, Ops, was held on Friday evening. Owing to lack of room space, it was thought advisable to give the programme in the Community Hall, Reaboro, where a splendid turnout of parents and friends assembled. The children of the school gave the first part of the programme, which consisted of songs, drills, dialogues and pantomines, while the second part of the programme consisted of a one-act play, entitled "The Neighbors," which was splendidly dramatized by the young people of No. 9, Ops. Miss Jamieson of Lindsay is the teacher of this school. The proceeds amounted to $53.30, which sum will be used for school purposes.

The following was the programme:

"Maple Leaf Forever."
Chorus—The school.
Recitation—A tiny tot.
Christmas chimes drill.
Club swinging.
Musical dialogue—"When Polly Puts the Pepper in the Tea."
Dumbell drill.
Drill—"Ten Little Milkmaids."
Recitation—Clemet Reeds.
Highland fling.
Pantomine—"Old Black Joe."
Recitation—Dorothy Rea.
Monologue—"An Aspiring Dishwasher."
Violin selection—Pogue brothers.
Dialogue—"Uncle Hiram's Cold."
Drill—"Rule Brittania."
Dialogue—"Painting a Chair."
Pantomine—"Abide With Me."
Song—"The Trumpeter."
Chorus—The school.
Violin selection—Pogue brothers.
Play—"The Neighbors."
God Save the King.

An Accident.

Mr. F. H. McQuade met with a painful accident on Saturday morning. While out hunting, the gun was accidently discharged, blowing off half of the third finger.

Accident at Tannery.

There was considerable excitement at the Tannery on Tuesday morning when Ed. Hurd was found in an unconscious condition, caused by gas fumes issuing from a drain leading from the beam house, which he was engaged in cleaning. Medical aid was quickly summoned and the victim of the gas attack was removed to his home, he having regained consciousness before his removal.

News Briefs.

The many friends of Mr. Robert Mahood will regret to hear of his illness. Mr. Mahood, while watching the gasoline engine in operation in the stable on Monday, took a weak turn and was found a little later in an unconscious condition by his son, who was feeding the straw to the cutting machine in the barn above him. This attack was followed by two others in short succession. Dr. C. V. Mulligan of Lindsay was quickly called and the patient is as well as can be expected.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bushnell attended the funeral of the late Dr. Lee of Frobisher, Sask., which took place in Bethany on Saturday.

Lantern Lecture.

The A.Y.P.A. of Christ Church, Omemee, enjoyed a lantern lecture on "The Indian Boarding Schools" on Monday evening, Dec. 14. The work carried on under M.S.C.C. administration is admirable, as was shown in the pictures illustrating life among the Indians.

This set of slides was more interesting in view of the fact that the Sunday School of Christ Church has adopted and is supporting a little Indian boy at one of these institutions.

As this was the last meeting before the New Year, the President voiced a wish that the good attendance would be carried on after the New Year as it has been so far.

Church Anniversary.

The 49th anniversary of the Omemee United Church was celebrated on Sunday last, when special services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Holling of the First United Church, Lindsay. Mr. Holling came to Omemee as almost a stranger and delivered an eloquent discourse at both the morning and evening services which should linger long in the minds of his hearers. Weather conditions were very unfavorable and the congregations were diminished from previous years.

The special music by the choir consisted of an anthem at the morning service, entitled "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say," while the evening anthem was "Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus," with duet by Mrs. C. R. Corneil and Miss L. Parsons. Mrs. Harold Laidley contributed a pleasing solo, "Dream of Paradise," with chorus by the entire choir.

Next Sunday the Christmas service will be held and suitable music will be rendered by the choir.

BRITONS DRINK MORE WINE NOW

USE LESS SPIRITS.

LONDON, December 17. Canadian Press. — Britons are reverting more and more to the habits of their forefathers in the matter of drink.

It is stated in the report of customs and excise for the year which ended last March, that 15,653,703 gallons of wine were consumed during that period. This was an increase of two million gallons over the previous 12 months.

The consumption of spirits is decreasing, there having been a drop of 600,000 proof gallons in home made spirits and 180,000 proof gallons of foreign spirits.

Experts say Empire wines are increasing in popularity. A liquor from South Africa, produced from an old Boer recipe, is having an increased sale.

AT THE REGENT

"OLD CLOTHES" IS TRIBUTE TO GIFTS OF JACKIE COOGAN

Young Favorite Shows Another Phase of His Art in Superb Comedy.

It's folly to attempt guessing at the infinitude of Jackie Coogan's gifts, for new ones are disclosed in abundance, with each suceeding picture, in which this tiny genius appears. We keep attending Jackie's happy films in the hope that soon we will get a full-length portrait of Jackie, the genius, and we'll keep this up indefinitely just like the farmer who sat in the picture show all day waiting for the train in the third reel to be late so that he could get a getter look at the bathing girls on the beach.

"Old Clothes" is the title of Jackie's first screen offering of the season. The story relates the further adventures of Kelly and Ginsberg, that unique pair who left such a favorable impression in their preceding picture "The Rag Man." From the high and apparently safe places of wealth and position, they have been tossed ruthlessly back into their old lives of poverty and hard work.

Fine Supporting Cast.

The supporting roles are in capable hands. Max Davidson, who plays "Uncle Max," the junk dealer, gives a remarkable performance and is a perfect foil for Jackie. James Mason as the villain mingles a breath of comedy effect with adroit touches of whimsy. Alan Forrest as the handsome lover is at his best, and Joan Crawford, the girl, a comparative newcomer to the screen, will be heard of after producers see her in Jackie's picture.

AT THE CAPITOL

DINOSAURS HALT FILM LOVE-MAKERS.

Lewis Stone Meets Cupid's Nemesis in "The Lost World."

Lewis Stone avers that in all his screen experience he never made love to a winsome heroine under the difficulties he encountered in "The Lost World," to be shown at the Capitol Theatre to-day.

"Imagine," says Stone, "trying to woo a girl in an unexplored region of South America, bigger than all Europe, and infested by prehistoric dinosaurs which should have been dead at least 10,000,000 years ago.

"What man can keep a girl's thoughts on orange bolssoms when a dinosaur as big as seven or eight elephants is bearing down on her with the intention of eating her for luncheon? All the Romeos of literature rolled into one could not do it.

"But to even things up Lloyd Hughes is kept just as busy dodging dinosaurs as I am in the picture.

"Bessie finally says 'Yes' to the man who rescues her from a hungry dinosaur under particularly heroic circumstance—and the man is not me."

"The Lost World," one of the strangest and most spectacular love dramas ever screened, was produced by Watterson R. Rothacker and First National. Earl Hudson supervised the production.

BASKETBALL.

The basketball games played at the Y.W.C.A. last night were splendidly contested. Every team had a good line-up and played a good fast game right up till the whistle blew.

In the first game between the Paragons and the "Y" Seniors, the first half was keenly exciting, and at half time the score was tied. In the second half the "Y" team forged ahead, with a final score of 28-16. The line-up:

Paragons—Lillian Nesbitt and Winnie Niddery, forwards; Grace Horie, centre; Vera Powers, side centre; Mabel McNeeley, Alice Arnold and Carmel Roushorn, defence.

In the second game the Trojans, though a new team, played well, the score being: De Laval 29, Trojans 10. The line-up:

De Laval—Beatrice Sloan, Edna Forester and B. Conroy, forwards; M. Dixon, centre; H. Carson, side centre; H. Resko and F. Giroux, defence.

Trojans—Mabel McLaren, Annie Burns, forwards; Maisie Nixon, centre; Frances Park, side centre; Sybil Ecobichon and Alice Heasman, defence; Mildred Kennedy, sub.

The Bell Telephone, in the third game, were a light team against the Normals who showed good combination and accurate shooting. Normals 39, Bell Telephone 4. The line-up:

Bell Telephone — Elsie Worcell and Lena Hamilton, forwards; Audrey Elcombe, centre; Bernice Garside, side centre; Doris Hamilton and Florence Green, defence.

KING'S DAUGHTERS.

Donations For Needy Families Solicited—No New Year Dance.

The King's Daughters, who have decided this year not to hold their annual New Year's Eve dance on account of several other dances having been arranged for the holiday season, wish to remind their friends that they are always open for donations to their work.

The King's Daughters, although small in numbers, is a society that functions without ceasing all through the year. They have about twenty members, who make a practice of paying regular visits to the Hospital and the Old People's Home and of visiting the needy and relieving distress, wherever possible. Twenty-two families were assisted by them last winter and there are constant calls on their good offices.

Mrs. A. S. Stratton is the treasurer of this organization.

FIRE CHIEF WARNS ABOUT FIRE DANGER

The following is issued by Chief Gimblett:

Light, inflamable decorations make fires easy to start and easy to spread. A gas flame or an electrical defect may do it.

Watch gas jets; decorations may be carried against them by air currents.

Do not use cotton in store windows to represent snow, as it is very inflamable and will readily take fire through coming in contact with electric bulbs or from any electric spark. Use asbestos wool which will look just as nice but will not burn.

Do not make any change in electrical wiring without consulting the Electrical Inspector.

Have all electrical decorations inspected by the electrical inspector before turning on the current.

Do not allow people to stand in or obstruct the aisles in churches or any place of amusement.

Do no allow chairs or tables to be placed where they will obstruct the doors or aisles.

Keep a sufficient number of ushers to open the doors and to assist the people in getting out of the building, and if possible to avoid panic in case of fire.

Read your insurance policies before attempting any hasty or ill-advised decorations which may cause fire. Examine your insurance contracts and see if the policies contain anything like this:

"This entire policy, unless otherwise provided by agreement indorsed hereon or added hereto, shall be void etc., etc."

"If the hazard be increased by any means within the control or knowledge of the insured."

If you burn, you want your indemnity; do nothing therefore to impair your contract.

What to do in Case of Fire.

Locate the fire alarm box or telephone nearest to your home so that you can use them in case of fire.

Always pull the nearest box to the fire.

Stay near the box when pulled for fire, to direct the firemen.

When using the telephone call 100 and tell the operator it is a fire.

Always keep your telephone directory in a convenient place for quick service should you want to call the Fire Department.

Keep cool and speak slowly and distinctly when calling the Fire Department.

Give exact location of the fire; don't say "my house is on fire, come quick."

Always remain at the telephone until you are sure that the operator at the Central Fire Station has got the correct address.

When leaving the telephone after giving an alarm, be sure and hang the receiver on the hook.

Own a fire extinguisher, if possible, and learn how to use it in case of fire.

It is wise to have two six quart pails always handy.

Always look for the nearest exit to where you are sitting when in theatres, halls and public buildings. In case of fire walk, not run to that Exit. Do not try to beat your neighbor to the street.

Keep on the sidewalk when the fire apparatus is responding to a fire alarm.

In case of fire, alarm the guests; then call the Fire Department.

Realize that the Fire Department is ready at all times to respond to a fire within twenty seconds after the alarm is sent in. That delay in sending in an alarm is responsible for nearly every large fire that occurs. That with deep snow on the ground and a two mile run uphill, the Department must be notified quickly to be of any service. The most efficient service is rendered if the Department arrives within two minutes after the fire breaks out. That seconds lost at the beginning of a fire means minutes, and sometimes hours, at the ending.

If all the exits to stairways and fire escapes are cut off, close the door of your room, also the transom, plug the keyhole and place a rug at the bottom of the door to keep out as much smoke as possible, then tie a wet towel or cloth over your month and breathe through it. Get near a window, open it and stay by it until the firemen are able to take you down on their ladders. Never jump until the fire is burning you.

Ask any fireman for instructions; he will give them.

Give the firemen credit when they deserve it.

If any dances or parties are to take place the chief should be informed and he will send a man to inspect the decorations in order to eliminate fire hazards.

J. A. O'BRIEN TO SEEK ELECTION

Ashburnham Resident Will Enter Race For Council—East Ward Neglected.

STAND ON ISSUES.

Joseph A. O'Brien, of 245 Engleburn, has decided to toss his hat into the ring of aldermanic aspirants and will represent the East Ward in the coming struggle for civic honors. Mr. O'Brien, who is a partner in the firm of Gordon and O'Brien, stated that in his estimation, Ashburnham was not getting a square deal with the city improvements. He pointed out the fact that there was only one paved street in that quarter of the city, and that several of the dirt surfaced roads were in a very poor condition. When questioned regarding many of the issues which had confronted the Council last year, including Sunday bathing and Sunday band concerts, he declared that he was in favor of them and did not beneve in robbing those who could not afford to journey to some other place where the restrictions were not as stringent.

RACE IS STILL IN ITS INFANCY

Sir Oliver Lodge Says It May Occupy Planet For Millions of Years.

IS IMMORTAL.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—(Canadian Press.)—The human race is still in its infancy and may have millions of years before it on this planet, Sir Oliver Lodge, eminent scientist, declared in a lecture on evolution today.

He was speaking to a large audience in Christ church, Westminster.

While reiterating the contention he made in a similar lecture a few days ago, that man is descended from other animal forms, he said that human beings were immortal and had a great destiny before them.

He indicated his belief in communion with an unseen world when he saide "We are surrounded by a host of helpers with whom indeed I know that it is possible to have communion.

SEEKING CONTROL OF STOCK SELLING

Manitoba Committee Investigates Three Failures.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 17 (Canadian Press).—Sessions of the Legislative Committee investigating the Provincial sales of shares act, were continued yesterday, evidence revolving around the collapse of three companies—The Hearst Music Publishing Company, The Farmers' Packing Company, and the Northwestern Trust Company.

Adam Armstrong, head of an accounting firm, testified that verification of a report that the Hearst Company had $197,000 on deposit at the Chase National Bank, New York, had been left to Gordon C. McLean, an employee, who afterwards was found to be the secretary of the Music Publishing Company. He had no reason, he added, to doubt the honesty of Mr. McLean.

J. L. Thompson, secretary of The Farmers' Packing Company, testified that the company had returned a profit of $10,600, since it went into the hands of liquidators early this year. He expressed the opinion that if the capital could be written down to a reasonable figure, there was a chance of the company coming back. At present, he said, stock had been issued to the extent of $700,000.

The committee will conclude its session today, and go into executive session to formulate recommendations to go before the Legislature. Committee members said that there had been very little constructive testimony before the committee and indicated that the recommendation it would bring would deal chiefly with steps to be taken by the provincial government to enable the province to control the sale of stocks, within the province, or companies with Dominion charters.

DAVIS BUYING KHAN'S HORSES

Canadian Financier To Have His Pick of Young Thoroughbreds.

FRENCH STABLES.

LONDON, December 17. Canadian Press. — The Daily Mail to-day says that H. H. Aga, the Khan, one of the turf's outstanding breeders and race horse owners, has completed a deal with Sir Mortimer Davis, whereby the latter acquires the pick of the yearlings and younger thoroughbreds of the Khan's French stables. Aga Khan decided some time ago to liquidate his establishments in France.

Sir Mortimer Davis is one of Canada's leading financiers. He is a native of Montreal, residing there since his birth in 1866. Sir Mortimer is president of the Imperial Tobacco Co. of Canada, Limited, and a director of the Royal Bank.

ENGLISH ROADS ARE STREWN WITH DEAD

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 17.—(Canadian Press).—"Hardly a day passes when the roads are not strewn with dead and wounded," said Mr. Justice Shearman at Glamorgan Assizes when he sentenced James Ernest Holland, a Newport drydock manager, to six months' imprisonment for the manslaughter of a cyclist. The judge added that if he were to treat the case lightly by saying that Holland took a risk in "cutting out" which other people were taking continually, and to pass it over, he would only encourage people to take risks again.

"The loss of life on the roads at the present time is appalling," said the judge. "On a recent Sunday, while being driven in my car, I saw twenty cases of people with motor vehicles who ought to have been prosecuted. The next day I was told by the chief constable that six people had been killed in the county on that Sunday."

TRADE OFFICIAL NOT AUTHORIZED TO GIVE POLICIES

NEVER INVITED.

Invitation To Join Congress Will Be Carefully Considered, Says Hon. J. A. Robb.

OTTAWA, Dec. 18 (Canadian Press)—"Frederick Hudd, Canadian Trade Commissioner, in his statement to the Pan American Commercial Congress in New York Wednesday night, had not the authority to define Canada's fiscal or tariff policy," said Hon. Jas. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, and acting Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Mr. Hudd's remarks caused widespread comment in Canada yesterday and were brought to the attention of the Minister of Trade and Commerce.

"Will Canada join the Pan American Commercial oCngress" was asked Mr. Robb who, speaking on behalf of Premier King and the Government, said:

"We have never been invited to join that congress. When we are no doubt the matter will be carefully considered."

TRADE BALANCE GREW RAPIDLY SINCE LAST YEAR

Favors Canada This Year By About $346,000,000.

MORE TRADE DONE.

Last Year Balance Was Only $245,000,000—Trade Up Several Millions.

OTTAWA, December 18. Canadian Press. — Canada's favorable balance of trade increased a hundred millions within the last twelve months.

The year ending November 30th gave exports of $1,220,000,000 and imports of $874,000,000—a favorable balance of $346,000,000.

The year ending November 30th, 1924, gave exports of $1,056,000,000, and imports of $813,000,000—a favorable balance of $243,000,000.

Increase in Canada export trade is responsible for improvement and in this the large wheat crop has been an important factor.

During the twelve months exports increased $162,000,000 and imports $61,000,00. Wheat exports alone during the last four months were $147,000,000 as against $87,000,000 in corresponding four months of last year.

NEW FACILITIES ARE APPROVED

Should Be Heaven-Sent Opportunity For Land Workers, Says Empress.

CAN GO TO CANADA.

LONDON, Dec. 18 (Canadian Press). — The Daily Express says that to the army of disappointed land workers in the United Kingdom, the new facilities for settlement in Canada should come as a heaven-sent opportunity. "No man going to the Dominion who is prepared to work, need fear the future," The Express declares." Moreover, every new settler is an Imperial asset."

RED SYMPATHY AMONG SAILORS OF BRITISH NAVY

Communist Publications Are Circulated and "Red Flag" Sung.

ON VINDICTIVE.

LONDON, December 18. Canadian Press. — The Westminster Gazette's correspondent at Plymouth asserts that communistic sympathies exist among the seamen of some of the of the British navy. He cites the circulation of Communistic publications and the singing of "The Red Flag" aboard certain war ships as proof of his statement.

During the recent prosecution of Communists in London the fact was revealed that Communist propaganda was active in the army and navy.

The admiralty this week issued notices to the personnel of the ships aiming to counteract such propaganda.

A correspondent quotes members of the crew of the cruiser Vindicative as having said to him: "The Vindicative is one of the Bolshevik ships of the navy."

According to the correspondent "The Red Flag" has been sung in the Vindictive's lower deck mess room, while miniature red flags were run up.

A correspondent says a sailor on the Vindictive attributed this display to resentment over the "tyrannical attitude of a high officer."

ULTIMATUM TO ULSTER POLICE

Dismissal Without Pay and Pensions if Don't Resume Duty.

BY SATURDAY 10 A.M.

BELFAST, Dec. 18.—(Canadian Press).—The Cabinet issued an ultimatum last night that all the strikers in the ranks of the "A" Special Constabulary who have not returned to duty by ten o'clock Saturday morning will be dismissed immediately without pay and pension benefits. The men went on strike several days pending a satisfactory reply to their demands for a bonus for compensation because of their disbandment under the new Irish agreement.

The members of the constabulary made it known yesterday that they were appointing four men from each platoon to meet Inspector-General Sir Charles Wickham today in Londonberry, but that they would insist upon Sir Charles being accompanied by a member of the Ulster Cabinet with power to make a binding agreement.

NOT CANADIAN'S PLANE DECLARE HIS RELATIVES

Doubt Expressed That Debris Was Captain M. R. James' Machine.

SEARCHING TO-DAY.

Former Investigation Traced Last Flight Far Beyond Present Locality.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(Canadian Press).—Attorneys for relatives of Captain Mansell R. James, who disappeared six years ago while flying from Boston to Atlantic City yesterday expressed doubt that the debris of an airplane reported seen near Tyringham, Mass., was that of the Canadian flyer's machine.

In a statement the legal firm of Beckman, Bogue, Clark and Griscom, which conducted an investigation to determine Captain James' fate, said that the rough information given by 20 persons Captain James' plane was traced from Tyringham Valley to Bethany, Conn., where further trace was lost.

Warren Campbell, who found the wreckage, said he would go to Tyringham today to lead a searching party. He did not look for the pilot's body near the wreckage, he said, because he was lost and anxious to find his hunting companions.

STORY DOUBTED.

WINSTED, Conn., Dec. 18.—Not much credence is given here to reports that the remnants of an airplane found in the Berkshire Woods might have been the one flown by Captain Mansell R. James. Residents of this town who took part in the search for the Canadian aviator after his disappearance in May, 1919, express doubt as to the plane's identity.

It was well established that on May 29, 1919, James was seen flying over Pratt Hill, in the southwestern part of this town, after coming down from Berkshire county, Mass. He was then traveling in a southerly direction. The day was clear and his plane was sighted well down the Naugatuck valley, although it was uncertain that he went as far south as Derby.

Captain James disappeared, and some time after that, under the belief that he had flown towards the New York state line, a fruitless search was made of the woods and hills of the lower Berkshires as far as Canaan.

C.N.R. EARNINGS.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 18. — (Canadian Press).—The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways for the week ending December 14, 1925, were $5,497,953, as compared with $4,649,764 over the same period of 1924, an increase of $248,189, or eighteen per cent.

HIJACKERS SHOW RESPECT.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 18.—"There's too much disrespect for law," moralized Morris Goldberg at police headquarters Thursday, after hijackers had robbed him of 250 gallons of alcohol valued at $3,500.

HOLD-UP, NETTING WINNIPEG BANDITS $15,000, CARRIED OUT WITHOUT HITCH

May Have Been Same Gang That Got Electric Company's $78,000 Payroll Last August—Vanished in Car.

LIQUOR COMMISSION CASHIER FELLED.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 18. — (Canadian Press).—The Winnipeg and Provincial Police have joined in an organized hunt for three armed bandits who held up Thomas Nuttall, cashier of the Manitoba Liquor Commission, Thursday, and escaped with a satchel containing approximately $15,000. The police have a thorough description of the robbers.

The hold-up was staged shortly before noon, as the cashier was about to enter an automobile which had been commissioned to take him to the bank with the previous day's revenue. As he opened the door of the car, he was approached by a man, who ordered him to hand over the bag, and at the same time Nuttall was felled by a blow on the side of the head with a lead pipe.

An accomplice meanwhile "covered" the chauffeur and office boy of the Liquor Commission, who were seated in the car.

Shots Exchanged.

With the money bag in their possession, the bandits raced across the street, where a third man was waiting to whisk them away in an automobile. Recovering from the stunning blow, Nuttall opened fire upon the fleeing thugs but the bullets went wild. The robbers returned the fire, also without effect.

It was later disclosed the bandit car had been stolen earlier in the day, the number of the license plate being noted by one of the commission employees. The loot obtained by the robbers consisted of $13,000 in currency and approximately $2,000 in cheques.

May Be Same Gang.

Familiarity with the banking habits of the Liquor Commission and the manner in which the robbery was planned and executed, has strengthened the police theory that the trio may be the same gang that held up the messenger of the Winnipeg Electric Company last August. If this daylight robbery, runmen made a successful getaway with a $78,000 payroll.

TORONTO, Dec. 18 (Canadian Press).—Turkeys in this city are retailing from 45 to 65 cents per pound for the Christmas market. Twenty thousand turkeys have arrived from the West, and the dealers report the supply from Ontario the lightest in years. Geese are quoted at 22 to 25 cents, ducks 28 to 30 cents, and chickens 25 to 40 cents.

FOUR CHILDREN BURNED IN HOME

Mother and Baby Perhaps Fatally Burned When House Was Destroyed.

FATHER SAVED TWO.

HOLDEN, Mass., Dec. 18 (United Press). — Four children were burned to death and their mother and a year-old baby were perhaps fatally burned early to-day when the home of John J. Hoey was destroyed by fire at Dawson, a mile south of here.

Hoey, who operates a fish market in Worcester, carried his wife and their year-old baby, Mary, from the burning house, but the fire had spread so rapidly that the other four children were trapped in their rooms on the second floor and could not be reached.

CARELESSNESS CAUSE OF FIRES

Deputy Fire Marshal Discusses Many Dangerous Practices.

FIREBUGS' METHODS.

H. A. Nealon, deputy fire marshal, having his headquarters in Toronto, has been in this district for the past few days, since his investigation of the Haliburton hotel fire. After visiting the scene of the elevator blaze which startled Fraserville people last Saturday night, he declared that nobody could be held responsible. According to his information the loss would amount to $50,000 above the amount covered by insurance.

After a discussion of that fire, the conversation between the deputy marshall and Chief Gimblett turned to the carelessness which is quite often the cause of fires. Several cases were cited of people who investigated gasoline tanks to discover how much they had.

Mr. Nealon told of an electric welding gang which was bent on repairing a leak in a gasoline tank without first filling it with water. There were also several cases of incendiarism discussed which indicated the astounding variety of methods which "fire bugs" employ.

SERVILITY OF LEAGUE TO BRITAIN IS ASSAILED BY TURKISH PAPERS

ENTERS NEW PHASE.

Papers Say Decision Has Made Mosul Problem More Complex.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 18. — Canadian Press. — The decision of the League of Nations Council awarding Mosul to Irak, which is under a British mandate, was received with consternation in Turkey.

When the verdict reached Angora, now the capital of the country, the Cabinet was called in extraordinary session.

Under the chairmanship of President Mustapha Kenal Pasha and with the participation of the chief of staff, the ministers sat late into the night examining all the angles of the situation.

Turkey public opinion as expressed in the newspapers considers that the question has not been solved but is entering upon a new phase, more complex than that at obtaining prior to the League decision.

All the papers criticize the "servility" of the League, which they assert is a tool of Great Britain. Most of them are awaiting a lead from Angora before indulging in any more definite comment, but the Djumuriet declares: "We shall save Mosul as we saved Smyrna, Adana and Broussa."

The leading government organ says: "The government has examined all the eventualities and has taken the necessary measures to meet every situation. We mention this, not by way of threat, but for the purpose of informing public opinion here and abroad."

FIRMS ON RIVER BANK ARE GIVEN SEWER SERVICE

Work Will Start on Monday To Provide Connection on Simcoe Street.

FOUR PLACES SERVED.

Quaker Oats, C.P.R., Peterborough Cereal and H.E. P.C. Included.

Arrangements, which have been the subject of negotiations for several months, have finally been completed, and work will be started on Monday on the sewer to serve the properties at the east end of Simcoe Street. This district, which contains the Quaker Oats and Peterborough Cereal plants, the C.P.R. freight sheds, and the H.E.P.C. gas house, is lower than the central part of the city, and it has not been possible for these firms to connect with the city sewers. Final arrangements have been made, whereby the cost of the necessary pump house and of the connecting pipes will be apportioned among the four firms, and they will pay the following, making up the estimated cost of $8,848.58: Quaker Oats Company, $5,185.40; Canadian Pacific Railway, $1,839.56; Hydro Electric Power Commission, $921.81; and Peterborough Cereal Company, $901.81.

The Quaker Oats Company will pay two-thirds of the cost of the pumping station, and the other three will each pay one-ninth. Each firm will pay the cost of laying the pipes from its premises to the pump station.

Potato Shipments To The United States Resumed

FLORENCEVILLE, N. B., Dec. 18 (Canadian Press)—Shipments of potatoes from New Brunswick to the United States have been resumed and there is every reason to expect that within a short time large quantities will be moving again.

Present transactions are netting the dealers $5 per barrel, which means the price to the growers is now $4.50 per barrel which is 50 cents higher than a few days ago. Many are holding off, however, for a return to the $5 to the grower basis, expecting higher prices after the holidays.

French and German Plan Business Conference Soon

PARIS, Dec. 18 (Canadian Press) — A Franco - German economic conference in which members of the chamber of deputies and of the Reichstag will participate, as well as industrial magnates of both countries, will be held in Paris in January. This decision was reached after an exchange of views Thursday between members of a delegation of German businessmen and French parliamentarians.

The discussion, which concerned Franco-German co-operation toward the settlement of reparations and the capacity of French markets to absorb deliveries in kind was declared to be of a highly cordial nature.

JOHN J. CRAIG IS PRESIDENT KIWANIS CLUB

Annual Election Brings New Members Into Executive Offices

CHRISTMAS TREAT.

Club Will Discuss Ways and Means With Rotarians on Monday.

The only business at Kiwanis luncheon to-day was the election of officers for the year, and there was no address.

Seven names were put forward in nominations for the position of vice-president, but six retired, leaving Isaac P. McNabb to be elected unanimously. He was proposed by Lloyd Hamilton and Harry Boyle. Others nominated were John I. Allen, J. Wells Fraser, John J. Turner, Roy Scott, Joseph Wearing and Walter Oke.

Walter Kidd, proposed by Harold Perry and Harry Dickin, was elected treasurer on a ballot with Frank Stinson and J. Wells Fraser. Charles Cummer was also nominated, but withdrew.

John I. Allen's election as district trustee was unanimous, no others being nominated. He was brought forward by John A. McKone and George Henderson.

The Executive.

Sixteen members were nominated for the Executive, with seven to be elected. Those chosen were John A. McKone, Walter Oke, George Henderson, Harry Huffman, Harold Perry, Carl Brown and John J. Turner. Others nominated were Joseph Wearing and Walter Kidd, who withdrew, and Harry Dickin, A. J. Reynolds, Jack Chadwick, Herbert McCannan, I. Lillico, Dr. Ray Scott and Lloyd Hamilton.

Christmas Treat.

It was proposed that the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs unite to provide a treat for all of Peterboro's children on Christmas morning, in co-operation with Albert G. Crowe, manager of the Capitol Theatre. Mr. Crowe has offered to bring two children's pictures for the occasion, and admit the children free, if Kiwanis and Rotary provide fruit and candy as an additional treat. The club expressed sympathy with the project, all but two or three members voting in favor, and discussion will be taken up at a joint meeting with the Rotary Club on Monday.

APPEAL FAILS IN HURON ELECTION

Appellate Division Decides That It Has No Jurisdiction.

TAKES NO ACTION.

TORONTO, December 18. Canadian Press. — George Spotton, Conservative candidate in North Huron, in the Federal elections, fails in his appeal against the decision of Mr. Justice Wright, who ruled that certain disputed ballots which gave the seat to J. W. King, the Progressive, should be counted.

The Second Division of the Appellate Division, refused to entertain an appeal against Justice Wright's judgment this morning, on the ground that it has no jurisdiction in the matter.

SOLICITOR WAS DISCHARGED BY COUNTY COUNCIL

Action in Carleton Followed Letter Accusing Warden of Irregularities.

OBTAINED FUNDS.

Warden Was Paid Money Illegally, Says Solicitor—An Official For Ten Years.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 18 (Canadian Press) — J. Ernest Caldwell, who for the past ten years has been solicitor for the County of Carleton, was yesterday afternoon relieved of his duties in an official capacity by the members of the Carleton County Council, who unanimously voted for his dismissal. The cause of this action was a letter written by the solicitor to Warden J. T. Armitage in which he practically charged the latter with having obtained funds from the county in an illegal manner. The letter alleged that Warden Armitage had been paid to attend meetings of the Central Canada Exhibition Association as a Director. It also claimed irregularities in an expense account of the Warden in connection with his trip to attend the recent Warden's convention at Toronto.

TURKISH PRESS ATTACKS LEAGUE

COURSE UNDECIDED.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 18. (United Press). — An "Asiatic League of Nations" is advocated by the Turkish Press to-day in the course of vituperative articles against the League of Nations.

Sensatinal condemnation of the Mosul decision is voiced, the papers adding that Turkey is unwilling to enter the present organization.

The Council of Ministers so far has failed to reach any decision as to Turkey's course toward the award of Mosul to Iraq, over which Britain will exercise an extended mandate.

JAP STEAMER RUNS AGROUND

FOR JAPAN.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 18 (Canadian Press)—The Japanese steamer Tauruga Maru, bound from Copenhagen for Japan, stranded last night on the Danish coast. Part of the vessel's cargo consists of airplanes. The two Rosrbach Metal Aeroplane Company plants here are working in three shifts to supply large orders for Japan and Turkey. The Rosrbach personnel includes a number of Japanese. The Rosrbach Company is a German airplane concern with a branch here.

TURKS WILL TRY TO GET PROVINCE

Will Never Relinquish Claim To Mosul, But Will Wait Opportunity.

WAR NOT LIKELY.

LONDON, Dec. 18 (Canadian Press)—While there is less talk of risk of war by Great Britain taking over the mandate for the rich oil region of Mosul, the belief is held in diplomatic circles that Turkey never will relinquish her claim to the province but will watch for a favorable opportunity to regain it.

For a second the eyes of the girl under the white turban, no whiter now than her face, peered over the cockpit, trying to make out the types of those engaged in the melee. A glimpse of the one in advance she caught—a big thick-chested man, coatless, with a torn and disreputable jersey that seemed several sizes too small for him and a battered derby on his head, two big hams of hands flailing through the air.

Now Connie had never seen any fights except on the screen, and in the daily public turmoil of our subways. And this had a sort of private character about it, out here on the lonely water, to which the Celt in her rose with a queer exultation. Suddenly she was excited rather than frightened. Her breath came faster, and at that moment she became aware of Lacy engaged with the leader. The Swede was the heavier of the two, but Lacy seemed to Connemara's anxious eyes to be more than holding his own, in spite of that handicap. There was a sure drive to his arms, left and right, left and right, to ribs and face, several blows almost landing on the point of the jaw, which she remembered to have heard was important; and all this while he kept lightly inside of the other's wild swings which flailed around him, missing him entirely or else only shaving his well-modelled head.

It was pretty, she thought, even in the midst of her concern; she could almost understand why women could attend prize fights. Only, even now, she could not, somehow, make herself believe the scene before her was quite real. After a time she would wake up back at Moorelands, in her own bed, and there'd be still that ridiculous problem about Salt and Bing to decide for Aunt Celimena. Then a little cry escaped her and her whole body tensed. The Swede was falling, like a bull she had seen once in a Spanish arena—that same keel and shudder, drop to the knees, the same sickening thud! He was down—motionless.

Impulsively Connemara clambered out of the cockpit, and at once regretted her precipitousness. She had entirely forgotten the others on the deck, who for reasons of revenge had piled on the doughty Scot, and now, having apparently finished him, were climbing all over Lacy from behind.

But it was too late to retreat to her refuge in the cockpit. She was conscious of a pair of eyes in the ugliest face she had ever seen, glaring at her. The owner of the eyes, with a gorilla-like hunching of head, neck and shoulder, started toward her. Back, back she retreated to the rail and reached it just as McTish coming to, slid overboard.

A moment only she calculated, though "calculated" is hardly the word—it was her instinct that was functioning quite as rapidly and as wildly as her heart was pounding—then she did it. There was another splash overboard. McTish, just breaking water after his long dive, heard the splash, and an instant afterward the sound of someone swimming a few feet from him, with easy, strong strokes that kept up effortlessly with his own. He had a wild hope that it might be Lacy; instead the voice of Connemara, a breathless little ghost of a whisper, reached him across the wave-splashed blackness.

"I don't know where we're going," it announced in soft bravado, "but I'm on my way."

CHAPTER XI.
By Kermit Roosevelt.

When Mr. Brewster turned away from the telephone with that last startling information about Connemara's flight, there was a moment of decidedly tense silence, which was finally broken by Aunt Celimena.

"There—must be some mistake," she said in a trembling voice almost ludicrously unlike her usual dictatorial assurance. "What are we going to do? We—we can't just stand around and wait for news."

Bing Carrington took an impulsive step forward. "You're not to worry," he said gently. "Of course we'll do something, Miss Moore. It seems to me that the first move is to have a talk with that desk sergeant at police headquarters. I'll take one of your cars, if I may, and go right over."

But Aunt Celimena had herself in hand once more.

"I am going with you," she announced with determination.

Bing looked doubtful. "If I have anything to report, I'll telephone you at once, of course," he demurred. "But I really don't think——"

"It's not necessary that you should——" Aunt Celimena was recovering rapidly as may be seen. "I wish to talk to that policeman myself."

"In that case, Miss Moore," Mr. Brewster put in nervously, "I feel sure I had better accompany you."

Aunt Celimena nodded, absently fixing an inquiring eye on Saltonstall Adams, who had as yet taken no active part in the discussion.

The latter roused himself hurriedly from the dazed abstraction which had enveloped him ever since that soft and shining red curl of Connemara's had slipped out of its tissue paper package into his astonished palm.

"Naturally I'm going, too," he said simply. "Shall we keep together, Carrington, or divide our forces?"

Better keep together at first," Bing decided. "Later we'll see."

It was Bing, with his usual cocksure assertiveness, who fell naturally into command of the situation, and none of the other three cared, apparently, to dispute him. Even Aunt Celimena seemed rather relieved than otherwise, in spite of her earlier snappishness, to rely on his judgment now.

Therefore, ten minutes later, with Bing at the wheel, the search party of four was heading by motor for the Greenwish police headquarters. Here, to their relief, news awaited them. The stolen car had been traced to the ferry.

"At least we'll know we're not travelling in the opposite direction, as we might easily have done," Aunt Celimena sighed. She had lost a good deal of her usual belligerency during the short run from Moorelands, as Bing noticed with appreciation. She had become further depressed, too, after a few words exchanged with a very noncommittal and unimpressed desk sergeant in the Greenwich police station. The fact that the heiress presumptive to Moorelands had disappeared without explanation, and under decidedly questionable circumstances, appeared to mean little or nothing in Sergeant Flynn's existence. But he did exhibit a lively curiosity as to why two of the searchers should wear fancy dress under their long polo coats. He seemed, too, to entertain wholly unreasonable suspicions of a slight somewhere, aimed at his official dignity.

Before proceeding further, Bing set to work to raise Bayville by telephone, and after much exasperating delay succeeded in rousing a sleepy Central, but the ferry office wouldn't answer, and apparently no police station existed. So, after a brief consultation with the other searchers, Bing headed the car back to Stamford.

TUXIS IDEALS IN BOYS' CAMPAIGN

JOINT MEETING.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 17.—A joint meeting of the "Katchewanooka" Tuxis Square, the "Star" square, was held in the schoolroom of the United (Presbyterian) church on Tuesday evening with the mentors, Rev. P. L. Jull and Mr. A. B. Burrows present. After the opening exercises, Rev. P. L. Jull gave a brief address in the value of the Tuxis work. T stands for training, without which no boy or man can expect to achieve success in either athletics, business, politics or farming. There is the four-fold element of life—physical, intellectual, social and religious side and the object of the Tuxis movement is train and develop all these.

S (at the end of the word) stands for service. A boy is not very old before his mother gives him small duties in the home and it generally dawns on him that he can't expect to be waited on but to help others, not only in the home, but in school and in church. Many of the fathers have said they wished they had the opportunity which is given the boys of to-day. Four boys of these groups are running for election for the older Boys' Parliament, and it is a great honor to be selected for this position as the winner will represent Peterboro County and Lakefield in particular.

U and I—that is the ideal of life, no fellow should think of himself alone, but of the other fellow. Life is not a goblet to be drained, but a measure to be filled. A boy to be a leader must keep his body and his mind clean, and as far as possible his thoughts clean, for if one is to render proper service one must keep one's life as it should be.

X stands for Christ, who was the manliest boy the world has ever seen. He went to school, ran errands and played games and He increased in wisdom and stature and in form with God and man. You never find a man or woman who has taken Jesus Christ as Master, who will ever say, at the end of the road, that they are sorry. Read history and biography and it is the same, the only regret is that they did not follow better. Remember that the centre core and essence of the Tuxis movement is loyalty to Jesus Christ. You and I and Christ in the midst—UXI, the One Who never fails.

Mr. A. B. Burrows took the chair following the address of Mr. Jull and introduced the speakers who are the four candidates for the Older Boys' Parliament.

Mr. Burrows urged the boys to go after the election. It is really building future work in Ontario. It is something out of the ordinary for Peterboro' and Lakefield and the election is a great honor and worth going after. To get the best results is to elect the best man. The vote is not a cheap possession but should be used. The voting will take place at Dickson's store from 4 to 6 p.m., on Friday and Saturday. Frank Madill and Ivan Crowe will act as scrutineers.

Stanley Darling.

Stanley Darling was the first speaker. Mr. Darling thanked his nominees for the honor conferred on him and is assured of the value of the Parliament in its relation to boys' work and it is also an excellent training. The election has been well-planned. The speaker stressed the value of outdoor sport for boys and urged more interest in it. Other C.G.I.T. groups had Union field days which were successful and that might be tried here. Wellington said the Battle of Waterloo was won on the fields of Rugby, by that he meant that the playing hard had bred determination and endurance which stood in good stead in both officers and men. In election campaigns it is customary for the candidates to tell what they stand for, but in this case all stand for the same thing—U and I and Christ between. Last year four of the boys went to a conference in Peterboro' and met other boys of other groups and this inter-mingling was productive of good results. The speaker closed by saying that if supported in the election he would appreciate it.

Donald Kidd.

Donald Kidd was the second speaker. He assured his hearers that if he was lucky enough to be elected he will show his appreciation by giving a detailed account of the proceedings. The boys should live up to the four-fold aims of the Tuxis movement, and they would be of much greater value to the community. It is a great honor to be a candidate and the one who deserves election is the one who makes the best speech. If elected I will do my best and that is all any fellow can do.

Gordon Porter.

Gordon Porter was the third speaker and he considers the older Boys' Parliament an important factor of the future for the members of this unique gathering will be future leaders. It is a great training and experience for the boys as they will learn parliamentary procedure, how to conduct a meeting and how to address a meeting. The speaker said he was fully resolved to withdraw, but he became impressed with the fact that good sportsmanship is one of the high ideals of citizenship, so, if elected, will give my best and do my utmost.

Gerald Sherin.

Gerald Sherin was the last speaker. He realizes the honor of being a candidate and if elected will do his best to fulfil the duties. Tuxis is a great thing for the boys and gives them something to do besides going round the streets and getting into mischief.

Mr. Burrows reminded the boys of the afternoon tea to be held on Saturday in the former Johnson store by the girls of the C.G.I.T. group, and urged their co-operation and patronage. Donald Kidd is leader of the Star Square and Frank Madill of the Katchewanooka Square.

Preceptory Officers.

No. 697 King Soloman, Royal Black Knights' Preceptory elected their officers for the coming year at a meeting held on Friday evening last, as follows: W. P., Sir Knight Bert. Everett; D. P., Sir Knight Oswald Boyce; Scribe, Sir Knight David Charlton; Treasurer, Sir Knight S. Hunter; Chaplain, Sir Knight Stephen Harrison; Pursuivants, Sir Knights R. G. Charlton and Cephas Bullock; Censors, Sir Knights Richard White and G. A. Welbourne; Lecturers, Sir Knights A. Young and N. P. Higgins; Standard Bearer, Sir Knight R. J. NEW LAMP BURNS 94 P.C. AIR

Beats Electric or Gas.

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U.S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up; is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, F. B. Johnson, 246 Craig St. W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or capital make $250 to $500 per month.

The Slight Cold Of To-day May Be Serious To-morrow

On the first appearance of a cough or cold, do not neglect it, but get rid of it at once before it has a chance to grow worse and becomes settled on the lungs, for once it does become deep-seated you are going to have a lot of trouble in getting rid of it.

Our advice to you is that on the first sign of a cough or cold you should procure a bottle of as by its timely use you may save yourself many years of suffering from some serious bronchial or lung troubles.

"Dr. Wood's" has been on the market for the past 37 years; so you are not experimenting with some new and untried remedy; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE NOMINATIONS.

The municipal nominations in Peterboro take place on Wednesday next, and, as usual, the nomination of candidates will be left to a little handful of citizens, who have to perform this task for the benefit of the rest of the community.

The lack of interest usually in evidence on nomination day is partially, at least, due to the tendency that has developed in recent years among candidates to refuse to announce their intentions until the last moment.

The etiquette of municipal politics seems to call for a lot of manoeuvring under cover and to prevent, except in a few isolated instances, a declaration on the part of aspirants for office that they are to be contestants.

Why there should be this reluctance to definitely commit themselves the candidates themselves can best explain, but it does seem reasonable to believe that were candidates earlier in the field there would be a greater interest all around, not only in the nominations, but in the election itself, and the chances are that a larger expression of public opinion and possibly more efficient public bodies would be obtained.

MAYORALTY CANDIDATES.

More than the usual number of names is at present being associated with the coming mayoralty race, the pre-election reports mentioning no fewer than five possible candidates.

Of these potential aspirants for the chief magistrate's chair, three are members of this year's Council, Ald. Nagle Phelan, Ald. R. Denne and Ald. J. O. Fife, and two others have served as Aldermen in others years, Dr. Holloway and A. H. Stratton, the former having already faced the electors in a mayoralty contest.

It is doubtful if all five of these candidates will allow their names to go on the ballot paper. None of them has as yet flatly declared that he will be a starter in the contest—and, on the other hand, it is possible that the field will be augmented at the last minute by another aspirant or two.

As a matter of fact, with nomination day drawing rapidly nearer the whole situation is indefinite to the extreme, and no one can say with any degree of authority whether there will be five candidates in the contest or one for that matter.

It is not exactly a satisfactory condition of affairs.

Nobody wants a long campaign, of course, and it is not necessary, but, at least in regard to the mayoralty, it should be possible to know at this stage something about the composition of the field.

THE SPOILS SYSTEM.

Apparently it is difficult to shake off the old impression in political circles that to the victors belong the spoils.

At a Conservative ward association meeting the other night in Toronto bitter things were said about "those birds up at Queen's Park" because the Ferguson Government had not signalized its advent into office by a wholesale dismissal of civil servants whose political views did not happen to coincide with those of the administration.

The doughty Col. J. A. Currie lamented that every time he went into a Government office to get some information he found himself confronted by "some frosty-faced Grit who doesn't do much to help me," and he and other speakers urged that all Grits, whether frosty-faced or not, it is presumed, and Druryites should be dismissed from office, to be replaced by faithful followers of the Government.

The fact that these civil servants have been performing their duties efficiently, as evidenced by their being retained in office, evidently does not enter into the view of the situation taken by Col. Currie and those who think with him.

Nothing but a wholesale return to the spoils system will satisfy the complainants who threaten to get rid of Mr. Ferguson and his colleagues if their wishes are not met.

The Premier should call their bluff; there is no public demand for the dismissal of employees of the Province who are doing their work satisfactorily.

IMPORTANT ISSUES.

Four powerful reasons why Peterboro electors should take a more than usual interest in the approaching municipal elections may be listed as follows:

(1) The Collegiate Institute question.
(2) The transportation problem.
(3) Daylight saving.
(4) Supervised Sunday bathing.

The importance of the first two issues does not seem as yet to have impressed itself upon the people, but they will be prominently to the fore next year, and it will be the duty of the electors to secure from aspirants to office a clean-cut statement as to their views in regard to these questions.

The transportation problem may soon develop into a crisis, and will demand close attention from those who will be in charge of the city's affairs next year. At present the situation is somewhat obscure to the general public, but within the next twelve months it is likely to grow into a question of major importance, and should occupy a prominent place as an election issue.

The present Council is bitterly opposed to the purchase of the street railway from the Hydro-Electric Commission, and in that attitude is in line with public opinion, but no alternative policy has yet been advanced.

In the event of the service being withdrawn by the Commission Peterboro would be without transportation facilities; in that contingency what provision should be made by the city to meet the situation?

As to that issue those asking for election should have something definite to offer—and so far nothing has been heard from anybody on the subject.

The Collegiate Institute question will continue to come before Council, and, therefore, candidates for the Council, as well as for the Board of Education, should be prepared to say something on the problem.

As for daylight saving and Sunday bathing, these are two subjects of much interest, and the verdict given by the electors, particularly in regard to the first, will more or less affect every citizen.

IS ENGLAND DONE?

Mr. George Harvey, formerly of Vermont, sometime editor of the North American Review, sometime American Ambassador to London, and now returned to journalism, having raised the hoary cry that "England is done," a characteristic answer comes from the pen of the brilliant J. L. Garvin. Harvey, in the controversial ring with Garvin, is comparable to poor Joe Beckett in the prize ring with Dempsey, but the acute words of the London editor are interesting nevertheless. Thus:

"The real trouble is one that no human wisdom could foresee. We never dreamed we would have to pay America without being paid ourselves. That is where we are hit. Equal squaring of accounts all round would have left us well on the right side. As it is, we are some £80,000,000 annually to the bad—a pretty sum for a country not one-fifth as rich as the United States."

But Mr. Garvin isn't downhearted. On the contrary, he goes on:

"With her seas, ports, soil, minerals and her 40,000,000 people, her quickening education and her host of thoughtful and searching brains, this island is going to remain a great producing and trading country for many a generation to come.

"We will, indeed, confess this—that many of us expect Great Britain in due time to be greater than ever," he goes on. "Why? Because there is an empire still capable of vast development in its tropical dependencies alone. Because we are in large business beyond this island, and our rubber investments are only one instance of our wealth-restoring process. We now know, beyond peradventure, that, so far from approaching bankruptcy, we are beginning to reaccumulate capital while paying our way."

That has the true British ring, and there are facts to support it. Think of an Empire that covers nearly a quarter of the earth's surface; whose citizens number a third of the world's population; which embraces six great self-governing Dominions, and over forty Crown Colonies and Protectorates; and which produces everything in the world necessary to modern civilization! "What do they know of England, who only England know?"

The British Empire, despite its vast population, is still an empty Empire. New Zealand has 11 people to the square mile; South Africa has 8; Australia, Canada and Newfoundland have 2. And that is the answer to pessimists. Nature abhors a vacuum, and when in any connected series of vessels you get an intense pressure in one part and what is virtually a vacuum in another, nature will proceed to adjust the difference. That is just the position in the British Empire. England, today, has a surplus population, but when men talk of that surplus population providing England's ruin they forget the immeasurable resources of England's oversea Empire. Empire emigration, growth and development of Empire markets—such is the basic but unreckoned strength of the British race.

England done? Go to the far Pacific, where her sons are carving out two new Empires under the Southern Cross! Go to South Africa where British genius and British determination are building a great new Commonwealth. Go to India; go to Egypt; go to Mesopotamia—everywhere British brain and brawn are the spearheads of civilization.

No, England is not done! She may reel before a tempest of debt and death, she may pay heavily for Armageddon, but the nation that can meet all her commitments unflinchingly, that can maintain her credit, that can regain her supremacy on the seas, and that, through stress and storm, can keep enlarging freedom among peoples and making her contribution to world peace—that nation is not done.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 17 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market today was extremely dull, there being practically no demand from foreign buyers. The domestic trade was also quiet but prices were well maintained. Car lots of Ontario and Quebec No. 2 white oats were quoted at 53c, No. 2 white at 51 1-2c, and No. 4 at 50 cents per bushel, extrack. Canadian Western grades were steady.

In the market for rolled oats a fair demand is reported, with standard grades quoted at $3.40 to $3.50 per bag of 90 pounds delivered to the trade.

Receipts of butter in Montreal amounted to 147 packages, as compared with 186 packages on the same day of last year and 190 packages on the corresponding day of last year. Demand both domestic and export continues extremely light, with little business being done. Prices are unchanged.

Cheese receipts totalled 436 boxes, as compared with 1072 boxes on the same day of last week, and 261 boxes on the corresponding day of last year. Little business is being done at the present time and prices remain unchanged.

Receipts of eggs totalled 182 cases, as compared with 160 cases on the same day of last week, and 273 cases on the corresponding day of last year. Demand is fairly good and prices steady.

EGGS AND POULTRY

OTTAWA, Dec. 17 (Canadian Press).—Egg prices remain firm but demand is not quite as brisk as expected at this time of the year. American markets are firmer and refrigerators are higher in Chicago than in New Yoork which is quite unusual. Prices on dressed turkeys are holding decidedly firm.

Toronto — Jobbing fresh specials 80, extras 75, firsts 60, storage extras 46, firsts 43, seconds 37. Poultry very firm. Some dealers asking as high as 48 wholesale for fancy turkeys over 12 pounds.

Montreal—Egg prices firm, it is reported that a brisk demand continues in all lines of dressed poultry.

Winnipeg—Egg market quiet. Dealers quoting country shippers delivered extras 65, firsts 58, seconds 33 to 34, jobbing, fresh extras 70 to 72, firsts 60, seconds 35, storage extras 46, firsts 42, seconds 33. Poultry receipts heavy, dressed market lower. Live turkeys 13 to 21, dressed 20 to 29.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 17 (Canadian Press).—Persistent selling due largely to weakness of quotations at Winnipeg overcame new efforts today to lift wheat values here. In the end, no aggressive support for the price of wheat in Chicago was apparent, and the market closed unsettled, 1 to 2 1-4 cents net lower, new style, December 173 3-4 to 174, and May 168 1-2, with corn 1 7-8 to 2 3-8c off, oats 1-4 to 3-8 to 3-8 to 1-2c down, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a decline of 22 cents.

Simultaneous with a downward swing of the Winnipeg market, trade gossip was current here that the Canadian crop had been under estimated and that the actual visible supply of Canadian wheat is about 119,500,000 bushels, of which a total of 11,500,000 bushels is in the United States. The fact that Liverpool prices today failed to reflect fully yesterday's advance in North American buying at one stage carried Chicago quotations well above yesterday's finish, the stimulus proved to be only transient.

A THOUGHT.

DEATH AND THE DAY'S WORK.

Raymond Pearl, biologist of John Hopkins University, has written an engaging book on "The Biology of Death."

Failure is a kind of partial death.

"Death is by no means a biological necessity," says H. L. Mencken, in a brisk and brilliant summary of Mr. Pearl's book. "The cells that man is made up of are theoretically immortal. In a suitable medium, properly fed, warmed, and protected against accident, every one of them might go on dividing an subdividing for all eternity.

"But man always dies. Why?

"Simply because the cells from which he springs, in the course of their multiplication and differentiation to form the various parts of his body, have become so highly interdependent that it is now more and more difficult for some of them to function and keep alive.

"A brain cell, for example, cannot exist for more than a few moments unless there is a heart cell somewhere pumping food to it and carrying away its excreta. If that service ceases, it will die either of starvation or of auto-intoxication.

"All the other cells in the enormously complex cell community called the human body are similarly dependent upon the effort of others for their existence. Most of them must have food of a highly specialized sort; nearly all need heat as well as nourishment; very few have private means of getting rid of their own slops.

"Thus damage to one group is pretty sure to be followed by damage to other groups, and so the whole machine goes to pieces and the man dies. But not all at once.

"When the cells which make up the heart muscles cease to function, what we call death ensues instantly, but there are other parts of the body that do not actually die until the parts already dead begin to poison them, or the embalmer dousses them with formaldehyde, or the grave worms gobble them."

Life, then, is a matter of organization; and the organization is at the mercy of its weakest part.

Death and the day's work are ruled by the same laws.

A weak spot in one's mental process or moral purposes may offset anuntold amount of hard work and high aiming; it may prove the weak heart cell in an otherwise healthy body.

A half-way honesty and a half-way expertness are not enough. A complete integrity of mind and a compete mastery of methods are the only sure safeguard against failure.

It behooves us to hunt for the one rusted link in our armor.—Glenn Frank.

FRENCH RETIREMENT FROM SYRIA WOULD CAUSE MASSACRE, BRIAND TELLS SENATE EXPLAINING STAY

General Sarrail Hears His Administration Scathingly Attacked in Debate.

HAVE LOST 6,960.

PARIS, Dec. 18. — (Canadian Press).—The Senate gave a vote of confidence last night to the government's Syrian policy. It adopted a resolution by a show of hands, in which it is declared that the Upper House trusts the government to exercise full publicity in Syrian events and "end the era of sacrifices and adventures."

Throughout the session General Sarrail, former High Commissioner in Syria, was scathingly attacked for his conduct in that post. He sat in the gallery during the course of the debate, but gave no sign of being concerned.

Premier Briand promised to do all possible to hasten the coming of the day when France would no longer be obliged to keep large forces in far off countries like Morocco and Syria, but, he added, "it is impossible to leave Syria now, for it would cause a massacre tomorrow."

He laid stress on the fact that the French had no protectorate in Syria, but a mandate under the League of Nations, and France's effort to create a definite status for the government of the mandated territory had been impossible of execution. The Syrians had been misled by hostile propaganda concerning France's intentions.

Mission Is Peaceful

"I gave formal instructions to M. de Jouvenal (the present High Commissioner) that the liberty and property rights of the population shall be determined by the same rules as govern Western peoples," said the Premier. "A mandatory power merely plays the role of counsellor and tutor. We bring peace to those desiring peace; we use force only against those employing force and M. de Jouvenel has so well defined our aims."

The premier reiterated that France had not accepted the Syrian charge for reasons of conquest or imperialism, but because she was called there by the population itself. He cited the French construction of roads, hospitals and other works in the territory.

M. Painleve, the former premier, defended General Sarrail's administration. He asserted that Sarrail's treatment of the Mussulmans had prevented the Damascus revolt assuming larger proportions.

Recent Mistake.

M. Poincare intervened, defending General Weygand, General Sarrail's predecessor. He declared that the government's error in the last few months was in considering Syria as a protectorate and not mandated territory.

France's death toll in Syria since July 1 of this year has been 861 men, of whom 392 were native Frenchmen or foreign legionaires, War Minister Painleve told the Senate in reply to an interpellation from General Bourgeois.

The losses since 1920 have been 6,960, the War Minister added, saying that "there were painful incithink you live at home, as you do patriotism we veiled them."

SHIP LIMPS BACK.

Damaged in Heavy Sea on Pacific.

VICTORIA, B.C., Dec. 18 (Canadian Press).—With her funnel tied into place, the steam pipes and stack fittings and her sea ladder carried away, the British steamer Artemisia, which sailed from Vancouver last Saturday for Shanghai with a cargo of 7,000 tons of wheat, arrived in port Thursday. One Chinese member of the crew was injured when the ship pitched into the heavy sea, throwing him from a ladder in the engine room.

Th Artemisia ran into extremely heavy weather last Sunday night, and was forced to return to port here for inspection and repairs, which will not be heavy.

He came to that city in 1905, and became editor of the Peterboro Morning Times, and later started a weekly publication known as the Saturday Afternoon. This paper was published in the Dunsford block opposite the market, but passed out shortly after its birth.

Mr. Harris also saw newspaper service in Florida, and was for a number of years associated with the Port Hope Times when it was owned by the late W. F. Trayes. He was a clever writer, fearless in wielding the pen.

While in Peterboro he married Miss May Dulmidge, niece of the late Dr. Dulmidge of Colborne.

CHURCH CIRCUITS ARE READJUSTED

Several Groups of Churches Have Been Rearranged.

COBOURG, Dec. 18.—A readjustment of several of the circuits of the United Church of Canada in this locality went into effect last Sunday.

On the Sunday previous Rev. G. Campbell completed his service as minister of the charges of Plainville and Gore's Landing on the Camborne circuit, and these appointments have been added to Betherda (Harwood), with Rev. T. McCord as pastor. Mr. McCord took up the work at these appointments on Sunday. It is to be known as the Gore's Landing circuit.

Three other appointments, Coldsprings, Camborne and Bethel Grove, will now form the Camborne circuit, with Rev. George Campbell as minister.

Rev. J. S. T. Ferguson has left St. Andrew's Church, Baltimore, and the two United Churches at Baltimore, with Betherda, South, are expected to form another circuit, with Rev. Mr. McKee in charge.

A meeting was held at Baltimore on Friday to consider some adjustments necessary as to property, etc.

SANTA CLAUS MAY MISS SOME HOMES

Houses in Lakefield Where Genial Saint is Not Expected.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 18.—Everywhere one sees signs of the rapid approach of Christmas. Stores are in gala attire and are doing a thriving Christmas business. Everywhere all busy men and women preparing for the festal season and the children,—perhaps the children are busiest of all; last minute letters to Santa, peering into toy windows and all the many joys which make Christmas the favorite season for children; but there is at least one home in the village where there is a doubt about the coming of Santa; one home where the mother said in answer to the old old query regarding Santa,—"I am afraid Santa won't come this year." The children said, "Oh, mother, surely he won't forget us."

Out of the abundance of blessings the very largest percentage of this community enjoy can we as Christian citizens of the British Empire who boast of our love of our fair play, can we let Santa forget?

SUSPENSION OF COL. W. MITCHELL FOR FIVE YEARS

Found Guilty By Court Martial of Attacks on U. S. War Dept.

UP TO PRESIDENT.

Must Approve Sentence—Mitchell Condemned U.S. Aviation Policy.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 (Canadian Press) — Found guilty by a general court-maritial of having broken discipline by his attacks on aviation policies, Colonel William Mitchell yesterday was sentenced to five years suspension from the army.

The sentence must be approved by President Coolidge to become effective and meantime the air officer will remain technically under arrest.

By sustaining all of the charges, the court adjudged the accused guilty of conduct prejudicial to good order and military discipline, insubordination, and utterances contemptuous to the War and Navy Departments.

In pronouncing sentence Major-General Howe, president of the court, said that he and his colleagues had taken into consideration Colonel Mitchell's war record, and the sentence for that reason had been made "lenient."

"Dismissal from the army" was asked by the prosecution in its closing argument as the penalty to be imposed on Mitchell.

"My trial," Mitchell said, "is the culmination of the efforts of the general staff of the army and the general board of the navy to deprecate the value of air power and keep it in an auxiliary position, which absolutly compromises our whole system of national defense.

"To further proceed with the case would serve no useful purpose.

"The truth of every statement which I have made has been proved by good and sufficient evidence before this court, not by men who gain their knowledge of aviation by staying on the ground and having their statements prepared by a numerous staff to bolster up their predetermined ideas, but by actual flyers, who have gained their knowledge first-hand, in war and in peace."

PORT BARRIERS AGAINST UNFIT STAY IN PLACE

Selective Policy Will Be Retained By Government in New Agreement.

OTTAWA STATEMENT.

Lower Rates To Maritimes May Induce Many To Remain There.

OTTAWA, Dec. 18.—(Canadian Press)—Hon. Charles Stewart, acting Minister of Immigration, made it quite clear last evening that the government has no intention of relinquishing the right of inspecting immigrants entering Canada under the new empire agreement. The attention of the Minister was drawn to cabled criticism of certain features of the scheme, one criticism was that the prospective settler must still run the gauntlet of Canadian immigration officials. "The Canadian Government will still sit in judgment of everybody presented as a likely settler," it was stated.

In reply to this, Mr. Stewart said merely that it would be quite impossible for Canada to relinquish the right to inspect immigrants who were to become settlers in the Dominion.

May Stay In East.

Another criticism was that rates to points in Western Canada where, it was stated, the majority of immigrants wished to settle, were higher than those to points in the Maritime provinces and Quebec had complained in the past that all the immigration went to the West. The agreement would give the Eastern provinces an opportunity to secure some of the immigrants. He also pointed out that the cost of carrying an immigrant some thousands of miles farther must be taken into consideration when fixing rates. An immigrant bound for the prairies would travel for days by rail before reaching his destination.

Mr. Stewart said that he was not familiar with details of the immigration scheme in effect in Australia which was mentioned in the cabled despatches.

JAPANESE HAVE SEIZED MUKDEN LONDON REPORT

Minatory Action To Protect Japanese Interests in Manchuria.

OCCUPIED BY 3,500.

Japan's Position in Manchuria Menaced By Chinese Disturbance.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—(Canadian Press).—The Daily Mail announces that Japanese troops have occupied Mukden.

Tokio dispatches of December 15 gave the War Office announcement that it was despatching to Manchuria 1,000 displacement troops from Korea, and 2,500 from the Island of Kyushu for the protection of Japanese interests believed to be endangered in the Chinese warfare. The Korean troops, the war office explained, would return to their original stations as soon as the Kyshu troops arrived.

The Portsmouth peace treaty of September 5, 1905, transferred to Japan considerable territory in Manchuria and south Manchuria railway. China officially recognized this transfer and granted Japan the right to extend the railways from Mukden, the capital of Manchuria, to Antung.

A Shanghai despatch of December 16 reported Japan's position in Manchuria as seriously compromised by the action of General Kuo Sung-Ling, who, as General Feng Yu-Hsiang's ally, ordered Marshal Chang Tso-Lin to quit Mukden.

Higher Call Money Rate Restrained Operations

NEW YORK, December 18. Canadian Press. — Stiffening call money rates apparently resulting from the heavy advance demand for holiday currency, had a restraining effect on bullish operations in to-day's market. The opening was strong, with many issues moving up 1 to 3 points, but the marking up of call money to 5½ per cent. brought a renewal of selling pressure which was later checked by bullish demonstrations in minor railroad shares. Chicago and Eastern Illinois common and preferred and Chicago and North Western were bid up ¼ to nearly 4 points in the early afternoon. Oils gathered strength on reports of stiffening gasoline prices in the west, and predictions of an early advance in crude prices; Pacific Oil leading that group with an early gain of 3 points. Some of the other strong spots among industrials and specialties were General Electric, which sold 9½ points above yesterday's final quotation and Pressed Steel Car pfd, California Packing, Standard Milling and National Lead, which advanced 3 to 5 points.

Lightest Session Held In Some Time At Toronto

TORONTO, Dec. 18.—(Canadian Press.)— British Columbia Fishing and Atlantic Sugar were the only stocks in which any interest was shown on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. The trading was the lightest in a single session for some time. Sugar advanced a point to 33, but Fishing closed the morning a half point lower at 59 1-2. One feature of the quiet session was the point and a half advance of Sales Book common at 62 1-2. Brazilian was five-eighths lower, Barcelona a quarter, and Royal Bank a point. Brompton also eased a quarter, as did Duluth.

Reports From Argentine Influence Wheat Trade

CHICAGO, Dec. 18 (Canadian Press)—With attention of trading centring more than ever on developments regarding crop conditions in Argentina, the wheat market here averaged lower today during the earlier transactions.

Selling here was based a good deal on Liverpool reports of offerings from the southern sections of Argentina and on advices that the Argentine government would uphold the truth of its latest crop estimate. On the other hand, buyers continued to regard the unofficial estimates from Argentina as nearer to facts, and also continued to assert that the key to world prices lay in the hands of the Canadian Growers' Pool. Chicago opening prices: 1-4 to 2 1-2c lower, new style December 172 1-2 and May 166 to 167, were followed by a series of irregular changes that in some cases carried the values back to above yesterday's finish.

Corn and oats were governed by the action of wheat. After opening unchanged to 3-8c lower, May 82 1-4 to 82 3-8. Corn market underwent general sag but soon rallied. Starting 1-4 to 3-8c off, May 44 1-2, oats later showed some advance.

Provisions were higher owing to an upturn in quotations on hogs.

Mine Trade Well Spread With General Tone Strong

TORONTO, Dec. 18 (Canadian Press).—Trading on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange this morning was well distributed throughout the list, and a much stronger tone developed, both gold and silver stocks recording the general advancement.

New Noranda, in the unlisted section, led the market, moving up 30 cents to 10.95, and closing at the top. Other gold issues to advance were Wright Hargraves, up 20 at 7.30; Hollinger, 10 at 17.25, while McIntyre, Vipond and Teck Hughes all gained five points each.

The gains were not so large in silvers, although Capitol led the market in point of activity.

This stock reached a high of 33 and dropped back a point at the noon close for a net gain of a point. Canadian Lorrain advanced 2 to 74.

Mme. This was the first time the prima donna had ever sung in a British church. Photograph shows Mme. Tetrazzini surrounded by admirers after the service.

GERMAN TELEGRAPH TESTED IN ENGLAND

Six Separate Messages May Be Sent Over One Wire at One Time.

LONDON, Dec. 18—One telegraph wire permitting six separate messages being sent simultaneously at a speed of 100 words per minute is being used in experiments by the British Post office with German telegraphic apparatus.

Different wave lengths are used in despatching the messages, thermionic valves, such as are used in wireless telephony, are utilized for this purpose.

The messages are sorted by filters at the receiving end, each operating its particular key. The system allows telephone wires to be used without the disadvantages which have hitherto existed.

NEW RADIAL ENGINE BUILT FOR PLANES

Will Be Used on "Windmill" Planes Now Being Built.

LONDON, Dec. 18 (United Press)—A radial aircooled engine of either 375 or 400 horsepower will be installed in the first of the new Auto-Gyro or "windmill" airplanes which the British Air Ministry is constructing.

These engines are more than three times as powerful as the rotary aircooled engine used by the inventor Senor de la Cierva in the machine in which he demonstrated his invention in England.

It is also believed that because of the peculiar design of the Auto-Gyro that radial engines will be more suitable than the rotary type. Furthermore, being the same type of engine that is used on many service machines it will be possible to agrive at more exact conclusions as to the efficiency of the new invention as compared with the ordinary service airplane.

RADICALS BLOCKED COALITION ATTEMPT

WOMANS BATTALION SERVING IN CHINA

SHANGHAI, Dec. 18 (United Press)—A new "Battalion of Death" composed of Russian women is fighting with Marshal Chang Tso-lin's Manchurian forces in the civil war now raging on the northern border of Giangsu province, according to reports published in the Chinese press here.

The new organization, headed by a pretty bobbed-haired girl as commander, calls itself the 'Dare-to-Die Corps." It is composed of fifty Russian girls, principally the wives and sweethearts of men enlisted in Marshal Chang's Russian battalion, and is equipped with rifles and a special type of hand grenade notable equally for being extremely effective and extremely dangerous to handle.

The girls, so the Chinese papers say, are already at the front, although no reports of the outcome of their first engagement are vouchsafed. Opposing them are the Chinese soldiers of Sun Chuan-fang's Chekiang army which recently captured Shanghai and the whole of Kiangsu province.

CAPTURE LABORERS FOR CHINESE ARMY

Armed Press Gangs Seize Working Men For Labor Battalions.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 18 (United Press)—Though there is no draft law in China, military conscription is carried out by the much more simple expedient of sending out a detachment of soldiers for the purpose of rounding up all the able-bodied "short-gowned" men in the vicinity.

The "short-gowned," it should be said, are the lower classes, for merchants, clerks, tradesmen and others of the middle and upper classes attire themselves in long gowns the year round.

Every civil war brings torment to the coolies unfortunate enough to reside anywhere near the scene of hostilities. The present advance by the Chekiang army has been no exception. From the Chekiang capital at Hangchow all the way up to Nanking, the Chekiang soldiers have been rounding up thousands of coolies for service in their labor battalions.

Armed with rifles and with fixed bayonets, the draft parties comb the streets of every village and city. There is no escape for the coolies, other than into the foreign settlements. In short order, they are rounded up, bound together with ropes and marched off to the nearest railway station on their way to the front. They are promised $4 a month as pay, but they count themselves lucky enough and happy enough if, at the close of hostilities, they are alive and able to join their families.

HE STEPPED DOWN.

"He stepped adown the golden stair,
Out of the golden glow,
And came to seek a lodging bare
In Bethlehem below.
The doors were shut,
The windows barred
Against His Mother's plea:
A stable-cavern, cold and hard,
His mean abode must be."

SOVIET-ITALY TRADE SHOWS SUDDEN GAIN

ROME, Dec. 18.—Statistics show that the trade between Italy and Soviet Russia is rapidly increasing.

Italy, in spite of her Fascist government, has always shown herself ready to enter into trade and commercial relations with Russia, and one of the first commercial treaties made by Premier Mussolini was with the Soviet Government.

This last year Russia has exported into Italy goods for a value of seven millions of rubles, while the Italian exports total nearly three millions.

Coal and naptha products are what Italy chiefly takes from the Soviet Republic, while the Italian exports consist for the most part of automobiles and automobile parts, silks, stuffs and oranges and lemons.

The most notable item in Russian exports is coal, the sale of which abroad is increasing fast, and will shortly begin to menace the supremacy of the English market.

Pursuivant—Sir Knight W. Gray.

Tyler—Sir Knight R. J. McKnight.

Committeemen—Sir Knights D. Patton, S. Fallis, C. Lunn, J. L. Byam, J. H. Paul, W. Lynn.

At the conclusion of the business session, a bountiful supper, with an abundance of roast goose as one of the chief items on the menu, was thoroughly enjoyed, the accompanying social good time being enlivened with speeches from several of the newly-elected officers. M. J. H. Paul surprised the company and contributed greatly to the general enjoyment, by singing a descriptive song which made up what is apparently lacked in tune by the number of verses required to tell the story.

Mission Circle Meeting.

The Golden Links Mission Circle of the United Church held its Christmas meeting at the Parsonage on Monday evening. Owing to a number of other gatherings the same night the attendance was smaller than usual.

The circle, under the supervision of the Hon. President, Mrs. V. C. Lambert, and the President, Mrs. J. McKnight, packed a box of Christmas cheer and sent it to a missionary on an isolated field in British Columbia. The girls put in gifts for the five children in the family, and the older officers sent personal gifts to the missionary and his wife.

The mission band sents its large bale to the Home and Boarding School at Wahstao, Alberta. Miss Bessie Hawken is a teacher in this school, her pupils being entirely Ruthenian. Miss Hawken was formerly principal of the public school here and has many warm friends in this vicinity.

A.Y.P.A. Meeting

The A.Y.P.A. of St. Thomas' church held its meeting on Monday evening this week, the chief feature of the programme being a debate on the subject: "Resolved that the uncivilized man is happier than the one who is civilized."

Arguments for the affirmative were advanced by Piercy Pitt and Miss Theo McBride, while the negative was ably upheld by Miss Elizabeth Russell and Maurice Gray.

The judges were Rev. D. R. Dewdney, Miss Mary Turner, B.A., and Mr. A. H. Barnes. They finally gave the decision in favor of the negative.

The series of debates for the district cup is to be continued among the Anglican young people this season. The local A.Y.P.A. won the cup two years ago, and still holds the trophy as it was not competed for last season owing, apparently, to lack of interest. Should it be won locally again this year it becomes the permanent property of the Millbrook A.Y.P.A., holding it three years in succession constituting a claim to continued possession.

Council Meeting.

The council met on Monday, December 15, according to statute, Reeve W. T. Wood presiding, and all members present.

Th volunteer fire company, consisting of 14 members including Chief J. J. Clarke, were present in compliance with the request of council at its last session, and their equipment of rubber coats, hats, boots and gloves, was inspected and found, in the whole, to be in good condition. A list was made of such renewals as are required and it is expected that the 1926 council will pass a requisition for such supplies.

Tax Collector C. W. Richards presented his report showing $473 in taxes still unpaid and an extension of time was granted to have this amount paid in. Five per cent interest is charged after December 15.

The usual accounts were read and ordered paid, and council adjourned sine die.

Mr. F. W. Burton is in charge at the C.N.R. station for two weeks relieving the regular agent, Councillor P. Stinson, who is taking his annual holiday.

The men's choir, which has been practicing for the past few weeks, will provide the music at the evening service in the United Church on Christmas Sunday, December 20. It is probable that the same choir will also be used the following Sunday night when the Sunday School anniversary is being observed.

Mrs. Jas. Dawson, who is spending the winter with her sister-in-law, Mrs. J. Perrin, Peterboro, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Dawson, leaving on Wednesday.

Lang and Madill shipped three car loads of hogs, on each from Cavan, Frazerville and Millbrook, to Peterboro on Monday.

Mrs. W. Wilkinson recently spent a few days visiting friends in Peterboro.

Mr. Louis J. Hutchison announces the engagement of his sister, Esther Margaret Mabel, to Richard Frederick Staples Vance, of Franklin, Ont., the marriage to take place at an early date.

Owing to a number of other attractions in the neighborhood, and to the numerous practices for entertainments which take in a great many of the young people of the communit, leaving few free evenings, the basket social, under the auspices of L.O.L. No. 79, held in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening, was not well attended.

Dancing was enjoyed for some time, Byam's Orchestra furnishing music, but the sale of baskets was dispensed with, and the gathering broke up at a comparatively early hour. The social occasion may be repeated after the New Year.

SMITH COUNCIL

The members of the Municipal Council of the Township of Smith met in the County Council chamber, Peterboro, on Tuesday, December 15th, at 10 a.m.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

A communication was received, and Mrs. Lyons appeared personally before Council, asking for rebates of dog taxes. Action deferred.

The township solicitor's report regarding the legality of Council's taxing Chemong Park property owners for collection of garbage was received and left over until the next meeting on motion of Councillor Fitzgrald, seconded by Councillor Coones.

The Peterborough County Ploughmans' Association, per letter to Mr. F. C. McRae, asked for a grant of $10. Granted.

Moved by Councillors Coones and seconded by Councillor Mann that Council defer payment of accounts received from Mr. A. Comstock, Dr. King, Dr. Deyell and Messrs. D. Bellegham & Son until further investigated. Carried.

By-law No. 839 to fix the polling places in the respective polling subdivisions in the township of Smith for municipal purposes, to appoint D.R.O.'s and poll clerks and to fix their renumeration was given its several readings and passed.

Moved by Deputy-Reeve Simpson and seconded by Councillor Mann that the treasurer pay the following accounts:

Aaron McNaughton, $12; Fred Mahood, $10; Wm. Nicholls, $143.16; Municipal World, $9.23; Dr. J. A. Morgan, $141.00; Peterboro Examiner Co., $5.41; F. C. McRae, $10; J. A. Middleton, $5; Thomas Shields, $5; J. D. Manley, $5; David Weir, $118.55; David Weir, $36.12.

A public meeting of the electors of Smith Township will be held in the County Council chamber, Peterboro, on Monday, December 28th at the hour of one o'clock p.m. for the purpose of nominating candidates for the offices of reeve, deputy-reeve and councillors for Smith Township for the year 1926.

The business of the year having been finished, the Council of 1925 adjourned.

You will find many things you thought you couldn't afford in the Classified Ads. of the Examiner.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Dec. 18. — (United Press).—Henceforth Canada wished to be considered as a Pan-American nation, Frederick Hudd, Canadian Trade Commissioner, told the Pan-American Commercial Congress, to which he is an official delegate.

Hudd said: "That for all its senior membership in the British Empire, Canada felt her immediate destiny lies on the North American Continent, in co-operation with her neighbors."

SEATS PROVIDED AT OMEMEE RINK

OMEMEE, Dec. 18.—The executive of the O.A.A. have seen fit to have a spectators' stand erected on each side of the skating rink for the convenience of hockey fans, who have in former years been crowded for even standing room on the small platform in front of the dressing rooms. These new additions which are raised off the ground several feet will fill a long-felt want.

Mr. Walter Mitchell is the new manager of the rink and if this weather continues, he expects to have a good sheet of ice ready before long.

COMPANY MOVES.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—(Canadian Press).—The headquarters of Spillers' Steamship Company, which is controlled by the famous milling firm of Spillers' Milling and Associated Industries, is moving from Cardiff, Wales, to Liverpool, because Mersey River port is regarded as possessing better facilities than Cardiff. Proposal Adopted at Final Session of Congress of American Nations—To Promote Better Relations Between Countries.

1927 CONGRESS TO BE HELD HERE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(Canadian Press).—A proposal that efforts be made to obtain the admission of Canada to full membership in the Pan-American Union was one of a group of resolutions for promoting better relations between the three Americas adopted Thursday by the Pan-American Commercial Congress at its final session.

The resolution pertaining to Canada suggested that the country and all other Western hemisphere political entities be invited into association with the Pan-American Commercial Congress and that the admission of the Dominion into Pan-American Union be made "to the end that Pan-American may include really all America."

It also was decided that the Pan-American Congress for 1927 would be held in Canada.

Propose World Forum.

The proposal to establish a world forum at Yorktown, Va., for national and international congresses as a memorial to the winning of the freedom of the Western world was approved in another resolution.

Two plans for bringing North America and the Latin countries in-arships between the colleges and universities of the Americas was suggested.

Another resolution endorsed the plan for establishing an international to closer contact by personal visits were also endorsed. All agencies now engaged in such interchange of visitors were approved, and exchange of professorships and school-business training school for the foreign field of Panama.

Jose Miguel Bejarana, commissioner of agriculture and colonization for Mexico, in an address yesterday referred to what he termed "the industrial imperialism" of the United States and said this country was a nation of capitalists possessing the strongest pull over the government machinery.

The growth of the United States was natural Senor Bejarana said, "until the Spanish-American war marked its definite entry into the ranks of the great imperialists."

Now, he declared the United States has become supreme among the five groups of empires which dominate the earth, namely: The Americans, the British, the Far Eastern, the Russian and the French.

RUSSIAN CROP FAILURE UPSET CALCULATION OF WORLD SUPPLY

Soviet Forced To Cancel Orders in U. S. For Machinery.

NO WHEAT TO SELL.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18. (Canadian Press). — Miscalculations of the European grain trades as to the exportable quantity of wheat to be contributed to the world supply during this crop year are probably due, Secretary Hoover said Thursday, to deficiencies of the Russian crop reporting system.

Estimates were current last fall that Russia might export 300,000,000 bushels and the Commerce Department found it necessary to issue a statement that the exportable total could not be more than 60,000,000. The actual shipments so far have been much less.

The failure to produce a large quantity of wheat for export is having a serious effect upon Russian trade, official observers said yesterday, citing as one result the cancellation by the Soviet Government of orders previously placed in the United States and elsewhere for machinery.

Russian Crop Damaged.

MOSCOW, Dec. 18.—The commissariat for foreign and domestic trade announced Thursday that tabulations, including government grain purchases for November, show that the total government stores of all grains available are considerably less than 11,570,000 tons (approximately 490,000,000 bushels).

The new summary fixes the total purchased by the government during the five months ending November 30 at 4,950,000 tons. The November purchases, slightly under 900,000 tons (approximately 30,000,000 bushels) included 13,000,000 bushels of wheat, 4,000,000 bushels of rye, and oats 3,780,000 bushels, the rest being barley and oil grains. In September the purchases were 1,575,000 tons, and in October 1,200,000 tons.

The average prices, December 1, computed in dollars and bushels, were, for buying from peasants: wheat, $1.08; rye, 66 cents; oats at 34 cents, and barley, 52 cents, while the government has been selling wheat at $1.47, rye at 98 cents, barley at 52 cents and oats at 52 cents.

While the November crop realization was considerably above that for the same month last year, its shortage under this year's expectations aroused widespread comment and a considerable amount of criticism.

Wet weather destroyed 4,320,000 tons of the anticipated crop. The peasant, having taxes to pay, wouldn't sell, and thirdly, the available supply of manufactured goods in the country is so small and so difficult to place in the hands of the peasants that he had no need for money.

FINGER HURT FATAL.

OTTAWA, Dec. 18.—(Canadian Press).—Robert John Meikle, veteran millwright, died at his home here Thursday in his 71st year. The sickness was the result of an operation to his finger, necessitated by an accident. He constructed mills in Newfoundland, British Columbia, and many other places in Canada and the United States.

TWO WOMEN FIGHT.

Old Triangular Trouble at Port Arthur.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Dec. 18. (Canadian Press). — Two women staged a fistic encounter on a main street here over the affections of the older woman's husband. When a policeman interfered and sought to quieten them, they declined to be peaceful, and he took them to the police station, where they tried to renew the combat.

Thursday the younger and unmarried woman was fined $50 for disorderly conduct. The older woman was aged forty and the younger twenty-two.

CHEESE FACTORY IS FREE OF DEBT

SUCCESSFUL YEAR.

Stanwood Cheese and Butter Company Made Last Payment.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 18. — The Stanwood Cheese and Butter Company bought the factory at that place five years ago from M. McComb, and this year the last payment was made. This will enable the company to start the year 1926 free of debt, and the holders of stock are pleased to be able to report that they have made such a success of their undertaking.

At the annual meeting of the company it was shown by the report of Thomas H. Rowe, secretary treasurer, that 93,997 pounds of cheese and 2,214 pounds of butter had been manufactured during the season. The total expenses were $2,640.98, leaving $17,525.60 to be distributed among the 23 patrons. The average price received for cheese was 20.71 cents per pound, or $49.97 per standard. It required 11.19 pounds of milk to produce a pound of cheese.

The following officers were elected:

President—Wm. Rowe.

Secretary-Treasurer — Thos. H. Rowe.

Roy Brown has made the cheese at this factory for the past three years.

SAW A METEOR.

OTTAWA, Dec. 18.—(Canadian Press).—J. A. Bergeron, night watchman of the Gatineau Company here, claims that early on Wednesday morning he saw a meteor fall from the sky, and in a mass of flame it passed about forty feet above his head, travelling at a tremendous speed. He claims that it was almost the size of a small barrel, and made a terrific noise as it passed him. No other reports of the occurrence have been heard.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

WELLAND CANAL BROKE RECORDS

Increase of Ten Million Bushels in Grain Cargos Locked Through.

TOOK LESS WHEAT.

PORT COLBORNE, December 18. — Canadian Press. — Welland Canal broke all record for grain shipping during the season of 1925, according to a report issued yesterday by the Department of Railways and Canals.

The grain shipments through the canal during the season totalled 136,212,442 bushels, an increase of ten million bushels over the previous record set in 1924.

This record was established despite the fact that wheat shipments were 25,003,000 bushels less than in 1924, their total being 74,985,844, as against one hundred million bushles in the previous year.

BLOWS ON HEAD SUGGEST WOMAN WAS MURDERED

Death Due to Loss of Blood From Gashed Throat.

MONTREAL ENQUIRY.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 18. — (Canadian Press).—After hearing the evidence of physicians and the several witnesses intimately connected with the mystery surrounding the death of Mrs. Berthe Dupois, 27 years of age, of 18 Reaubien Street West, who died a few minutes after she was discovered, with her throat slashed and head battered in, by her husband, Romuald Dupois, early Thursday morning, Coroner Momaron adjourned the inquest yesterday until next Wednesday morning, to permit of further investigation by the police.

Mrs. Maria L'Escuye, sister of the murdered woman, had no suspicions as to who had committed the possible murder. Her sister's life had appeared a happy one.

Dr. Derome, medical-legal expert, reported he had found four wounds on the head caused by some blunt instrument.

Died to Death.

At the top of the throat he found a slashing wound which had severed the windpipe and all the important vessels. It had been caused by one stroke. There were no other marks of violence on the body. Death, he said, was due to loss of blood.

There was a big pool of blood on the table of the room and on a chair next to it. Some of the blood had run off the chair on to the floor. There was no blood on the next chair, but there were drops of blood on the wall behind it as though an artery had spurted it there.

The bedroom door was open and there were smears of blood on it as though the blood-soaked clothes of the woman had brushed against it. He found the woman herself lying on the bed; she was in a house dress, soaked in blood. There were no shoes on her feet, but he found them later, and they were covered with blood, indicating the woman had walked about after the deed was done.

Blood on Bureau.

In the bedchamber to the right was a bureau with drops of blood on the drawers. A large armchair by the bed was stained with blood, some of which was found to have leaked down in a big clot under the cushion.

The bed itself was blood-soaked all over from head to foot and the pillows also.

TRADING IN GRAIN FUTURES A RECORD

Total Volume More Than 31 Billion Bushels.

WASHINGTON, December 18. — Canadian Press. — The total volume of trading in grain futures on licensed exchanges during the last fiscal year was placed at 31,416,195,000 bushels Thursday in the annual report of the Grain Futures Administration, which said the figure was the largest for any similar period since it began collecting such data.

Amounts in excess of 500,000, the report declared, furnished 2 per cent. of the trading in wheat on the long side, and 30 per cent. on the short side. It attributed the rise of May wheat during the crop year to a price of $2.05 on January 28th to a belief in the world scarcity in bread grains, a short corn crop in this country, and "newspaper articles and other publicity issued regarding the presumed scarcity and the big profits made by various speculators, which stimulated the buying of wheat futures on the part of the public, and consequently resulting in increasing the price."

As secretary of the National Petroleum Marketer's Asociation, Miss Eva Arnstein handled all of the details of the big convention recently held by the association in Louisville.

FINE DOG SHOT BY UNKNOWN

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 18. — A fine Belgian police dog, one of a valuable pair belonging to Charles Nadoo, was shot the other night by some person so far unknown.

Died in Toronto.

WOMAN ADDING CHAMP

TOKYO, Dec. 18 (United Press) —Mikiko Miki 43 year old woman employee of the Postal Savings Bureau, is the champion adding machine expert of the Empire.

In a contest for speed on the soroban, or abacus, the Japanese adding board, the woman operator added 200 advice slips, each containing from three to six numerical figures, in 3.20 minutes. Mrs. Miki has held the speed record on the abacus for 35 years.

SUICIDE LEAPED OFF PARK DOCK

Walter Bauer, 37, Was Drowned—Aged Father Attempted Rescue.

HAD BEEN ILL.

DETROIT, Dec. 18 (Canadian Press)—Walter Baner, 37 years old, while walking with his father in the city park at Wyandotte, suddenly leaped off the park dock and was drowned in 30 feet of water.

The father, Rev. F. C. Bauer, a retired Lutheran minister, despite his advanced years, plunged into the ice choked river in an attempt to rescue his son, but was unsuccessful. The minister was pulled out of the water and is suffering from the shock of his immersion. Bauer's body was recovered by the police an hour after he had drowned.

Bauer was married and had two sons. The only reason that could be given for the suicide was ill health. He had been treated at a Detroit sanitarium for some time and only recently was released.

TWO MURDER TRIALS.

Prisoners Committed By Vancouver Court.

VANCOUVER, Dec. 18 (Canadian Press). — Benito Pasquales, charged with he murder of Nurse Ann Roedde in he General Hospital, and William Pilkington, charged with the murder of Wilfred M. Tibbs, who died of stab wounds were committed to stand trial by Magistrate H. C. Shaw in police court.

The hearing of both men had been adjourned owing to the inability of Dr. A. W. Hunter, coroner's physician, to attend owing to illness. Yesterday he told of the injuries received by the nurse on December 2, which resulted in her death on December 4.

Dr. Hunter then gave evidence of the wound received by Tibbs, who was stabbed on September 29 and died in the General Hospital November 6. Witness said that death was due to infection, caused by a stab wound in the back.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

WHO WAS YOUR GRANDFATHER?

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir.—There must always be in this Dominion many elderly persons who in themselves and in their well-stored memories supply the link between the families of Canada and those of the Old Land. Perhaps it was they or their father or grandfather who first crossed over to make their homes on the other side. And now in their old age they are full of reminiscences upon which, either under the impression that such things are in themselves of small importance or are of little interest to the younger generation, they are often inclined to be reticent.

Such memories, however, are of exceeding great value. For between the forbears and the descendants of these persons there is often an interval during which the names of the members of the family have not been recorded, and unless the interval is supplemented by their authentic statements the connection between their families in the Old and New Worlds may be lost. In these days there are registers of births, marriages and deaths in every civilized country, those of England and Scotland going back to the 16th and 17th Centuries respectively. This information, which the Old People alone can supply, is required to link up the new registers with the old, and perhaps prove useful some day in establishing facts which our descendants will be glad to know.

One has only to recall the loss felt and the regret so often expressed by the people of the United States that these things were so little appreciated in the days when hisory was in the making.

Now, Sir, is not Christmas a season when the old folks and the old times are specially recalled? Does not remembrance grow warmer when the family is assembled in the home for the Christmas celebration? I would respectfully propose to you and to your readers that the occasion should be used for collecting such unrecorded information from the Old People as I have referred to. Let them be invited to speak of early times, and let the facts given back to us by their memories be carefully written down as a genuine testimony of what they say. Who has not at one time or another been astonished at the suddenness with which an old name or an old tale will spring to their lips when they are encouraged by a sympathetic enquiry

[illegible] more names of grandfathers and great-grandfathers, of uncles, aunts and cousins that can be mention and written down, the better. The old legal maxim that "the unsupported oral testimony of one witness is insufficient," need be no deterrent, for this testimony will often corroborate other evidence and serve to establish the continuity of the ancestral chain. And nothing is more helpful to the searcher of ancient records than evidence which is circumstantial to the main enquiry. In England and Scoland the parish registers constitute a safe store of authentic informtion in the possession of which our nation is particularly fortunate. The reason given by King Henry VIII. for his institution of parochial registers in 1538 was: "The advancement of the trewe honor of Almighty God, the encrease of virtue, and the dischage of the Kynges majesty." King James' reason for extending a similar benefit to Scotland in 1616 was that: "Divers questions doth ofttimes arise anent the times of marriages, baptisms, and decease of persons, which questions breed great contestations and play betwix parties, and draw them to idle and unnecessary expenses."

If these reasons were appropriate to a former generation, another is especially so to our own, namely, that the ties of kinship between the Old County and the great Dominions are likely to become, not less, but more precious to the generations who come after us.

I am, Sir, etc.,

OLD COUNTRYMAM

THE JOY OF GIFT GIVING.

There is no custom connected with the Christmas season more ancient or deep-rooted than that of the giving of gifts, for it dates back to the very first Christmas, when the Wise Men journeyed many long weary hours across the desert to deliver their gifts in person to a baby King, in Bethlehem Town, and, it is doubtful if there is any other custom that involves so much real joy and gladness,—it brings joy to both the giver and the receiver.

No matter how much work the selecting and purchasing, or the making of the gifts entail, or how weary you may be on Christmas Eve, the deep satisfaction you feel in knowing that none of your loved ones or friends have been forgotten and that you added your share to the gladness of the world at this greatest festival of the year, more than compensates for it all.

Those who are far away from home and unable to join the family circle for Christmas can picture the smile on Mother's face, as she unties the big express parcel and lifts out the various packages containing the gifts for Dad and Mother and the kids, but you can never guess the thrill of joy it brings to those back home to know they have not been forgotten by that big boy or girl in the distant city.

Perhaps you are sending a turkey home to the family, or a box of luscious, red, Canadian apples to relatives across the seas, but whatever you send and no matter how far distant it is to go, the Canadian National Express will despatch it carefully, safely, and promptly, and with the least possible trouble to yourself. Parcels are called for at any address, leave the city on the first available passenger train, and are delivered promptly to their destination on arrival. All parcels arriving at their destination up until Christmas Eve are delivered the day of their arrival, and packages up to the value of $50 are insured, free of charge. 2d-15-13.

In Ontario we are wondering just how we will get through the winter when the stock of hard coal is so liimted, due to the coal strike, but it would appear that we were better situated in the matter than portions of the United States.

For instance, in Lowell, Mass., a committee issued rules for the burning of coal in an effort to conserve on the supply, and suggests that other centres do likewise. Sometimes we think we are always getting the worst of it, but we do not know the other fellow's trouble.

NEW DIVING SUIT LIKE OLD ARMOR

MADE IN GERMANY.

LONDON, Dec. 18 (United Press.—The diving apparatus loaned to the British Admiralty by a German firm to help locate the ill-fated submarine M-1 that recently disappeared while on manoeuvres in the English Channel, strongly resembles in appearance a suit of medieval armour.

The geratest difficulty in manufacturing the apparatus has been to make the joints perfectly flexible, so that a man can walk easily, use his arms freely, and at the same time be able to stand a pressure up to 25 atmospheres, which would correspond to the pressure of a depth of 750 feet. Practical use of the apparatus has been made up to a depth of 500 feet.

Attached to the outside of the apparatus are several tanks which are filled with water in order to give the necessary weight to the diver. When he wants to rise, these tanks are blown out by means of the compressed oxygen stored inside and controlled by the diver.

The internal mechanism also resembles a submarine in many respects. The diver does not depend on air from above, as he has with him sufficient quantity of oxygen to last for three hours. The carbonic acid exhaled is absorbed by special cartridges, as in submarines.

An important and special feature of the new apparatus is that the diver always has a normal pressure of one atmosphere for every 30 feet in depth. The diver working at a depth of 500 feet, as practical trials have proved, does not suffer any inconvenience and comes out of the apparatus as fresh as he entered it.

The diver in the ordinary rubber suit requires about three-quarters of an hour to be lowered or raised slowly in order to enable his body to adapt itself to the increasing or diminishing pressure. The new apparatus can go down to a depth three times greater in two minutes and can come up at the same speed.

The diver retains communication with the vessel from which he descends by means of a steel cable. This cable contains three independent telephone wires. In case the connecting cable should become entangled in some obstacle and the diver is unable to clear it, he can detach the cable from inside the apparatus and rise slowly to the surface independently by blowing out his tanks with the compressed oxygen.

There are inside the equipment almost as many registering instruments as in the conning tower of a submarine, but the handling of the apparatus is extremely easy, and the diver new to it is greatly surprised to find how easily he can move his legs and arms under water, as the weight of the equipment is carried by the pressure of the water.

BRITISH RAILROAD SEIZED BY CHINESE

Protests Are Expected Because of Use By Rival Armies.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 18. — New protests will probably be lodged by the British Government as a result of the seizure by rival Chinese militarists of the Shanghai-Hangchow-Ningpo Railway and the Shanghai-Nanking Railway.

Both lines belong to the Chinese Government railway system, but each was built with British capital and each has outstanding loans held by British bond-holders.

In last year's fighting between Chekiang and Kiangsu provinces, traffic on the Shanghai-Nanking line was more or less completely paralyzed for a period of three months, and traffic on the Shanghai-Hangchow line for a lesser period. Heavy claims for indemnity from the militarists were made at that time by the British Government.

The advance of Sun Chuan-fang's Chekiang army into Kiangsu this year has been so swift that train service in the lower Yangtsze Valley has been disrupted for only a brief period. The Shanghai-Hangchow line was monopolized by the troops for only two days, and the Shanghai-Nanking line for less than a week. Minor damage was done to the Shanghai-Nanking line by the retreating Fengtien troops, but the right-of-way was speedily repaired by railway workmen.

REGULAR MEETING WAS HELD BY LOCAL COUNCIL OF WOMEN

Address on Public Health By Dr. Sutton Featured Meeting.

REPORT GIVEN.

Mrs. Morris Told of National Executive Sessions at Kingston.

The regular meeting of the Local Council of Women was held in the green room of the Young Women's Christian Association yesterday afternoon. The president, Mrs. A. Stevenson, was in the chair, and the meeting was featured by an address on "What can be Accomplished by Public Health Effort," given by Dr. N. H. Sutton.

Mrs. N. D. Seaton, the treasurer, announced a net total from the picture sponsored by the Local Council of Women, "Drusilla with a Million," recently presented at the Royal Theatre, of $151.44. Added to this were several contributions from affiliated societies that did not sell tickets, bringing the gross amount up to $160.94.

Mrs. W. R. Morris, the delegate of the Local Council to the recent National Executive meeting in Kingston, gave an interesting review of the deliberations of the convention, when many matters of interest to the Council and its societies were discussed.

Communistic Teachings.

Particular reference was made to the growth of Communistic Sunday Schools in Ontario. The idea that this movement is confined mainly to the West and that its members are of the foreign element has been proven a mistake, said Mrs. Morris. Members of the Council Executive from Toronto told of the establishment of seven or eight of these Communist Sunday schools in Toronto. They are called Sunday schools because they are open on Sundays, and are designed to counteract the influence of the ordinary Sunday school. Their teaching is absolutely anti-Christian. Their system is to take the cleverest of their youthful members, bright boys from twelve to fourteen years of age, and teach them to become leaders of the hundreds of other boys who attend the regular classes. In their text books, the answer to the question, "Who is Jesus Christ?" is, "He was the illegitimate son of a Jewish woman." They teach that there is no sanctity in marriage, that it is a farce, that women should belong to the community and that there is no such thing as property rights. A large number of British-born citizens are involved in this movement.

Mrs. Morris spoke of the invitation extended to the National Council president, Miss Carrie Carmichael, of Nova Scotia, to become a member of the committee interested in erecting a building in Ottawa which would serve as a memorial to all women who had helped in any way during the Great War. This was felt by the Council to be an effort at self-glorification, which would not have the support of women who had felt that their work during war time had been a duty which required no such recognition. The invitation to the National President had therefore been declined.

As an instance of change in policy in the National Executive, Mrs. Morris spoke of the resolution passed, which recommended that members of the Councils associate themselves with political parties and use their full political influence.

Dr. Sutton's Address.

Dr. Sutton enumerated some of the efforts made in public health directions, such as laboratory diagnosis of communicable diseases, education in public health carried on by means of literature and through vital statistics, "The bookkeeping of human life," co-ordination of extraneous health agencies, such as the Health Association, the Well Babies' Clinic, the Home and School Associations, and the Social Hygiene Council; control of the water supply, inspection and control of milk supplies, prevention and control of occupational diseases, medical inspection of school children, mental hygiene, and control of heart and kidney affections. "One of the late results of even a mild case of scarlet fever," said the doctor, "is breast disease. Many a time the convulsions of the lying-in period may be traced back to an attack of scarlet fever when the mother was just a week kiddie. The growing pains of childhood and mild rheumatic disorders may lead to a damaged heart. Public health work is largely preventive and preservative. It aims to conserve the health which we have and not allow it to be destroyed by disease, which, if not remedied, may affect seriously the health of the people."

Dr. Sutton spoke of the good work done by pre-natal Clinics, as established in the city of Toronto, and said, "The public health nurse is the keystone of all public health departments. Without her, it would be impossible to get all the information required." The public health nurses may assist materially by disseminating health information, in decreasing mortality among mothers and also infant mortality, "for the risks of the first year of life take a heavy toll."

The doctor said that in Peterboro, in 1921, deaths under the first year of age were 81 per 1,000 living births, which compared favorably with the general mortality rate throughout Ontario. In 1922, infant mortality was 76.6 per 1,000 living births, and in 1923, 91. In Oshawa, some four years ago, the infant mortality rate was 146 per 1,000. Since that time, even after the inclusion, when the town became a city, of a certain district that might be called a "shacktown" element, with a low standard of living conditions, the infant mortality rate has dropped to 61 per 1,000.

"In mortality from tuberculosis, Peterboro has been fairly good." In 1921, the rate was 52.4 per 100,000, while in Ontario generally the rate was 71 per 100,000. In 1922, Peterboro's rate was 108.3 against an Ontario rate of 66.4, and in 1923 it was 46, as compared with a general rate of 65 throughout the Province.

In Peterboro, the general death rate in 1921 was 13 per 1,000 of population. In Ontario generally, it was 11.8. In 1922, in Peterboro, 14.74, and in Ontario 11.4. In 1923, Peterboro, 15.4, Ontario 11.8. The death rate from diphtheria in Peterboro in 1921 was 38.1 per 100,000 population and in Ontario, 22.2, in 1922, 37.7 and in Ontario generally 13.7, and in 1923, 13.9 in Peterboro and 10.4 in Ontario. In 1921, deaths from scarlet fever in Peterboro were at the rate of 47.1 per 100,000 of population and in Ontario, 4.9 and in 1922, 23.5 as compared with 4.4. In 1921, deaths from measles in this city were none, while in Ontario the rate was 1.8 per 100,000. In 1922, 4.7 as compared with a general provincial rate of 2.2, and in 1923, 23.2 and 3.6 in Ontario. "In nearly all these diseases we have very unenviable statistics here and a high death rate."

Deaths from diphtheria, said the speaker, are mainly under the age of ten years and almost entirely under fifteen years of age. Preventive measures should be concerned with seeing that possible contacts should be treated immediately with anti-toxin. Last year, nine cases of diphtheria were reported from Oshawa, but no deaths, as preventive measures were taken immediately.

"If the present lessening in deaths from tuberculosis goes on as at present in 1940 there will be no cases of tuberculosis at all in Ontario," declared the doctor, as an instance where preventive measures were giving results. These steps should be taken while the disease is still in the open stage and before the germs have been transmitted to other members of the family.

Full-time Official

As a simple expedient in the case of a city like Peterboro, Dr. Sutton recommended that people be put in control of civic interests who would see that a trained Public Health officer be put in charge of the work, giving him a salary of $4,000 a year, a sum in excess by $2,000 of the salary already paid, and give him control of all such work in the city. "That doesn't mean $25,000 extra. In Peterboro, we are spending now from 70 to 75 cents per head on the public health work. The $2,000 extra would mean roughly, about 80 or 85 cents per head instead.

"After a survey of local conditions has been made by this expert, doing the work of the Medical Officer of Health here, he can, I am firmly persuaded, from the survey I have been able to make, conserve monies which we have been spending on public health work and effect economies which will more than make up the difference in salary. If this expert proved satisfactory, his services might be recognized in time by raising his salary to $5,000 per year, which is an ordinary salary for a full-time Medical Officer of Health."

At the conclusion of Dr. Sutton's address, several matters of business were transacted. Mrs. Mowat announced that the full membership of the Local Council of Women, as totalled by her from the aggregate membership of the affiliated societies, was 2,660. Many of these women, however, belonged to different societies and their membership would therefore be doubled or trebled in this total.

Mrs. W. R. Morris spoke of the turning down by the City Council of the request of the Board of Education for funds to erect a combination school in the city and of the Council's assertion that they would submit the matter to the people. Mrs. Morris said that the Council had no power to submit a bylaw to the people on a school question, except at the direct request of the Board of Education. This request had not been made, for two reasons. The Board realized that it would mean delay, "and this delay has already taken place," but the main reason was because the Board realized that in a matter of this sort, only thirty-eight per cent of the population would be allowed to vote, while the other sixty two per cent although affected just as much by the matter, would not be allowed to record their opinion in the question. Although paying taxes, they could not register an opinion, and the Board felt that this was unfair.

It was decided by the ladies to hold a public meeting, as was done last year, after the nominations, in order to see the candidates and hear what they had to say.

Her Liver Was Bad And She Felt Tired and Depressed

Mrs. M. Siefert, Grosswerder, Sask., writes:—"I was greatly disturbed with pains in my liver, and felt tired and depressed most of the time.

One day I read about

Milburn's

and the next time I went to town I bought four vials of them.

I have used them regularly, and after two months' use I feel like an entirely different woman.

Now, I always recommend them to any of my friends who are troubled as I was."

There's only one "Laxa-Liver Pill", and that's the one put up, for the past 32 years, by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

CANADIAN BUSINESS CONDITIONS

The above chart shows in terms of dollars Canadian business conditions over a period of 20 years. The shaded areas above the line indicate cycles of prosperity, the areas beneath the line cycles of depression. The contours are formed from composite indices of fundamental statistics such as crops and volume of trade. It is based on the theory borne out by a study of the past that advance will follow reaction, given the indices of improvement, and that coming events cast their shadow before. The shaded area represents the late four-year cycle of depression. An area of prosperity can be noted in process of formation above the line. A comparison of this Canadian chart, with a similar American chart, illustrates the striking economic parallelism between the two countries. Their dark areas below the line are synchronous. When there is prosperity in the United States, as there is at present, there is also prosperity in Canada.

TELEGRAPH UNION EXPELS OFFICIALS

TORONTO, Dec. 18 (Canadian Press).—Henry Lynch, chairman of the Canadian National central district of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, and R. I. Bradley, also an official of the union, were expelled from the organization because of "conduct unbecoming officers of the association," according to a decision handed down to-day by the board of the union.

The trial was an outgrowth, according to union officials, of an effort on the part of Lynch and Bradley to set up a dual organization of telegraph workers in Canada.

FOUR MILLIONS BET MANITOBA TRACKS

Almost Double Wagers of 1924 Season—Longer Season.

BETTER ATTENDANCE

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, December 16. Canadian Press. — Manitoba's contribution to the $50,000,000 pot wagered at race tracks during 1925, was $4,993,534.

With six weeks racing during the present year, compared with four in 1924, and with the meets better attended, the money bet, nearly doubled the money staked a year ago. The increase for 1925 was $2,340,828.

In addition to the funds collected from admission fees the public paid $552,970 for the privilege of trying its luck on the pari-mutuel betting machines. The provincial government received $142,316, as its three per cent share of the bets.

The jockey clubs and racing associations as custodians of the wagered money, received $403,164, seven per cent. on the average amount passing through the machines, in addition to the "breaks" as specified in the criminal code with respect to race meets, and enacted by the Dominion parliament in 1920.

The limits set by the act on the share of the racing associations is seven per cent. where the total amount staked or deposited on each race is under $20,000; six per cent. where the amount is between $20,000 and $30,000; four per cent. on amounts between $30,000 to $50,000, and three per cent. in excess of the latter amount.

The total amount wagered during 1925 on races in the three Prairie provinces was $5,884,818. While race track betting doubled, the amount wagered in British Columbia was cut in two. The 1925 figures for the latter province were $3,479,739, compared with $6,397,370 in 1924.

'Younger Ministers' Ask Revision Of Confession

NEW YORK, N.Y., Dec. 18 (Canadian Press).—The prompt revision of the Westminster Confession of Faith has been requested by 100 'younger ministers' of the Presbyterian Church, it was revealed to-day.

The request was made in a joint letter to the special commission, appointed by Dr. Charles R. Erdman, Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, which is now meeting in study of the situation confronting the Church.

The 'younger ministers' assert that "one of the chief causes of unrest within our Church is the wide difference of opinion in the Church regarding the exact meaning of "subscription to the Confession of Faith."

FUNERAL OF MRS. J. W. MILLER

The funeral of the late Mrs. J. W. Miller took place Friday afternoon, Dec. 11th, from the family residence, 212 McDonnel street.

The deceased, who was born in Toronto March 8th, 1849, was a daughter of the late William E. and Margaret Lilley, of London, Eng. On Nov. 11th, 1868, she married Col. J. W. Miller, of Peterborough. Miller, and ten children, William W. of Toronto, Frederick C., John H., Gordon C., and Burton, of Peterborough, Norman St. C. of Los Angeles, Mrs. F. S. Schneider, Mrs. H. O. Fisk, Miss Ada and Miss Ethel of Peterborough.

The late Mrs. Miller took no part in public life, but the esteem in which she was held as a true example of Christian motherhood was amply testified to by the many beautiful floral and other tributes, and the largely attended funeral. The influence of this quiet but beautifully rounded-out life has left a deep and lasting impression on all who were fortunate enough to know her.

A private service was held for the family at one o'clock and for the public at 2 o'clock, both of which were conducted by the Rev. W. Harold Young, of St. Paul's United Church, Toronto, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Todd, of George street United church. Rev. Mr. Young paid feeling tribute to the wonderful example of her simple Christian life.

The pallbearers were Mr. Harry Lush, W. H. Hill, R. B. Rogers, Wm. A. Logan, B. Shortley and Robt. Fair.

She was a faithful member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

MRS. JAMES H. DIXON.

The death occurred yesterday evening of Mrs. James Harvey Dixon, at her home, 538 Harvey Street. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

BRITISH MARKET CANADIAN FOOD

All She Has of Good Grade for Export Can Be Absorbed.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 16 — (Canadian Press).— There is at all times a market in Great Britain for all the foodstuffs Canada can produce, providing they are of good grade. This is the opinion of A. W. Cliffe, merchant of London, England, who is making his forty-fifth visit to the dominion. Grading, Mr. Cliffe declared, is now playing an important part in the Old Country markets.

The visitor made an earnest plea for greater inter-Empire trade. "I believe," he said, "if such a policy were thoroughly pursued, it would solve the immigration problems of the dominions. With the exception of cotton, the Empire could become self-supporting. Such a scheme would materially stimulate an influx of settlers, for additional population would be required to produce the necessary agricultural demand."

APPRENTICE SYSTEM PLANNED IN WEST

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 16.—(Canadian Press).—The indentured apprentice system, practiced with success in the British Isles for many years, will be given a thorough tryout in the building trades of British Columbia.

The Vancouver Board of Trade and the Trades and Labor Council have thrown their support behind the project and a committee of labor and contractors' representatives has been appointed to act as an apprenticeship council. The first work of the council will be the undertaking of a survey to secure the interest of contractors in the apprenticeship principle and to ascertain the requirements of apprentices. This survey is being made immediately, so that by January 1 the plans will be placed in operation.

The apprenticeship plan has aroused much interest among the youth of the city and many inquiries have been made. It is expected to be of an important benefit to contractors who, under present conditions, complain that it is difficult to encourage boys and young men to continue at a specific trade long enough to acquire skill. The plan is expected to lead to a general stimulation of industrial efficiency.

QUEEN MOTHER OF ITALY NEAR DEATH

Condition Critical and End is Believed Near.

BORDIGHERA, Italy, Dec. 18.—Queen Mother Margherita, of Italy, suffering from pleurisy, was in a critical condition yesterday and the end was believed near. The Duke of Genoa had rushed here from Turin. The King was still in Rome.

Summoning of her brother, the Duke of Genoa, was interpreted as indicating more serious symptoms than had first been announced.

The King and Queen in Rome are being advised frequently of the Dowager Queen's progress, and the Crown Prince ordered services in the church at Turin for the recovery of his grandmother. Large crowds attended.

Queen Margherita was later reported somewhat better. The physicians attending the Royal patient said the malady was taking its normal course.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am coming to you for advice. When a young girl just starts to keep steady company, what is the proper time for a young man to leave in the evenings? And should you invite a fellow in after being to a show or any other place for the evening? And how often should a girl permit a fellow to call in one week? And, Dear Annie Laurie, don't you think the girl that does not let a young man stay too late and acts a little independent is thought just as much of by the young man? I am no petter, but I am a modern girl with modern ways. So I want to do what is proper. Please accept my best thanks for your wonderful advice.

KITTY.

KITTY: This question of company-keeping and its hours and times is rather a debatable one. So much depends on circumstances. If you live at home, for instance, you can govern matters in a different way than you can when you are staying at a boarding house. I think you like at home, as you do not mention any other circumstances.

If the young man comes at eight or a little after, ten-thirty seems a reasonable time for him to leave, or eleven o'clock, at the latest. And it really isn't necessary to ask him in after a show, do you think so? If you are very much in love, you may see him as often in the week as you wish, but the regular schedule for a "steady" appears to be two visits a week and a Sunday evening call.

Yes, a spice of independence and a good deal of self-respect are always valued at their true worth by a man, where a girl is concerned. Some one has said that a man likes a woman to stand on a pedestal, but he is always trying to rock the pedestal. It's up to the girl to see that he doesn't rock her off, because he won't bother to pick up the pieces.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SATURDAY DECEMBER 19.

According to the sidereal operations for this day, hostile conditions may be encountered in affairs generally. There may be obstructions and postponements as well as disagreeable situations born of quarrels and litigation and also tumult and obstinacy. These may precipitate heavy losses, as may false friends and treachery. Those in the employment of others are urged to be careful and the young are warned to be circumspect in their social activities.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year calling for extreme caution and discretion in the handling of all their affairs. Contention and headstrong and impetuous deeds may result in losses, which may also come through false friends or betrayal of trust. A child born on this day may be disposed to be wilful, and impetuous. Notwithstanding, it should be clever and adventurous. It should be taught that success will come only through discretion and self-government in all its affiliations.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silvar

DICKY DECIDES HE DOESN'T CARE TO HUNT.

"Oh, pshaw!" Dicky pouted when his daddy and Uncle Johnny drove off, "I'll sure be glad when I'm large enough to go hunting with daddy," and two big tears rolled down his rosy cheeks and splashed on his blouse.

"Well, of all things!" laughed a merry voice and Gocomeback, the wee travel elfin, hopped up beside Dicky. "What are the tears about? Here, I came to take you on a trip with me and I find you in tears. Where I am going, little boys can't cry or the tears will freeze to their faces. Want to go with me?"

Dicky jumped up as if he had been shot out of a gun, and brushed his eyes with his hand.

"I'll say, I do want to go with you," he cried, shaking the wee elfin's hand. "Where are we going? I'm sorry you found me crying. But I would love to go and watch a good hunter like Uncle Johnny. He can shoot anything, so daddy says."

"How interesting," chuckled Gocomeback. "Funny, I was just on my way to see a real hunt and I stopped to see if you wouldn't like to go with me."

He caught hold of Dicky's hand and before Dicky could catch his breath, he was standing beside a mound of ice in a land of snow.

"This is where my little Eskimo friend, Ilka lives," then Gocomeback called and a little Eskimo boy all bundled up in furs crawled out of the low doorway of the snow house and greeted Gocomeback and Dicky.

"Daddy has just gone out hunting," Ilka laughed when Gocomeback told him why they had come. "And we'll follow him." He whistled and out came a string of dogs dragging a sleigh. Gocomeback, Dicky and Ilka sat on the sleigh and away they sped over the ice and snow.

Just as they reached the place where Ilka's father, stood over a great hole in the ice, Dicky saw him drop in a great long spear with a rope tied to the other end of it. Ilka, Gocomeback, Dicky and Ilka's daddy pulled and pulled on the rope and after a long time, they pulled up a seal.

Dicky and Gocomeback helped them load it on one of the sleds. Ilka gave a wild cry and he and his daddy rushed away. By the time Gocomeback and Dicky reached their sides they had captured a great big walrus. To Dicky it looked something like a seal, but it was just about the size of an ox. It had a great big head and a great wide mouth with a long tusk hanging down on each side, these tusks were as big around as a man's wrist and they were about two feet long.

"My, these tusks will bring a good price," whispered Gocomeback. "I guess we brought you luck."

"You certainly did," laughed the Eskimo, "not only are the tusks of that fellow worth a great deal of money, but there's so much meat on him that we'll have enough to feed all our neighbors for a whole week. You and Dicky better stay and help us eat him up."

Dicky blinked his eyes and when he opened them again, he was sitting on his own steps alone.

"I don't believe I'd enjoy hunting," he declared. "I'm glad I didn't go with daddy and Uncle Johnny." Then away he ran to gather in the wood for his mama.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A reader in California, the mother of two healthy boys, is anxious to know about infantile paralysis, its cause and prevention. In her State have been some cases and, of course, she worries over her fine children. These precious mothers! What blessings they are!

If there is one God-sent job in the world, it is the Mother Job. What continual, never-ending sacrifices mothers make!

When James Wolfe was on his way to win the battle of Quebec, he said he would rather be the author of the lines from Gray's elegy, beginning, "The boast of heraldry," than to have the glory of beating the French on the morrow.

Someone said, "God could not be everywhere so He made mothers."

I wish I could have said that before anybody else thought of it! I think it is one of the truest and most striking says ever uttered by man. Wolfe referred to a wonderful sentiment, but it seems to me as nothing compared to the mother tribute I have just quoted.

No New York parent can ever forget the year 1916. That Summer there were 9,000 cases of infantile paralysis in New York City. That is the most terrible epidemic of this disease to be found in the annals of history. Twenty-seven per cent of the cases were fatal and a larger number of children were permanently crippled.

Unfortunately, it is not definitely know how the infection is carried. The infecting agent is found in the discharges of the nose and throat and is carried from here to the brain and spinal cord. Apparently the virus can be transmitted directly by the contaminated nasal discharges, or these discharges may be carried by a person a fly or other insect.

Every child must be taught to keep his hands from his face. Pulling the lips or poking at the nose are habits which must not be permitted.

The playthings, pencils, rulers and other objects handled by one child must never be put in the mouth of another child. Needless to say, the handkerchief and other personal possessions must not be used by another.

Every person—man, women and child—must learn that sneezing, coughing and loud talking are acts capable of spreading infection. The spray and drops of moisture carry dangerous germs if they come from an infected person. The nose and mouth should always be covered, not by the hand, but by the handkerchief, if coughing or sneezing are necessary.

You might better have a man shoot at you with a pistol than to sneeze in your face if he has one of the infectious diseases.

Infantile paralysis is due to a microscopic organism and, before long, we may hope for a vaccine or scrum to protect against it.

ONCE UPON A TIME — RIP VAN WINKLE—IV (WASHINGTON IRVING) — by W. J. ENRIGHT.

THE STORY UP TO NOW

IN A VILLAGE AT THE FOOT OF THE KATSKILL MOUNTAINS, ON THE BANKS OF THE HUDSON RIVER, THERE LIVED A JOLLY, GOOD-NATURED MAN NAMED RIP VAN WINKLE. HE WAS A GREAT FAVORITE WITH EVERYBODY BUT HIS WIFE. SHE CONSTANTLY SCOLDED HIM, BECAUSE HE WOULD DO NO WORK, AND SHE EVEN BLAMED HIS FAITHFUL DOG WOLF FOR HIS SHIFTLESSNESS.

TO ESCAPE FROM THE LABOR OF THE FARM AND THE SHARP TONGUE OF HIS WIFE RIP WOULD TAKE HIS GUN IN HAND AND STROLL AWAY TO THE WOODS.

HE WOULD SOMETIMES SEAT HIMSELF AT THE FOOT OF A TREE AND SHARE HIS FOOD WITH WOLF, WITH WHOM HE SYMPATHIZED AS A FELLOW SUFFERER, AND WOLF WOULD WAG HIS TAIL AND LOOK WISTFULLY IN HIS MASTER'S FACE AS THOUGH HE HAD THE SAME FEELING.

ON A FINE AUTUMN DAY RIP UNCONSCIOUSLY SCRAMBLED TO ONE OF THE HIGHEST PARTS OF THE KATSKILL MOUNTAINS. HE WAS AFTER HIS FAVORITE SPORT OF SQUIRREL SHOOTING AND THE SOLITUDE HAD ECHOED WITH THE REPORT OF HIS GUN.

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

TOMORROW—HE MEETS A STRANGE LITTLE MAN.

THE ORACLE

This day we fashion Destiny, our web of Fate we spin. —Whittier.

Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute. —Milton.

Do you believe in the scientific determination of destiny?

The Examiner has secured the services of a local expert in the science of drawing from a few basic facts a great amount of information that will be helpful and interesting to you. This gentleman, who for obvious reasons desires to remain anonymous under the pen-name "The Oracle", has made a deep study of the science. It is a fascinating study, founded on facts that no one can dispute. It is one of the oldest of the sciences, revived through much reading and application to ancient tables and writings.

And the knowledge of the ages is offered to Examiner readers free of all cost.

is fill in the attached form and mail it to "The Oracle", The Examiner Office, 419 George street, Peterborough. Initials only will be used in The Examiner. If you desire a personal reply, enclose a stamped envelope.

Please note that full information can be based only on the complete particulars. Here is what is offered:

(day) .....(month) .....(year) .....

E. V.—You are of a happy disposition and enjoy bringing pleasure to others. You have a good degree of the discriminative element; are witty, and as a rule jovial in company, though not given to the froth of life. You have large creative powers, but are inclined to be self-centred and with limited vision in this regard. You reason according to the laws of logic, but can with safety trust your intuition in first impressions. You have good home-making talent, but would be helped and would find your work easier by system. You have a good share of enthusiasm and appreciation for the sublime and magnificent in nature, but are not enraptured with the wild and terrific. You are sympathetic and kindly disposed, but must guard against jealousy in those with whom you come in contact in Church or charitable work. Overlook petty grievances; don't dwell on them. Your color is flame. You were born on a Tuesday.

E. D.—You have had your share of the ups and downs of the world, and have taken them all with a sensible outlook on life. You have spent yourself in bringing joy to others, and have found it a good thing. Your traits are wholly feminine—love of home, love of children, love of art. You are a lover of peace and have taken trouble on yourself to keep others happy and contented. Deep charm and affection mark your character, but you have never bothered much about efficiency or shown much initiative. You have sought "those better things" in life, spurning material success for higher objectives. You are inclined to look on the bright side of things, anticipating good things to come, and thus ignoring present unpleasantness. Take care of your health, which has been weakened in service for others, and take life as easy as you can. Avoid worry if you can. Having done the best you can for those for whom you care, rest. The issue is not with you. Your colors are gold and white. You were born on a Wednesday. The day of which you enquire is a last chance to make good deficiencies before another leaf is turned. Neglect no opportunity; be cheerful.

H. B.—Sorrow over some great loss has daunted your spirit, usually buoyant and hopeful. Remember that mourning will not help; shake yourself loose from dark thoughts and forebodings. Life is sweet, and death does not complete the cycle. You have a high mentality, well adapted for business pursuits and promising financial success. You have more ideas than experience to carry them out. Do not be led astray into every new alley you see opening before you. Concentrate on one thing and do it well. Your color is grey. You were born on a Monday.

J. J. D.—You are winning, persuasive, and pleasing in manner, and can say and do things in such a way as to interest even an opponent. You have capabilities that suggest the salesman, and should make good in this pursuit. You are a practical observer of men, and have a good general knowledge of them that enables you to sum up their characteristics almost subconsciously. This is a valuable thing if well developed and consciously used with definite ends. You are logical and advanced in your thoughts, but inclined to be domineering. Most of all, perhaps, you require to lose sight of yourself and cultivate a real, honest, sympathy with the other fellow. Enlarge your vision by careful reading, study and discussion; but do not argue for the sake of arguing. The day of which you enquire is one for thought. Either the day before or the day after would be good for new business enterprises. Your color is rose. You were born on a Wednesday.

Mac.—Your cognitive faculties are well developed; you have good observing power; a retentive memory, and a good perception of time. You are inclined to be unsettled and but for certain ties would probably be a rover. You serve those whom you love faithfully, but your sympathy for the great outside world is not highly developed. You have social and personal attraction; are an interesting conversationalist on subjects which interest you personally; but your charm lacks depth. Your reasoning powers are not so well cultivated as are your retentive faculties, and you should study logic and read lectures for analysis. The day of which you enquire is past. Your color is pink. You were born on a Sunday.

Easterner.—You are exceedingly fond of approbation and praise; love the good opinion of others; and are too ambitious and sensitive. You incline to the aristocratic and love ceremony. You have joy characteristics well developed, and manage to appear happy even when you are inwardly dispirited and cast down. You have personal poise; are conservative; do not take well to new enterprises; and have a deep religious core. You are governed by a high code of moral principle. Pay attention to the work at hand, avoid day-dreaming, and realize that hard work is the only handle to pleasure and leisure. Form real friendships apart from fashionable dress and etiquette. Cultivate wider sympathies. The day of which you enquire would be a good one for a journey or for a social change, but not one for forcing a course in doubtful waters. Your color is brick. You were born on a Wednesday.

S. P.—Life will not deal sweetly with you so long as you maintain your sour outlook. The world is very much like a looking glass—you see your own attitude reflected there. If you are dour and miserable looking—you are avoided and only equally soured people tolerate your company. And really, it's not such a bad life after all. We all have our troubles. Your mentality should enable you to rise above petty annoyances and see the sunshine. Start out by making someone else happy. Watch the reflection in your own nature. You are adapted for physical work requiring the guidance of a quick brain. You were born on a Saturday. Your color is green.

Snobby.—Yours is not a highly individual nature, and you should seek association with others in most enterprises. You are not intended for high executive position, but might do better in business for yourself than when working for an employer. You have a satisfactorily good opinion of yourself; are inclined to give yourself the benefit of the doubt in most issues. You are liberal in your views. You have an excellent memory for localities and places, but should develop your other retentive faculties. Cultivate punctuality. You are agreeable in company, without going out of your way to please people, and get on well, especially with men. Remember not to leap into new enterprises "on your own"—get competent advice and look the issue over from all angles. Don't practice self-delusion. The day of which you enquire is suitable for conservative investment or even mild specualition. Don't let yourself be enticed or forced into any sudden move. Your color is purple. You were born on a Wednesday.

Waif.—You forgot to send your birth date.

Betsy.—You are by nature very generous and sympathetic, generally ready to relieve the needs and sufferings of others, and are inclined to make personal sacrifices to render others happy. You love good music, and would, with practice, give a very creditable performance. You are pleasing and genial in your manner, and are generally liked for yourself. You have an excellent perception of first principles, and an intuitive knowledge of men and women. Divert your mind from abstract thoughts to the real and practical; do not neglect your own interests; take up something that will utilize your mental power and develop it. Let things take their course on the day you name; it is a good day on which to travel. Your color is flame. You were born on a Tuesday.

J. B. T.—You are almost destitute of discriminative power, are very slow to perceive false analogies, and are lacking in a sense of humor. You are weak in perception, and your memory is poor. Your nature is shallow; presumably through neglect of mental development, and though you can pass in company it is by the sheerest of bluffs. You are honest with everyone but yourself. You owe yourself the right to the use of every mental faculty you possess, but you are withholding it. You have, at the average computation, forty years of life remaining to you. If you do not desire to fritter it away in useless philandering, write a cheque for that reserve mental power, draw it out, and invest it. Get right down to business. Start your new life now. You were born on a Friday. Your color is blue.

WOMAN JUROR WEEPS IN VAIN

Voted to Convict Man, Then Made Plea For Mercy.

A DETROIT CASE.

DETROIT, Dec. 18.—John King is going to jail—but how long he will stay there may be another matter.

John King was sentenced to a five or ten-year period by Judge Christopher E. Stein. Before sentence was pronounced, Mrs. Dakotah Boyer, 2557 Pennsylvania Avenue, one of the jury that convicted him, pleaded with the judge for mercy.

She declared that she agreed, by action rather than by word, with the other eleven members of the jury for conviction only after she had been told that the prisoner, charged with unlawfully driving away an automobile, would get but from three to six months.

If this be true, lawyers say, it may be the basis for a new trial.

A Sleepless Night.

Mrs. Boyer wept Monday night and slept not at all, she says. She wept when she urged Judge Stein to be merciful. The sentence of the 23-year-old boy rests on her conscience.

"I am not a sentimental women," she said yesterday, "I am not sorry because John King is a human being and must go to jail. I'm sorry because I am not sure that he is guilty, that perhaps I by silence permitted a man to lose the best ten years of his life. I held out for three hours. The jury argued, begged, pleaded and one man even got on his knees to me. The jurors wanted to go home, they wanted to eat, they wanted to get out of their jury room prison.

"They seemed to do everything but consider that young fellow's possible innocence. When we first went in the vote was nine to three for conviction. The other two women voted guilty at once. They seemed almost anxious to convict.

POWERS ASKED JAPAN TO ACT

JAPAN UNEASY.

TOKIO, December 18. Canadian Press. — Upon the urgent request of the powers, made through the consular corps at Mukden, Japan has been forced to act in the Manchurian warfare. One section of the Japanese forces is taking complete control of Mukden, the capital of Manchuria. Another section is holding at bay a large body of Marshal Chang Tso Lin's troops which attempted to take the city of New Chwang, according to a Japanese Foreign Office statement last night.

Though the various consuls in Mukden deemed immediate protective measures necessary and Japan the logical nation to act, due to her Manchurian garrison, the foreign office seemed aprehensive lest her action set a wholesale conflagration in Manchuria. This depends upon how Russian as well as Chinese leaders make their next move.

U. S. IS INVITED TO CONFERENCE

COMMISSION MEETS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 (Canadian Press).—Any certain hope of the complete solution of the disarmament problem lies in its consideration "in its entirety and with the co-operation of all nations," the Council of the League of Nations declared in its invitation to the Washington Government to participate officially in a preparatory commission at Geneva to shape the plans for such a conference.

The document was made public by the State Department without comment.

It contained a brief summary of work the preparatory commission will be called upon to do, showing that every direct and related phase of land, sea and air armaments is to be studied, and for details of the "composition and working of this commission," referred the United States Government to other documents which have not as yet reached Washington.

ARSENAL GOING TO BIRMINGHAM FOR SATURDAY

Aston Villa and Sunderland Also Scheduled in First Division.

GALLACHER PLAYS.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 18 (Canadian Press Cable) — With Arsenal being considered favorites over Birmingham, whom they meet on the latter's grounds, in a scheduled game of the first division of the English League Saturday, it is extremely unlikely that the leaders can be ousted from the top of the division. Sunderland, the runners-up, will be at home to the strong Aston Villa eleven, who are following closely on their heels for second place honors. The former team in their last five starts, have won two and lost three, while the latter aggregation in five starts, have won two, drawn two and lost one. Should Arsenal win and Sunderland go down to defeat before the Villas, the first-named team's position will be firmer, as they will have a lead of four points over their nearest rival.

The Manchester City-Newcastle match will be marked by the appearance of Hugh Gallacher, the Scottish International forward recently purchased by the Newcastle management from Airdrienonians of the Scottish first division teams, for a figure said to be in the vicinity of $50,000. By the acquisition of Gallacher, the management have considerably strengthened their forward line, which has shown signs of weakness in the past month.

Other games scheduled are, Blackburn Rovers vs. Leicester City; Bury vs. West Ham United, Cardiff City vs. Burnley; Everton vs. Bolton Wanderers; Huddersfield vs. Notts County; Sheffield United vs. Liverpool; Tottenham Hotspurs vs. Leeds United and West Bromwich Albion vs Manchester United.

Second Division

The race for league honors in the second division of the English league, has tightened up considerably in the last three weeks, with one point separating the first seven teams in consecutive order. Chelsea leads the league with ten wins and six drawn games. The Wednesday, the runners-up, have won eleven matches and drawn three, while Middlesborough have won 12 matches.

Chelsea will be at home to the Portsmouth crew and may have some trouble to maintain their position at the head of the division as the latter team have been playing good football this month. Portsmouth in their last four starts, have won two and drawn two, while Chelsea have on one, lost one and drawn two games. The Wednesday eleven will visit Blackpool and are favored to vanquish the home team.

Middlesborough will meet the tail-end Clapton Orient team on their own grounds. The former eleven have been in a slump in the last three weeks, losing three games in a row. In spite of this they are expected to defeat the Clapton aggregation.

Other games scheduled are; Barnsley vs. Preston N.E.; Bradford City vs. Fulham; Darlington vs. Swansea; Derby County vs. Stockport County; Hull City vs. Wolverhampton Wanderers; Notts Forest vs. Oldham A.; Port Vale vs. South Shields; Southampton vs. Stoke City.

Scottish League

The feature game of the first division of the Scottish League will be that between Celtic and Airdrieonians, which will take place at the former's grounds. A win for Celtic will strengthen their position at the top of the division, which they wrested from St. Mirren last week on a better goal average. They will have a hard nut to crack to defeat Airdrieonians, as the latter have won five out of six games. St. Mirren, the displaced leader, will play Hamilton Academicals at their grounds and will have to win this game or face the possibility of being Airdrieonians and Hearts will advance them a step in the standing at the cost of St. Mirren.

QUEENS SENIORS PRACTICE HARD

MANY GOOD MEN.

KINGSTON, Dec. 18.—(Special)—Queen's senior intercollegiate hockey team is rounding into shape under Coach "Billy" Hughes. It is a number of years since the tri-color annexed the senior intercollegiate championship, but the tri-color supporters have great hopes of seeing their team come through with a win this year.

Queen's have some very fine material this year. In the workouts held so far, Boucher and Lindsay have given a neat exhibition, and combined for some very clever rushes. On the defence Carl Voss, of football fame, is turning in some pretty work. He is in fine condition, owing to his football training, and should be one of the stars on the line up this year. Benny Morris is in the nets and it looks like a big year for him.

Makes of 61 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

By CHESTER HORTON

A point for the golfer to rehearse now and then is that, while other things in this world do best right side up the golf swing must be so executed that it will be right side down. By this I mean that the entire hitting part of the forward swing is at the bottom of it, and this hitting effect should begin at a point two feet, say, back of the ball, and continue to the ball, then through it for at least a foot, perhaps more, depending on your individual build, resiliency of muscles, etc. The idea is, hit as far through the ball, having begun to hit in back of it, as you can without actually leaning out with the body. That is, keep the body in line; hit with hands, arms, shoulders and clubhead—especially with the clubhead.

YANKEES' TRAINING TRIP IS CURTAILED

High Salaried Stars Not Going to Hot Springs.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18 (Canadian Press).—The New York Yankees have decided not to send Babe Ruth and other high-priced stars on its roster to Hot Springs, Ark., next year to take what has been described as the "boiling out process" prior to regular spring training.

In former years the erstwhile home run king and several of his team-mates have preceded the regular squad in the baseball migration south to take the baths, indulge in light throwing and batting practice, and play golf. Failure of the plan to materially improve the condition of the players last year influenced the club to abandon the training schedule at Hot Springs.

The club has likewise curtailed its regular training season at St. Petersburg, Fla., almost a full week. Present arrangements call for the Yankees' players to reach camp about February 28.

DANCES TO PROVIDE BALL CLUB FUNDS

Belleville Team Looking Ahead For Pennant Year.

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 18.—A representative meeting was held in the Y. by the baseball club and much business was done. Ways and means to finance the team were thoroughly gone into and it was the unanimous decision of the committee that the public should not be asked for one cent. It was also further decided that the treasury at the end of the year should have some funds left to carry over the work of the off season.

This course of action being decided on, it was then discussed, how and by what means this money can be raised. It was the idea of the committee that something should be given for money received and a dance and other entertainment should be given in the winter season. This would make for more sociability and have everyone get better acquainted for the ball club has become a community club. A committee composed of Ken Colling, "Skit" Vanderxoort, Vernon Weir, Stan Hagerman and Claud Tice with powers to add to their number was formed, who will put on a dance some time in the latter part of January.

Two committees were formed to wait on certain citizens today and they will report back to a meeting at the Y. It is to be hoped that all routine matter will be cleaned up and the good ship of victory will sail along to a pennant when the autumn breezes blow next year.

It is the desire of the club to have a large business representation present and the merchants should turn out so that the team can feel that they have a certain amount of moral support.

NARROW ESCAPES ON SEYMOUR HILLS

Car and Steam Engine Both Failed When Part Way Up.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Dec. 18.—What might have been a very serious accident occurred on Friday evening last, when Miss Gertie Milne and her two brothers, Jim and Fred, were motoring home from League. As they were ascending a small hill about half way between the 9th and 10th Concession, the rear axle broke and hence the driver lost control of the vehicle and it at once started to travel backwards. Jim at once jumped, but was unable to check the motion of the car, which took to the side of the road and rolled over a 10-foot embankment with its two occupants, who emerged free from injury except for a bad shaking up and a nerve-racking experience. The car is a bad wreck but is being repaired.

Mr. William Fry of Burnbrae had a very narrow escape on Monday afternoon as he was returning home with his steam engine from Stanwood, where he has been running a stone crusher. As the steam engine was nearing the top of Chaplin's Hill, the gears gave way, and the huge engine started rolling down the hill with the tank fastened on behind it. Mr. George Whitton was handling the engine, and without losing any time, he turned it for an embankment, which it backed up part way, almost going over on its side. The tongue of the tank wagon was also broken.

Mr. Fry was following behind with a horse on a light wagon which would have been crushed into atoms if the engine had not been turned so quickly for the ditch.

GOOD HOCKEY CAN BE LOOKED FOR

Varsity Strong and Will Give the Petes Tough Argument.

The Varsity-Peterboro game Monday night at Brock Street Rink should be productive of some great hockey. There are two things you can always expect from a college team—that they will be at full strength and that they will give every ounce they have to win. The Varsity crew, in charge of Connie Smythe, will battle the Petes all the way, and the game should get the local season off to a flying start. The fixture will start at 8.30 o'clock sharp and both teams will have a full line-up in action. There is not a little rivalry between the two outfits and Louie Hudson and his teammates will exert every effort to beat the Petes.

WINNERS LASTED.

OTTAWA, December 18. Canadian Press. — Scoring their fourth shutout on the home ice, in league fixtures this season, Ottawa defeated Canadiens in a national Hockey League game here last night by 3 to 0.

The packed house which was on hand for the contest saw two trainweary teams play sixty minutes of sensational hockey, the features being crowded into the play in rapid succession for practically the entire playing time.

Ottawas won because they seemed able to stand the gruelling pace better than Canucks.

KAPLAN-HERMAN BOUT.

Seventh Time Featherweights Meet To-night.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18 (Canadian Press).—The seventh renewal of the Louis (Kid) Kaplan-Babe Herman ring feud involving the world's featheweight championship will be fought at the new Madison Square Garden tonight, with prospects that they will wage one of the closest of their many battles. It will be a 15-round affair to a decision for Kaplan's 126 pound crown.

Kaplan, the Meriden, Conn., "buzz-saw," and Herman, rugged product of the Pacific Coast, had met on six previous occasions, each having won a decision while four of the engagements have been draws. At their last meeting in Waterbury, Conn., last August, Kaplan saved his title by a draw verdict.

AUTO TOPS USED IN RUM-RUNNING

CONSPIRACY CHARGE.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 18 (United Press). — Two officials of the Selden Top Company of Detroit were at liberty under bond to-day, charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition law by an alleged construction of automobile tops, fitted with a concealed liquor compartment, said to have been used in a huge liquor ring between Michigan and Ohio. Both men—John A. Scott and William Goldberger—were released in $3,500 for examination December 29 on removal to Columbus, Ohio. They were arrested here yesterday by Fred. L. Hessler and Russell Post of Columbus and stood mute on arraignment before United States Commissioner J. Stanley Hurd.

For months officials have sought to break up the extensive transportation of alcohol from Detroit to Ohio, and recently discovered the shipments were being made in specially constructed automobiles. A secret electric button they had controlled locks which opened specious but cleverly concealed compartments, built into the bodies.

BUSINESS MEN TO HELP FRANCE

Have Submitted Plan to Government For Restoring Finances.

LEADERS IMPRESSED.

PARIS, Dec. 18 (Canadian Press) —A plan to solve France's financial problems evolved by a group of leading textile and engineering manufacturers of northern France has greatly impressed President Doumergue, Premier Briand and Finance Minister Doumer, to whom it has been explained. Although silence is being maintained for the present as to the details of the plan, the industrial leaders are understood to have made an offer similar to that of the German financiers and inndustrialists to the Reich Government when the ruhtenuark was issued, and without asking for any consideration in return.

SOVIET OFFICER VISITS ANGORA

Believed Visit is to Consolidate Russo-Turkish Friendship.

RETURNS CALL.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 18 (Canadian Press).—A despatch to The Daily Mail says that the Mosul award has caused anger and that its acceptance, even under protest, is considered unlikely. It is reported that a Russian official has left Moscow for Angora, ostensibly to return the visit of Sabri Bey, Turkish Minister of Agriculture, but it is believed to be to consolidate the Russo-Turkish relations.

A recent Angora despatch announced that Sabri Bey had gone to Moscow ostensibly to study Russian agriculture but really charged with a mission to negotiate for Russian support for Turkey in the event of a war over Mosul.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

SHANGHAI ARSENAL SEIZED BY SOLDIERS

Closed For a Year, It Has Always Been Great Prize.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 18 (United Press).—After having been closed for almost a year, by agreement of the Central Government at Peking with the Shanghai General Chamber of Commerce, the Shanghia Arsenal, always one of the principal objectives in the civil wars in this section of China, has reopened and is again manufacturing munitions for Sun Chuan-fang's Chekiang army.

Demand for the reopening of the arsenal was made by Sun Chuan-fang's troops almost immediately following their bloodless capture of Shanghai. The arsenal, they pointed out, was essential to them in their war with the Fengtien forces as it was their only possible source of munitions.

The executives of the Chamber of Commerce parried as long as they could, but eventually, after a show of force by the soldiery, were forced to hand over the keys and essential parts of the machinery which had been removed when the arsenal was placed in their custody.

AT THE CAPITOL

"THE LOST WORLD"

One of the oddest pictures ever shown in this city is at the Capitol Theatre for this week-end. "The Lost World" is one of those out of the ordinary, freaky, stupendous achievements of the silver sheet that has to be seen to be appreciated, and having seen it, you won't forget it for a long time.

Most people who read the papers or are interested in scientific discoveries have heard about dinosaurs and mastodons and pterodactyls, but they are only visionary names at best, names of creature that lived in ages when the world was young and could be dismissed without much trouble from the realm of modern ways and things. In "The Lost World" they come to life once more and form an impressive story in a forgotten land, with monstrous animals of another age walking about casually, prehistoric mammoths that could only be imagined in dreams, is a real achievement and decidedly worth seeing.

Professor Challenger is an English scientist who is hooted and jeered at by his fellow workers because of his failure to bring back any specimens from a lost land that he claims to have discovered in South America, a district where the brontosaurus and the allosaurus, creatures of a long-ago period in the world's history, still live and have their being. So he enlists a group of followers and starts out once more. In the back waters of the Amazon, in a land where tropical verdure abounds, where the tigers and the snakes and the monkeys of the jungle come out to jibber and snarl at the adventurers, the main position of the story is staged, in a queer atmosphere never before encountered on the screen. Here is the brontosaurus, one hundred and ten feet long, with its elephantine body, its powerful tail and its snakelike head, towering above all the other grotesque animals of the district, the allosaurus, a meat-eating creature whose fight with a huge, many-horned rhinoceros cow is one of the most weird bits of a weird picture, and the man-ape, the dweller in dark caves, pursuing the dauntless explorers with vicious intent. Here also is the pterodactyl, fialf animal and half bird, a thing the like of which moderns can congratulate themselves on escaping. They live and move and have their beings in this strang land of "The Lost World."

There is an atmosphere of dramatic realism about the pictures filmed in "The Lost World" country, but the spectacle of the brontosaurus loose on London streets, while impressive and terrifying, it just a bit artificial. It creates a great deal of havoc before it finally falls into the Thames, and carries out to an eventful end a picture that is packed full of peculiar, weird interest and a strong degree of education interest to students of things as they used to be. The moving pictures of these strange things of another, forgotten age, make "The Lost World" a memorable production, the like of which is seldom seen.—Jeannette.

JACKIE COOGAN IN DELIGHTFUL COMEDY OF EAST SIDE LIFE.

Jackie Coogan came to the Regent Theatre yesterday and brought with him one of the outstanding comedies of this or any other season. The title f this latest Coogan attraction is 'Old Clothes' and it's as sweet and wholesome and clean as Monday morning's wash out on the line. It radiates happiness and laughter, more than that cannot be said of any motion picture.

From the opening scene where Timmy Kelly and Max Ginsberg, dealers in de luxe junk, recall the days of their wealth, and right on through the six reels of the picture, the audience is in an uproar. The gentlemen who guide the destinies of Master Coogan's career have injected exactly the right amount of sentiment and pathos into the film and the Lilliputian star walks away with the honors in these episodes of the film.

Eddie Cline has invested the picture with his rare and discriminating genius for fun situations. As a general rule, comedy directors are prone to inject a bit of slapstick into their films, but never once does Mr. Cline allow to diverge from legitimate comedy situations. Willard Mack is credited with the authorship of "Old Clothes." It would be unfair to close without special mention for the supporting cast in "Old Clothes." Such notable names as Max Davidson, Lillian Elliott, Joan Crawford, James Mason and Alan Forrest are indicated on the announcement of the players, and every one gives an adequate performance, including Frank Good, the cameraman, who has obtained some excellent lighting effects.

It is reported that Jack Coogan, Sr., gave Eddie Cline orders to make "Old Clothes" Jackie's funniest picture. From what we saw on the screen at the Regent Theatre yetserday, Cline has followed instructions implicitly.

IN POLICE COURT

A local man pleaded guilty to a charge of being intoxicated on George street. In the witness stand he professed that all he had was wine and beer. He attributed his uncertain movements on the street to an injured knee, caused by a fall from a ladder. He didn't recognize the small bottle shown him as a container of alcohol, but said that he did carry such bottles to work filled with tea. He also had some containing distilled water for his automobile batteries. Tested by Chief Newhall some of the contents burned with a light blue flame, a property which tea or distilled water does not have.

Twenty-five dollars and costs was the tax imposed by Magistrate O. A. Langley.

PART-TIME PARENTS

Menace of Leaving Religious Instruction to Others is Pointed Out.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 16.—(By Canadian Press).—The report of the Big Brother Movement for November dealt with the menace of "part-time parents," those who leave all the religious instruction of their children to Sunday School teachers and pastors. Fully fifty per cent. of the problem cases showed one or more of the parents out of the home or "off the job," it was pointed out.

FACTS ABOUT OPTOMETRY

WHEN YOU CAN'T SEE PRINT DISTINCTLY

There is no use in the world trying to correct matters by turning the paper this way or that or squinting or frowning at it. You might better by far face the fact squarely and admit that you can't see as well as you once could. Then when you have done that come to us for an examination, and wear the correction which we find necessary. Likely we could make you see to read as well as you ever could.

PRIZEWINNERS IN COMPETITION ON PETERBORO

Judge Announces Some of Successful Essay Writers.

FROM TOWNSHIPS

The essay-writing competition put on during November by the Chamber of Comerurce to promote interest in the city of Peterborough, its factories and stores, was well received by the pupils of the city and adioining counties.

The subject: "Why Peterborough is Eastern Ontario's most important industrial and Shopping Centre," was carefully chosen with a view of not advertising other cities by direct comparison. On the whole the pupils covered the subject exceptionally well, aided by a bulletin supplied by the Chamber, giving information, instructions and some pointers. Each school received a copy so that the youthful and enterprising essay't had equal chances of winning with no unfair competition as the marking was governed by the bulletin.

The rules provided for township competitions in which three prizes were allotted: a gold watch, first; five dollars, second; and two dollars, third. The City of Peterborough was treated similarly. A special grand prize of twenty-five dollars for the best essay of all, with a supplementary special prize of twenty-five dollars for the teacher whose pupil won the grand prize were also provided for.

Huge piles of essays have been sorted and judged since the date set for the closing of the competition, December 5th. In reading the essays the judge was impressed by the familiarity with which pupils from outlying points wrote on the subject, Peterborough. Apparently they had made special trips to the city to freshen their memory, or were in the habit of spending considerable time within the city. The prize winners in the townships are listed below:

Cavan Township—
Gladys Williamson, S. S. No. 8, 59 points, second.
Ruth Staples, S. S. No. 7, 58 points, third.

Douro Township—
Kathleen Fitzgerald, 65 points, third.

Emily Township—
Rose O'Leary, S. S. No. 4, 75 points, first prize.
Florence Costello, S. S. No. 4, 69 points, third.

Hope Township—
Irene Lavinia Beatty, S. S. 13, 70 points, first prize.
Marjorie Hoskins, S. S. No. 12, 90 points, second.
Inda Nelson, S.S. 12, 65 points, third.

Otonabee Township—
Marjorie Anne Cavanagh, S. S. 1, A., first prize.
Kathleen Nelson, S. S. 1, B., second.
Arthur Francis Elmhirst, S. S. 1, B., third.

Percy Township—
Helen Smith, 66 points, first prize.
Dora E. Wilson, S. S. 7, 65 points, second.
Alice Frances Allen, S.S. 5, 64 points, third.

Seymour Township—
Adeline Bibby, S. S. 12, 78 points, first prize.
Bruce Haig, 75 points, second.
Agnes Moore, 68 points, third.

The judge, Mr. John Jeffries, of the Jarvis Collegiate, Toronto, has not announced the prize winners in the city or the winners of the special awards. These will appear in a later issue. Presentation of prizes for those already announced has been arranged for three p.m., Tuesday, Dec. 22nd, 1925, in the council room of the Chamber of Commerce (over the Dominion Bank.) His Worship Mayor J. J. Turner has kindly consented to preside and distribute the prizes.

Alberta Farmers Plowing In Early Winter's Warmth

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Dec. 19.—(Canadian Press).—With the mercury around sixty and a bright sun, Southern Alberta farmers who were held up for sixty days during the threshing season, have finished this year's work and started on next year's. Plowing is going on in every part of the south from the foothills to the Saskatchewan border, and the soil is in fine condition. One farmer in the irrigated areas plowed ninety acres last week, and, incidentally, a little harvesting has been done this month. Some late crops which were caught in the September snowstorms have been cut and threshed in December.

Cattle and sheep are out on the ranges and are doing exceedingly well.

TURKISH PRESS HISSES HATRED OF GT. BRITAIN

DENOUNCE LEAGUE.

Convinced It Is Instrument of Britain—Will Not Submit.

MOSUL, Angora, Dec. 19. — (Canadian Press).—Criticism of the League of Nations for failing to find an acceptable solution of the Mosul dispute is shown by the Turkish press, without exception. The opinion vouched by the majority of the papers is that the "decision only confirms the conviction that the League is the instrument of Great Britain.

The Government organ, 'Hakimieti Milleye' (National Liberty), counsels the public to have confidence in the Government and awaits its action with dignity and calm.

"Turkey," it says, "is neither astonished nor dejected by this sentence, which proves a nation cannot exist merely on the pity of others, but must enforce its right by its own strength. The League's duty is to avoid a new disagreement; its decision has merely postponed the outcome of the Mosul question.

"All we can say at this stage is that Turkey's future action will be in keeping with the interests of the people of Turkey, who do not recoil before this verdict imposed by arbitrary force."

The newspaper 'Republic,' representing the opinion of the Extremists, recalls that Turkey provoked the fall of Lloyd George (as Premier of Great Britain) and may cause the downfall of Mr. Baldwin.

"The present decision on Mosul," this paper adds, "was not the work of the League, but English Imperialism. We detest everything which is English. Our hate is legitimate and justifiable."

Seek Russian Support.

MOSCOW, Dec. 19. (Canadian Press).—Denial was made Friday of the insinuation contained in a recent report from Angora that the mission to Moscow of Sabri Bey, Turkish Minister of Agriculture, was to negotiate for Russian support in case war developed over Mosul. The later report that M. Kameneff, chairman of the Moscow Soviet, had left Moscow for Angora ostensibly to return the visit of Sabri Bey, but in reality, it was believed, to consolidate Turkish-Russo relations, was also denied.

At the time the denials were made M. Kameneff was said to be "eating dinner in the Kremlin," while Sabri Bey was described as "studying agricultural conditions in Moscow."

When Sabri Bey left for Moscow, it was announced in an Angora despatch that his mission was "ostensibly to study Russian agriculture," but that he was charged with negotiating for Russia's support in event of war growing out of the Mosul dispute.

IS THERE A SANTA CLAUS?

"Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours, man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certain as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound, and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas, how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no child-like faith then, no poetry, no romance, to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

"Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies. You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Do you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that there are not fairies. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

"You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernatural beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

"No Santa Claus! Thank God he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia—nay, ten times ten thousand years from now—he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."

English Holly Shorn Of Berries By Hungry Birds

LONDON, December 19. — Canadian Press. — Birds in England are experiencing one of the hardest winters in years, and are responsible for the fact that holly is arriving on the Christmas market shorn of its berries. 'Owing to the severe weather the birds began to eat all available berries a month ago. Much of the mistletoe is also reaching the market without berries owing to vegetable diseases.

Dealers are trying to work out a plan for supplying artificial berries so that Christmas customers will not be disappointed.

ELECTION RUMORS

DOURO, Dec. 19.—Roads are very rough in most places.

There is a certain amount of election rumors floating around but nothing definite seems to be known as to the aspirants for municipal honors.

A local resident had his car taken from its parking place in the village one day recently. It was found a mile away in the ditch but not overturned and none the worse. Young fellows out for a joy-ride are suspected.

The statement of the Utilities Commissioners which appeared in last Saturday's edition of The Examiner is refreshing, because it shows that during the years 1919, 1920 and 1921 when the Campbell Flour Mills received over $16,000.00 of power, that was not paid for, the Commissioners were not dead, but were simply walking in their sleep.

Judging from the number of tests that were made of the meter, it is quite evident, there was a well-grounded suspicion in the minds of these "live wire" Commissioners, there was something wrong with the meter and that the revenue received from the company from the sale of power had materially dropped. The motor power capacity of the mill was 390 horse-power, but the company was then only using 160 horse-power. Prior to that they were paying for 315 horse-power and ever since then, they have been paying for more.

If any one of these Commissioners had a set of scales that turned out false weights, either for or against themselves, I have not the slighest doubt, short shift would be made of the set of scales, but because it happens to be a meter for measuring electric power, they stand by and let the taxpayers of Peterborough suffer to the extent of $20,000.00 in this one account alone.

Their statement says "During the period from 1919 to 1922 this mill "was being operated at only partial capacity This information was given "to the Commission's representatives by the mill management in the "ordinary routine of checking this installation, and there is no reason to "doubt the accuracy of their statements." Now, we have the seat of the trouble. The Commissioners were blind during the three years in question or they would have seen that the Campbell mill was in fact operated to its full capacity and was using three times as much power as was being paid for I have in my possession copies of sworn testimony which shows that this mill was operated to its full canacity, during these three years, and I beg leave to assure Mr. Robert Hicks that, this is not an "ignorant mis-statement," as he charges, but is the plain and simple truth, that he is too blind to see and too deaf to hear.

But why should the taxpayers waste time with this Commissioner when they have now the opportunity to make a change It is unfortunate that a complete change can not be made, for all of them are equally at fault.

Their faults are neither few nor small. They are elected by the people, but for some unaccountable reason, they seem to serve the Hydro Commission. Every evidence points to the fact that they are stool pigeons of the Hydro Commission, and are litle donkey engines to do its bidding.

This city is poorly lighted. Its miles of streets are worse lighted than a police village It burns its tallow candles during the day at a cost to this city of $2,000.00 per year, and during the night the poor denizen of this city gropes his way homeward in the dark through the streets of "the Electric City" that has become a by-word and a joke.

Peterborough used to boast of its water powers and used that argument to attract industries To-day our water powers are a centrifugal force to drive industries away Yes! Down to the Lake front.

We have 5,000, yes 6,000 horse-power going to waste north of this city This power should be developed by this city and it would make a profit on it of over $50,000.00 per year. Let anyone submit that to the Utilities Commission, and immediately you will find three pairs of lofty eyebrows lifted up against you immediately followed by the condescending smile of the Hydro-Electric autocrats, and that too, by the very men the electors of this city are asked to vote for as Peterborough Utility Commissioners.

I have not discussed the situation with Mr. Gordon Matthews, who has announced his candidature as a Commissioner. He would be a mighty poor tool, if he is not better than anything we have. His record so far in business life has shown that he is equipped with brains which will honor his father.

Dated, 19th Dec., 1925. R. R. HALL.

HELIUM SUPPLY IN ONTARIO GAS EXPERTS CLAIM

ESTABLISH PLANT.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 19 (Canadian Press)—"There is every reason to believe that the gas at Inglewood, Ontario, contains a percentage of helium which compares favorably with that treated in the large United States helium recovery plant at Fort Worth, Texas." This statement is contained in the report of a meeting of the associate committee on helium of the National Research Council, held here Friday.

"The immediate purpose of the meeting of the associate committee on helium which has just been held, was to review the present situation and to formulate plans for the establishment, in a natural gas research station, of the helium recovery plant formerly operated at Calgary, Alberta, and for the operation of such a plant" according to a statement handed out last evening. "Definite progress was made in this direction, and if the plans of the committee meet with the approval of the various interested co-operating bodies the early establishment and operation of the plant will be assured."

Large Supply in U.S.

According to the report, Canada contains the only important supplies of helium, yet discovered in the British Empire. "At present, it states, "the United States has the only large known supply of helium, but it is not disposed to part with any of it and is spending a large amount of money annually on helium research, the results which are being kept secret."

Professor J. C. McLennan, head of the department of Physics and Director of the Physics laboratories at the University of Toronto and chairman of the Helium Committee, presided at Friday's meeting. The committee is composed, in addition to repreesntatives of the National Research Council of representatives of the Federal Department of Mines and National Defence, the Ontario Department of Mines and of the Universities. Last spring, after carefully reviewing the whole situation, the committee made certain recommendations to the National Research Council. Consideration of these led the council to take steps which prompted the Ontario government "to secure, for the crown, control of the helium right in the natural gas area near Inglewood," according to the statement.

BIG MINE DEAL IN MANITOBA

Twenty-Four Million Dollars Involved in Development at Flin Flon.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 19 (Canadian Press).—The Manitoba Free Press states:

"Twenty-four million dollars is involved in the purchase and subse-quent development of the Flin Flon copper mine in Northern Manitoba.

"The purchase price of the pro-erty is $4,500,000, of which the Mining Corporation of Canada gets $3,000,000 and a 10 per cent. inter-est. H. P. Whitney and associates of New York are the purchasers."

The Flin Flon mine is located 118 miles from The Pas, Manitoba, to the northwest of the boundary line of Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and, according to The Free Press, the taking over of the mine will involve the construction of a railway at an estimated cost of more than $2,-000,000 and the construction of a town. Recent plans for development suggest smelter machinery which would handle 4,000 tons of ore per day. This, it is said, means a town of about 10,000 people.

The Flin Flon was discovered in 1915, and some hundreds of thou-sands of dollars had been spent in the development, resulting in the dis-covery of high-grade copper. There is said to be an ore body of 16,000,-000 tons.

The spherometer, an instrument for detecting errors in the curvature of lenses for eyeglasses, is able to register variations as small as one-hundred-thousandth part of an inch.

STUDY CANADA DURING WINTER

It is Large Subject That Will Prove Very Interesting.

PHYSICAL SIDE

We are just about to enter upon Canada's real winter, when steady cold weather may be expected, says the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the In-terior. What results, in the form of impro ement or advancement, the winter will bring will depend largely upon the individuals—particularly those who have reached manhood or woman-hood. Will we simply waste the time, or will we be better in-formed when the spring comes than we are at present?

Why not study Canada. True, it is a large subject, but it is an inter-esting one, and one that will well repay the time given to it. There is plenty of material available in the several departments of the provin-cial and federal governments that may be obtained either free or at a merely nominal charge.

Take, for instance, the geography of Canada. The political geography is fairly well known—the boundaries of the several provinces, the location of capital cities, the subdivision of counties in the eastern provinces and the system of survey and electoral districts of the western provinces—these have been brought home to us either in attending school or in later life.

But if we were to be asked as to the physical geography of Canada, we would probably not be nearly so well informed. Where do our great rivers take their rise and what is the area of their watersheds What is the cause of the wide spaces that are practically unsettled, Where are the main areas of agricultural land in Canada, and why are the other por-tions not suitable for farming What are the later more adaptable for? These are but a few of the questions every Canadian interested in his country should be able to answer.

In many places study clubs have been organized, where subjects per-taining to Canada are studied and discussed. These have been of value in many ways. They have incul-cated a spirit of pride in our country, they have enabled the members to answer the innumerable questions of the new settler or the tourist, and they have created a desire among those attending the meetings for further information, with the result that courses of reading have been adopted and followed.

During the coming winter let us study Canada. It will repay us, and will make us prouder of our country.

RADIO CUTTING SALE OF MUSIC

LONDONER ELABORATE

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 19.—(Canadian Press).—For some time past it has been asserted that radio is sounding the doom of the piano, the gramaphone, and the home mus-ician. As for the latter the up-growing feminine portions of the middle-class population are believed to realize increasingly that, even with the best will in the world, their chances of becoming piano-forte executants of little more than indifferent merit are remote. Out-door games, the motorcycle with the side-car, and a dozen other di-versions yield more pleasure to the rising generation than can be af-forded by strumming on the draw-ing-room piano.

Publishers, especially of dance music, have admittedly been seri-ously hit by radio. The British Broadcasting Company pays a roy-alty of four shillings per dance tune on every one broadcasted. It may seem a heavy figure, declares Lawrence Wright, the well-known music publisher, but already the sale of sheet music is threatened by ten million listeners-in. Accord-ing to the same authority, London is the least musical area in Great Britain, and Lancashire the most musical. To some extent this is due to the difference in the social habits of the two districts, for the hearty, homely people of the North continue to hold parties and mus-ical evenings, whereas the London-er mostly finds his entertainment in more elaborate ways.

FIRE CHIEF WARNS ABOUT FIRE DANGER

The following is issued by Chief Gimblett:

Light, inflamable decorations make fires easy to start and easy to spread. A gas flame or an electrical defect may do it.

Watch gas jets; decorations may be carried against them by air currents.

Do not use cotton in store windows to represent snow, as it is very in-flamable and will readily take fire through coming in contact with elec-tric bulbs or from any electric spark. Use asbestos wool which will look just as nice but will not burn.

Do not make any change in elec-trical wiring without consulting the Electrical Inspector.

Have all electrical decorations in-spected by the electrical inspector before turning on the current.

Do not allow people to stand in or obstruct the aisles in churches or any place of amusement.

Do no allow chairs or tables to be placed where they will obstruct the doors or aisles.

Keep a sufficient number of ushers to open the doors and to assist the people in getting out of the building, and if possible to avoid panic in case of fire.

Read your insurance policies be-fore attempting any hasty or ill-ad-vised decorations which may cause fire. Examine your insurance con-tracts and see if the policies contain anything like this:

"This entire policy, unless other-wise provided by agreement indorsed hereon or added hereto, shall be void etc., etc."

"If the hazard be increased by any means within the control or know-ledge of the insured."

If you burn, you want your in-demnity; do nothing therefore to im-pair your contract.

What to do in Case of Fire.

Locate the fire alarm box or tele-phone nearest to your home so that you can use them in case of fire.

Always pull the nearest box to the fire.

Stay near the box when pulled for fire, to direct the firemen.

When using the telephone call 100 and tell the operator it is a fire.

Always keep your telephone di-rectory in a convenient place for quick service should you want to call the Fire Department.

Keep cool and speak slowly and distinctly when calling the Fire De-partment.

Give exact location of the fire; don't say "my house is on fire, come quick."

Always remain at the telephone until you are sure that the operator at the Central Fire Station has got the correct address.

When leaving the telephone after giving an alarm, be sure and hang the receiver on the hook.

Own a fire extinguisher, if pos-sible, and learn how to use it in case of fire.

It is wise to have two six quart pails always handy.

Always look for the nearest exit to where you are sitting when in theatres, halls and public buildings. In case of fire walk, not run, to that Exit. Do not try to beat your neighbor to the street.

Keep on the sidewalk when the fire apparatus is responding to a fire alarm.

Realize that the Fire Department is ready at all times to respond to a fire within twenty seconds after the alarm is sent in. That delay in sending in an alarm is responsible for nearly every large fire that oc-curs. That with deep snow on the ground and a two mile run uphill, the Department must be notified quickly to be of any service. The most efficient service is rendered if the Department arrives within two minutes after the fire breaks out. That seconds lost at the beginning of a fire means minutes, and some-times hours, at the ending.

If all the exits to stairways and fire escapes are cut off, close the door of your room, also the tran-som, plug the keyhole and place a rug at the bottom of the door to keep out as much smoke as possible, then tie a wet towel or cloth over your month and breathe through it. Get near a window, open it and stay by it until the firemen are able to take you down on their ladders. Never jump until the fire is burn-ing you.

Ask any fireman for instructions; he will give them.

Give the firemen credit when they deserve it.

If any dances or parties are to take place the chief should be in-formed and he will send a man to inspect the decorations in order to eliminate fire hazards.

THEIR FLORIDA HOME IS A TENT

Fifty Families To One Cold Shower Bath Near Miami.

CAN'T AFFORD HOUSE.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 19.—"The Tent City," which has sprung up like the proverbial mushroom all over Florida, Land of Promise, tells as does no other thing, "what happens to those who come to Florida."

Here, in these cluttered, shiftless little communities, mothers, shrilly shrieking to babies to get out of the sapsud puddles made in the ever-present sawdust, tell of the gleam of romantic adventure that they followed, and they invariably finish—

The big underlying motive in the Florida boom is crystallized in these tent cities, where a plot of 22 feet by 30 feet may be leased from the Tent City landlord for $6 a week.

And that motive is the great American restlessness set "on the go." As one real estate man put it:

"Folks got tired of the incessant drive for the dollar. The common man got the idea that life was all a matter of up at 5 o'clock, grabbing a dinner pail, off to the job, home after dark, too tired to play, the children asleep, no chance to get acquainted with his family, no light to dig a garden—

Why They Drift.

"He grew surly. He noticed that the rich man had daylight to play in. He heard of his fishing, his swimming, his migration to a winter playground where skies were blue and air was mild—

"He wanted some of it, too. By George, he would have some of it, too!"

And that's the why of the Florida boom, and no one can dispute it!

Mrs. A. E. McCullough once lived in Canton, Ill. Her husband was a carpenter. Life grew dull. Nothing but work and lots of it and little to save!

She talked about it in her tent home in Lemon City, four or five miles out of Miami, while three or four youngsters played in the sawdust puddles.

"It was just like a boil — this Florida business," said Mrs. McCullough, once of Illinois. "It's something you just have to get out of your system!

"He had his trade and he had his tool kit and we figured he could make a living anyway, and it would be a change. We'd see something different and do something different—the sort of thing that folks don't usually do."

And there you have it—"the sort of thing that folks don't usually do."

And one can not help liking this thing behind the Florida boom that is found alike in Tent Cities and in apartment hotels renting for $500 a month per suite—the American habit of scorning all safe and sane precautions.

True, once they've out loose, really left their Canton, Ill., behind them, they're not so sure!

"It's a shiftless way to live," said Mrs. McCullough, making two of the kids wash together in the basin before the tent door and apologizing. "It's so far to carry water for all of them!"

Children "Run Loose."

"We thought we could live as good or better down here and still have the fun of the trip," she said. "He does make big money here, but we can't afford a house on even $1.80 an hour!

"Living this way we'll come out ahead. But when you have children you can't sacrifice everything just to come out ahead! You got to teach them some of the niceties of living—not just let them run loose as they do here."

Most of these myriad tent cities are run by women. It's a simple matter to become such a proprietress. Merely a matter of renting the land so far out from town where rents aren't so high, and then to get a license from the health department.

When the landlady begins, she has nothing but bare, treeless land and one bath house each for men and women; perhaps a wash tub centre of the lot.

As the new immigrants come in, they put up their own tent, or some, agog, over high salaries and sure that they will stay, build little wooden shacks.

Perhaps a barber invades the tent city and puts up his peppermint candy pole before his door. A groceryman pays for the privilege of building his shack upon the sawdust lot, and so the project grows!

They're "Going Back."

Most of the shack-builders leave sooner than they had planned. The landlady rents their shacks for $60 a month.

"Just try to get anything else for that!" one shack-dweller challenged me when I gasped at the rental!

Sometimes a big tourist's car rolls into the tent city, paying its $6 a week for parking privileges. And they live in the car!

Tent City living may be cheap. Twenty-five dollars a month rent if you bring your own tent, live in your car, or put up your own shacks. Groceries cost no more than anywhere.

"But we're going back. We want to live right," said most of the Lemon City tent dwellers.

It means 50 families to one cold shower bath, one or two wash tubs for 50 families, blazing sun beating down on a sawdust littered piece of earth, sodden with thrown-out wash water. It means $6 a month for each child in school.

It may be a great universal experiment in community living—

"But we're going home!"

QUEBEC TO APPEAL TO PRIVY COUNCIL

Objects To Ontario Railway Entering Rouyn.

QUEBEC, Dec. 19 (Canadian Press).—"We are appealing to the Privy Council," Premier Taschereau said Friday, confirming the anticipated action of the Quebec Government in conection with the recent decision of the Supreme Court of Canada that the Nipissing Central Railway, owned by the Ontario Government, could cross Quebec Crown lands to enter the Rouyn gold fields in this province.

"The preliminary proceedings have been already made and whether Quebec was right in preventing the Ontario railway from constructing there will have to be finally adjudged by the Privy Council," he said.

The Canadian National Railway subsidiary, the Rouyn Mines Railway, will be ready for operation in August, it is said.

GEORGE ALLEN.

LINDSAY, Dec. 19.—The death occurred here Friday of George Allen, father of Walter Allen, of Peterborough, and Edward Allen, of Harvey township. The deceased, who was born in Twekesbury, Gloucestershire, England, ninety-two years ago, lived under four sovereigns. In the early eighties he assisted as a railway carpenter in building the bridges, etc., in connection with the construction of what was known as the "Missing Link" between Peterboro and Lindsay on the Midland railway. Afterwards he took up farming in Harvey township, and in 1919 took up residence in Lindsay.

NO PLACE FOR A LADY.

At a small, country station a freight train pulled in and sidetracked for the passenger train. The passenger arrived and pulled out; then the freight started to do its switching. A placid, well-dressed woman had alighted from the passenger train and was passing close to one of the freight brakemen when he yelled to his buddy:

"Jump on her when she comes by, Bill, run her down by the elevator, cut her in two and bring the head end up by the depot!"

SATURDAY, DEC. 19, 1925.

CHRISTMAS FEATURES.

For some years the Examiner has abandoned the old-time Christmas number, a special edition full of boiler-plate and syndicated articles and pictures, sometimes not of any great local interest and often substituting quantity for quality.

Some newspapers still cling to this hardy annual, but the Examiner, while willing to admit there were commendable features about the old Chrismas number, believes that the readers of today prefer a greater dash of local colour.

Today, therefore, we present not a special Christmas number but the regular Saturday edition of the Examiner, with a Christmas stuffing of Yuletide stories and articles written and prepared by members of the staff.

There is a number of special pages of this nature that the Examiner feels confident its readers will accept as an agreeable substitute for the former Christmas edition.

It has been a labour of love for the Examiner's staff to write these articles, and if the readers get as much enjoyment out of reading them as the writers did in their preparation, there is no doubt that the new style of Christmas number will meet with approval on all sides.

PETERBORO'S IN.

Ottawa, London and Brantford have been having an argument as to which city has the worst City Hall, and along comes St. Catharines with a claim that its civic building will win in a canter.

The Examiner does not like to be too boastful, and therefore will confine itself to suggesting that the competition be not brought to a close until Peterboro's City Hall has been inspected.

There is no use in declaring a prize-winner until all the entries are in, and the building at the corner of Water and Simcoe streets possesses points that would make it a favourite in any competition for the worst City Hall in the Province.

Architecturally, it has about the same graceful lines as a garage, and considered from the viewpoint of accommodation, convenience for its occupants and accessability to the public, it cannot be challenged by Ottawa, London, Brantford or St. Catharines.

City officials are tucked here, there and everywhere, and the offices dove-tail into each other until a stranger is liable to step out of the City Clerk's office into a police cell, or start out to find the Relief Officer and run foul of the Provincial Bacteriologist.

It is impossible to think that any city in Ontario offers anything worse in the line of city buildings.

WORTHY CAUSES.

Although there is no general Christmas cheer fund in Peterboro, citizens who feel that they want to help to make the Yuletide festival a happy one for those with whom fate has dealt unkindly will have no difficulty in finding an outlet for their generosity.

Several organizations are in need of assistance; organizations that have done good work on many other occasions and can be counted upon to use every cent of your donation to the best possible advantage.

The King's Daughters, for example, can use donations this Christmas in lieu of the revenue from their annual ball, which has been abandoned; it is not necessary to stress the community service that has been contributed by this coterie of faithful workers.

The Salvation Army, always in touch with families where the wolf is a more frequent visitor at the door than is the butcher or the baker, would be glad to hear from citizens who are in a position to help the Christmas work of the organization.

At the Children's Shelter there is a number of youngsters reclaimed by the Children's Aid Society from poverty-stricken homes who are counting upon a visit from Santa Claus, and the Society is appealing to the people of Peterboro to see that the little ones are not disappointed. Gifts of candies, toys, books, skates, hockey sticks, etc., will be thankfully received.

And if none of these causes appeal to you, City Relief Officer Miller can—as the Examiner suggested the other day—put you in touch with homes where help is needed.

EARLIER NOMINATIONS.

That the municipal nominations should be held a clear month before the election in order to allow time to size up the field and to thoroughly discuss the issues, was the novel suggestion made by a George street business man to the Examiner yesterday.

His contention that under present conditions nothing but a snap verdict can be given, is in line with what the Examiner has said about the difficulty of getting candidates to announce their intentions until nomination day.

The situation is, briefly, this, that ninety per cent. of the aspirants for office refuse to disclose their hands until the last possible moment, which means 9 o'clock on the night following the nomination proceedings.

Wednesday is nomination day, and the composition of the field will not be known until after 9 o'clock Christmas Eve, and to the bulk of the electors until they read Saturday's paper.

Only a few days are left to weigh up the candidates, investigate the issues and endeavour to come to a conclusion in the best interests of Peterboro.

The suggestion in regard to earlier nominations would do away with this difficulty, because candidates would willy nilly have to come out into the open a month before polling day, with the result that more interest would be created and the ultimate choice would more surely represent the majority of the citizens that is possible for him to do under the present conditions.

The citizen who whistles as he walks briskly down to the office has not necessarily received a boost in salary. He may merely have "got" Mexico on his radio the night before.

GRAIN TRAFFIC.

In the last session of Parliament, there was a coterie of Progressives, who, in their enthusiasm for the Hudson Bay Railway, declared themselves willing to vote against further expenditure on the half finished Welland Ship Canal, declaring that it would be of no benefit to the grain producers of Canada, says the St. Catharines Standard.

Figures are submitted from Ottawa today which should cause some thinking among Canadians who would really like to see this Dominion prosperous. In the month of October, Great Britain took over 24 million bushels of wheat from Canada, of which only some five million were shipped from Canada direct. The larger part of this grain went through American elevators at Buffalo, down to New York and was then shipped to English ports. In the four months ending November 30, Britain took all told 63 millions of our grain, of which only 17 millions were shipped from Canada.

It may be that traffic always take the easiest line of resistance as to charges. But the completion of the new Ship Canal should materially affect the situation as it at present exists. The deepening of the St. Lawrence will crown all the rest. A large part of the prosperity of the city of Buffalo now rests on the handling of Canadian grown grain. Is it not the part of constructive statesmanship or plain common ordinary business sense, call it what you will, to retain this traffic within Canadian channels. We have the greatest stretch of inland waterways in the world, which tap the heart of a continent, and yet for a few miles, requiring engineering works, this great system is rendered abortive.

The Ship Canal will undoubtedly effect a change and increase the volume of traffic from Canadian ports, but the deepening of the St. Lawrence will bring Canada into her own. With all the new modern means of transportation, there is nothing yet to approach in low cost, freight borne over the rivers, lakes and oceans of the world.

PARTY SYSTEM IN ENGLAND.

A correspondent claims Canada has too much party system, and fears we have secured the idea from United States. It is undoubtedly a fact that United States has carried the party idea to a very extreme limit, and the idea of having municipal elections on that basis has been carried to extremes there that we would not tolerate in Canada.

Yet the party system is British in origin, and it came at a time when Parliament was winning some of its most notable advances as a body responsible to the people and not the convenient tool of an absolute monarch.

It took definite shape in the reign of William III. and came about from the persistent urging of the Anglo-Saxon people toward self-government. It was the logical working out of the same spirit that prompted the forming of the primitive village moots when the ancestors of the British people were living on the shores of the Baltic.

William III. had one great objective in his reign from 1689 to 1702 and that was to check France in her desire to conquer Holland. For that reason he raised a great standing army. Such a move had been made before. Cromwell had done it and held the nation in his grasp; James II. had another to crush Monmouth and had used it afterward to rule the people. It was in the time of William III. that the determination was reached that if there was to be a standing army its control would have to be under Parliament. That was the real meaning of the Mutiny Bill of 1689 whereby Parliament gave to the army leaders for a period of only six months at first power to discipline deserters. It was later extended to one year, and the same principle stands today in the Army Bill which must be passed each year if there is to be an army.

Parliament gained another victory right here in the passing of the Triennial Bill (1694) providing that Parliament could last but three years. This was to remedy a condition where a monarch, finding himself able to dictate to Parliament, would keep it in office, as Charles II. did for eighteen years.

It was at this point that the Cabinet, or party, system took real form, and it came about not through the planning of William III. so much as through the need he felt of getting financial support for his large army. At first William selected advisers who had influence in both Houses, and he depended on them to get his measures through Parliament, and they found it necessary to restrict their measures to those they were certain would be passed. Later the King chose his advisers from what he found to be the strongest group in the House, and from 1693 to 1699 a small group of Whigs who had the support of the largest number of followers in Parliament were in a position where they mapped out the course for the King to follow. That was the point at which a party, through its Cabinet, came into possession of parliamentary control, and it is very much the same idea that we have in our own Parliament at Ottawa. The Governor-General, representing the King, accepts the advice of the Prime Minister, who in turn is guided by his Cabinet.

It is not an idea that we have copied from United States, but one that has been worked out by the British people through their passion for self-government and their genius for giving it adequate expression.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It has been decided where the Progressives will sit in Parliament, but not how they will vote.

The obvious retort to Col. Currie's remarks is that his appearance in any office might be expected to cause all the occupants to appear frosty-faced.

Hearing that a couple of lady candidates may run in Cobourg, the World rather rudely remarks that while they have become accustomed to the spectacle of old wives sitting round the Council Board, there is nothing disconcerting in the appearance of two younger varieties of the species.

Just at the season of peace and good-will they stage a daylight saving controversy.

It doesn't look as if the Council will succeed in having the boys down the Jackson Park slides by Christmas.

A THOUGHT.

THE GIFTS OF GREATNESS

(By Glenn Frank)

I have always fought shy of the conventional success literature. It is written largely by human Chanticleers who think that all they need to do to gain the goal of their dreams is to crow loudly enough.

On the other hand there is no problem that fascinates so nearly the whole human race as the problem of things that spell the difference between failure and success, between littleness and greatness.

J. A. Spender, distinguished British journalist, has written two large and meaty volumes on his memories of the men and measures that have gone into the making of the public life of England during his generation. In the latter half of his first volume he undertakes to ask and answer the question: What are in general the qualities which make for success in the public life? And although he deals in these volumes with the careers of prices and premiers, his analysis has point and purpose for those of us who live our lives further from the reach of the limelight.

"Very ordinary capacity combined with industry, good character, and a moderate degree of backing or luck," he says, "will carry a man to nearly the highest office, but to get beyond this, to the position of a commanding public man, is the final and greatest effort; and it requires not merely capacity and industry but gifts of an extraordinary kind."

Since all of us are concerned to make that final and greatest effort to cross the line that marks the difference between mediocrity and more than mediocrity, it is worth while, I am sure, to list Mr Spender's notions of the qualities that will help us cross the line.

First, some capacity of projecting a picture of one's self on the screen of the public mind. "It may be a homely picture or it may be a heroic picture," he says "but it must be a picture, and its outline must not be blurred or vague." He rightly insists that no conscious effort will do this. Only the care and enrichment of one's personality can help in this matter. The tricks of the self-advertiser will never do it.

Second, a character must be convincing in public life. Here again nothing but genuiness will stand the test. False dramatic and fervor of method are not substitutes for sincerity.

Third, the co-operative sense. Independence of mind is essential, but unless a man wishes to play the role of a free lance prophet, crying in the wilderness, he must know how to allow his mind to go into the common stock. The greatest men are the men how know how to cooperate without selling their souls to a sterile conformity.

Fourth, the spirit of good sportsmanship. The men who win the greatest battles for the common good are good sportsmen first and last. They know how to present legitimate grievances without being themselves grouchy; they know how to present complaints without becoming complaining persons. They are good sportsmen.

This seems to me to be sound doctrine for peddlers as well as premiers.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

The Examiner, Peterborough:

Dear Sir,—You can imagine my disgust and surprise upon receiving a letter from my son this morning enclosing a cutting from your paper (a denial of a rumor concerning me) which I had not the slightest knowledge of. I hardly know which hurt me most, the rumor or the nature of your denial. Surely if you wished to obtain information regarding me, you could have written the firm I am managing for, who have been in business here nearly 50 years and whose address you could have obtained from my home in Peterborough, instead of looking up the police records expecting to find my name there. This has caused me great grief and is a very serious matter, being a great reflection on my family. I have a lot of good friends in Peterborough and I would very much appreciate it if you or any of them could help me to trace the originator of this disgraceful rumor.

Yours faithfully,
FRANK WHITEHOUSE

Note: In making clear that Frank Whitehouse was not involved in any ungentlemanly acts, The Examiner had the very best of intentions and goodwill. The rumor was current and had been denied by friends and associates of Mr. Whitehouse, but still continued. The only way to disped it utterly was to quote authority, which The Exarminer did. With the article printed a few days ago and Mr. Whitehouse's letter above, the object has been attained. —City Editor.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal
Winnipeg

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Dec. 18.—There was very little Christmas beef for sale. This had been secured at the Winter Fair and only a few heavy steers were bought here at $9 a cwt. The quality of baby beeves was not high and the top for these was $10.50 a cwt. Most of the babies did not class as good and the price range was $7 to $9 a cwt.

A small number of good to choice handyweight butchers sold this week from $6.50 to $7.50 a cwt. and good medium mixed butchers were $5.50 to $6.25 a cwt. Coarse heavy unfinished butchers were around $5 a cwt. The week saw no mentionable change in butchers' cows. Choice cows held from $5 to $6 a cwt. and good cows $4.25 a cwt. up. Canner cows are in demand again and the best of them will bring $2.50 a cwt. For milchers and springers and stockers and feeders the market has been good at a little better prices. Export cattle will be wanted next week, but facing a holiday it is unlikely that the shipments will be at all heavy.

With a good local demand for calves and three cars bought for Buffalo, there was no surplus supply all week. Prices were strong and choice calves sold up to 15 cents a pound. Medium quality calves run from 9 to 11½ cents and heavy common calves are 7 cents a pound.

Choice calves were the only kind wanted this week, and some of these bought 15½ cents, with heavier ones a cent a pound lower. A run of medium lambs on Wednesday dropped the price $1 a cwt, and the bulk of them sold at 13 to 13½ cents a pound. A few real good butchers' sheep sold at 8 cents a pound.

Light runs of hogs have forced the market up half a dollar a cwt. to $12.50 a cwt fo.b. No larger runs are said to be in sight until early in the new year.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 18 (Canadian Press). — Prices for coarse grains were well maintained with car lots of Ontario and Quebec No. 2 white quoted at 53 cents, No. 3 white at 51 1-2 cents, and No. 4 white at 50 cents per bushel, ex-track.

Receipts of eggs were 176 cases, as compared with 238 cases on the same day of last week and 145 cases on the corresponding day of last year. A fair business is being done in this commodity, with prices steady.

EGGS AND TURKEYS

OTTAWA, Dec. 18 (Canadian Press).—With production showing an increase several Canadian egg markets are showing an easier tendency. Trading on turkeys in the Eastern markets still continues brisk.

Toronto—Fresh eggs are inclined to be easier, prices unchanged. Poultry is brisk with the wholesale trading in turkeys ranging from 42 to 48, geese 23.

Montreal—Ontario fresh extras selling at 65, firsts 54, pullet extras 52 here; storage market depressed and draggy, local dealers bidding up to 36 f.o.b. Saskatchewan and Alberta. For 15 pound turkeys and up, 45 for 12 to 15 pounds, 34 for 10 to 12 pounds, 32 for 8 to 10 pounds. Offerings seem a little freer and demand is slackening somewhat.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 18 (Canadian Press):—Wheat went down in price today, affected to a considerable degrees by advices that the Argentine Government would maintain the correctness of the latest crop estimate pointing to a large yield of wheat in Argentina taken as a whole. Closing quotations here on wheat were nervous, 1 1-4 to 1 5-8c lower; new style, December 172 and May 165 7-8 to 166, with corn 1-2 to 7-8c off, oats 3-8 to 3-4c down, and provisions varying from 2c decline to a rise of 15c.

Throughout the day, wheat price changes were governed almost entirely by developments relating to crop yields in Argentina. At the start, an outstanding factor was a Liverpool announcement that offerings from Southern sections of Argentina were of more liberal volume. This news, together with word that the Argentine Government would uphold the truth of its crop estimate, led to lively selling and to a material set-back in values. Subsequently reports of rain in Southern Argentina unfavorable for the harvest, tended to bring about a strong rally, but the effect on the market failed to last, and fresh downturns which ensued forced values lower than before.

WESTWOOD W.M.S. HELD TWO MEETINGS

WESTWOOD, Dec. 19—The regular meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church was held at the home of Mrs. G. A. Renwick.

A very interesting address was given in the United Church on Sunday afternoon by Miss Mitchell, the organizing secretary of the Women's Missionary Society. Having had a wide personal experience in the mission fields, she was able to bring home to her hearers many true and vivid pictures of pioneer hardships. She emphasized the necessity as well as duty of all Christians to help spread the Gospel in home and foreign fields.

The Christmas meeting of the W.M.S. of the United Church was held at the home of Mrs. David Brackenridge, with Mrs. John Sargeant presiding in the absence of the president. A special Christmas service with readings and music, appropriate for the Christmas season were used, while Mrs. W. Morris sang "Do Something for Somebody" which was much enjoyed.

The Christmas entertainment by the United Church Sunday School has been cancelled owing to sickness in the community.

RUBBER PROSPECT AFFECTS COLONY

Philippines Hoped For Independence From United States.

MANILA, P.I., Dec. 19.—(United Press).—Leaders of the independencia movement sense a hard fight coming next year "to stem the rising tide of imperialism in the United States" which is seeking to annex the Philippines as a permanent territory.

Manuel Quezon, president of the senate, and Speaker Roxas of the House of Representatives have forsaken their policy to passive resistance and non-cooperation with the Governor General and are choosing their course with caution and deliberation until they receive some indication of the trend of American public opinion.

During the quarter of a century of American occupation there has never been anything to disturb the Filipino's dream of achieving independent nationhood and the Philippines seemed to be moving step by step toward separation from the United States. But with a suddeness that stunned the Filipino leaders and bewildered the American anti-independencistas, the world rubber famine injected itself as a factor of the first importance in the relations between the United States and the Philippines.

All other considerations are now secondary to this new vision of boundless prosperity which is no disconcertingly mingled with a feeling that this wealth might forge a chain binding the islands to America forever.

Particular attention is being paid today to the choice of a Filipino resident commissioner in Washington "who will fit in with the present trend in America regarding the Philippine question." The actual election of a new commissioner will be put off until definite word has been received from Osmena, who is now in Washington looking over the ground. The choice seems to lie between the present commissioner Pedro Guevra, who is a candidate for re-election and the ex-commissioner Isauro Gabaldon.

Speeches in the Senate and House of the Philippine legislature reflect increasing anxiety over the crisis which is casting its dark shadow across the path of their long fight for liberty.

That the left-handed are, in brain power, far superior to the right-handed is the assertion of a schoolmaster through whose hands thousands of boys have passed.

HOW many millions are lost in speculation every year—in efforts to make money by taking great risks rather than in doing great service!

HUNTER UNABLE TO FIND PLANE

CONTINUE TO-DAY.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Dec. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Failure resulted from the second day's search for the wrecked airplane seen by a hunter in the woods at Tyringham, and thought to be that of Captain Mansell R. James, lost Canadian aviator.

Warren Campbell, of Brooklyn, N.Y., the huntsman, led a searching party over an area of approximately 1,000 acres, but was unable to locate the spot where he was wandering when he sighted the ruined plane. He planned to try again to-day to find the machine. Captain James was last seen flying from Boston toward Atlantic City in the spring of 1919.

Campbell said that he saw the wings and tail of the airplane, and noticed strips of canvas hanging from the branches of trees. He judged the plane had been abandoned and thought only of finding his way out of the dense woods.

Selectman Thomas F. Curtin, of Tyringham, who joined another squad of searchers, declared last night that only "by bull luck" could Campbell find the spot where he saw the plane.

BRICK FOR BRICK TARIFF POLICY OF MR MEIGHEN'S DESIGNED ONLY IN RELATION TO FARM PRODUCE

HELD RECEPTION.

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man., Dec. 19 (Canadian Press).—Digressing for a few minutes from his avowed intention of not discussing politics while on his present visit to his constituents of Portage La Prairie, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen turned aside to answer a criticism of previous utterances on the tariff He declared that he had never advocated a tariff "brick for brick" with that of the United States, except in relation to farm produce.

Returning to the city of Portage Le Prairie for the first time since he was elected as its representative in the House of Commons, the Conservative leader was accorded a reception that was continuous throughout the afternoon and evening. Met at the station by a crowd of several hundred, he was escorted to a theatre, which was packed to the doors with people of all shades of political opinion from all sections of the constituency. Presented to the gathering by Mayor W. H. Burns, he was tendered a welcome that left him visibily affected and which kept him standing in front of his friends for several minutes before he was permitted to address them.

Following the meeting in the theatre, Mr and Mrs. Meighen received their friends numbering upwards to 1,000 at the Hotel Portage, and last evening were host and hostess at a ball to all their friends.

Moved by Gratitude.

Sincere thanks were tendered those who had made possible his election in Portage La Prairie, and Mr. Meighen declared that his one object in the present visit was a desire on the part of Mrs. Meighen and himself personally to thank all those who had worked so hard for him during the recent campaign.

Mr. Meighen was supported on the platform at the public meeting by Provincial Conservative leaders, J. T. Haig, M.L.A., said that Portage La Prairie had given to Canada the leader of the Conservative party in the Federal House and given Manitoba the leader of the Conservative party in the Legislature. He predicted that within a year the constituency would be represented by the Prime Minister of Canada.

Plea for Quebec.

Joseph Bernier, M.L.A., made a plea for tolerance with the people of Quebec. The people of Canada, he said, should not be discouraged with the people of Quebec or believe that they were antagonistic toward Mr. Meighen. He declared that the Quebec majorities of the Liberal party had been cut 50 per cent at the last election. He said the people of Quebec admired Mr. Meighen as a man who was not afraid to say in Quebec what he said in Portage La Prairie and predicted that the time was coming when they would support him.

Mr. Meighen, in opening his remarks said that he had been warned greater than that of Portage, and no Prairie nomination by his friends and allies in the Conservative party. No triumph of the election was greater than that of Porage and no single event had done more to strengthen his hand than had his election to represent the constituency.

Some public recognition was due Mr Bernier, he said, for, if there was any better feeling in Quebec, it was due largely to the efforts of Mr. Bernier, who had written an account of Mr. Meighen's efforts as a public man, which had been distributed throughout Quebec.

There was no statement, he continued, he had made during the election that he wished to qualify or retract.

"I have never," he said, "used the expression of a tariff wall 'brick for brick with the United States' except in relation to farm produce They shut out our produce from their markets and we should shut out theirs from ours. For manufactured goods, there should be a policy of protection, not brick for brick, but sufficient to stop the emigration from our land, assist our industries and enable them to exist. By that principle I stand, and that pledge I repeat. The people of Canada voted overwhelmingly for protection. The people of Quebec did not vote for low tariff, he said. There was a verdict about the issue about which there can be no mistake. The people of Cana would prefer to have a protection policy put into force by those who preached it rather than by those who derided it throughout the country.

BALDWIN STAYS AT RURAL HOME FOR CHRISTMAS

Political and Atmospheric Fogs Drive Lloyd George to Italy.

OTHERS TO FRANCE.

Ramsay MacDonald Going to Ceylon For Daughter's Health.

LONDON, Dec. 19. (Canadian Press).—Mr. Lloyd George left London for Rome yesterday, with the declaration, "I'm going to Italy in search of sunshine; I'm tired of fogs and cloudy weather."

Many of the London newspapers regard his allusion to cloudy weather and fogs as somewhat figurative. The political weather has been decidedly unpleasant in Liberal party circles recently, and only Thursday the Earl of Oxford and Asquith (H. H. Asquith), Viscount Grey of Falloden and other Liberal leaders held a secret conclave to discuss means of taming the Welshman.

Mr. Lloyd George disclaimed any intention of seeing Premier Mussolini in Rome. He said he had not arranged for an interview.

The arrival of Sir Austen and Lady Chamberlain at Rapallo, the scene of the framing of many recent treaties, has caused some amusement in political circles. The Chamberlains plan to spend the Christmas holidays at Rapallo.

Jibe at Chamberlain.

"He's got the treaty habit and can't get out of the treaty atmosphere," one politician remarked laughingly. "After the Easter surprise which the Russians and Germans handed Lloyd George and the other Allied leaders at Rapallo, three years ago (The Russo-German Treaty), when the Genoa negotiations were on, one would think that English politicians would keep away from that part of the Italian Riviera. You may be sure Lloyd George wouldn't go to Rapallo."

Sir William Joynson-Hicks, the Home Secretary; Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, Secretary for War, and the Earl of Birkenhead, Secretary for India, are leaving soon for the French Riviera for the Christmas season.

Former Premier Ramsay MacDonald and his daughter Isabel will start on Monday for Ceylon, for Miss MacDonald's health.

TAX REDUCTION BILL TO SENATE

U. S. House of Representatives Endorsed It By Vote of 390 to 25.

$325,000,000 SLASH.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 19 (Canadian Press) — A $325,000,000 Christmas gift to federal taxpayers —useful throughout the year—was voted Friday by the House in passing the Tax Reduction Bill.

Bearing the endorsment of President Coolidge as well as leaders of both parties in the House, the non-partisan measure was directed to the Senate for the more difficult part of its legislative journey by a vote of 390 to 25.

Almost every member of the House was on the floor as the bill, which was the first introduced and was held constantly before the House since the opening day of the session, was called up for passage.

As the last of more than fifty proposed amendments to the bill was mowed down yesterday by the usual overwhelming majority, Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the Republican leader, congratulated the house on "establishing a new record of promptness in the consideration of an important measure."

His words of congratulations on the non-partisan manner in which the bill had been acted upon had hardly died, however, when Representative Rainey, Democrat, Illinois, moved to re-commit it to committee with instructions to increase the income surtax and inheritance rates from maximums of twenty per cent to twenty-five per cent each.

For the second time during consideration of the bill, the houses divided almost on party lines, 133 Democrats voting for the motion, which was defeated 267 to 147.

IMPERSONATORS OF CZAR'S CHILDREN ARRESTED WITH FIFTEEN SPONSORS

ODESSA, Russia, Dec. 19 (Canadian Press)—Periodical stories have appeared in the European and American press to the effect that the Romanoff family, the ruling house of Russia before the revolution was still alive, but few people in Russia have believed these talks until this week when a Russian boy and a beautiful girl, about the same age of the Czarivitch Alexis and Princess Tatiana, turned up in Odessa.

Bearing a faint resemblance to the slain prince and princess they were believed by the untutored peasantry and religious fanatics to be the real heir to the throne and his sister, until the local police made an investigation and found them to be fraudulent. The arrest of 15 Russians who sponsored the pretenders followed.

A former Czarist officer named Kozlenko, leader of the group, has confessed that he and his associates created the fake Prince and Princess in order to extort money from devout and superstitious peasants. The pseudo Prince, he disclosed, was the epileptic son of a member of the group and with the girl was taken daily to the so called miraculous grave of a priest who had been canonized, where pious peasants gathered daily to pray. The guileless villagers brought gifts here for the Pretenders.

All the members of the group, including the "Prince" and "Princess" are now in jail.

BRICKLAYERS ON "DIGNITY STRIKE"

Forty English Workers Resent Speed Aspersion.

LONDON, Dec. 19. — (Canadian Press).—Forty English bricklayers have gone on a "dignity strike" and say they will not lay another brick until Alderman Edward Price of the Lambeth Borough Council apologizes for his declaration that they take one minute and twelve seconds to lay a single brick.

Meanwhile 250 carpenters, painters and other workmen are thrown out of employment until the bricklayers' honor is satisfied. These other workmen say that they are the victims of "pampered swells who can't take a joke," and that they will not have any money for their Christmas dinners.

Alderman Price, who asserts that he will not retract, told the members of the Borough Council that the men employed on a municipal housing scheme were laying only 400 bricks a day, and he stood with his watch in his hand for 72 seconds before the Council just to show how long it took to lay one brick.

MONTREAL BRIDGE GUARD SHOT SEPTEMBER 1915 SEEKS PENSION

PENSION CUT OFF.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 19. — (Canadian Press).—One of Montreal's unsolved shootings of a decade ago was again brought into public eye Friday, when hearings of pension appeals of ex-service men were resumed in the Mount Royal Hotel by the Federal Appeal Board, under the chairmanship of Col. C. R. Reilly.

The victim of the shooting appeared personally before the Board. He served in the Canadian home service in the early days of the war, in the 4th Canadian Garrison Regiment. On the night of September 16, 1915, he was on duty assisting in the guarding of Victoria Bridge, about 2 a.m. He was shot by an unknown person, a larg calibre bullet penetrating the abdomen and stomach and embedding in the spine. The assailant was never discovered. The man was immediately operated upon and the bullet extracted. Soon afterwards, he received his discharge from the army, and was allowed pension for general debility and mental reduction, it then being considered that the condition was due to service.

In January, 1924, at one of the man's periodical examinations, it was considered that his condition was constitutional, and not related to war service, and the pension was discontinued. At Thursday's session of the Appeal Board, he appealed for reinstatement of the pension on the ground that war service was responsible for reduced physical and mental ability, declaring that he was a normal, healthy man prior to service. He was now able to work only intermittently at his trade. V. J. Locke, official soldiers' adviser, presented the appeal on behalf of the man.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat trouble. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Cremulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchical asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or 'flu.

Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FARM NEWS AND PROBLEMS

PRODUCTION AND PURITY NEEDED FOR HERD SIRES

Pure Blood Necessary, But Heavy Milking Dam More Important.

IMPROVING HERDS.

Breeding is Main Point in Building Up Strong Herds.

1. The improvement of average cow production is without doubt the greatest factor in the progress of dairying to meet the increased cost of production. The answer to the increased cost of production is increased unit production.

2. The principal factors in improving average cow production are: "Breeding," "feeding" and "weeding."

3. "Breeding" is the most important, as it is the foundation stone upon which to build a profitable herd.

4. Practically all instances of increased milk and fat production in herds are shown to be the result of the use of better sires.

5. With common average cow herds a definite system of "grading up" becomes necessary. The slap-dash methods of mixing the breeds is fatal to improvement.

6. The first step towards improved production is the use of pure bulls; the second step is the use of pure "tested" bulls, and the third step is the use of pure "tested" bulls in communities.

7. "Grading up" creates more interest to the dairy farmer, and combines pleasure and profit.

THE three principal factors in improving average cow production are: "Breeding," "feeding," and "weeding," and the main or basal foundation in the improvement of herds in type and production is breeding. Feeding, weeding or culling, handling and management are subsidiary. The foundation stone of the triumphal arch of successful dairying must always be breeding; all other additional stones in the edifice are of lesser importance, and the key to the arch which completes the structure may be likened to herd-testing, which becomes the key to successful breeding. Practically all instances of individual cow and herd increases and high production are the result of a steadfastness of purpose in breeding, namely, the concentration of one breed using registered pure bulls whose dams and sires' dams are proved high producers. The value of the registered pure sire to improve common dairy stock through their progeny, has been proved time and again, and admits of no argument. The registered pure dairy sire to "grade up" common stock represents the foundation of increased average cow production.

The next step in increased average cow production is the use of registered pure "tested" bulls. All pure bulls are not the progenitors of producing cows. Purity without production may be likened to a bucket without milk. A dairy bull's value is his purity and the official production of his female ancestors. Purity and production is the combination. The higher the production of a bull's near female ancestors the greater his value as a dairy sire, and the greater the likelihood of his imparting to his progeny those productive proclivities.

The next and most important step in increased average cow production is the use of registered pure "tested" bulls in communities. For their operation, communities become the natural corollary for the use of such bulls in "grading up." There are too few instances of a pretermined effort or a steadfastness of purpose in "grading up" by using such sires in a continuous policy with each mating. How often do we find a farmer hopelessly mixing the breed by the use of a bull of the different dairy breeds with each generation. The dairy farmer when startin cannot buy good type high producers, they are not available; but he can improve by breeding; and, even when he is seized with the value of the pure sire, it is fatal to breed on the lines that are often found, namely, starting off with, say, a Jersey bull. When this animal's heifers are old enough for breeding he looks around for another bull and is not particular about its breed, but because he has heard someone say that Ayrshires are harder he buys an Ayrshire bull to mate with the graded Jersey heifers, and, when the resultant progeny of his cross are ready for breeding, a milking shorthorn bull is procured with the idea perhaps, of getting more size or more saleable steers; and again, with the next generation, he may use a holstein bull with the thought of increased milk flow, and after all these years of breeding he now expects an animal which has a combination of the advantages of all the breeds enumerated, viz., rich, high-testing milk; hardy, large frames, and heavy milkers. But what the farmer really has after his twelve or fifteen years of breeding is a mixed nondescript herd, all sizes, colors, types, and worst of all, no improvement in production, but really a more definite mongrel than when he started, due to the conflict of type of each breed with each mating. On the other hand, with a defined system of breeding and selection of a breed of sire to suit the climatic, pasturage and marketing conditions for the produce, and a staunchness in keeping to that breed with each generation, a definite improvement is shown; the farmer has commenced a system of "grading up," and with each generation he infuses more pure blood and pushes out the low mongrel blood, attains type, an even color, even size and what is of paramount importance, increased production. Further, when the pure sire used has female ancestry with high production capacity, the low-producing herd at the start is built up to a high producing, highly graded and profitable herd, and the farmer has not only production but type also.

The community system of breeding, apart from the concentration of one blood, is of great economic value in the mutual exchange of bulls by farmers when it is necessary to make change in their dairy sires, all the farmers in the zone or district being owners of bulls of similar breed, thus saving "forced sale" of the old bull, often at a sacrifice, and there is no fresh outlay for a new bull, no high freight costs but merely "You take my bull, I take yours," and the added advantage of being able to again secure a bull which has been breeding high producing daughters.

Scratching Cow's Teats Often Makes Her Kick

When you milk do you let any part of your finger nails touch the cow's teats? If you do you have not learned to be an artist at the job. Finger nails have sent many a pail of good milk into the gutter and exhausted many a man's vocabulary. The thumb nail may touch the udder, but the finger nails should be kept entirely away from the teats. Finger nails are intended as weapons of defense. They may be used on hives, and for the purpose of picking up stray pins, but they are entirely out of place scratching the hide off Bossie's teats. Do not blame her for kicking.

WINTER CARE OF PREGNANT SOWS

First Provision Made Should Be To Compel Exercise.

PROPER QUARTERS.

At the Dominion experimental station, Lacombe, the first provision made in connection with the winter management of pregnant sows is for exercise. To compel exercise the sleeping quarters are located some 200 yards from the feeding troughs which are near the main piggery, thus forcing the sows to walk to and from twice a day for their feed. The lot over which the sows walk is ploughed deep in the fall to expose fresh earth, of which the sows consume small amounts daily. A shed, cheaply constructed from posts, discarded woven wire and straw, or well-banked portable cabins, prove to be excellent winter quarters. During extremely cold weather, following a heavy snow fall, there is some danger of the sows' teats being frost-bitten when the pigs plunge through the snow to the feeding trough. This rarely occurs, as the sows usually have a well-tramped trail made to the trough.

From 3 to 5 pounds of whole oats or oat-chop, fed scattered on the frozen surface, or in troughs, with one pound of wheat bran added, per day per head makes a good grain allowance. If sows are thin in flesh the grain ration might include one-third barley until the condition is improved. If roots, turnips or mangels are available, 5 to 10 pounds per head might be fed each day. Alfalfa or clover hay is also a valuable roughage and will be readily eaten. If oats have been cut quite green, mature sows will eat the green feed with relish and benefit. It is difficult to lay down definite rules to meet all conditions; therefore, the feeder must exercise judgment and feed a ration made up of a variety of feeds and feed much or little as the condition of the sows demands in order to keep them from getting over-fat or yet becoming too thin. Soft coal can be fed to advantage if kept before the sows at all times. To prevent hairless pigs dissolve one ounce of potassium iodide in one gallon of water and feed one tablespoonful of the solution per sow per day 90 days previous to farrowing.

COW STABLES MUST BE CLEAN

WATCH NEW STOCK.

In order to prevent disease and assist in maintaining the health of the herd, all stables should be cleaned at least once per day and preferably, twice. It should be the practice of the careful herdsman to thoroughly clean and disinfect the stable before the cattle come in, in the fall, and to hold all newly purchased cattle in quarantine, away from the rest of the herd, until one is sure that they are free from disease. A good plan is to thoroughly whitewash the entire inner surface of the stable, using a five per cent. carbolic solution. This may be done in the fall just before the cattle are stabled, and the whitewash may be applied with a sprayer after the stables have been thoroughly swept down. Besides this, a liberal daily use of fresh lime or some coal-tar disinfectant in gutters and passages while the cattle are in the stable should be resorted to. If any contagious disease has developed in the barn, in order to clean it up, it is wise to remove all cattle and thoroughly scrub all the internal surfaces of the stable with a solution of Gillett's lye. It is well, too, where such can be arranged, to lay out the farm yard so that the cattle, when out, are kept away from the piled manure which may carry infection from diseased animals. Regularity in feeding, making changes gradually, and studying the needs of the individual animals will obviate most of the dangers of digestive troubles.

The farmer's wife had been dealing faithfully with a rowdy party of campers, whose conduct had annoyed her, and her parting shot was worthy of Mrs. Poyser:—"There's no need to behave like a beast," she said, "if you do live in a field!"

LITTLE RED MITES CAUSE LOSS BY SUCKING BLOOD OF POULTRY

Are Usually Found After Hens Have Been in All Winter.

SPRAY HOUSES

When you find the perches in your poultry house covered with little red lice, what do you do? is the question Sid Smith put to Charley Brown one morning early in May.

"Those aren't red lice, Sid," Charley replied, "they are mites—little fellows with sucking mouths and they live by sucking the blood of the hens at night. The best thing you can do is to paint the perches with carbolineum or some other coal tar compound.

"My hens are light and they don't lay as much as they ought to. Do you suppose the mites have anything to do with that?" Sid asked.

"Why, of course. The hens can't support the mites and fill the egg basket. Something's got to suffer and you can make up your mind that the mites aren't going to. Lots of people are losing eggs now because they haven't done their spring house-cleaning.

Sid Smith was a young poultryman, only in his second year in the poultry work. Charley Brown, on the other hand, was an experienced man. For something like ten years he had been at the game. From practically nothing he had built up a farm of 5,000 layers. He was willing to give advice to anyone who might seek it because of his age and experience.

"If you haven't cleaned up your houses last spring, you'd better do it at once," he commanded Sid Smith. "You've got to learn now, while you are still young at the game, that cleanliness is a big asset in poultry work. It's easy to keep things clean with only 500 layers, but when you get up to 3,000 like me, then you'll have to be more careful. Get the habit early in the game and get married to it. Next to your wife, it needs the most attention and has the most to do with your success.

"Right now is the time to sweep the dirt on the walls of the house, clean the dropping boards thoroughly and use a good strong spray pump and spray the inside of the poultry house thoroughly. A solution can be made by mixing coal tar disinfectant with water. Usually a five per cent solution, five parts of the coal tar to 100 parts of water, is sufficiently strong."

"How much do you put on, Charley?"

"Don't worry about putting on too much, Sid; soak up the walls even if it does run down on the floor. Perhaps the floor can stand a little disinfecting too."

"By the way, Sid, maybe you had better look over your hens to see, if they are not lousy. You know lice are hard on hens, too; they stay on the hen all the time and live on the filth that accumulates on the base of the feathers."

"What do they look like?"

"Why Sid, they are little fellows, a little larger than the mites which you saw on the perches. There are many varieties. The common hen louse is grey in color. It has a biting mouth, rather than a sucking mouth like the mite.

"If you want to give individual treatment you must use some commercial louse powder or you can make one of your own."

"Isn't it hard to make one at home, Charley?"

"No, it isn't as hard as one would imagine. Have you got pencil and paper handy? I'll give you the formula for a simple mixture."

"You bet I've got pencil and paper handy. I've been over here too often to know that it doesn't pay not to carry pencil and paper when you get a chance to learn from an old poultryman like you, Charley."

"Well, you take three parts of gasoline and one part of crude carbolic acid 90 to 95 per cent strength. Mix these two together and add gradually while you stir the mixture, enough plaster of paris to take up all the moisture. As a general rule it will take about four quarts of plaster of paris to one quart of liquid. You mix the liquid with the dry plaster and stir so that the liquid is uniformly distributed through the mass of plaster. When enough plaster has been added the mixture will be a dry, pinkish brown powder, having an odor half way between carbolic acid and gasoline."

"Where do you get those things, Charley?"

"Why, the gasoline you can get out of your flivver and you can get the carbolic acid and the plaster of paris at any drug store. You have got to be careful in handling the carbolic acid or you may be burned, but plaster of paris is harmless and it's cheap. When the mixture is dry the powder is sprinkled into the feathers of the birds. The bulk of the powder should be placed in the fluff around the vent, on the lower side of the body, and under the wings. Poultrymen who have made it and used it on their birds say that it does the stunt. Try this—about a minute after you have placed the powder on the bird, shake the bird and loosen its feathers with the fingers, at the same time, over a clean piece of paper. You will find dead and dying lice all over the paper when you get through."

"But Charley, if my hens have all got lice it's going to take a long time to treat 500 that way."

"Well, that's so, too. I guess the best t..... to do is to dip them."

"Dip chickens? Why, who in the world would think of putting a hen in water?"

"But, Sid, most of the big poultrymen are dipping their hens nowadays. Pick out some nice warm day. Shut up the hens and then get your dipping solution ready. For this you use sodium floride, which you can get at any drug store. Get some water lukewarm, then put in sodium floride at the rate of one ounce to a gallon of lukewarm water. You really ought to put this solution in an earthen jar for it eats on metal. If you've got a five-gallon or a ten-gallon jar that will work just fine, put in the solution and then go to it. Have one man catch the birds and another man dip them. Put them down in the water feet first as that will lift up the feathers and the water will get next to the skin. The last thing you put the head of the bird down below the surface for just a second, so that the head gets a good treatment also.

"And don't forget to add more water and put in more sodium floride as you go along. Don't do as one fellow I once knew did, who put 150 birds through the same water without adding any more of the chemical. You know just as well as I do how much the last 100 birds got out of that mixture—a good bath and that's about all."

"And that reminds me, Sid, the way you got your house fixed you won't need to chase down each one of these hens. You can take a shipping crate and open one end. Set this in front of the little door where you let the hens out and then run the hens into it. One man can drive the hens into the coop and the other fellow take them out and dip them. That makes easy work of the job and you don't run the hens to death."

"Well, I think the best thing I can do is to go right home and get busy cleaning my poultry house. I know that it needs cleaning. I'll keep the hens shut in in the morning and look them over to see whether they are very lousy. If they are and it is a nice day tomorrow I'm going to dip them."—O. A. Hanke, in Hoard's Dairyman.

IS THIS YOUR LETTER?

BEEKEEPER HAS GREAT DEAL OF WORK IN WINTER

Afford Excellent Opportunity of Getting Everything in Shape.

REPAIRS NEEDED.

Handling in Summer Can Be Made Easy By Cleaning Frames.

(Experimental Farms Note.)

The most active part of the beekeeper's year is between the time the bees are removed from their winter quarters in the spring until the following autumn, when they are again prepared for the winter. Usually this season comes on with a rush as the bees demand the full time of the beekeeper. This being the case, the beekeeper who would get the maximum returns from his apiary must have everything in readiness before this active season opens.

Nothing is more disheartening during the summer when nectar is coming in abundantly and the bees swarming, than to have insufficient equipment ready to take care of the situation.

The winter months offer an excellent opportunity for getting everything into workable shape. All equipment on hand can be looked over carefully and any needed repair work done. The handling of colonies during the summer can be made much easier and more rapid if all the supers and frames are scraped clean of propolis or bur combs. While cleaning the frames, the combs may also be sorted, saving the best for use in the brood chambers and the inferior ones for the extracting supers. All broken, crooked or drone combs are best consigned to the melting pot. After the combs are cleaned and sorted, store them in supers, tiering the supers up with a queen excluder or hive cover on both bottom and top of the pile to exclude mice, otherwise the combs may be destroyed. Place in each super the proper number of combs needed for the summer work and mark each super or tier as to character of combs it contains. If the amount of supplies on hand is not sufficient for next year's needs, order new ones early, so that they may arrive in time to put together and paint before spring. Any cappings or broken combs saved during the summer may easily be rendered during the winter, and the resultant wax manufactured into foundation for next summer's use.

ADVANTAGES OF ENSILAGE FOR DAIRYING MANY

Furnishes Food of High Quality at Very Low Expense.

NUTRIENTS RETAINED.

Does Not Permit Weed Seeds To Remain in Fields.

The widespread use of the silo indicates that silage has certain advantages which make it a profitable addition to the available feeds for the dairy farmer. The advantages of silage may be summarised as follows:

1. Silage furnishes a succulent and readily available feed of uniform high quality at low expense for any season of the year. It is cheaper than roots and of equal value except possibly for cows on test, when it might be found desirable to feed roots as well as silage. During the summer when pastures are poor it furnishes a succulence at less cost and bother than do soiling crops and still produces as good results.

2. The silo enables the dairy farmer to secure the largest possible amount of digestive nutrients from a given acreage. This is due to the fact that less of the nutrients are lost in the silo than are lost when field cured. Not only this, but silage made from corn and other course stalked plants such as the sorghums are eaten up clean, while a large percentage of the dry fodder will not be eaten, even though of the very best quality.

3. The silo enables the dairy farmer to preserve his crops when conditions do not permit field curing. Hay crops can be run into the silo during rainy weather. Frosted corn and soft corn can also be saved in this way. Losses during field curing caused by birds, insects and other pests can be checked by ensiling the crop.

4. During the ensiling process practically all weed seeds are killed, and therefore the silo is an excellent place to store weedy crops that, if field cured, not only would be inferior as a feed but would permit the propagation of the weed seeds.

5. Since less room is required for storing feed in the form of silage than in the form of hay or other dry forage, less storage space is required.

6. The acidity of the silage produced in the fermentation of the feed has an important value in regulating the bowels and checking undesirable putrefactive processes in the intestines. This, together with its succulence, accounts for the favorable effect of silage on the health of the animal.

African Musical Instruments Barred By Cuban President

HAVANA, Dec. 18.—Playing of the tambor, or tom-tom, or other musical instruments of African character, with singing and contorted dancing, have been prohibited by presidential decree.

President Machado's decree says this class of music and the "rumba" are contrary to the good customs and public order of Cuba.

SELF FEEDER FOR PIGS.

Do not overlook the advantages of the self feeder in caring for the pigs. By getting their feed from a feeder they eat more, thereby making larger gains, and come to marketable size at an earlier date. Less food is required to make gains and much labor is eliminated.

FATTENING POULTRY FOR MARKET MAKES BIG DIFFERENCE IN PRICE

Has Become Fine Art Which Has Its Financial Reward.

MASHES ARE GOOD

Are Most Effective in Bringing Fowl Up to Weight.

Fattening poultry for the market has become a fine art, and, with a difference frequently prevailing of 3c per lb. between the prices of thin and plump fowls, an art in which success is easily measurable in terms of dollars and cents.

Fowls weighing in the neighbourhood of five pounds give the best returns for the labor and expense involved in the process of adding on the avoirdupois. Crate fattening is usually more profitable than any other method, and from two to three weeks is the length of time the birds are fattened by the most successful farmers around this neighbourhood.

Mashes for Fattening.

Mashes made up of mixtures of cornmeal, ground buckwheat, oatmeal or barley meal have been found to be most effective, especially when skim milk is included, in the ratio of two pounds of milk to one found of mash, the milk and the mash being mixed together about twelve hours before being fed to the fowls. The inclusion of the milk is invariably justified by an improvement in the quality of the flesh.

Peterborough farmers as a rule appear to favor marketing their poultry already finished and dressed rather than alive. Fowls considered ripe for the pot are left without food for varying periods up to twenty-four hours, and a practice which has followed the discovery that when the digestive tract remains empty, the meat is better and more easily kept in good condition than is the case where food is retained in the crop.

The method of killing by chopping off the head has become as extinct as the dodo, among up-to-date farmers. Some farmers in Smith and neighbouring townships prefer to kill fowl by sticking the brain. With wings crossed at the back and feet tied with a cord, the fowl is suspended from the ceiling and a sharp pointed, straight cutting knife does the trick. The bird's head is taken in the left hand; the knife is in the right. The killer forces open the mouth by pressure from his left hand thumb and fore-finger and the right hand pushes the knife into the open mouth until it reaches that portion where head and neck meet. This severs the arteries on both sides of the neck. Then the knife is forced into the groove in the roof of the mouth and reaches the brain. Considerable skill is required to pierce the brain properly. When this is done, the bird utters a squak and makes a sudden jerk which helps to loosen the feathers covering the muscles. When the operation has not been properly carried out, some difficulty is experience in plucking, and the skin is sometimes torn, thus reducing the market value of the dressed bird.

After the piercing and bleeding, a can weighted on the bottom, is hooked to the lower mandible of the beak, in order to catch the dripping blood. This also effectually hinders the fowl from moving unnecessarily.

Quick Plucking.

Little time is allowed to elapse between killing and plucking. An experienced hand can strip a bird in one minute.

Dry plucking is the usual method. First, the feathers of the neck are removed. Then the breast feathers are plucked. The main wing feathers are pulled out with one jerk. A slight twist and pull removes the main tail feathers. Then the thighs, legs, back and body are plucked in the order named. Not infrequently, the clearing of pin feathers proves to be a delicate task, and a dull bladed knife has to be brought into use, with the possibility always present of tearing the skin and causing a slight mark and consequent lessening of the value of the bird.

The Last Operations.

When these operations are completed, the head and feet are washed with a stiff brush. Special precautions are taken to ensure the complete absence of partly digested food in the crop. The vent is squeezed and any remaining food is brought out through an opening which is made just above the shoulder.

With the head wrapped in parchment paper, the bird is deposited in the best available place for cooling. It has been found that it is advantageous to have the heat pass out of the body as soon as possible after the fowl has been killed. The lack of heat checks the development of bacteria on the flesh, and helps to keep it in good condition.

The wide-awake farmer who contemplates shipping his dressed fowls to some distant point has found it advisable to make use of boxes specially constructed for the varying classes of fowls. Each box holds twelve birds. A box made to hold roasters is nineteen inches long, sixteen inches wide, and eight inches high. For small roasters the box measures, on the inside, seventeen and a half inches long, fifteen inches wide and seven inches high. Large fowl are housed in a box which measures on the inside, eighteen inches long, seventeen inches wide, and nine inches high. A box for medium sized fowls is sixteen inches long, fifteen inches wide and seven and a half inches high.

Science an Aid.

The adoption of methods outlined above, usually means an increased initial outlay, and the departure from ancient and rules-of-thumb method involves some personal discomfort and an addition of labor to that already overworked individual, the farmer, but those who have taken advantage of the knowledge gained by observation and experiment, have in the end, found themselves the gainers financially as well as in experience. Well-finished birds are always in good demand, even at times when shoddy poultry is a glut on the market. Certainly, among those who follow the business in a scientific manner, one never hears the complaint often made elsewhere that "every hen dies a debtor."

Hungry Cows

It is not always possible to tell the hungry cows by sight. Over half of them show emaciation and plainly lack enough feed at some time during the year to maintain their bodies in good condition. But a lot of hungry cows are in good flesh. Many cows are hungry for protein, even though they do not lack grain, and a greater number are hungry for minerals. These kinds of hunger, while not so easily recognized by the owner materially reduce the cow's production for the year, and undermine her health just as surely as does a lack of total feed.

HANDY STABLE HORSE REMEDIES

Can Be Put Up and Kept Handy For Immediate Use.

ARE ALL STANDARD.

Here are some prescriptions that can be put up and kept to advantage. Liniment, blisters and colic medicine are liable to be needed at any time, and when needed are required at once. If a horse goes lame or shows signs of colic the time to treat him effectively is at once, not several hours afterward. The remedies given are all standard, and have been used by horsemen and the veterinary profession for years.

Healing salve—Carbolic acid, 1 part vasoline, 8 parts. This makes a nice salve for healing dry surface sores. It should be applied twice a day.

Colic mixture—Aromatic spirits of ammonia, ½ ounce; fluid extract belladonna, 1 dram; sulphuric ether, ½ ounce; fluid extract ginger 2 drams; hypo-sulphite of soda, 1 ounce; water, 1 pint. This is a good colic remedy and should be given at one dose and repeated in 40 or 50 minutes if a recovery has not taken place.

Blister—Biniodide mercury, 1 dram; lard or lanolin, 1 ounce. Tie up the horse's head; leave the blister on for 48 hours, then wash off with soap and warm water and apply lard.

Soothing lotion—Fluid extract of witch hazel, 6 parts; fluid extract opium, 1 part; tincture arnica, 2 parts; tincture aconite, 1 part. This remedy is for sprains and bruises. It should be well rubbed in.

White Liniment—Turpentine, 2 ounces; aqua ammonia, 2 ounces; olive or raw linseed oil, 3 ounces. This is a very useful liniment for both the home and stable, but if a milder effect is desired add more oil. It should be applied once or twice daily.

Hoof Ointment—Crude petroleum, ½ pint; neat's-foot oil, 1 pint; raw linseed oil, 1 pint; oil of tar, ½ pint. Apply to hoofs once a day when needed. It is used for dry hoofs and for the purpose of stimulating growth.

Healing Lotion—Sugar of lead, 1-4 pound; sulphate zinc, 3 ounces; carbolic acid, 3 ounces; water, 1 gallon. This makes an excellent healing lotion and is not very expensive. It should be applied two or three times a day.

Drying Powder—Alum (dried), 1 ounce, pulverized sulphate copper, 1 ounce; powdered sulphate iron, 1 ounce; calomel, 1 ounce; wood char-coal, 3 ounces. Apply to raw unhealthy sores once or twice a day. Good for wire cuts and wounds of that nature.

Drying Healing Powder—Oxide zinc, 2 ounces; powdered alum, 2 ounces; boric acid, 4 ounces. This makes a nice dressing for open sores and should be applied twice a day.

INCREASE IN EXPORT OF DAIRY PRODUCTS

Almost Double the Value of Shipments Made in 1924.

Our exports of butter for the 12 months ending with September totalled 34,537,840 lbs. valued at $12,566,834 compared with 18,026,399 lbs. value at $6,562, 742 in the previous year, and of cheese 149,292,800 lbs. valued at $11,553,388 compared with 115,245,[illegible] lbs. valued at $21,881,111. Of milk powder the exports were 9,217,400 lbs. valued at $984,113 against 4,742,700 lbs. valued at $465,050, and of milk, condensed, canned or preserved 45885,200 lbs. valued at $1,975,558, compared with 42,154,400 lb. valued at $4,873,971. Of casein there was an export of 286,053 lbs. valued at valued at $22,335 against 30,359 lbs. valued at $2,710.

We thus have a gratifying increase of the export of all dairy products for the 12 months ending September last of 57,650,139 lbs. valued at $16,346,644 compared with the previous 12 months.

TYING ON LOADS.

For tieing on loads, rope cannot be beaten. Any person who has had experience in drawing baled hay over rough roads knows how difficult it is to keep the top in place. A rope about fifty feet long, drawn tight around the top course of bales will hold them in one solid cluster. Each bale then helps to hold the other.

EARLY MOULTER IS NOT ALWAYS WINTER LAYER

Sometimes Poor Health Causes Hen To Lose Her Feathers.

CAN'T STAND STRAIN.

Many breeders differ in their opinions as to which is the better fowl, the one that moults early or the one that moults late. The early moulters are supposed to have cast their feathers and come into full lay when eggs are making their best prices. This is not always the case, for much depends on the health and constitution of the birds. Many of the moulting birds will be found to be down in condition, which invariably accounts for the shedding of their coats. Their constitutions will not stand a further strain in the production of eggs, so nature asserts herself, puts them into the moult, and so they get a chance to recuperate. Other fowls with strong constitutions continue to lay, and are late in casting their feathers, for they have the stamina and substance to stand both strains. Many of these birds will continue to produce eggs when shedding the first of their feathers. These very often moult so easily and gradually that the change of feather is hardly noticeable. These are the best fowls, and a note should be kept of same. They should be kept for the breeding pens so that these desirable qualities may be transmitted to the flock.

Another form of late moulting is that in which the bird seems to shed all her feathers in 24 hours. She suddenly appears in an almost semi-nude state. When this happens late in the season, there is a certain amount of danger from cold winds, and it is advisable that such birds be given a certain amount of protection. These, however, grow a covering of feathers in a very short space of time, and to assist themself that is possible, a very generous diet should be fed to them. The rule of feeding for moulting birds is to reduce the quality during the early stages of same, and increase the ration when the bird begins to grow its feathers again. Boiled linseed and sulphur should be added to the mash at the latter stage, as these ingredients go a long way to assist the birds in the growth of feathers.

There is very little to be gained by forcing birds to begin to moult. Some breeders believe in it, as they consider they get the birds ready at an earlier date for winter egg production. It is very questionable if any advantage is gained in this way. There is no doubt but that birds can be induced to moult before their ordinary time, but very often when this is done they take much longer to grow their new feathers, so that nothing is gained, and sometimes much lost. Exhibition birds, of course, can be brought into show feathers quicker by forcing the moult, and thus they are in bloom for the earlier shows. Forcing the moult has rather a damaging effect on egg production than otherwise. To bring the birds into moulting condition, the diet should be reduced so that they have nothing to spare to turn into eggs. Any sudden change of temperature, or any change of quarters will induce birds to moult before their time. If the birds are laying, it is always advisable to leave them alone, and allow nature to take its course. Eggs at the present time are making quite good prices, and there is every chance, if the strain of fowls is all right, these birds will moult quickly.

Feeding plays just as important a part in the moulting of fowls as it does in the keeping of them in laying condition. Scientific feeding of poultry has done quite as much for the industry as scientific breeding has done. Healthy fowls will come through the moult without much trouble, in spite of the great strain that must be borne in growing a complete covering of feathers. The strain will put down all the weak birds. Those that come through the moult very slowly, and with apparent difficulty should be culled at the earliest opportunity. All moulting birds should have sulphate of iron in their drinking water, which acts as a tonic on the system. The feathers that are moulted should be swept up and either burned or buried. Mixed with rotted manure, they become very useful for gardening purposes. It will be found that the majority of fowls rapidly lose flesh during the early stages of moulting. They, however, quickly regain their normal weight when the new feathers appear. They should have special nutriment given to them at this stage.

SUGGESTED REMEDY FOR CURING COWPOX

Hydrogen Peroxide is Best Application For Controlling Disease.

The cure and control of cowpox in a dairy herd is a simple and easy problem if hydrogen peroxide is used. Its liberal use will quickly check the disease even at its worst form. The red spots will quickly dry up and disappear and the open sores will have a clean and healthy appearance, but those sores will require a salve to assist in the healing process.

Best results are obtained by keeping a bottle of peroxide in the barn for immediate use. During the milking period a cow is found to be infected Then, immediately after you have milked her, bathe the hands, and then the teats and lower part of the udder with peroxide. Repeat the treatment after each milking period. Milk the infected cow or cows last. After a third or fourth milking the disease will have disappeared and the treatment may be discontinued.

Would the following date be an auspicious one for me to enter into an mportant transaction or engagement?

(day) .....(month) .....(year) .....

Boob—At fifteen you are not well enough developed for any decisive reading. You are still in the formative period. However, you show a very strong mentality, with possibilities for great achievement. This is nothing uncommon. After a few years, when the first sorrows and reverses have buffetted you—it is then that the stuff of which you are made will show itself clearly in your character. Your destiny—at fifteen—is in your own hands. Life is a great gift, one to be used wisely. See that you so use it.

Brownie—You are methodical and tidy, but do not worry about system. You would excel in business pursuits, but are also gifted musically. You are lofty-minded and independent, and like to lead. You are aspiring, but will not take advancement except on its merits. You have a good degree of will-power and decision of character; will yield to persuasion, but not to force. You are, however, willing to change your opinions if shown in a proper spirit where you are wrong, but will not be turned aside from what you think and feel is right. You have an understanding sympathy with all, and are capable of great love toward those toward whom you are drawn. Your colors are red and brown. You were born on a Thursday. The day of which you enquire is not one for snap judgments or quick action. Let things naturally take their course.

B. R.—You are limited in your sense of justice and have few conscientious scruples. You are inclined to do right as a matter of expediency, rather than from moral principles. You are given to despondency, resulting from the low value you place on your own and other people's worth. Yet you have large inherent ability and can, if you will, attain higher levels of achievement and gain a broader outlook. Take up some religious study to raise your moral plane. You were born on a Saturday. Your color is red.

Ben—You will find financial success comparatively easily, but must search for the deeper satisfactions. Cultivate sympathy for others. You have good powers of perception and considerable ability, both of which will grow with study and concentration. You are too young yet to have strongly developed traits. Your colors are blue and cream. You were born on a Thursday.

Rene—You are inclined to underrate your abilities and worth, and are apt to waste time on trivial things when you are fitted for more important undertakings. You have the mental power to carry through big enterprises, but lack initiative and self-confidence. You are charming in manner and have many real friends. You would appreciate commendation when honestly earned, but detect dissimulation and false praise. You are governed by the highest order of moral principle, and would not knowingly do wrong. Take a quiet hour to rate your capabalities, set a mark at which to aim, and resolve that no fear of failure will hold you back. Assert yourself in your own mind. You have great possibilities, and it would be sad indeed if you neglected them. The day of which you enquire would be a good one on which to enter new fields of endeavor; it is not one for new social relationships. Your colors are orange and grey. You were born on a Monday.

L. S.—You have an exaggerated notion of your own importance and are apt to look down upon others less fortunately situated than yourself. You were born with a silver spoon in your mouth, and though now blossoming out into young womanhood you have never had a real test of your mental or moral fibre. Get to know some real people, cultivate the sovereign grace of humility, be human. You are inclined to be extravagant, and have no idea of the value of money. There is no one more contemptible than the person who is satisfied to live off others, giving to the world neither service nor love.

Lonesome I.—You can change your mind just as quickly as any of your sex ever did. Your reading shows change and uncertainty, coupled with good mental force. Influence of the arts is strong, but complete happiness is not shown. You are full of good cheer, and have great personal charm. You have an excellent perception of analogies, without the training to apply your talent in a practical way. You would be successful in a business career, but have also the sympathy and skill that make a good nurse. You are capable of great affection, and will be efficient in house-management. Cultivate efficiency and stick-to-it-iveness. When you set yourself to a task, don't rest until it is accomplished. Such discipline will develop steadiness. Your reading responds to no color, hence your keynote is black, the absence of color. You were born on a Friday, not Saturday, as stated. Do not make any important purchases or investments on the day you name. It is a good day on which to form new social allegiances.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY DECEMBER 20 21.

Sunday's horoscope presages success and satisfaction in all the affairs of the day, particularly as they relate to churchly and benevolent enterprises and to mental employment, which is under benefic stimulus.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of success and should find the mind ready to cope with profound problems. A child born on this day should be studious and ambitious and may succeed either in business or employment.

Monday's astrological map shows the opportunity for change or travel, following the removal of a stubborn, crystallized condition, but this should be embraced with much deliberation, since all the auguries are not benefic.

Those whose birthday it is should embrace openings for change or travel with due precaution, as some disadvantages are possible. Likewise be careful with letters and writings and avoid speculation. A child born on this day may be persevering and industrious, although fond of change, travel and disposed to make frequent changer of environment and employment.

LABOR COMPLAINT OF BUILDING WAGE

International Paper Company Finds No Scarcity.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 19. (Canadian Press).—Objection is voiced in local Labor circles to the rates of wages which are being paid to laborers and carpenters employed by the Fraser Brace Construction Company, on the construction of the new paper mill and power plants for the International Paper Company at Chelsea and Templeton.

It is stated that laborers are paid at the rate of only thirty cents per hour, out of which they have to pay their board at the camp of $1 per day, and that carpenters receive only fifty cents per hour.

The prevailing rates of wages for laborers in Ottawa and district is claimed to be forty cents per hour, while carpenters receive seventy-five cents per hour.

The Fraser Brace Construction Company has nothing to say in the matter, with the exception that it has all the men it can employ at these rates, and in fact, has had to lay some off.

WOMEN NOW USE MEN'S HALF HOSE

BLOOMINGTON, Dec. 19.—Co-eds of Indiana University have created a new fad in feminine fdotgear which already is spreading throughout the state.

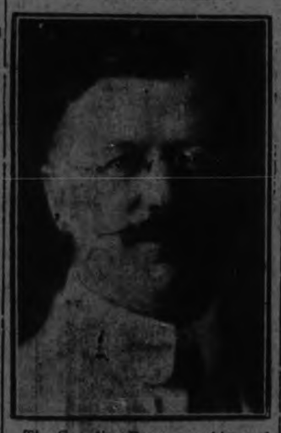
A group of them made their bow at a football game with men's hose pulled on over their own thin silk stockings to protect their ankles from he blasts of autumn winds.

A few days later all the co-eds on the campus had adopted the custom, and clothing merchants reported that there was not a pair of cotton hose left in the city's stores.

The hose are pulled u as far as they will reach and give the impression of half-hose, coming a few inches below the bottom of the skirt. They threaten to supplant goloshes for midly cold weather among the fair sex.

Grocers and dry goods merchants have to pay for a lot of automobiles they don't own.

C. P. PRESIDENT



The Canadian Press was this week served with a writ issued by Charles E. Campbell, publisher of Edmonton Bulletin, claiming damages totaling $110,000, service being made in Calgary on its president, J. H. Woods (above). The basis of the claim purports to be that the Canadian Press became party to a conspiracy whereby Mr. Campbell having purchased the Edmonton Bulletin, in October last, had been wrongfully refused a membership in the Canadian Press and refused also its news service.

BUYERS CROWD FARM MARKET THIS MORNING

GEESE PLENTIFUL.

Eggs Scarce, Selling at 55 and 60—Apples Plentiful.

There was a real Christmas market in the hall this morning. The big interior was jammed tight with the crowds of people who surged back and forth, pricing and buying. Auxiliary counters were created in the aisles by using rows of chairs which held further supplies of the fowl that covered the ordinary counters, overflowed from huge baskets and spilled themselves out on the floor. Men and women crowded through the narrow openings and the vendors answered questions from every side. At a late hour, the tables were covered with unsold birds.

Geese seemed to be in the majority, huge geese inclining to the large sizes, in 13 and 15 and 17 pound weights. There were plenty of turkeys, too, the largest weighing 25 pounds 10 ounces, and selling at 38 cents a pound. A 22 pound bird sold at 28 cents, but the prices generally appeared to be 40, 42 and 43 cents a pound, with many asking 45 cents, and the opening price touching the 50 cent a pound mark. Downstairs, at one cart, gobblers were 43 cents and hen birds 45 cents a pound.

Ducks and chickens were fairly scarce, the former priced at 28 and 25 cents a pound, the latter from 22 to 25 cents a pound. Geese sold from 20 to 25 cents a pound.

Eggs were not very plentiful and were priced at 60 and 55 cents a dozen. Butter was 44 and 45 cents a pound.

Potatoes on the open market were $2.50 a bag this morning. Apples were plentiful. No. 1 Spies were prices at $5 a barrel.

Cider in glass containers was 40 cents a gallon.

JAPAN TO PROTEST RAILROAD SEIZURE

Levy Made Without Knowledge of Japanese Chief Accountant.

SHANGHAI, December 19. — (United Press.) — Japan is expected to make strong representations to China in conection with the seizure of $1,400,000 of the funds of the Shantung Railway by Marshal Chang Chung-chang, commander of the 1st Fengtien Army, and chief lieutenant to Chang Tso-lin the Mukden warlord.

According to reports received here from Tsingtao, Marshal Chang, who commands the Feng-ien force in the battle for Shantung province, forced the Chinese staff of the railway to turn the money over to him. The levy, it is said, was made without the knowledge of the Japanese chief accountant of the railway, who is supposed to approve all disbursements.

TOBACCO TAX UP.

Twenty Per Cent. Increase on Imports to Japan—Markets Cut.

TOKYO, Dec. 19. — (United Press.)— A twenty per cent. increase in the price of tobacco has come to plague unfortunate Japanese, already burdened by hard times and the unprecedented high cost of living.

Faced with the necessity of raising additional funds immediately the Mlinstry of Finance ordered the government tobacco monopoly to increase prices at once. To prevent people from laying in stocks in advance no warning was given of the increase— prices simply went up 20 per cent. when the announcement was made.

Japanese are inveterate smokers, both men and women using the cheap cigarettes marketed by the tobacco monopoly in huge quantities.

American tobaccos, always very high in Japan, soared to impossible prices with the increase. An ordinary 10 cent bag of cheap American smoking tobacco now costs the equivalent of half a dollar in Tokyo.

According to the latest report there are 27,469 women in the Federal civil service in Washington, of which the largest number are employed in the Treasury Department.

BERLIN, Dec. 19 (United Press).—Germans on their way today found their morning papers jubilantly proclaiming that the American Congress had abolished prohibition The dispatches, which bore sensational headlines were sent from Paris.

The press pointed out gleefully that if the report were correct, the chances of prohibition throughout Europe had received a severe set-back.

SEVERAL ROBBERS DYNAMITE SAFE

DOWS, Iowa, Dec. 19 (Canadian Press). — A hold-up sortie that smacked of the frontier days in the west was staged by seven or eight robbers here this morning, who dynamited their way into the safe of the Dows Savings Bank and escaped with between $10,000 and $20,000, after holding off the inhabitants with a fusilade of pistol shots.

State agents joined local officials all over Iowa in a search for the men but promising clues were scarce.

Dismounted Jockey Lights On Another Fallen Horse

PARIS, Dec. 19 (United Press).—Enghien track produced a remarkable freak of acrobatic horsemanship when a jockey in a steeplechase event unwillingly changed mounts in taking an obstacle.

At the water jump on the first lap Se Souvenir, closely followed by Meissonier, fell, and his jockey, E. Haes, rolled out of the saddle. Meissonier also blundered in taking the obstacle and the jockey, Francois Herve, was pitched forward out of the saddle. He threw his arms up for protection and then, to his great astonishment, found himself lifted up in a saddle.

When thrown by his mount Herve had fallen square on the back of Se Souvenir as the horse was climbing to his feet. The animal bravely galloped down the course with the amazed jockey trying to get his feet in the stirrups and discover what had happened. When he finally realized that he was riding the wrong horse he pulled up Se Souvenir and, dismounting, brought him back to the obstacle.

SYNOPSIS

Connemara Moore has just dived off the deck of the yacht, joining McTish in the waters of Long Island Sound. There had been a terrible fight aboard, following talk of bootleggers and revenue officers. Aunt Celimena, accompanied by Bing Carrington, Saltonstall Adams and Brewster, the lawyer, is just leaving her Connecticut home—though it's after midnight to search for Connie. The girl was to have announced her engagement tonight, but—disappeared.

CHAPTER XI.—Continued.

"I've thought of the very thing," he announced triumphantly. "Harry Harvey's got a motor boat that will take us to Bayville in no time. Harry's in Saratoga, but his engineer knows me, and he lives in the boathouse down by the inlet. You're not to worry, Miss Moore," he repeated soothingly. The role of protecting and advising Aunt Celimena was so novel that Bing couldn't resist playing with it from time to time. He had always had an uneasy conviction that the indomitable old lady preferred Salt to himself as a future nephew-in-law, which naturally did nothing to detract from his enjoyment of the present situation.

A winding country lane led from the Boston Post Road to the particular little inlet from the Sound they were headed for, and at the end of this they found Harry Harvey's boathouse readily enough, but no engineer. The motorboat, a fairly large one, was locked into a slip over which the boathouse straddled.

The unforeseen absence of the engineer was disconcerting, but Bing was in a mood tonight to ride roughshod over obstacles, ethical or physical as the case might be, and he declared boldly that since there was no one to give permission, they must do without.

Mr. Brewster was inclined to demur at the forcible removal of another man's property, but his protests were swept aside without formality, and he found himself, somewhat to his own astonishment, following the resourceful Mr. Carrington, gingerly, through a broken window into the dark interior of the boathouse.

Salt and Aunt Celimena waited outside until the doors of the boathouse swung open, after which Bing once more disappeared into the darkness within, to loose the motor boat from its moorings.

The storm had blown over, but it was not until they were within sight of the Long Island shore that the moon broke through the clouds, conveniently in readiness to light their passage into Bayville.

Mr. Brewster pointed it out to Miss Celimena as complacently as though he, personally, were responsible for its reappearance.

"A good omen, my dear Miss Moore," he suggested, rubbing his thin hands ingratiatingly.

Miss Celimena ignored him. "What's that?" she demanded of no one in particular, lifting a hand for silence. Salt, who was near her, bent forward in a listening attitude.

The sound was repeated, and this time resolved itself into muffled shouting and a few straggling shots at what appeared to be no great distance from them; though, since the moon once more chose to retire behind the heavy wind clouds racing across the sky, it was impossible to see anything.

"Sounds as if rum runners were out tonight," Bing grunted. "Guess they're in a clash with some patrol boat."

Mr. Brewster was evidently of the same opinion, for he immediately began to urge Aunt Celimena to give up the expedition and order the Filomena's nose pointed back to Connecticut.

"My dear madam, there isn't the slightest need of your undertaking this wild-goose chase," he pleaded. "Let us go back, I beg of you, and these young men can——"

"Pish!" said Aunt Celimena with a brevity and decision that would have been crudeness in anyone less naturally majestic. Unfortunately the full effect of the retort was somewhat marred by her having risen to her feet to peer into the darkness ahead, just as a particularly playful wave hit the Filomena's bow. Aunt Celimena sat down a little hurriedly for either dignity or comfort, and panted, glaring about her.

Bing shut off the engine, and they floated for a time, listening for a repetition of the sound of firing, which did not come. Then the moon made one of its periodic reappearances and showed them a motorboat only a few hundred yards away. She had no lights, and the irregular put-put-put of her exhaust spoke of trouble. She was distinctly down by the bow, and even in the uncertainty of moonlight and shadow it took no expert to see that she had been badly stove in.

Evidently someone on board her caught sight of the Harvey boat at the same moment, for a vigorous hail came across the water, requesting the Filomena to stand by.

"I don't altogether like the look of this," Bing confided to Salt Adams under his breath, his face troubled. "But she's sinking, that's sure. We'll have to take 'em on board, whoever they are."

The other craft was heading directly for them now, laboring heavily, and Bing, leaving Salt to start their engine, went forward again to the wheel.

What happened next was as perplexing as it was unexpected. The navigator on the approaching boat suddenly put his helm hard over, so that the battered newcomer lay full in the path of the Filomena.

Bing, with no time to consider, instinctively selected the side that seemed to offer the better chance of passing, and swung his own wheel. For a moment it looked as though he would get by, but hope was short-lived. The nose of the Filomena grazed, jarringly, along the other craft's side, and Bing found himself sprawling in the bilge.

Before he could disentangle himself from Aunt Celimena, who had clutched him with determination at the moment of impact, a man climbed agilely over the Filomena's rail and swung himself down on the deck. He was a big man in a wet and torn jersey, and as Bing struggled to his feet he had a glimpse over one shoulder of a section of pipe, wielded by one of the brawny arms the jersey covered, descending deliberately in the direction of his own unprotected head. He also saw, to his amazement, that five or six bulky figures had followed the first over the side, and appeared to be hitting senselessly and indiscriminately at anything they saw moving.

Then the moonlight was obscured abruptly for Bing Carrington in a shower of red and golden stars, and, his feet slipping from under him, he shot head first over the Filomena's low rail.

The pipe wielder had struck him a glancing blow, stunning him momentarily, but the plunge into the water revived him sufficiently to realize the advantages of the depths over the surface just then.

By the time bursting lungs had forced him to come up, he was fifty feet or more from the two boats and well in the shadow. A log was bobbing along in the path of the moonlight. Somebody on one of the boats caught sight of it, and immediately a revolver sang out several times, and two bullets spattered the water close to the log. The firer, however, discovering his mistake, desisted, and Bing, with cautious intervals of swimming under water, made his way to the near-by shore.

Behind him on the deck he had left so precipitately pandemonium reigned for the space of a few long-drawn-out minutes, but at the end of that time the boarders, owing to the surprise of the attack and superior numbers, had things their own way, and proceeded to lay the two boats side by side.

NARROW ESCAPE FOR MOTORISTS

Car Hit Pig on Slippery Road And Over-Turned.

NOBODY INJURED

MADOC, Dec. 19.—What might have been a serious accident occurred to the wreckers of Belleville on the road between Madoc and Belleville Monday night. While driving to the city their Ford touring car struck a pig, and owing to the slippery roads, the impact whirled the car directly around so that it was facing due north and overturned it in the ditch. Fortunately the car had not been going very fast, and no one was hurt not even a live goose which was in the back of the car. When the car was finally righted and back on the road again it was found that no damage had been done to the engine, and the party was able to continue on the way.

At a meeting of the Madoc Hockey Club this week it was decided that the team colors should be black and white. Sweaters have been ordered and are to be black with white bands, collars and cuffs. Some of the members of the club visited the rink and found a good sheet of ice in process of making, which is expected to be ready by Saturday if weather conditions remain favorable.

At a meeting of St. Paul's W.M.S. recently the annual election of officers took place. All the executive was re-elected with the exception of Mrs. F. Curry, the secretary, who felt that she could remain in office. Miss Van Kleek was then appointed to fill that position.

On Friday evening last the High School hockey league held a meeting at which representatives from Marmora, Tweed, Stirling and Madoc were present.

President—A. Ashley, Madoc.

1st Vice President—A. Meiklejohn, Stirling.

2nd Vice President—Leo Quinn, Tweed.

Secretary-Treasurer — K. Tufts, Madoc.

Executive — One representative from each village.

It was decided that each team was to choose a board of three referees, on of whom the visiting team was to choose three days previous to the game.

The schedule is a follows:

Jan. 1—Tweed at Stirling.
Jan. 8—Madoc at Stirling.
Jan. 13—Tweed at Madoc.
Jan. 22—Madoc at Tweed.
Jan. 29—Stirling at Tweed.
Feb. 5—Stirling at Madoc.

Notices are out that nominations for reeve, four councillors and three public school trustees for the village of Madoc will be held in the Town Hall, Madoc, on Monday, December 28.

O.T.A. CHARGE FOLLOWS SMASH

Driver of One Automobile Pleaded Guilty to Having Been Drunk.

COBOURG, Dec. 19.—Duncan Martin of Grafton came up on Friday before Magistrate Floyd, charged with an offence under the O.T.A. On November 20th, a car driven by Victor Buckingham collided with a car driven by R. J. McMullen near the Finlay farm in Haldimand township. Both cars wer badly smashed and the occupants injured. The police were summoned to the scene and Martin, who was riding in the McMullen car, and McMullen were taken into custody. McMullen appeared before Magistrate Floyd the following day charged with driving a motor car while in an intoxicated condition. He pleaded guilty. A quantity of liquor was found by the police a little distance from the car, it is alleged, and a charge was brought against Martin of having liquor in a place other than his own private dwelling. He appeared before the Magistrate and the case was adjourned until Friday, when he came up and was remanded, this time until December 18. McMullen was called as a witness and told his story of the day's proceedings. Chief Rose told of finding the cans of liquor. Harold Taylor of Grafton, Provincial Officer Cousons, Dr. Hutchinson, who was called to attend the injured men. Victor Buckingham and others gave evidence. Crown Attorney Kerr represented the Crown and C. A. Payne was counsel for Martin. Considreable contradictory evidence was given by the men who figured in the accident.

ALNWICK COUNCIL WINDS UP BUSINESS

ROSENEATH, Dec. 19.—The Alnwick Township Council held its last meeting for 1925 in the Town Hall on Saturday at 10 a.m., with the Reeve in the chair and all members present.

A bylaw to provide for nomination and the appointment of officials for election was introduced and passed. The following will be the officials if an election is necessary:

No. 1 polling division, in Town Hall—D.R.O., Albert Halstead; Poll Clerk, J. T. Drape.

No. 2 polling division, at or near Thackeray's School—D.R.O., Amos Shearer; Poll Clerk, Newman Lean.

No. 3 polling division, at or near North School—D.R.O., Jas. Webb; Poll Clerk, D. J. Varcoe.

Reeve Mouncey and Councillor Braithwaite reported on the timber sold by them on Saturday last. The wood adjoining the south of Delbert Sherwin's farm was sold to Wm. Brown for $8.50; at the south end of Jas. Dunneth's farm to N. W. Sherwin for $17.00, and the part adjoining Thos. Sandercock's land to L. Sherwin for $8.75.

On motion of Councillors Timlin and Parker, Reeve Mouncey and Councillors Brown and Braithwaite were appointed a committee to award the contracts of bushing Rice Lake. Notices of tender will be posted, tenders to be at the Clerk's office not latter than 6 o'clock on Saturday, Dec. 26th.

Councillors Timlin, Brown and Parker were appointed a committee to investigate the need of cutting brush on the north side of the road leading east from Varcoe's Corners.

Mr. S. A. Tucker, who has been School Attendance Officer for several years, tendered his resignation. The Council was loath to receive it as Mr. Tucker has done his work faithfully and without fear or favor, but as he would not re-consider it, they had to accept, and D. J. Varcoe was appointed for that office.

The Tax Collector was present with his statement, which showed that less than $300.00 remained to be collected, and on motion, his time was extended until Monday, Jan. 11th, when the new Councillors will take their places.

Mr. Copas Linton was present to receive his pay for the work on the Chidley road. Mr. Linton and men put in only an 8-hour day while at the job as that was all that was possible, but he asked for a full day's pay, or for 10 hours. The Council was very firm in this matter and told Mr. Linton that he would be paid for the hours he had worked—that is, 25c per hour for a man and 45c an hour for a man and a team. Mr. Linton accepted the payment.

The Reeve was authorized to sign orders on the Treasurer for the following accounts:

After the business had been transacted, the Reeve, Councillors and Clerk delivered short addresses. They all expressed themselves as satisfied with the year's work and had apparently enjoyed it. Reeve Mouncey stated that if he received a nomination he would again be in the field for election as Reeve. Councillor Parker said that he had been asked to come out for Reeve, but would not be a candidate for that position, but if he received a nomination for Councillor would be in the race. The rest of the Councillors expressed themselves much in the same manner, and if there is an election will all be in the field. Reeve Mouncey served four years in the Council and then was absent for three years, and last year came back and won out for the reeveship in a three-cornered fight. Councillor Parker has been a member of the Council for the past three years, while the rest have served but one year.

Clerk John McMillan, who is in his seventy-second year, spoke briefly, but gave them some good advice. Mr. McMillan is completing his fourteenth year as Clerk of the township.

A Gift that Increases in Value

Presentation Covers are provided for Christmas Gift Books.

WHAT DID YOU GIVE LAST CHRISTMAS? Toys for the kiddies—most of them broken by now. "Something useful" for the grown-ups—now worn out or forgotten. Cash to your employees—appreciated but soon spent. Other presents—hurriedly bought and perhaps ill-chosen. Are they remembered now?

Suppose this year you give them each a Bank Book containing an initial deposit, and urge them to add to it regularly. Could anything be more suitable?

Add "Royal Bank Pass Books" to your list of Christmas Gifts.

SANTA CLAUS AT SUNDAY SCHOOL

GOOD PROGRAMME.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 19. — The scholars of St. Andrew's Sunday School had one of the most pleasant evenings of the year Friday, that happy occasion when Santa Claus makes his annual appearance among them and distributes from well-stocked trees packages of Christmas comestibles and other gifts. There were over 160 of these packages handed out last night after a splendid and seasonable programme had been rendered. The gentleman of benevolent aspect and ample proportions who represented the children's patron saint last night was Alex. McDonald and he introduced some novelties in the make-up of Santa, bringing his costume and general appearance up to date, the custom that is becoming vogue in theatrical circles with Shakespearian characters and those in other ancient plays. In spite of the bushy beard which, while it may have protected Santa from the wintry wind, must have handicapped him in his business of negotiating chimneys and constantly exposed him to the risk of fire, he was represented last night as to hirsute adornments by a well-trimmed moustache and goatee. The familiar short, white jacket was replaced by a fur coat of modern design that reached almost to his ankles.

While the program was being rendered the interest of the children was kept alive by telegrams from Santa sent to report his progress from Dawson City to Winnipeg, from the latter place to Marmora and thence to Campbellford, these dispatches being read by Rev. James Grier, the chairman.

A Well-Pleased Audience.

It was certainly a pleasant function, with the large school room crowded to the doors with he scholars and their parents and friends and by others who had no such direct or personal interest in the affair. The children in their parts showed the thorough training they had for weeks received by the programme committee, the decorations were in excellent taste and appropriate to the season. Mr. Grier, the chairman, and J. A. Anderson, the superintendent of the school, welcomed the audience in short addresses, after which the following programme was given, every department of the school, from the primary to the senior being represented by those who took part:

Welcome Chorus, by about 50 members of the school
Motion Song, by Primary Boys.
Recitation—Jean Hendy.
Recitation—Ralph Finney.
Chorus by Intermediate Girls.
Drill — Christmas Tree, by Junior Girls and Boys.
Recitation—"Family Troubles," by Georgia Nesbitt.
An Illustration of Domestic Duties for Every Day in the Week, by Primary Girls.
Kinky Kids' Parade, by Intermediate Boys.
Chorus—"Ring Bells, Ring," by Boys.
Reading by Bertha Blue.
Recitation by Marior Rider.
Dialogue by Senior Girls
Dutch Drill by Junior Girls.
"Four Little Girls in Brown," by Intermediate Girls.
Dialogue by Three Girls.

Superintendent J. A. Anderson moved a vote of thanks to the committees who had worked so hard for the success of the entertainment and this was enthusiastically carried. The members of the various committees were as follows:

Programme committee — Miss Mary Watson, Mrs. William Hume, and Mrs. John Storie

Helpers to programme committee —Mrs. G. Thompson, Miss L. Locke, Miss K Connor, Miss Lillian Hay, Miss Hazel Atkinson, and Miss Mary McGregor.

Decoration Committee—Mrs. Neil Morrison, Mrs. J. A. Anderson, and Mrs. John S. Wallace.

John Storie is assistant superintendent of the school and with Mrs. Storie took an active part in the preparations for the entertainment

A pleasant incident of the evening was the presentation of a beautiful bouquet to Mrs (Rev.) James Grier, as a recognition of the aid she had given in the preparations. The gift was presented by little Margaret McCulloch, one of the youngest of the scholars. In the distribution of gifts, Mr. Grier, the popular pastor, was not overlooked by Santa Claus.

ARRESTED FOR SHOOTING DONE FOUR YEARS AGO

HAPPENED IN FIGHT.

Man Was Killed in Brawl With Sinn Feiners—Fourth Man Accused.

TORONTO, Dec. 19 (Canadian Press) — Wanted at Coal Island, County Tyrone, Ireland, since August, 1921, on a charge of murder, William Marshall, aged 27, married, was arrested last night at his home in Berkeley street, where he was living with his wife and child.

Marshall's alleged victim was John O'Neill of Coal Island, who was shot to death during a fight between Sinn Feiners and opposition forces. The Home Office, London, England, supplied the clue by which Marshall was traced. He had been a soldier during the war and made application for his pension to the War Office, London, England.

As Irish authorities had been asking him since the time of the tragedy they immediately wired provincial police headquarters and asked them to arrest Marshall.

He was taken aback when told that he was wanted for murder. In commenting on the affair he told of a fight which ensued between rival forces in the streets of Coal Island. Two of his friends, he said, were pitted against over fifty Sinn Feiners and it was during his participation in the combat to help his friends that the tragedy occurred.

A feature of the affair lies in the fact that to date no less than three other men have been tried on Canada in 1922 and located in Tocharges of murdering O'Neill, one of them Marshall's own father. All were acquitted. Marshall came to ronto where he had been employed as a laborer.

CANADA LAGS IN MARKETING

Hon. Manning Doherty Says Farmers Must Help Themselves.

NEED FAIR RETURN.

WOODSTOCK, Dec. 19 (Canadian Press)—Speaking at the annual meeting of the Woodstock and District Milk Producers' Association here, Hon. Manning Doherty, former minister of Agriculture for Ontario, declared that the salvation of the agricultural industry lay in the hands of the farmers alone, by giving intelligent thought to their marketing problems.

"When the day comes that the farmers can count on a fair return for their products," said Mr. Doherty, "there will be a transformation in the problems of Canadian producers. These problems must be solved by the farmers alone, and then only will all the other rural problems be solved. I hope I live to see the day when we have adopted co-operative commodity marketing as a national policy and the remaining active days of my life are to be spent in advocating it to help farmers bring about a reorganization of their industry and to bring business principles into the marketing of their produce."

Canada was a great producing country, said the speaker, but was far behind other countries in marketing its products.

TEMPERANCE ACT RAIDS RAISE IRE

Legality of St. Boniface Seizures Questioned.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 19 (Canadian Press).—The activities of St. Boniface police in enforcing the Manitoba Temperance Act has resulted in the legality of the raids being questioned in court.

L. D. Morosnick, defence counsel in a liquor case, Friday challenged the legality of the raids, and declared:

"Citizens are being dragged from their home at unearthly hours of the morning, taken to the police station and thrown in the cells without any charge being laid against them. I wish to know by what authority the Crown is making such arrests."

Crown counsel replied that no warrant was required to arrest persons found committing a breach of the Temperance Act. The act was not repealed when the Manitoba Moderation Act became effective.

WELL-FOUNDED

In the days of the old Cripple Creek a mining camp judge, upon finding the bad citizen of the camp hanging by the neck from a cottonwood, with his hands tied behind him, a six-gun in one hip pocket and $25.10 in the other, reached this decision:

"If the co't know itself, and the co't think it do, it allow this hyar man come to death from some unknowed causes at the hands of persons unknowned to this co't, and the co't finds the corpse $25.10 for carrying concealed weapons."

MONTREAL MULCTS THEN AIDS YOUTHS

Fined For Resisting Police—Funds From Citizens.

MONTREAL, Dec. 19 (Canadian Press).—Samuel Harding and Samuel King, Alberta youths who had intended to spend Christmas at their homes in England, but who paid most of their money into the Recorder's Court here, will get home after all, sympathy of some Montreal citizens having been aroused in their cases. They were arrested when they were passing through here as cattlemen with a shipment of cattle from their employer's ranch, when their sombrero hats and plain-like appearance brought them to the attention of police officers who were seeking gunmen of the same general description. Harding had a gun on him, and faced a charge of being armed without a permit, while both had "resisting" charges against them which arose out of their scuffle with the police when they objected to arrest.

Both youths hope to sail from St. John, N.B., on December 24 Harding doesn't know yet whether or not he will be able to bring his mother and six brothers and sisters to Canada as he had intended.

CAPTIVE BEAR ON LONG SLEEP

One of the Seven Sleepers at Campbellford a Local Barometer.

TRUE TO SPECIES.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 19—Happy indeed is the lot of the bear, that, when the cold weather arrives, can solve the fuel question and the high cost of provisions by digging itself into a pile of straw or some other warm substance and, going to sleep, pass the time in quiet and comfort until the back of winter is broken.

The young bear that A. L. Riendeau captured at his hunting lodge in Haliburton and brought to Campbellford last fall has proved itself true to the instincts of its species and has hibernated for the winter. Local students of natural history have been studying the habits of this animal ever since it was brought here and intend to follow up this study with a view to finding out if there is anything in this popular belief that the bear, in common with the ground hog, abandons himself to slumber as soon as the cold weather sets in and remains under cover until the second day of February when he comes out to make atmospheric observations. If conditions are to his liking he remains at large but if not he returns to his lair and is lost to the world again for six weeks.

Mr. Riendeau has supplied his fellow citizens with their best barometer. His bear disappeared on two or three former occasions when the thermometer dropped but came out again when the weather grew milder. It now seems that he has retired permanently and the people are beginning to realize that winter has come to stay.

Mr. Riendeau put a quantity of clean straw in the building in which the bear is housed and to this comfortable bed Bruin has retired and for several days has been dead to the world.

A resident of Belleville, who has written several works on natural history, has asked Mr. Riendeau for the privilege of making a study of the bear at close range, as he wishes to compare the habits of one in captivity with those of the same animals in the wilds.

UNEXPECTED ADVICE.

Mr. Newlyrich strutted into a club to which he had been elected. He looked around to see if there was anybody there he knew, and after a while he discovered a well-known lawyer reading by a window.

He walked across to the lawyer and held out his hand, palm down. On his third finger glittered a diamond ring he had just bought.

"Hello, Mr. Briefs," he said, wiggling his fingers to make the diamond sparkle. "What would you do if you were me and had that?"

"I'd sell it," said the attorney, "and buy a nail brush."

THE STAR

In the cold heavens, before the dawn,
A star of wondrous beauty shone.

Earth still slept on; the winds were still;
No murmur from the frozen rill.

The starry throng o'erspread the sky,
An innumerable company.

But, brightest far of all the host,
This star of promise charmed me most.

It told the night was nearly done;
It heralded the coming sun.

It held my gaze; I watched it long,
As listening for the angel's song.

The song that still with sweetness fills
The memory of Judea's hills.

I thought of those wise men of old,
Whose lives are wrapped in mystery's fold;

And of the star that guided them
To the dear Child of Bethlehem;

Whose life had taught to every clime
That lowly paths may be sublime.

Again returns to glad the earth,
The day made sacred by His birth.

Again from out the ages dim
Comes echoing sweet the angel's hymn.

Joy-bringing now, with promise bright
To cheer the watches of the night;

Though marred are its seraphic tones
By clamor of discordant thrones.

Yet nearer now the time than then
Of peace and good-will unto men.

—J. E. Caldwell.

Goose seems to be as traditional for Christmas as turkey for Thanksgiving. While every family have certain dishes they like to serve Christmas after Christmas each hostess likes something a little different when it comes her turn to entertain the kinsmen.

A different stuffing for the goose, an unusual sauce, an out of the ordinary salad or a novel dessert will add interest to the family dinner that may be orthodox in other respects.

Christmas is always essentially the children's day so the dinner should not be overburdened with forbidden foods. The vegetables should be carefully planned with the juniors in mind and while a "taste" of the festive dishes may be permitted, the simple, wholesome food must be used to satisfy appetite and nourish.

A Centrepiece.

As for the decorative centrepiece for the Christmas table this year, why not try a gingerbread house with a gingerbread Santa Claus? Can you imagine the thrill of nibbling the chimney of Santa's house or actually swallowing a spicy, crumbly hand of the beloved old saint? One will gladly forego the plum pudding or mince pie when one is less than 8 if one may consume a piece of a house.

The following menu is not bristling with new dishes, but does have one or two points that make it different and worth consideration.

It begins with an oyster cocktail for several reasons. First the oysters are nourishing and easily digested, second, they require no cooking and extra fussing at the last minute and, third, they are at their best at this time of year. Also with the cocktail sauce they form a piquant appetizer that is not so highly flavored as to dull the palate to foods to come.

Chestnut Stuffing.

The vegetables are planned with children in mind. And so is the salad.

The plum pudding isn't really plum pudding at all but a gelatine pudding full of fruit but not as rich and heavy as the steamed pudding.

Stuffed celery in place of plain dressed celery is planned as a festive touch and because cheese is not used elsewhere in the menu.

Oyster Cocktail
Tomato Bouillon
Stuffed Celery Olives
Roast Goose. Chestnut Dressing
Apple and Horseradish Cream
Giblet Gravy
Mashed Potatoes Creamed Onions
Buttered Spinach
Prune and Nut Salad
Plum Pudding
Coffee.

How to Serve.

Of course the table is resplendent with the "best" linen, "best" silver and "best" dishes. The centrepiece is in place and the cocktails are served when the guests sit down to the table. The celery and olives may be on the table or if a maid is in attendance they are passed and then placed on the table to stay until the removal of the main course.

The cocktails are removed, leaving the service plate in front of each guest and the bouillon cup in its saucer placed on the service plate.

The bouillon cups are removed from the service plates after the second course. Then the service plate is removed with one hand, the dinner plate served with goose and stuffing is placed with the other hand. The host may carve and serve the plates if he prefers or they may be served from the kitchen. If the dinner is maidless it means much to the cook and hostess if the man of the house will carve.

And now for the goose. A so-called "green goose" is the choicest, but one up to eight months old is good.

Scrub Goose Well.

Scrub the bird well with hot soap suds when it comes from the butcher. This removes some of the oil. Rinse well after scrubbing and rub the inside with a cut onion. Season with salt and pepper and sprinkle inside and out with lemon juice. Rub the inside with salt, pepper and powdered thyme. The bird is now ready to stuff.

Stuff and place on rack in roaster. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Put into a hot oven and roast one hour. Pour off fat. Dredge with flour and put a thin slice of salt pork on each side of the breast. Reduce heat and roast for two or three hours, depending on the age of the goose. The joints should separate easily when the goose is done. If a bird is more than eight months old it should be steamed for two hours before roasting.

Chestnut Stuffing.

Two cups cooked chestnuts, 1 cup stale bread crumbs, 4 tablespoons melted butter, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, ¼ teaspoon pepper, hot water to make moist (about ½ cup).

American or European nuts can be used. Boil 30 minutes, shell and put through a coarse ricer. Combine ingredients, adding water to make moist.

Apple and Horseradish Cream.

Six greening apples, ½ teaspoon white pepper, ½ cup grated horseradish, ¾ cup sugar, 1 cup whipping cream, few grains salt.

Any tart apple can be used. Pare, quarter and core. Add boiling water, as little as possible and simmer until apples are tender. Beat with a slotted spoon or rub through a colander. Add pepper, sugar, horse-radish and salt. Let stand until cold or ready to serve. Then fold in cream whipped until stiff.

Plum Pudding.

Two tablespoons granulated gelatine, 1 cup milk, 1 cup boiling water, ¾ cup cold water, 1 cup seeded and chopped raisins, ¼ cup sliced and shredded citron, ¼ cup stoned and chopped dates, ½ cup blanched and shredded almonds, ½ cup candied cherries, ¾ cup minced candied orange and lemon peel, 2 squares bitter chocolate, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, few grains salt.

Soften gelatine in cold water for ten minutes. Grate chocolate and add boiling water, stir until melted. Add sugar and hot milk. Bring mixture to the boiling point and remove at once from the fire. Stir in softened gelatine. Let stand until cool and stir in salt, vanilla and prepared fruit and nuts. Turn into a mold and let stand several hours or over night in a cold place. Unmold and serve garnished with whipped cream and candied cherries.

Gingerbread.

So much for the dinner itself. The gingerbread house is our next consideration. This should be baked one or two days before Christmas and hidden in a safe place until wanted.

A good cookie mixture is baked in six sheets. Two are ten by seven inches, for the sides of the house. Two are six by ten for the ends of the house and two are ten by three for the roof. Of course you can choose your own proportions and make the house any size you choose.

The ends are cut to fit into the point of the roof. The pieces are put together with a heavy syrup boiled to the crack stage.

Windows and doors can be cut in the house after the sheets are baked. If the mixture bakes unevenly trim the pieces to uniform size.

Cookie Mixture.

Three-fourths cup butter, 1 cup brown sugar, ½ cup molasses, 1 egg, ½ cup sour cream, 1½ teaspoons soda, 5 cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons ginger, 1 teaspoon cinnamon.

Cream butter. Beat in sugar. Add molasses and beat until smooth. Add egg well beaten. Dissolve soda in sour cream and add to mixture. Mix and sift flour, salt, ginger and cinnamon and add to first mixture. Chill for several hours. Roll very thin and cut in the described sheets. Bake 12 minutes in a moderate oven. Let cool before using to build the house.

This same cookie mixture is used to make the figure of Santa. Boiled frosting can be used for snow and fur trimmings on Santa's coat.

This centrepiece will take time to make but it won't take much money, which is worth thinking about at this time of the year.

Christmas

'Tis said when day is over
And midnight shadows fall,
On Christmas Eve the cattle
Kneel humbly in the stall;
They bow in loving homage
Before the manger low,
Because the Blessed Christ-Child
Was laid there long ago.

And when the hour of midnight
Chimes forth from many a bell,
The glad notes ringing sweetly
O'er hill, and plain, and fell,
For one brief hour, 'tis whispered,
The beasts like men can speak,
That they may join in praising
The Babe and Mother meek.

The donkey, scarred, ill-treated,
Though marked with Holy Sign,
Kneels down amid the darkness
To hail the Child Divine;
For he, like kine and horses,
Was in that cattle-stall,
The birthplace of the Saviour—
The King and Lord of all!

The sheep upon the hillsides
Turn eastward, kneeling low,
In memory of the Angels
At Bethlehem long ago;
And shepherds by the sheep-fold
First heard the wondrous song—
The earliest Christmas carol,
Hymned by the heavenly throng.

NEW SKIRT MAKES WALKING EASIER

Sheath Type Not Conducive to Agile Movements—Long Stride Back.

LONDON, Dec 19.— Feminine skirts a short time ago were of the sheath type which made walking difficult and getting on buses and tramcars a work of gymnastics. All this is altered by the present fashion which is called the "flare." It gives greater freedom of movement to the lower part of the body.

Skirts are made just as short as before, but with more material and such regulated fullness, that the swinging stride of long ago is once again the fashion and there is no more worry about stepping onto buses, trams or trains.

French Omelet Perpetuated On Tombstone Billboard

DIJON, France, Dec. 19.— The tombstone marking the grave of his father in one of the local cemeteries is the novel advertising bill board imagined by a restaurant keeper to celebrate the excellence of the dish which is the specialty of his eating house.

It reads:

Here lies
PIERRE MERCIER, Innkeeper,
1848-1903
Inventor of the celebrated Mercier omelet.
His son,
in the same business on Dole street, possesses the unique recipe of the famous Mercier omelet.

Hair Dresser Receives $4,800 a Year In Tips

PARIS, Dec. 19.—What can a women's hair-dresser in Paris make in tips? Or rather what can he make, as none of the better class receive a fixed wage? L'Opinion says it happens by chance to be in a position to state that at least one womens' hair-dresser (and it gives his name "Eugene" and says where he works) receives more than 120,000 francs a year. This represents, at a low rate of exchange, more than $4,800 a year.

"Eugene" doubtless hopes that the income tax authorities do not read "L'Opinion."

CHOIR MEMBERS PRESENTED GIFTS

Shower for Miss Grace Northcott After Trinity Choir Practice.

On Thursday night, December 17, after the usual choir practice at Trinity Church a very pleasant event took place in the basement in the form of a miscellaneous shower to Miss Grace Northcott, a member of he choir, who will on December 31 become the bride of Mr. Gordon Webb of Windsor, a former member of Trinity choir.

The president, Mr. D. Fleming in a few brief words eplained the reason for the social hour and on behalf of the choir congratulated Miss Northcott on her approaching marriage, wishing her and her "intended" all the good things possible in their married life.

Little Miss Jean Forde then wheeled into the centre of the gathering a very daintily decorated wagon filled with the gifts which were both numerous and serviceable. Among the gifts were some silver teaspoons and a butter knife, the gift of the choir as a whole.

It all came as a very great surprise to Miss Northcott, who thanked the choir on her own behalf and that of Mr. Webb.

"For She's a Jolly Good Fellow" was then heartily sung by all, followed by dainty refreshments being served.

QUEEN'S HIGH HOPES MUST BE ABANDONED

Hindu Soothsayer Told Belgian Monarch to Console Herself.

SIMLA, India, Dec. 19.—Queen Elizabeth of Belgium has been told she will never achieve her greatest hopes, whatever they are.

Traveling incognito and accompanied by a lone lady-in-waiting, the queen entered a fortune teller's tent while visiting the old town.

"Madam, you have had unbound ambitions," the Hindu soothsayer said as she studied the queen's hand. "You were greatly desirous of occupying a high situation but you must abandon that hope and console yourself, for you will never achieve your wish or see your hopes fulfilled."

The queen smiled as she replied: "I have a situation that suits me quite well."

Miss Lena Turcott Receives Gifts From Workmates Before Leaving.

The employees of the bag department of the Quaker Oats assembled today for the second time in two weeks to make a presentation to one of their number who was entering married life. The recipient this time was Miss Lena Turcott, and she was given an iron and a tea tray by Misses Luella Pue and Mary Kennedy, while Miss E. Cranham read the following address:

Dear Lena,—As you are so soon leaving us to take up the duties of life in a home of your own, we take this opportunity to present you with these little gifts.

We trust that they will ever remind you of the many hours we have worked together.

What He Wanted And What He Got

(By Jeannette.)

SHE WANTED a diamond ring. She thought it was about time that he came across with one. He had been occupying the Chesterfield in the front parlor on an average of three nights a week for the past two years and escorting her to church on Sunday evenings, after partaking of the cakes and salads she stayed at home on Saturdays to make.

He was a nice chap. He had lately bought an etiquette book that told him all sorts of odd things, like which arm to offer a lady if she was sixty years of age and happened to be crossing the street on an icy day, and how to accept an introduction to a flapper, and other interesting bits. It warned him the the only gifts acceptable to a real lady were books, flowers or music.

So he sent her a dozen roses, and she cried herself to sleep.

She was an estimable woman and a good wife. John was a good husband too, but she wondered lately if he were taking her too much for granted. He did not spring to open the door for her, as he did in the first year of their marriage, and occasionally, when she wanted to go to a concert in the evening, he would grumble a little and hint that he would like to stay at home. She wished he would give her, for a Christmas present, a set of French ivory with silver inlay backs, or a marquise ring, or a red-feather fan.

He didn't know what to give his wife for Christmas. She was a sensible little thing and would, he knew, appreciate something for the house.

So he bought her the latest thing in vacuum cleaners, and after she had got over feeling disappointed about it, she thanked him very nicely, because, after all, she was a sensible woman.

She was a giddy little flapper, with her hair cut in the very newest way, doing away with as much of the "crowning glory" as possible. She wished her rich aunt in the Old Country would send her a Charleston jazz suit.—On Christmas morning she received a set of pretty hair combs.

He was an elderly gentleman, minus most of his teeth. He taught a class of little boys and wondered if they would give him a new Bible for Christmas.—They put their small heads together, counted up their pennies, and bestowed on him a brightly-colored box of assorted chewing gum.

He was what is known as a flashy dresser. He had his own ideas about what was proper in gentleman's apparel and tucked away in his bureau drawers were numerous examples of the bad taste of his lady friends. He was much in love with a kind young thing of eighteen years. He thought perhaps she would give him a silver cigarette case, chastely engraved with his initials, for a Yuletide present.

She said, "I wonder what I will give William. Ah, I have it!"

On Christmas morning he opened a special delivery parcel, and found inside —a necktie of magenta red.

The little boy tiptoed down the stairs, bright and early on Christmas morning. A knobby parcel in the toe of his sock intrigued his fancy. Perhaps it was the toy pistol he longed for. He unwrapped it carefully.—It was a tooth-brush.

RIP VAN WINKLE—V

(WASHINGTON IRVING)

by W. J. ENRIGHT.

THE STORY UP TO NOW

IN A VILLAGE AT THE FOOT OF THE KATSKILL MOUNTAINS, ON THE BANKS OF THE HUDSON RIVER, THERE LIVED A JOLLY, GOOD-NATURED MAN NAMED RIP VAN WINKLE. HE WAS A GREAT FAVORITE WITH EVERYBODY BUT HIS WIFE. SHE CONSTANTLY SCOLDED HIM, BECAUSE HE WOULD DO NO WORK, AND SHE EVEN BLAMED HIS FAITHFUL DOG WOLF FOR HIS SHIFTLESSNESS. SOMETIMES RIP AND WOLF WENT HUNTING IN THE MOUNTAINS, TO GET AWAY FROM THEIR TROUBLES. ONE DAY THEY STAYED AWAY SO LATE THAT NIGHT WAS COMING ON BEFORE THEY TURNED HOMEWARD.

AS RIP WAS ABOUT TO DESCEND HE HEARD A VOICE FROM THE DISTANCE SHOUTING, "RIP VAN WINKLE! RIP VAN WINKLE!" HE COULD SEE NOTHING.

HE THOUGHT HIS FANCY MUST HAVE DECEIVED HIM AND TURNED AGAIN TO DESCEND WHEN HE HEARD THE SAME CRY RING OUT, "RIP VAN WINKLE! RIP VAN WINKLE!" AT THE SAME TIME WOLF BRISTLED UP HIS BACK AND GIVING A LOW GROWL SKULKED AT HIS MASTER'S SIDE, LOOKING FEARFULLY DOWN INTO THE GLEN.

RIP NOW FELT A VAGUE FEAR STEALING OVER HIM AND, LOOKING ANXIOUSLY IN THE SAME DIRECTION, SAW A STRANGE FIGURE TOILING UP THE ROCKS AND BENDING UNDER THE WEIGHT OF SOMETHING HE CARRIED ON HIS BACK.

THINKING IT WAS SOME ONE IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD IN NEED OF ASSISTANCE HE HASTENED DOWN, BUT ON NEARER APPROACH WAS MORE SURPRISED AT THE SINGULARITY OF THE STRANGER'S APPEARANCE.

Radio at Christmas Marvel Of The Century

Brings Music from Air to the Fireside

Doubtless in the past few seasons you have seen or heard the slogan "Make This a Radio Christmas." In the short history of radio, never before has this cryptic sentence had the significant compelling power as it has Christmas, 1925. To the uninitiated it is the Golden Key to one of the world's greatest companions of Romance—music! Even a novice can translate the melodies of an inspired composition—for music is a divine gift!

Who would gainsay the genius of Beethoven, Chopin or Verdi? What hardened heart does not answer to the satire and tragedy of life in Pagliacci? Who could not sympathize with Tonio the clown—he who laughed though his heart was breaking? How aptly is it pictured and written to music by the genius of Ruggiero Leoncavalli. Again the haunting yet care-free compositions of the immortal Bach; the martial patriotism of Chopin's Polonaise, the religious appeal of the "Ave Maria;" it is not difficult to associate the different compositions with their prospective masters! Just as easily do we associate the haunting melodies of the ukelele and guitar with Hawaii. The click of castanets with Spain. Does not "Carmen" tell the story of passionate Spain? "Alahoe"—no matter on what instrument the intense sympathy of sadness of equatorial love?

All through the ages we can trace the concrete development of the musical arts. Generally, more refined the music—more highly developed the intellect of the country. In fact real music developed only in peace and good-will. Even though we do not all appreciate the study of the many intricacies of music:—(some of us never will, no matter how we study) we can at least realize the terrific amount of mental energy required in composition, the sacrifice to an ideal; moral courage against great odds as shown by the early composers. Let us take, for example, the life of Ludwig von Beethoven, born in Bonn, Germany, December 16th, 1770, died March 26th, 1827, during which period he composed some 138 numbered Opus, including 9 symphonies, 7 concertos, 1 septet, 2 sextets, 3 quintets, 16 quartets, 32 piano sonatas, 16 other sonatas, 8 piano trios, 1 opera, 2 masses, etc. You will admit it is genius—a lifetime's gift to music. These old masters have been known in the past to only a favored few. Operas and concerts are few and expensive for the average mind (or is this only a subterfuge to hide the fact that we, as a nation, have never really been educated musically?)

Now, with the advent of super-broadcasting, we are fairly conversant with the works of such artists as Chopin. Think of the huge possibilities for our musical education—thousands of compositions to choose from—an unlimited audience to listen and appreciate.

Radio not only gives the best in music and song, but educational values such as travelogues, news events, lectures, church sermons are now "inwardly digested" by the largest congregation the world has ever known—the radio audience. The "moderns" now appreciate the very best in "Syncopation" even may learn the latest dances by radio!

The radio is undoubtedly the greatest instrument of popular education and recreation the scientific world has devised for mankind! This contribution of science is unlimited in its scope. To the sorrowing and lonely man radio brings joy and comfort and new ideas to think out. It reaches the uttermost and most isolated outpost of civilization; the snowed-in fur post of the north. The farmer boy is no longer reliant on a much-thumbed book for romance and adventure—he has radio! Even the operator at sea, the trans-continental passenger, the light-housekeeper, shut-ins, the maimed, the man East and West—all form the vast radio audience.

Radio has also another usefulness. Who did the heretofore impossible? Why the amateur radio operators by receiving reports and sending daily words of comfort to those adventurers of the Far North—Donald MacMillan and his crew of stalwarts. Was it not radio that advised us of the Santa Barbara 'quake? There are and have been a great many artists, engineers and scientists who devote their days to radio development and hence to your enjoyment and service. Radio is now a fact of tremendous consequence to the nation. It is a very versatile and practical art relying largely on the co-operation and applause of its invisible audience.

ABOUT YOUR CAR

By W. Z.

WHEN DOES A BATTERY NEED RECHARGING?

To-day most batteries are charged by a generator run from the engine, but there are times when this seemingly automatic system does not fill the need and you find yourself taking your battery out of your car to have it recharged.

The causes of a weakened battery are commonly known and can be explained quite easily. Cold-weather starting by motor is the most frequent cause of this depletion, and, if you are not aware of the fact, takes approximately twenty times as long for the generator to replace the energy back into the battery as it does to start your machine.

Of course, there are many other sources that use up the stored energy, such as parking for long periods with lights dimmed; running car too slow with lights on, or when driving your car mostly at nights; starting car without assistance of primer or "choker"; failure of generator to supply sufficient current to battery (this, generally, can be adjusted by your service man so that enough current is supplied to take care of your battery charging almost indefinitely); the electrolyte may be below the level of the plates, and many other causes give you trouble.

Simple ways of telling when your battery needs a bench charge right away is by dim lights, weakness of battery in starting car, and by testing with a hydrometer. If you notice that your lights become dim when starting, this is a sure indication that the battery is in a weakened condition; if lights burn brightly during this latter procedure, your trouble will likely be found elsewhere than in your battery.

A fully charged battery should read between 1.275 and 1.300 and a fully discharged reading would be around 1.120. At this low reading, and without sufficient water to cover plates, if left for a long time, will cause a lead sulphate to form on the negative plate, a white, chalky-looking substance. This sulphation may become so bad that the battery will not hold a charge very long, and treatment will have to be given by your battery man, and perhaps you may find it necessary to buy new plates.

"If I wasn't here, I bet he'd kiss you!"
"Why, you impertinent imp! Leave the room this minute!"

LOUD SPEAKER NOISE STOPPED

Causes Specified and Way of Testing Described—Dirt is Cause.

SIMPLE METHOD.

When there is a scratchy noise coming from the loud speaker of the sets, it is quite easy to determine just what is causing this trouble. The average service man does this by a process of elimination, determining first if the noise is due to an outside cause. This is the way he tests to find out if it is due to electrical interference in the immediate locality.

He first disconnects the antenna and if the noise stops or diminishes in volume he immediately knows that this interference is from the outside and not in the receiver. Another good test for this is to throw the three dials out of resonance, setting one at 0, the next one at 50, and the third one at 100. If the noise still persists, then he looks for trouble in the installation.

He very readily determines if the batteries are noisy by taking a pair of phones, placing one tip on the minus, the other on the plus, getting a sharp click, then no noise at all. If there is a rushing and crackling sound this battery is faulty and should be replaced.

Very often the trouble in noisy sets can be traced to dirty prongs on the tubes, as well as poor contact with the springs in the sockets. In quite a few cases it has been found that the wire in the loud speaker cord is frayed, causing a scratchy sound in the horn. Try reversing the tips in the plug. Very often reversing these will improve the volume 100%.

The Spirit of... CHRISTMAS

BY HAL COCHRAN

When you think of the spirit o' Christmas, my friend,
I wonder, how well do you know the real trend
Of the pleasure a person may possibly get
If the deep, fullest meaning is properly met.

To cheer and bring happiness! That is worth while.
The real Christmas spirit's the price of a smile.
The happiest person has done what he could
Today, and on all days, to make folk feel good.

It isn't the giving, or getting, alone,
Of gifts that has brought on the Christmas time tone,
But, rather the peace that your heart holds—and then
The honest good-will that you show unto men.

The late King of Siam was the first monarch of that country in 2,500 years who did not have many wives. Some of his long line of ancestors are said to have had as many as 8,000 wives. His father, who died in 1910, had several hundred.

LOOP OR AERIAL?

Discussion of Relative Values of Receiving Apparatus—Outdoor Advantages.

The locality a receiver is used in will very quickly settle the question as to whether you should use a loop or an outside aerial.

The loop aerial is particularly valuable when you are located close to a number of powerful broadcasting stations or where it is impossible to erect an outdoor aerial. Where there are several powerful stations within five or ten miles of you, it is hard to find a receiver using an outside aerial that is selective enough to tune through and bring in one station without background from the others.

There are a few very selective tuned radio frequency receivers using several controls that will do it, but the average receiver will not bring in many distant stations if it is operated near a powerful local station.

On the other hand a receiver built for loop reception will generally allow you, by turning the loop, to cut out a great amount of the interference from the locals and bring in outside stations. Another advantage of a loop is that it enables you to reduce the noise from static and bring in quite distant programs that could not be brought in on a receiver using an outdoor aerial.

In a neighborhood where there are a large number of sets in operation, there are always some that are regenerative, and the energy that they reradiate is picked up on an outdoor aerial and you hear a series of howls and squeals that are not particularly pleasant to listen to. The loop aerial reduces this kind of interference very considerably.

The disadvantage of a loop set is that the loop picks up such a small amount of energy that you must use from 6 to 9 tubes to get speaker volume from stations any distance away.

If you are located in a district where there are no powerful stations near you, there is not very much advantage to be gained in using a loop. A good outdoor aerial with an efficient 5-tube receiver should bring in stations in all parts of the United States and Canada without much difficulty.

What Christmas Means

Oh, the song of the bells at Christmas time
Do you know what they mean to me?
Sugared icing, all pink and white,
And the gleam of a Christmas Tree,
And little stockings hung in a row,
And tinsel and holly and mistletoe.

Lighting the room with their glare,
And children, wide-eyed, wondering,
Hearing the old tale there,
A tale that comes with the Christmas Snows,
Out of the years of the long ago.

Nowhere is there so much counterfeit money as in China, and in no other place is counterfeiting so skilfully done.

Increasing Life of Radio Tubes

It is a positively foregone conclusion that all who enjoy radio will soon appreciate that the most important factor in securing good radio reception is the ability to keep the radio tubes fully rejuvenated at all times.

The quality of radio as well as the volume produced depends upon the condition of the vacuum tubes.

Up to this time one of the heaviest items of expense for the radioist was that of tube replacements.

The radio expert has for some time been familiar with the comparatively simple process by which tubes of the thoriated variety are reactivated. There is no mystery beyond the understanding of the layman in this process, and certainly it is something in which he is very much interested—for it is by this process that he can be assured of getting the most from his radio in point of service and dependability, to say nothing at all of quality. Then, too, it must be remembered that a tube which is not performing up to normal demands more filament current. This causes an unnecessary drain on the A battery, and if, as is usually the case, other tubes are on the same rheostat with the depleted tube, they are also soon rendered practically useless because of the increased filament voltage which has been applied to make the "weak sister" perform.

The dropping off of the efficiency of a radio tube is not necessarily sudden—in fact, every time a radio tube is used it performs less efficiently than the time before. From the first instant of use it undergoes a gradual and positive change until finally it reaches that point where it calls notice to itself by its inability to amplify properly. Under certain conditions this falling off is abrupt and rapid, but in the main it is so gradual as to be scarcely noticed. As a result the set owner will usually waste a lot of time and patience—perhaps in the end condemning the set before he locates the trouble and buys a new tube.

A large majority of such tubes can be made as good as new again in a few minutes' time. By the simple process of tube rejuvenation they may be reactivated repeatedly so as to make their total effective life eight to twenty times their original life.

How Is It Done?

The radio tube becomes weak and inefficient as its filament becomes contaminated with certain gases which are contained in the tube. These gases fill the microscopic pores of the filament and prevent proper action of the tube by not allowing the exchange of ions between filament and grid. It is obvious then that if these gases can be driven off, the proper tube action can be restored. The seemingly difficult task can be performed in less than eleven minutes with the proper equipment. The thorium, which is used in approximately 90 per cent of all tubes, serves the purpose of making these tubes able to withstand a considerable range of filament voltage, thus making them splendid subjects for radio tube rejuvenation.

Some have stated that it is the exhaustion of the thorium which determines the life of the tube. This can scarcely be true in view of the fact many tubes which do not have thoriated filaments may be rejuvenated providing they can be kept from burning out. By the use of a simple and inexpensive electrical device, the Tube Rejuvenator, it is found that by burning the filament for a very short time at a relatively high temperature, followed by a lower temperature for a longer period, the filament discharges the gases which have filled its pores and is then ready to continue to function as a tube should—thus, the amplifying ability or power of a seemingly exhausted tube is restored to its original strength.

Some tubes have been successfully treated as many as seventy-five or eighty times.

This rejuvenator, which was on display at the National Radio Exposition, takes the guess work out of tube rejuvenation. It is noteworthy to observe that this instrument has been designed exclusively for home use and that it sells at a price well within the range of the average radioist.

Knowing that radio tubes do deteriorate, experience has proven that the best possible plan is to rejuvenate them at fairly regular intervals, say about once a month. This will insure reliable results at all times and will give the user of the set many months of extra service from his tubes. The set owner need not necessarily concern himself when his tubes need rejuvenating and he can recharge his tubes very much on the same principle as he now recharges his batteries, the main thing being to do it at regular intervals.

The average radioist is more interested in results from a standpoint of reception than he is in technical data or instrument readings of his tubes. For this reason the instrument just referred to has been made as simple as possible, eliminating all frills and non-essentials.

In a recent murder trial in Chicago, one juror, after thirty-seven hours, persuaded his eleven comrades that they were wrong in their determination to acquit the defendant, and the result was that a verdict of guilty was returned.

CONQUEROR OF THE MONGOLIAN WILDS

Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, who startled the world a few years ago by discovering a nest of dinosaur eggs ten million years old, arrived in New York on November 9th from his Third Asiatic Expedition under the auspices of the American Museum of Natural History.

Again he attributes much of the success of his expedition to the astounding performance of his five Dodge Brothers Motor Cars.

Following is a direct quotation from an official statement by Dr. Andrews upon his return to America:

The Gobi Desert in Mongolia is the most extensive undeveloped and unexplored region now left in the world. Until a few years ago it was retarded by the impossibly slow traffic of camel trains, the only means of communication.

But now it is being crisscrossed in every direction by motor cars, or, more correctly by one motor car, the Dodge. Sixty or seventy Dodge Brothers cars are making regular trips far into the interior of this vast waste, bringing out loads of sables, precious furs, wool and other products.

No other car except the Dodge is found there because we have tried it out on each of our three expeditions and have had it demonstrated to our satisfaction that the Dodge is the only car that will stand up under the strain of the roadless desert and do everything we ask of it.

Few people have occasion to subject their motor cars to punishment of this severity. It is reassuring, however, to know that in emergencies Dodge Brothers Motor Car is built to meet the test.

These dependable and sturdy qualities also account for the fact that more than 90% of all the motor cars Dodge Brothers have built during the past eleven years, are still in active service.

Christmas Stories And Hints For Everyone

CHRISTMAS SEASON IS HOME RE-UNION

People On Trains Have Queer Shaped Bundles — Spirit of Cheer Over All.

Christmas is the one time of the year when every person who can goes home. Christmas away from home is not really Christmas.

Here is the young man whom business or studies keep away most of the year. Eagerness to get home is evident in every line of his glowing countenance. The number and age of the brothers and sisters at home can be well estimated by the large and varied collections of packages piled in the parcel rack.

Akin to the young man is the married man returning to spend Christmas with his family. He, too, is well laden and every move produces the sound of a rattle for baby or of a mama doll for Mary.

A source of amusement and interest to all around except their own parents are the children going to spend Christmas with gran'ma and grandpa. Johnny is sure Santa Claus won't know where to find him, after all his trouble (for the past ten days) to be good. Smaller members of the family, tired with the long ride and the unaccustomed late hour, are irritable and care little whether it's Christmas Eve or the First of July. With two or three such the parents are glad that Christmas comes only once a year.

Girls going home are usually more laden with gifts than are their brothers, for they remember not only their own relatives but all their girlhood chums while the boys, if they take home anything for anybody outside the family, usually make it something small and valuable for the most important one in the world.

Old people are rare on such occasions as the children return to see them instead of asking their parents to travel under the trying conditions existing at Christmas.

In the mail car at the front many who are not going home in the body might be said to be travelling in spirit, for there are the presents for the loved ones at home who cannot be visited at the festive season.

In the baggage car on the same train the baggagemen may be seen struggling with the suitcases and club-bags bulging with gifts to supplement those kept on the persons of the passengers. On the station platform when the train pulls in a happy, jostling throng meets the passengers, while other gift-laden people crowd into the empty places in the trains.

Over all, despite tired children and laden grownups, is the spirit of peace and goodwill first proclaimed nineteen hundred years ago to the humble shepherds of Bethlehem.

CARVING THE TURKEY

A Christmas Task That Is Often Avoided But Is Easy—When You Know How

The man or woman who is skilled in carving always calls forth the admiration of his guests, and possibly the envy of those who are not so accomplished.

However, no one need despair, for, with a little patience and continued practice, he can master the art. The chef, who with a single motion of his hand can cut the most difficult joint, did not gain this dexterity in a day.

To become a skilled carver, it is essential first to study the anatomy of the different cuts of meat which are usually carved at the table, in order to learn the location of bone and joints and the direction of muscle. With this information and a carving set in good condition, the first attempt may be made without the worry of many mistakes.

For the novice who has never carved before, it might be suggested that he start on a cut which is easily carved. Rolled rib roast, loin of pork, or boned and rolled shoulder of lamb would serve this purpose. He will then be prepared for the occasion of all occasions, the Christmas turkey.

Before the eventful day arrives, it is very necessary that the proper tools be in readiness.

Carving the Turkey.

To carve a turkey, an 8-in. or 9-in. carver is best. See that the blade is well sharpened beforehand.

Place the bird, after removing skewers and string, on a suitable size platter. It is not amiss to say that the bird should be well roasted if the carving is to be successful.

If possible, select a platter large enough to hold the portions of meat as they are carved; but, if too small, another platter, a carving-board, or a large plate may be used to hold the meat portions. Any such dish should be warmed first.

Avoid using any garnishes, which will hamper the carver.

Meat enough for all the guests should be carved before starting to serve. This saves the carver from the annoyance of constantly laying down the carving knife, and also permits of giving each guest some dark and some light meat, as well as the dressing, at one serving.

Position Important.

The carver should be seated while carving, and the platter so placed that he can serve with ease.

Before starting to carve, the turkey should be placed with the breast up and the neck to the right, although some carvers prefer the reverse position. Grasp the fork in the left hand and insert the tines into the leg, so that one tine goes into the second joint. The tines should slant towards the neck, out the thin skin between the leg and body and continue to cut all around the bone. Use the fork as a lever and bend the leg back to break the hip joint.

Still keeping the fork in the leg, lay it down flat, and with the knife cut through the other joint to separate the thigh piece and drumstick. If the fowl is large these pieces should be cut lengthwise again into suitable sizes for serving.

Next remove the wing in the same manner as the leg, using the fork to bend it back. Cut the wing in two at the joint. Do not serve the tip piece.

Remove the other leg and wing in the manner already described. If the fowl is large and this much meat is not needed for the first serving, the other leg and wing need not be carved at this time.

Next, insert the fork at the highest point of the breast bone, convex side of the prong to the right and guard lifted. Cut thin slices from the breast at a slant, first on one side and then on the other. This is an easier method than removing the whole breast and then slicing it. An expert carver, to display his skill, may insert the fork firmly across the bone when starting to carve and keep it thus inserted until through carving.

When enough meat has been cut to serve all the guests, the carver may wait to cut more portions until the guests are ready to be served again. The meat will keep warmer if not carved too soon.

If more portions of meat are needed, the "wish bone" is removed next and then the "fly bones." A very expert carver may cut the back in two, but it is better to use the tip of the knife to cut the pieces of meat still remaining on the thigh and back.

Helpful Suggestions.

To remove the stuffing, make two incisions at right-angles about two inches long, so that a large spoon may be inserted. Enough stuffing for all the guests may be placed on the platter with the meat portions before serving.

A pair of game shears is convenient for cutting an obstinate joint, but is scarcely necessary with a turkey if the knife is kept well sharpened. Shears are very useful for broilers and small game, as well as for fish.

If the knife is well sharpened before the meal, it will be possible to carve a steak or small cut of meat without sharpening it again at the table. With a large fowl or turkey, a keen knife edge is so essential that one must expect the carver to give a little extra attention during the meal.

A chicken is carved in a manner similar to that used in carving the turkey. Geese and ducks also are carved in almost the same fashion.

With goose, remove the wing first and then slice the breast. The hip joint is farther back than it is on the turkey, and slices may be cut above and back of the leg without removing the leg joint first. However, it may be carved in the same manner as the leg of turkey, the carver keeping in mind the different positions of the joints.

Often only the breast of duck is served, half to each guest. If the duck is large three or four portions may be served.

A joint often served at a dinner is a leg of lamb. There are two rather distinct ways of carving this cut—either cutting down to the bone or cutting across the large muscle at a slant. The latter gives more and larger slices of meat and makes the carving a little simpler.

In buying a leg of lamb, ask the dealer to remove the hip bone.

Place the roast when done on a warm platter, with the leg bone to the left and the large part of the leg upward.

Insert the fork well towards the end of the leg and cut thin slices at a slant or angle across the thick part of the muscle. Continue to carve slices until the bone is reached. The slant of the knife should be such that the meat is cut across the grain and not horizontally with the grain.

If more slices are needed for serving, turn the leg and carve slices from the other side in the same manner as before.—From the Women's Magazine.

Daddy Smith's Christmas Morn

Daddy Smith was awakened on Christmas morning by the excusing of his children in the living room beneath him. It was early in the morning and yet the young imps were up prowling around to see what Santa had stowed in their stockings. Mr. Smith was tired yet, so instead of leaping out of bed he gave himself over to less arduous speculation. Last night had been strenuous and a horde of people had clamored continuously about the counter, demanding last minute supplies for making Christmas merry. He reflected now on the many surprises which awaited him on the tree below. Mrs. Smith, with the true woman's trait of martyring her own curiosity, rather than satisfy that of the breadwinner, had boarded up the gifts unopened. They were to constitute a "surprise" on Christmas morning. Mr. Smith pondered as he listened to the ripping of paper and the bursts of gladness when the tissue wrapped wonders were revealed. He tried vainly to distinguish from the voices just what the articles were. Moved by curiosity and the knowledge that he wouldn't get any more sleep anyhow he arose and donned his trousers and a shirt, sticking his feet into a pair of slippers, a Christmas gift of a former year. Mr. Smith was assailed by pleasant visions of choice briar pipes, thick cigars and humidors of tobacco. There might be a comfortable blanket coat and a new pair of slippers. He wanted some shiny wrenches and other tools for his car, while the tubes on the radio set were nearly burned out because the kids sat up so much listening in on the jazz creations which filled the air after the concerts and operas signed off. Yes, tubes would be very acceptable.

By this time Mr. Smith had reached the door giving access to the living room. There was mother and Gwenny and Bobbie and Jimsie and about them was chaos. With one accord his offspring surrounded Mr. Smith while a chorus of "Look here, Daddy," "See what Santa brought me" and "Oh, what do you think?" welled up to the welkin. At the same time a number of small fists were thrust up that he might inspect whatever was clutched there so tightly. Mrs. Smith stood back, smiling indulgently.

Then little Bobby more thoughtful than the rest, exclaimed, "Oh, Daddy, come and look at all the pretty things you got." So Daddy was pulled across the room to a small stand where he saw displayed the greatest heap of neckwear that had ever confronted him. Weakly he cast exploring fingers through the heap of cravats and mufflers. Then he subsided gently, saying in an injured tone—"Not a sock in the bunch."

Books That Have Interested Me

This is the fifth of a series by Peterborough people.

BY J. F. MORRISON

One of my early and pleasant recollections is in perusing of Mrs. Traill's "The Canadian Crusoes."

The authoress, the scene of the story, and the delighted reader, all belonged to Northumberland County. Their sorry plight at times so worked upon my youthful emotions, that frequently the pages became dimmed. Overcoming our apparently adverse environment, and the kindly way nature provides for all her creatures, is very pleasantly told. All the girls and boys of the three adjoining counties should read the story and become better acquainted with the waters of Rice Lake and Otonabee River.

To the young students who find the study of history somewhat tiresome I would recommend Sir Walter Scott's "Kenilworth," or "The Talisman." The movement of the first story is admirable. It could not be otherwise, when Sir Walter Raleigh gives expression to his native chivalry in language and action so gracious. He is my ideal historical personage.

Some years ago detective stories were very popular. For many people they had quite a fascination. Following the trail is what gives the pleasure. The result of the quest is generally foreseen. Eugene Sue, in the "Wandering Jew," keeps the reader altogether in the dark as the profound plot is revealed. The changing scenes are most alluring and continue to the end of the story.

Charles Read's stories are very interesting and contain an amazing wealth of information. "The Cloister and the Hearth," was to me the most profitable.

A volume adorned with the author's photograph is always preferable. It sometimes happens that the physiognomy of the author and contents of book are apparently out of harmony. It was so when I read William Makepeace Thackery's "Vanity Fair." How so genial a looking person could conceive such a peace-destroying character as Becky Sharp, I could not comprehend. She provoked me terribly. The book was laid aside several times. I had enough of her. It was finished nevertheless. It would have been a distinct loss to literature if Becky Sharp had not appeared on the scene.

One of my greatest discoveries was Dr. Johnson's, "Rasselas" Prince of Abyssinia. The genesis of the story is interesting. It was written to pay a debt long overdue. Imlac opened the door for me into the realm of poetry. The poets see things we do not see and point them out to us. They hear voices we do not hear and call aloud to us to linger.

"The poet's eye, in a fine frenzy rolling,
Doth glance from heaven to earth, from earth to heaven,
And as imagination bodies forth.
The forms of things unknown, the poet's pen,
Turns them to shape, and gives to airy nothing,
A local habitation and a name."

This naturally led me to study Johnson's, "Lives of the Poets."

Judging a book from the permanent influence upon the mind I must give Milton's "Paradise Lost," first place. It was my good fortune to read an article on the "Cosmogony of Paradise Lost," previous to the study of that poem. Having the idea of the structure of the universe in vogue at that time, I could follow the leading characters without much difficulty. Over a week's study with the aid of a dictionary brought me to the close. Such majesty, such loftiness of thought and speech I had not known before. The possibilities of the English language used by such a master has remained with me ever since.

We must not forget our own Canadian poets. Reading Archibald Lampman's poems give real pleasure. Some of it from the fact that the author lived for a few years at Gore's Landing. He is truly an out-of-doors poet. He is an interpreter of nature.

His poem on "Frogs" is a characteristic one. He calls them "Breathers of Wisdom." They call to sleeping nature, to the buds and flowers, that spring has arrived.

Just one other name to be added. That of Rev. F. W. Robertson. The Companion volumes are Lectures and Addresses and Sermons. You might open either of the volumes at any page and without much risk write the word Excellent.

"Doctor, my wife has sprained her jaw and can't speak a word, so if you're down our way, say week after next, you might drop in and see her!"

IN THE BIG LEAGUE NOW.

A rising young burglar had just moved in from Milwaukee to Chicago and won the hand of Chi Bessie, the famous dip. He rushed home one morning in the wee small hours in high excitement.

"Wake up, Kid!" he shouted to his wife, "Wake up!" Pack up! We gotta hop a rattler quick. I just cracked the biggest crib in town and bumped off a coupla harness bulls!"

"Aw, shut up and go to sleep," expostulated the fair lady. "You're in Chicago now."

HER FATE

'Twas Christmas Eve, and all through the house there was revelry by night. They were having a glorious time. The terribly rich Fuller-Doughs were there from the west end. And the clever Saar-Casticks; the gifted poetess Nevva Rimes, and her husband. Also the talented pianist, Joe Staccato. Of course there were others, but they were blushing violets from the upper stratum and would not give the society editor their names.

They were all masked, too. One strikingly original figure represented a fancy keg of beer, hopping around till it frothed at the bung-hole.

The house on Charlotte street blazed with light. What is Christmas, the revellers asked, but a time to make merry? They danced, sang, told fortunes. The fortune-teller tipped off about the darkest corners in their skeleton closets, and told the guests lots of things they wanted to know, but more they wanted to forget. And then the hour of midnight approached. A ghostly silence pervaded the air. Slowly, mysteriously, uncannily, the lights went out. (See footnote.)

Fearfully, Sally Snacks picked up the flickering candle and opened the cellar door. With chattering knees and shaking teeth, she descended the stairway as the clock started to strike. All was dark and silent as the grave. A cold, damp gust of air flickered her candle spookily.

With beating heart, fluttering strangely, she walked down, down, down the cellar steps to see her fate. As she reached the bottom stair, she gazed fearfully into the old mirror on the opposite dark, dank wall, and—a man's face peered into the mirror over her shoulder. It was her husband's!

"Just what I thought!" she cried. "Suffren Snacks! What are you doing down here?"

CHRIST-MAS

(By Jeanette)

The glimmer of tinsel and holly,
The clash of the crowd on the street;
The odours and sounds of a laden board,
Heavy with puddings and meat;
The bulge of a well-filled stocking,
The laugh of a child at morn;
In these the ways we celebrate
The day when Christ was born.

Down in a squalid alley, a mother turns to the wall,
Quiet the little fingers, hushed is the baby's call;
Out on the icy pavement, falling beneath the goad,
A hurrying horse has broken its leg—heavy the Christmas load.
And the fiddler plays in the marketplace,
His blind eyes sealed to the season's grace.

The stars of Christmas beckon us, like the kings of long ago;
Across the hills of Palestine, as on that wondrous night,
The mild-eyed shepherds turn their gaze to a sky of living light.
But the lesson of that mystic Birth
Is lost in revelry and mirth.

The New Guinea forests are believed to be the home of more than one animal unknown to natural history, while the dense jungles of Borneo and Brazil contain others, among them a long lizard-like creature that is said to be capable of flying.

TEN THOUSAND LETTERS A DAY IN PETERBOROUGH POST OFFICE

And Custom of Giving Presents Instituted By the Three Wise Men Now Inundates Postal Department — Last Year's Total of 400,000 To Be Exceeded.

THREE Wise Men came out of the East bearing gifts, instituting a custom that has become almost universal, and now, as Christmas approaches, people will be once more relying on the Post Office—the modern courier of good-will and good tidings, with its world-wide organization to safely carry the words and symbols of friendship. The season before Christmas in the Post Office is filled with a bustling, feverish industry with waves of mail inundating the post machine until its human and mechanical parts seem lost in the flood of letters and parcels that converge in this narrow channel to be distributed to the four winds bearing little messages and tokens of good-will and affection that kindle the season's universal fire of love. The week before Christmas last year, 400,000 letters passed through the Peterborough office, and if present indications count for anything, this total will be exceeded this year as they have been pouring in at the rate of 10,000 a day for the month of December.

The average person as he mails his letter or parcel never gives it another thought—so used is he to the efficiency of the department. When the letter carrier delivers a letter to you, you will probably be unaware of the intricate and yet simple system by which the postal service has functioned, on the inside where the clerks preside, with such speed and precision that leaves a visitor in wonder that mistakes are so few. When the letters arrive in the office from the various mail boxes in the city they are put through the stamp cancelling machine which cancels the stamps at the rate of 3,000 an hour. There is a dial on the side of this machine which automatically records the number of letters passing through so that the department is in a position to tell accurately the amount of mail it handles in any given period of time. When this operation is completed the letters are sent to the despatchers who separate local letters from the pile and sort the remainder into one of the 192 pigeon holes which the despatching section contains, each of which represents a separate town, province or country in direct railway order. The letters are then tied in bundles and are placed in sacks for transportation to the different destination points.

Parcels are made up in direct bags as far as possible, the bags being slung on racks on which are hooks so arranged that the mouth of the bag is constantly kept open, thus facilitating the sorting of the parcels. There are over 100 bags in constant operation and the speed with which the sorters fill them and pick out the correct bag for the various parcels is nothing short of uncanny. As a bag is filled it is taken away and an empty one put in its place, the filled bag being sealed and sent on its mission of joy.

Mail Arriving.

The foregoing refers to the process the mail leaving Peterborough goes through but as most of the citizens are expecting letters and parcels themselves a description of the incoming service should prove interesting. With the arrival of each train comes the inevitable rush of mail. Hundreds of sacks each containing messages from loved ones, some of whom are situated in the far off corners of the earth, fill the entire floor space of the post office until to the casual onlooker it would seem impossible that the mountains of sacks could ever attain any semblance of order, but the smooth, efficient service for which the post office department is noted, treats it all as a matter of course and soon, before the onslaught of the various clerks who are responsible for this detail, the apparent state of chaos is reduced to one of comparative order.

The city proper is divided into seventeen districts or "walks" as they are termed in the vernacular of the pos office. Rural routes are divided intot eleven districts while some of the large firms have individual boxes. The mail man when he comes on duty gets his particular district and again sorts the letters into the order of his route, a process which is expediated considerably by pigeon holes on which the names of the streets are shown as well as the location of the various numbers. The next operation of course is the delivering of the letters to the homes of the citizens by the mail carriers. On reading the foregoing it will be realized that the system of handling mail is developed to the highest point of efficiency and all that remains is for the people themselves to aid the system by mailing their letters and parcels early. It used to be a custom for most people to despatch their missives for delivery on Christmas day itself with consequences of congestion in the offices t at may be imagined. Now, the parcels are sent earlier with bright little stamps requesting the recipients not to open the parcels until Christmas. However, there has been such an increase in the quantity of mail that in order to promote its expeditious handling the local office is allowed an extra staff of 18 hands to lighten the load. If for some reason your mail goes astray, instead of blaming it on the overloaded post office employees, think back and perhaps you will find that you have forgotten to address it properly or else you have left the address off altogether. The post office receives missives in this condition and if the letter in question is from a girl to her best friend telling him that she will arrive on a certain train and he is not there to meet her—it is likely to result in international complications.

A Detective Clerk.

An authentic case is that of a girl who wrote home for money, simply signing her christian name and omitting to put any destination on the envelope. The clerk who handled the letter instead of sending it to the dead letter office, got his brain working and phoned one of the institutions in the city where girls stay, with the result that the sender was located and informed of her oversight which she immediately corrected, probably with the desired result to herself.

Another habit that brings misery to the overworked clerks is that of using a quantity of one-cent stamps instead of those of a larger value. Foreigners are the chief offenders in this regard, as many as ten one-cent stamps being placed on the back of an envelope.

Cry From Jarred Parcel Alarms Postal Employee

A cry arose from a parcel that was dumped on the workroom floor of the post office. A clerk dived into the canvas bag which contained the bundles, and fished out a parcel. The cry came a second time. The clerk anxiously removed the wrapping and inspected the box, which he found contained a "drying" doll. The impact of the fall caused the first cry and the second followed the pressure of the clerk's nervous hand.

A busy scene in a post office where mail is bing sorted for over-seas. This rush is now over and a new flood of Canadian letters, cards and parcels is flowing into the offices. The accompanying story tells something of the pressure in the Peterboro office.

SELECT CHRISTMAS DINNER WITH FEW SEEKING PLACES

Mr. Nesbitt, Goaler, at the County jail, is planning a turkey dinner for Christmas Day. The invitation list to this dinner is limited, very limited. It is not likely you will get a "bid" to this spread, and perhaps you wouldn't feel exactly honoured to find yourself stretching your legs under the table at this particular entertainment. But you can quite easily secure one if you really desire it. It is rumoured, not without some truth, that the guests will not have to "dress-up." for this affair. Those who will be present and partake of this feast will be the unfortunate beings housed at the jail under his watchful care.

Mr. Nesbitt is hoping to give the "boys" a real treat with none of the usual trimmings missing. There will be the "bird" nicely roasted, cranberry sauce, plum pudding and all. This will be all due to the kindness of Mr. Nesbitt and all at his own expense.

Mr. Nesbitt was loathe to speak about the Christmas festivities at the jail, even though his fowl dinner comes around with each and every Yuletide. For the past forty-two years he has tried to bring inside those cold prison bars some of the warm joy and good-will, spreading itself so bountifully everywhere outside.

Christmas Night

By Muriel Brewster.

One night, in long past ages, dim and far,
The forces of the old world and the new
Met in a flame, above the midnight blue——
Low in the east came forth a new-born star.
Did all the world rise up to greet its birth?
Nay, those who saw the wonder in the skies
Were three great scholars, learned, old and wise,
And simple shepherds living close to earth.
The wise men brought their gifts of myrrh and gold,
The shepherds heard the angels in the night;
Simplicity and wisdom could behold
The mysteries within that shining light.
Tonight, for us, the bells will ring once more—
Behold the Star, above the stable door!

Christmas Stocking

'Twas Christmas Eve; I'd been in bed
For hours and hours, I'm sure;
At last I heard a heavy tread,
Which stopped outside my door.

And then old Santa Claus peeped round—
His arms were full of toys;
He said, "I mustn't make a sound
To wake the girls and boys."

He brought a splendid lot of toys—
A doll with golden hair,
A lovely fairy queen with wings;
He put her on my chair.

A pretty book of fairy-tales,
With pictures of Tom Thumb;
A rolling-pin, and kitchen scales—
My dolls' house needed some.

Some chairs and tables, painted blue,
A skipping rope as well:
He knew the things I wanted too—
However can he tell?
He told my stocking to keep still;
"Oh no, you mustn't think will,"
And jumped right off the bed!

But Santa Claus then held it tight,
And put some sweets inside;
"I'll not be filled; it isn't right!"
The naughty stocking cried.
"I won't have crackers; take them out—
They tickle me, I say.
Be careful what you are about,
These nuts get in the way!

"I've got big holes in heel and toe,
I'll let the presents through!"
Oh dear, how could it tell him so?
I knew it wasn't true!

"I've filled you now," said Santa Claus
So just go off to sleep;
"I'm going down the stairs because
The chimney's rather steep."

But up that tiresome stocking jumped
And ran with all its might;
And how those lovely presents thumped:
It gave me such a fright!
I heard an awful crash and cried,
"Oh, what was that that broke?"
"A doll," the stocking's voice replied,
And then—well, then I woke!

A Childhood Tragedy Mars Year's Big Meal

Lots To Eat But Not Capacity is Trouble of Child To-day —Leacock's Pellets Recalled.

(By Jeannette)

In one of Stephen Leacock's delightful "Literary Lapses," he tells of a new kind of food, in the form of nutritive pellets, each of which contains from one to two hundred times as much nourishment as an ounce of an ordinary article of diet. Then he goes on to tell of the little pill which contained the essence of thirteen Christmas dinners, with turkey, cranberry sauce, plum pudding and mince pie all jammed into the one little globule. A family is gathered about the festive board, and suddenly, the baby grabs the pill and swallows it. The distracted mother says: "Give him water!"

"The idea was fatal. The water, striking the pill, caused it to expand. There was a dull rumbling sound and then, with an awful bang, Gustavus Adolphus exploded into fragments!

"And when they gathered the little corpse together, the baby lips were parted in a lingering smile that could only be worn by a child who had eaten thirteen Christmas dinners."

The case of the little chap in our illustration is slightly different. What he is suffering from is too small a capacity. He is the little boy who commenced to sob at the table and when asked what was the matter, replied: "I'm crying because I haven't any more room."

Of all the tragedies of childhood, and, despite all beliefs to the contrary, childhood has its tragedies, this is one of the most poignant. To have gone for a week back on a slim diet, hopefully contracting one's diaphragm day by day to ascertain the state of its emptiness, to have lingered about the kitchen for hours, inhaling all the odors of sage and savory, onion and parsley, to have watched the disemboweling of the bird that made the Pilgrim Fathers famous and the replacing of its internal machinery with a fragrant mixture of spices and breadcrumbs and fine herbs, to have looked on as a maternal parent mixed the cake and poured it into well-greased pans and to have listened to the gentle sizzle of the pudding, boiling away in its cloth bag in a moist steam of its own manufacture, and then—to have to be counted out after the second helping!

Nature abhors a vacuum, it is said, but there is a limit to the extent to which the ordinary paunch, even that of a little boy, can be pushed. Johnny is an only child, and his mother, as may be seen by the picture, is a kind and generous-hearted lady, and moreover, a homely woman. Not homely in the sense that she is overly plain, but homely in the way the English use the word,—a real home body, looking after the comforts of the inner man with a relish and satisfaction. She is the sort of woman who has all kinds of wonderful recipes tucked away in the recesses of her frizzy head and takes them out for delectable occasions, like Christmas and Thanksgiving time. She has bought an outsize bird, as you may see from the picture, and has furnished and decked it out to the Queen's taste. Having higher things in mind, she has not spent too much time on her own person. She has curled her hair vigorously, and donned an extra string of beads, but the food has been her first consideration. And now see the result! Johnny, her first-born, the pride of her heart, has reached an impasse. He has been handed a K.O. right at the beginning of the banquet, he has received a lettre de cachet, he has been called in from the bat, in effect, Johnny is down and out.

Has Johnny contracted a sudden stomach ache? Is he a delicate child who cannot consume much food and has been taken unexpectedly with a dislike for Christmas dinner? Does he want to retire to the seclusion of his room and lunch modestly on a cracker and a glass of water? Is he finicky? In short, what is the matter with Johnny?

Kind reader, it is none of any of these things. As said before, Johnny is only so big. He is of a certain age and stature, and his stomach has kept pace with his growth. Johnny is cross-eyed with longing, but what good will that do him? He has already consumed a considerable portion of the breast of the noble bird, a sizable leg and a wing, two large helpings of creamed potatoes, a side dish of stewed corn and one of mashed turnips, and considerable trimming in the way of cranberry sauce, a half dozen of olives and a couple of stalks of celery. And now, mid-way in his flight, as one might say, Johnny is through. He has let all the holes out of his belt that he can possibly reach, and he can do no more.

Gone are thoughts of jelly with whipped cream, of pudding with burnt brandy sauce, of rich nut-filled cake, topped by a two-inch icing, of cream bon-bons and coffee. Nature is inexorable. "Thus far, and no farther," she has said to Johnny, and he must obey—It is a tragedy.

We are sorry, having got this far, that we didn't notice in the beginning that the little boy's name is really Willie. But, having christened him Johnny, we refuse to back down on our choice. The moral of our tale remains the same: Eat wisely, rather than too well, and regard thy beginnings that thy endings may be satisfactory and of a sufficiency unto thee.

A Christmas Pastoral

By Bishop Bidwell

THE Right Rev. Dr. Edward J. Bidwell, Bishop of Ontario, has issued the following Christmas pastoral to the members of the Church throughou the Diocese of Ontario:

My Dear People:—The happy season of Christmas now close upon us affords me the opportunity of sending you all a warm greeting. I hope and pray that your Christmastide may be one of great joy to you all.

In the forefront of all our rejoicing should be the remembrance that we commemorate the Birthday of our Lord as Man. "Unto you is born . . . a Saviour." That is the great foundation of hope for the world, and for every individual man and woman therein. The fact of our Lord's Incarnation proclaims the great truth that the God we worship is not aloof in unapproach-One Who remains able majesty, but Who loves and cares for His people so deeply, that He sent His beloved Son to take our manhood upon Him, to live with and for men, to die and rise again that we might through Him win salvation. Therefore the Lord Jesus Christ will be the centre of our observance of Christ-mas. It will be both our duty and our privilege to kneel before Him in humble adoration at the Holy Eucharist, and so allow all our rejoicing at this season. Of That act of worship must come before all else; otherwise we miss the greatest joy of all. We shall also, as we worship the Prince of Peace, giving offer special thanks-giving to Almighty God that after years of unrest and disturbance the nations of the world seem to be honestly striving for a world peace. We may still be far from "The promised time, when war shall be no more," but the step forward towards that happy consummation recently made is a cause for much thankfulness, and from what has already been accomplished we may justly hope as well as pray for the time when war shall cease in all the world. In the festivities that accompany Christmas tide you will not, I am sure, forget your duty towards those who are in need and poverty, knowing that the greatest joy comes from helping others, and that it is more blessed to give than to receive. To bring happiness to others is both Christ-like, and most acceptable to Him in His followers.

To those in sorrow, trial, bereavement and affliction, this Holy Season brings a comfort of which none of the changes and chances of this mortal life can rob us. "Jesus Christ is the same, yesterday, and to-day, and for ever." He Whose birth as Man we commemorate still "bears our griefs and carries our sorrows;" the Living Christ, Who never fails those who turn to Him, but gives rest to those that labor and are heavy laden. For we know that behind all our doubts and fears, our sorrows and troubles, there is the Everlasting Love, manifested as at this time by the coming of our Lord and Saviour to unite Himself with us men in the bonds of a love which need never be broken.

To the children of the church: You, my dear children, have a more than usual interest in this great Festival, as compared with other great Festival Days of the Church's year. For the Lord Jesus Christ came to us then as a little child. You look forward, no doubt, to receiving many gifts from those who love you. Remember that God's gift to you is the greatest of all. He loved you so much that He gave His Son to you, to be your Saviour. And as you think of Jesus Christ, born as at this time, Who having been Himself "little, weak, and helpless" loves all children and desires them to come to Him, I ask you to try to learn to know and to please Him, to do and to be what He would wish you, His children to do, and to be, and so offer to Him the gift He most wishes for—your love. If you try to do this, your Christmas will be a happy one.

So I wish you all, young and old, men, women and children, a very happy Christmas in the name of our Lord and Master, born as at this time to be the Saviour of the world.

The Date Of Christmas

The joyous season known to us as Christmas Day is Noel in France, Weisnachtsfest in Germany, and Yule in Sweden and Denmark. The day is observed in all Christian countries and commemorates the birth of Jesus Christ. Biblical students are not altogether reconciled to December 25th as the actual date of the nativity, as it is pointed out that December is the height of the rainy season in Judea when neither flocks nor shephers could be out in the fields of Bethlehem. The present date was set about the fifth century and it is believed that it was chosen more to supplant certain heathen festivals, notably the Saturnalia, rather than as the actual dateof the birth of our Saviour.

County Meath, Ireland, is said to be the only part of the British Isles where the men outnumber the women.

HOLLY TREE IS AN ANCIENT CUSTOM

Has Always Stood For Mystery and Plant Personality.

The holly has always stood for mystery and plant personality. Always one feels that it is something more than an ordinary "small tree." From time immemorial it has played its part in the great winter festival—the Romans gave it an honored place in their Saturnalia—and when Christianity superseded the old gods and the festival became Christmas, still the holly and its association with the winter rejoicing continued, though into both festival and tree new meaning was read.

The holly, though openly a part of the rejoicing of the Nativity yet held within it the secret mystic foreshadowing of a crown of thorns in its prickly leaves, of drops of passion blood in its red berries and a reminder of immortality in thejever-greenness of its leaves. And so it became the "Holy Tree," as well as the "Holly Tree."

It is the tree with scarlet berries that is always spoken of as the real holly, and it has often been accounted strange that certain holly trees never produce berries, but the initiated know that this mystery is one of sex, for one set of holly trees is male and another is female, and, of course, it is only the female tree that bears fruit. The work of the male trees is done when they have supplied the fertilising pollen, fertilization being generally accomplished by the busy bee flying from flower to flower and tree to tree.

The holly, it is interesting to note, is a native of England and was often known as the holme or hulver. There are a number of places whose name commemorate its vicinity in early days, such as Holme, Holmwood, Holmesdale, Hompton and Holmfrith.

What To Give the Man Who Has No Male Vices

Here's the greatest problem—find a charming gift for the man without vices—the bachelor, who neither smokes, drinks nor gambles.

A trip to a haberdashery shop will reveal some splendid ideas—beautiful imported linen handkerchiefs hand hemstitched with monograms embroidered in any colors desired. Striking monograms are made with cut work and embroidery.

No less welcome are a dozen pairs of silk socks with contrasting colored embroidered clox. Hose in black or brown are always useful and in good taste. They may be had at various prices, depending on the quality.

For a less expensive gift a pair of brown pig skin gloves will be found most appropriate.

Striped silk scarfs, both for evening and daytime wear, make very handsome gifts—all the more so if they have a large monogram embroidered in one corner.

"The Love that Never Dies"

December 19th THE JUNIOR EXAMINER For Boys & Girls

A Merry Christmas To All

Dear Girls and Boys:—

It is so near Christmas that I don't suppose many of you will have time to read the paper. It is a very busy time, what with getting presents ready and writing cards and keeping secrets. And maybe all the hard work tires boys and girls, but my experience is that they are wider awake than at any other time of the year.

I heard the other day about a little girl who had a terrible dream. She had come home from School and started right in to help her mother, who was making Christmas cake. Then she did some fancy work on presents she was getting ready, and went to bed. Right away, it seemed, it was Christmas Eve, and Santa was due to arrive. She heard the sleigh bells and by and by saw Santa himself come down and stand on the roof. He had a big sack of toys on his back and the little girl was sure some were for her. Then she heard him say—"Dear Me,—I can't fidd the chimney," and she shouted right out loud—"You're standing beside it but you're so fat you can't see it." Then she woke up.

This is the happiest time of the year, because everyone is thinking of someone else. It is selfishness that causes half the trouble in the world and if every day were Christmas life would be a great deal happier, don't you think?

I sent a copy of last Saturday's paper to Santa Claus to remind him that there are lotsof boys and girls in Peterborough, I am sure he will remember you all. Tell me all about your Christmas presents and the jolly times you had.

Merry Christmas, all!
UNCLE JOHN.

A Story In French

La première fois qu'un renard vit un lion, et entendit son terrible rugissement, il fut si effrayé qu'il se mit à trembler, étendu à terre, et qu'il mourut presque de terreur.

La fois suivante, il fut moins effrayé du roi des animaux, et osa le regarder timidement. La troisième fois que les deux animaux se recontrèrent, le renard avait perdu toute crainte, et il s'approcha froidement du lion et se mit à lui causer comme s'il eut été un vieil ami.

La familiarité engendre le mépris.

Translation of last week's nursery rhyme in French:—

Hush-a-bye, Colin, brother of mine,
Mustn't cry, hush-a-bye.
Mamma's up above
Making cakes for you, love;
And Daddy, downstairs,
Nice choc'late prepares.
Hush-a-bye, Colin, brother of mine,
Mustn't cry, hush-a-bye.

Johnny Wants His Choo-Choo

By "Pop."

Breathes there a man with soul so dead that his mind has never quickened to the thought of engineering a locomotive along the steel road that seems to lead straight into the land of Adventure?

Stand for fifteen minutes outside any George or Charlotte street store where a toy train is shown and take note of those who pause to gaze. Boys by the dozen come along, look, and dart away to some new delight; but it is their fathers who linger to admire and envy and dream—and, perhaps, to purchase "for their sons."

Alack and alas, the wails that have gone up from Peterboro' homes on Christmas mornings ever since toy trains were sold in stores or carted from the North Pole by the sturdy old Santa! Pop must show Johnny how to start and stop the new toy; how to put the tracks together; how to load the cars and manage the road.

And Johnny admires for a while, but finds his fingers itching and waits for his toy.

It has always been my ambition to own an electric train, with lots of tracks and switches and stations and bridges and tunnels and signals. And this Christmas when hope flamed anew in my breast, the head of the house decided Johnny is still too young to have an electric train. Maybe next year . . . .

And meantime I must go on teaching Johnny how to play with the clockwork train I bought him last Christmas.

TRIMMING THE TREE A DELIGHTFUL TASK

A CHARMING legend has it that one Christmas Eve Martin Luther wandered through the snowy streets under a clear sky, bright with countless stars, and that the beauty of those twinkling lights against the dark firmament gave him the idea of a sparkling Christmas tree for his children. This idea of the stars against a background of night is one to bear in mind when trimming the Yuletide tree for the children.

That is just the effect to try for—color and sparkle that shall be enhanced by the sombre greenery of the fir. And in this connection the tree should be chosen carefully for the way it will lend itself to effective decoration.

Choosing the Tree.

Has it ever occurred to you that the success of your Christmas tree depends quite a great deal upon the care with which you choose it? A thin, straggly tree, with a moth-eaten look about its upper branches, will prove a difficult business to render effective, whereas a well-grown tree that has grown up in the open with plenty of space given it to spread its branches will appear more attractive even though its burden of gifts be less. Do not delay too long to buy your tree (for a young fir tree will remain in good condition for at least six weeks after it has been cut), but pick out a symmetrical, pyramidal one while there are still plenty to choose from.

Whether the tree be large or small, it should be symmetrical, not varying widely in shape from different angles. The lower branches should be wide, gradually tapering towards the top, and not too close together. A bushy shape thick at the top does not display its trimmings nearly so well. The size of the party and the number of presents that the tree is to hold should determine its size in the first instance, for the effect should be a laden and full one. A sparsely filled tree gives a niggardly and depressing appearance.

Electric Lighting.

The Christmas tree that is not 'it up is only half a Christmas tree, for there is that in the spirit of the idea which makes illumination indispensable. Yet determined as we may be to ensure the fireproofing of the tree's decorations and the elimination of the dangers of conflagration, there always exists a certain risk in candle-lighting which spells nervousness for the hostess. If, however, electric light is installed in the house, it should be possible to secure for attachment a floor-plug or a light-holder, a long flex, fitted with tiny electric bulbs, with which to light up the tree. Have the little lights of different colors, and remember, in considering expense, that the flex should do duty for many Christmases to come. Also when a tree is lighted by electricity a battery may be placed in a Noah's Ark or other suitable toy, so as not to introduce a discordant element.

Topmost Decoration.

A star decoration is preferred by some for the tree-top, while others like a Santa Claus figure thereon. On the other hand, it is contended that a Christmas tree is hardly a Christmas tree without a glittering fairy doll, in all the glory of wings and wand, to preside over the topmost branch. If dressed at home she is not at all an expensive item, and can be kept from year to year, instead of bestowing her on one little girl, to the inevitable jealousy of the others. It is a pretty plan to twine gold and silver tinsel strings round her wand, to fall from branch to branch, as though the doll herself were holding the glittering things. A glittering half-moon may be used as a change.

Quantity and sparkle rather than quality are requisite for trimming a Christmas tree, and a small sum judiciously spent on cheap, tiny toys, colored balls and gold and silver paper will do wonders in producing a gorgeous effect.

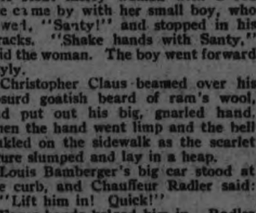
The tub containing the tree should be swathed in gay crepe paper to chime in with the festive appearance of the rest.

Treee Decorations for the Dinner Table.

Most schools break up a full week in advance of Christmas Day. And this week often proves a trial and a tribulation to the mother who has her hands full with the festive preparations and very little leisure to devote to the amusement of her offspring. Now, here is an idea for occupying the youngsters pleasantly and at the same time devising an extremely novel and attractive form of decoration for the dinner-table on the twenty-fifth and other festive occasions to boot. This is to take the form of half-a-dozen or more little trees designed after the manner of those jardinieres composed of various sorts of metal and stones that have of late been freely imported from the East. But in this case the basis of each little tree will be a small tree-branch or twig, culled for its shape and the regularity of its sections. Each twig will be given its own particular little bowl or pot; colored glass or a bit of gay pottery will prove the most effective. In order that the twig may stand upright in self-respecting fashion, the bowl should be filled to the brim with wet plaster, which, when dry, will have contracted slightly, so that, when necessary, it will be possible to remove it and the tree bodily without damage.

Next comes the decoration of the twigs. For this will be needed a supply of any of the modelling substances sold. Then comes the modelling of all manner of delicate and attractive flowers with which to adorn the branches—harebells and rosebuds, camelias and lilies. Thin wires passed through the blossoms serve to attach them to the twigs, and when all is secure, then comes the time for gilding or painting the artificial blossoms in gay tones.

An alternative to the models is to be found in various wooden bead ornaments that are now sold for the embellishment of lampshades. These are sometimes in the form of berries, sometimes in that of blossoms, and often in quaint Chinese shapes that would suit well with the purpose. Also, those clever with a crochet-needle should be able to work very quickly little roses and leaves with which to decorate a tree. Leave it to the children themselves to invent their own form of decora-



a strong hook from which the baske may be suspended until the time arrives for it to be lowered on to the table beneath, so much the better. Or you may bring joy to the heart of some youngster by rigging up in the corner of the room a spoof shop-counter and letting him act as salesman to the various customers for his goods. Payment may be contrived in the form of an answer to a riddle or of a guess as to which of the pockets in his charge are destined for the particular applicant. This is a game in which those little family jokes peculiar to every household may well be introduced.

"Put Away Till Next Time" Decorations.

To the thrifty amongst us, decorations of the type that will consent to do service over and over again have obvious virtues. Much to be commended are the collapsible shades in the form of Japanese lanterns of many colors that entirely enclose the electric bulbs of the chandeliers and wall fittings, and and when finished with, fold up into the smallest compass for service at any dance or other festivity later on.

tions and you are bound to have some original and attractive results.

Adorning the Pudding.

It is generally a touch-and-go sort of business as to whether or not the Christmas pudding is going to consent to light itself up at the psychological moment. Here is a novel idea for inducing it to do so becomingly. Instead of pouring the brandy into the dish, where it usually becomes slightly chilled, and therefore obstinate, place it in half a tangerine skin along with a couple of lumps of loaf sugar, and put this on top of the pudding, whose heat will continue to penetrate the skin. This will keep the brandy at the temperature at which it will continue to burn merrily until it is exhausted.

The Christmas cake, too, will look all the more festive if it is lit up. But for this I would counsel something of the same arrangement of electric lights as I have already suggested for the Christmas tree.

Christmas stocking gifts excepted, there is no doubt that the great business of present-giving is best reserved for a later hour in the day, when the distribution may be made en bloc and in connection with some more or less original stunt. Nothing more elaborate than a washing-basket, gaily decorated with balloons and colored paper, will form an attractive means of assembling the various parcels, and if the ceiling possesses

REPORT SAYS MAN EATEN BY WOLVES

Search Party Said To Have Found Bones, Cap and Boots—Relatives Dubious.

NORTH BAY, Dec. 19. (Canadian Press).—A story is being circulated in North Bay that O Fleury, well-known Ville Marie trapper, has been killed and eaten by wolves. The report says Mr. Fleury and his son became separated while in the bush, and the elder man failed to return to camp. A search party is said to have found bones, cap and boots, which were believed to be those of the missing man. Relatives living at Ville Marie have received no definite information and are inclined to disbelieve that Mr. Fleury is not alive and safe.

Man Who Acted Santa Falls Dead On Street

For years the Volunteers of America have hired Christopher Zabel at Yuletide. This year he put on his white and scarlet coat, his baggy, red pantaloons, and his sasseled cap. He picked up his jingling handbell, and red money box.

Santa took his stand in front of Bamberger's big store, in Market Street, between Halsted and Washington streets. "Christmas Dinners and Winter Relief Work—Please Help," agad the placard on his box, and he rang his bell with a will and nodded at passing bairns.

A stout merry woman with a red ace came by with her small boy, who cowed, "Santy!" and stopped in his ftracks. "Shake hands with Santy," said the woman. The boy went forward shyly.

Christopher Claus beamed over his absurd goatish beard of ram's wool, and put out his big, gnarled hand. Then the hand went limp and the bell tinkled on the sidewalk as the scarlet figure slumped and lay in a heap.

Louis Bamberger's big car stood at the curb, and Chauffeur Radler said: "Lift him in! Quick!"

Eager hands heloed him in. Radler made the fifteen-minute drive to the City Hospital in eight minutes by the clock. But Santy already had gone off on his Christmas gallop through the skies.

FACTS ABOUT THE COLLEGIATE QUESTION

Information Supplied By Authority of the Chairman, Board of Education.

First.—Two hundred and thirty students crowded out of main school and housed in South Central school, discarded years ago as unfit for Public school students. No system of ventilation in this school, five furnaces using tons of anthracite each season get no heat in the corridors, several electric heaters required, basements not much better than dugouts, poor lighting many rooms. These students are cut off from the main body of the school, have no part in school activities, in other words are side-tracked. "Are they getting a square deal?"

Second— Main school has four hundred and fifty students enrolled. Every regular class room in use, and one room on the third floor adjoining assembly hall, and occupied by forty pupils. No unoccupied space in this school and forty students in most class rooms—far too many for single rooms and for efficient work. No accommodation for teaching of domestic science or manual training, and no gymnasium. Boys of junior school go to Y.M.C.A. gymnasium twice a week at a cost of seven dollars per year. Girls' junior school receive domestic science training at Central school. The third year work, the most interesting and important, cannot be given. The room must be available for Public school pupils. Boys go to manual training centre at Central school, getting only one hour a week.

The students at the South Central school receive only two years of the regular three year commercial course owing to lack of accommodation. Because of the short course and condition of this building the city lost in the year 1924-1925, $5,500.00 in grants for salaries from the Department of Education. What would the proposed Collegiate Extension, which would relieve the present deplorable condition and supply vocational training, cost the city of Peterborough?

British Cruiser With Bolshevik Crew Sails

LONDON, Dec. 19 (Canadian Press)—The British cruiser Vindictive, says the Westminster Gazette, has been ordered away on foreign service, supposedly the Far East. This vessel has been described by the Gazette's correspondent at Plymouth as one of the British naval vessels upon which communistic activity is prevalent among the sailors. Members of the crew were quoted by the correspondent as having remarked to him: "The Vindictive is one of the Bolshevik ships of the navy."

FIREMEN STAGE EXTEMPORE RODEO

Heifer Eludes Slaughter House Fate to Meet Death in Creek.

SHEFFIELD, Eng., Dec. 16. —(Canadian Press).—The firemen of this city have taken part in an extempore rodeo under entirely unexpected conditions with most of the usual incidental accompaniments, such as searchlights, acetylene flares—and plenty of noise and tumult. All that was missing, apparently was a band.

A sturdy heifer was being driven to a slaughter-house in the centre of the city. Evidently it divined its fate, for it made such a resistance to entering the slaughter-house that it overcame its keepers and raced away through the principal streets. Somebody conceived the idea of securing the aid of the fire brigade. Nothing loth, they turned out promptly with a plentiful supply of rope. Meanwhile the heifer, pursued by a motley throng of butchers, policemen and yelling boys, trotted through the streets until it found itself in a blind road at the foot of which runs the River Porter. The river at this spot is eight feet below the road level, but the beast readily took the leap. Now, the Porter is not exactly a second St. Lawrence—to tell the truth, it is rarely more than a foot deep, except when it has been raining hard. The runaway heifer trotted up stream, with its pursuers gallantly lunging after. In a culvert it was brought to bay, where the firemen succeeded in lassoing it by the horns. Efforts to haul it upon the road were fruitless, and the firemen were eventually compelled to slaughter it in mid-stream. Even then it was necessary to drag the carcass from the stream by attaching the ropes to a motor tractor.

MANX LEGISLATURE TO IMPROVE PIERS

Heavy Tourist Traffic is Responsible for Work Being Needed.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 16—(Canadian Press Despatch).—The Court of Rynwald, as the Manx Legislature is properly known, has committed itself to the expenditure of three quarters of a million sterling on extensions and improvements to the landing piers at Douglas. Probably no port in the British Isles has finer facilities for the berthing of short-distance passenger vessels than has Douglas, but even the present excellent accomodation is insufficient for the demands upon it during the summer season. It not infrequently happens that forty thousand holiday makers will be homeward bound. There are plenty of the older generations who went Manx holiday-making in their youth, when the landing facilities were so primitive that passengers were taken from the steamers in boats.

VANCOUVER ASKS EMBARGO LIFTED

Can Handle More Damp and Tough Grain.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 19.—(Canadian Press.)—Having cleaned congestion of damp and tough grain in the port to such an extent that only ten days' more for elevator driers is in sight with cars of grain in local terminals, the railway companies will be asked to lift the embargo on off-grades of wheat coming over the western route.

The Vancouver Harbor Commission has requested the railways to issue permits for tough and damp wheat so that an average of sixty thousand bushels a day of that class of grain will be allowed to come to Vancouver. That is the capacity of the local elevators drying facilities.

MENNONITES FLED SOVIET ATHEISTS

Reach Manitoba After Journey From Siberia.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 19. —(Canadian Press.)— After a two months' journey, a party of Russian Mennonites has reached Manitoba to take up farming. From their Siberian farms, they trekked 1,500 miles to Moscow by wagon and train, and then came through the Port of Riga to Canada. The settlers said they were forced to send their children to Soviet schools, where they were taught that there is "no God, no church, no marriage."

MIRACLE PLAY IN HOME ROOM

THE COSTUMES.

Two kinds of background are possible and practical in producing the miracle play — screens and curtains strung on wires or rods. The scenic director will choose the type best adapted to the size and kind of church.

Sturdily made screens are best suited to a church where no curtains can be hung and no screws driven into wall or floor. Burlap or denim is used to cover them. On occasion two sides can be covered, thus making two backgrounds. The green denim side is used for the shepherds on the hillside and the brown denim side is used for the stable.

To make a good color scheme for a Nativity play, Mary should wear Madonna blue, with a white veil draped about it; Joseph might wear a tan tunic with a darker tan over-robe. His hair and beard should be white. White cotton batting on a skull-cap will serve.

While the shepherds wear earth colors —different shades of brown burlap or sacking—each shepherd should be differentiated. Have one with a leopard skin hung from his shoulders. This is made by painting or inking dark spots on orange-colored Canton flannel. The second Shepherd may wear a sheepskin made of cotton batting. For the third Shepherd have a fur piece caught at the shoulders and hanging down his back (any neck-piece will do). Their legs and arms are bare. Sandals and strappings can be made of brown oilcloth. Some Nativity plays have put the Shepherds in turbans, but sturdy men of that type look better bareheaded. Instead of crooks they can carry wooden staves.

The Wise Men should suggest Eastern gorgeousness. The first Wise Man may wear an orange tunic, a black coat lined in pale yellow, and have a long necklace of jewels. Small Christmas-tree baubles will do. He has a golden crown.

The second Wise Man wears an orchid-colored tunic and a purple over-robe with a deep ermine border (white cotton batting with black spots painted on it).

The third Wise Man is a Nubian with a brown skin. He should wear a crimson tunic and a cloth-of-gold over-robe of gilded oilcloth. He carries a censer filled with incense. He has a gold-and-crimson furban, also huge gold earrings, made of brass curtain-rings, and bare brown arms on which gleam golden armlets made of corrugated cardboard, gilded, two inches wide. He should wear as many chains as possible. Where enough beads are not obtainable, macaroni cut in one-inch lengths and painted gold or silver is excellent. Paint it scantily, so it will not soften.

In a church production, with the exception of the very dark Nubian King and the weather-beaten faces of the Shepherds, no make-up should be used save the faintest rose on the cheeks of Mary and the Angel, lest under the rays of artificial light their pallor should become too startling. But lip-sticks or eyebrow-pencils are unthinkable in a church production. So is fantastic, fussy hairdressing. The hair of the Angels should be worn floating. Bobbed hair that is parted in the middle, with a gold band about the brow, gives the look of a medieval angel, and can be quite charming.

Concrete can now be made in different colors, thus avoiding the monotony of hard, gray houses.

By MARJORIE HOWE DIXON.

In the old country and in our pioneer times, too, days, sometimes weeks, previous to Christmas, were spent in preparations for the holiday itself,—days of cooking and baking, days of much vigorous beating with large spoons in bowls, much thought and joyous planning being mixed in, with all sorts of agreeable condiments to make the festive Christmas goodies.

Since really more than half the fun lies in getting ready for Christmas,—to the children the holiday of the year —some suggestions are given here, in many of which the children may share the work and fun of producing them.

Children can make a number of Christmas candies with a little supervision. Dates stuffed with nuts, or fondant, are delicious and easy to make. Stoning the dates and rolling them in sugar, daughter can manage, while mother prepares the fondant,—the simplest kind being powdered sugar stirred into white of egg or cream. And son can crack and pick out walnut meats,—though he may have to be watched a bit,—they mustn't "evaporate" too apidly, you know. Nut meats tempt us all to nibble just a little.

Old-fashioned Candy.

While mother is mixing fondant, perhaps she will make a larger amount, part of which will go into a fruit candy. Take a few dates and some raisins and nut meats and run them through the meat grinder. These should be worked into the fondant and rolled into a loaf, about an inch and a half in diameter. This little loaf can be sliced with a wet knife and the slices allowed to stand over night. For some families it is the special Christmas candy,—not made at any other time of the year.

A gift box to send away to someone who will otherwise miss the home-made goodies offers splendid opportunities for one to think up new combinations to surprise this loved one. A spice cake recipe will make about three small round cakes, one of which will be ample for a centerpiece for the box we are to send. White frosting with a pretty design of red candies with fresh holly leaves pressed flat into the surface will be a welcome sight to the far away one.

Spice Drops For Decorations.

Around the centerpiece which is in a sturdy tin box, compartments of cardboard can be arranged, each to hold a different candy. Besides the stuffed dates, there should be nuts and figs, and more stuffed candies made of prunes and dried apricots. Spice drops scattered about among the larger fruits will add to the gay appearance.

If one is skillful at candy-making, now is the time to hunt up recipes for those old favorites, fudge, panoche and divinity. A variation of fudge can be produced by adding shredded cocoanut or walnut meats, or chopped marshmallows. Panoche—the brown sugar fudge, will be improved with nuts or marshmallows as just mentioned.

Divinity, the candy made with beaten eggs,—for the writer ever a most elusive dainty, it so seldom "came out right"—should be revived at Christmas time and added to our Christmas joys.

Clever Ideas With Gumdrops.

A year ago all sorts of clever ideas were worked out with gumdrops fastened together with toothpicks. Little mannikins, Christmas trees, nonsense of all kinds, amused us both in the construction and the receiving. A little foolish gumdrop man should certainly be added to any going-away box of goodies to cheer the recipient with his vacuous expression and his limp demeanor.

Decorated cup cakes would make nice fat little packages for Christmas stockings. Covered with wax paper and then gay wrappings they would be most decorative too, on the Christmas tree. Citron could be used to simulate holly, with small red candies for berries, to decorate the white frosting.

And of course, some where, some way, there must be arranged a generous supply of hard candies for Christmas, besides the other favorites, peppermint candies and striped canes.

"A little nonsense now and then
Is relished by the best of men."

Likes Man-made Candy.

Well, you know,—a box received by the writer comes to mind. Before Christmas she expressed admiration for the handsome chocolate creams, painstakingly manufactured by a neighbor's husband. When a man does make candy he usually makes it well. Then the chocolates were forgotten.

A fine large box was delivered to the writer, Christmas, with an apology—all the candy boxes had been sent away and only a shoe-box remained. How generous of that neighbor!

Later in the day the box was opened and a great surprise was felt, that so many of the precious creams should be spared to the writer. The lower layer had been fixed with each one carefully wrapped. The box was quite heavy. When the lower ones were unwrapped, —ah! each was a lump of coal,—ah,— we see it all, now, as the villain cries! No wonder the box was heavy! Every one had a good laugh over it. But the chocolates were delicious for all that.

HOW YOU CAN EARN YOUR FIRST DOLLAR

Christmas Trees Provide a Source of Income For Live Boys.

Most of the boys in the city have been reading in the Examiner how some of our most important citizens earned their first hundred cents, as a boy in knee pants. But to-day we are going to suggest a way and means by which some of the live boys can earn perhaps their first dollar, possibly to be told in later years when they, too, are pointed out as solid citizens.

Now that Christmas is almost here, each home will want a Christmas tree of some kind. Now, here's the opportunity, boys. Fix yourself a lunch, grab the old toboggan, and with your dog at your heels hike out to the woods, and get some Christmas trees. You will have to make the trip soon, for there are many in the business.

Last year three boys formed a little company. Two went out after the trees while one went around the city "booking" orders. This was their first launching out into business.

The boys would be well advised to find out the name of the farmer owning the property on which they want to cut their several trees, and to get his consent first before proceeding with the hatchet.

There's fun in it, boys. You get the hike and will likely make enough to buy mother a present.

Flowers And Noisy Colors Feature Pajamas' Revival

PARIS, Dec. 19.—Pajamas in the fashionable French haberdasher shop seems to run to flowers and are in extremely noisy color. After a temporary fall from grace, they are being vividly revived and are becoming as popular as ever for boudoir wear.

"Sold for Palm Beach" was the label tagged on one garment displayed in the main window of the flashiest and most expensive shops. "Les Roses Merveilleuses" was the title of another of the most gorgeous, a coat of brocade in designs of red, yellow, pink and gold, made upon a foundation of black velvet, and flaring smartly over trousers of gold.

The colors went to contrast in another model of exquisite delicacy called "Quelques Fleurs." They were of pale green, blouse of pale rose, and over drapery of purple, with a front panel and borders of modernistic flowers in a blending of all these colors.

GRADING HELPED DAIRY INDUSTRY

Canadian Butter Has Risen in Britain, Department Says.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 19 (Canadian Press).—The official grading of all butter and cheese intended for export, inaugurated by the Dominion Government in May, 1923, has had a most important and beneficial influence on the dairy industry, it was stated at the Department of Agriculture Friday.

Under the grading system, it was declared, the grade is determined by independent and disinterested experts, and the good article earns its reward, while the inferior article is penalized.

A further good result from the system of grading, pointed out by the Department, has been the elimination of complaints respecting quality, where cheese and butter have been purchased in large lots.

"There is ample evidence," it was stated, "that Canadian butter has made real progress and risen greatly in the estimation of the British buyer as a result of the grading system."

A Christmas Surprise---How To Trim The Tree

A STIFF UPPER LIP

The Spirit of Christmas acts through the chubby finger of a recording Angel and touches the heart of a wanderer.

By Jeannette.

"STICK 'em up, and be quick about it!"—The harsh command was emphasized by the thrust of a gun perilously near to his floating ribs and automatically, George Cooper's hands went skyward. A low groan passed his lips as he realized what had happened.

"What's the matter? Afraid I'll croak you? Nothing will happen you, son, if you behave yourself. Turn around."

Slowly his victim obeyed. He faced a dark-skinned youth, the lower half of his face covered with a dirty rag, the upper portion almost concealed by the vizor of a rough cap pulled down over his eyes. Under the rude mask, a dark bristle of beard showed. A ragged coat was buttoned up close to his chin and his trousers and boots were old and worn. He reached out and pulled the other man farther into the dark alley from which he himself had stepped just a moment before.

"Sorry, old man," he said cheerfully, "but you know the old saying, "Necessity knows no law." With an outfit like this, that lets in all the fresh air I need and a little more, and a stomach like an auto tank, full of nothing but gas, I've got to scare up a little Christmas cheer for myself somehow."

"You might have turned your attention to someone else, and it wouldn't have bothered me any," growled Cooper.

"Now, now, don't be rude. Remember what you were taught in school, to be polite and cheerful. Turn your pockets out, like a good young man, and I'll let you be on your way."

"Look here——" said Cooper suddenly, "I've got a roll on me. I'll tell you that much, because you'd find it out for yourself anyway. But it doesn't belong to me. I'm the treasurer of a society that just had a Christmas concert for our funds, and I insisted, like a fool, on taking the money home with me, instead of turning it over to the people it was intended for."

"Yes, that's a good story, but it doesn't soften my heart much. I suppose this society of yours is a league for the Advancement of Christian deals, or something like that. I've heard of those birds before. But you don't get away with anything like that when you're talking to me. Hand it over, and not another word out of you!"

He reached savagely into the other's breast pocket and dragged out a linen bag. Feeling it carefully, he nodded his head at the crackle of the bills inside. With a recurrence of his ironic humour, he poked the other man in the ribs with his gun and said genially:

"That'll be all, son. Trot along and give the Old Ladies' Home, or whatever it is that you're treasurer for, my thanks for their Christmas present. Get busy, and beat it," he growled, as the other opened his lips to expostulate.

Cooper turned and stumbled out of the alley. "Those poor kkds," he groaned, and a heartfelt curse left his lips as he made his way through blinding sleet to his own home.

Back in the alley, the bandit groped his way to the far end. His ragged coat was buttoned up carefully. Within it was the linen bag. He had removed the dirty rag that masked his face. With a cheerful smile, he stepped into an all-night cafeteria and called for a cup of coffee. That would have to do him until the next morning. He would get out of the city tonight.

Once more safe in the tiny attic room that had been his refuge in the big city where an unending search for work had left him floundering at last on the edge of starvation, with a hold-up job as his only alternative, he unfolded the linen bag carefully. A sizable roll of bills was the reward of his first venture into the world of active crime, and he smiled as he counted the total —two hundred and fifty-one dollars. Around the loose change in the bottom of the bag was a slip of paper. He read it carefully: "Total receipts of Benefit concert given by the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Mark's Church in aid of the Home for Ex-Soldiers' Children; $253.76. Received by George Cooper, Suite 3, Laurel Block, Hastings street."

For a long minute the young man stared at the paper, then he sighed heavily and resentfully. "Ex-soldiers' children. Can you beat that!" He stuffed the money into the linen bag and bestowed it carefully beneath the mattress. Swearing vividly, he removed his ragged shoes.

GEORGE COOPER pushed the buzzer on his desk. He was in a fighting humour this morning. He scowled at the stenographer who came in with pad and pencil to take dictation.

"Beg pardon, sir," she said timidly, "but there's a young man in the office who wants to see you immediately on important business."

"Show him in," said Cooper brusquely.

The girl slid out. The man at the desk turned to find himself facing the youth of the dark alley and the night before.

"What the——" he exclaimed loudly, as he rose excitedly to his feet.

"Sh-h-" said the other, "keep quiet. Here's the dough. It's all there. I didn't know what it was for, or I wouldn't have touched it. Just my luck to have to run into a guy like you, without a roll of his own and carting around a bunch of money belonging to orphan kids." He turned to go. Cooper, with his hand on the bag, spoke quickly.

"You say it's all here," he asked.

"Every cent," growled the other.

The older man looked at the ragged coat and the broken shoes. "Wait a minute," he said. Reaching into his pocket, he took out a ten-dollar bill and handed it to his companion. "It's all right. Just a loan. Pay me back when you have it handy," he said as the other started to speak. The boy, for he was scarcely more than that, gulped, hesitated a minute, then went out.

Cooper reached for the 'phone. "Never mind looking for thtt stick-up man," he said. "I've got the money back. No, you won't be bothered with him any more, I think. He's getting out of town."

—o—

(In the compartment of Ethereal Matters labelled "Accounting," a busy angel opened a large ledger at the section tagged "L." Running a fat forefinger down the page, he reached an account headed "Jerry Lanigan." Taking an eraser, he rubbed out a black entry made the night before and put in a credit item in red ink. Tapping a bell, he summoned a small green servitor and said: "Send one of the Good Thought corps down to Winnipeg and tell him to give Jerry Lanigan the once over. Tell him to put a good idea in his mind. He's been neglected lately."

THE fire in the kitchen stove burned brightly. Mrs. Lanigan removed the top lid and looked at the red coals. She wanted to make a spice cake, but the temperature of the oven must be just right and the coals weren't burning as she wished. She went out for another armful of wood. Through the open door came the tang of the night air, crisp, frosty. Above the prairies, the moon shone down with a mild light.

But Mrs. Lanigan wasn't thinking of Anna or her children. Her thoughts were with Patrick. His picture smiled down at her from the little what-not where were bestowed other treasures, a sea shell with the moan of the waves in its curved pinkness, a tiny clock that wouldn't go but remained as an ornament under its glass case, and some artificial red roses in a vase.

Forty years ago Patrick Lanigan had brought her to her prairie home, a comely Scotch lassie with a slow tongue and a pleasant smile, capable hands reaching out to make a home on the wide, treeless plain, a droll, cheerful humour waiting for the weary man who came in often of nights with the "black mood" upon him. But the "black mood" had seldom been for her. They had been well-mated, these two, and when Patrick went, something in Mary Lanigan went with him to his hillside grave.

There had been two sons, Michael and Jerry—Michael the careful one, making a good home for his wife and his children before he went across the sea and left them forever, and Jerry, the reckless, the carefree, twining himself about his mother's heart with the blue eyes of his father and the footloose ways of an irresponsible youth. When he went away, his mother had not wept. "Keep a stiff upper lip, lassie," her own folks had counselled her, when she sailed from Ardrossan with her Irish lover; and bade farewell forever to the cliffs and crags of bonnie Scotland. "You'll be bothered sair with the Indians and the Eskimos, likely, but dinna forget that the Scotch women are as good as their men, any day."

So she had kept a stiff upper lip, all these years. "Ye must gang yer ain gait, laddie," she had said to the dark-haired Jerry, lapsing into the broad Scotch as always in moments of excitement. "But ye'll mind that yer mither will be keeping a bit light in the window for ye. When ye come back, if it's in the night-time, ye'll be seein' it shinin' down the road."

He had gone away to seek his fortune, the dark head held jauntily, the young feet quickening on their way, and the mother had heard nothing of him for three long years. He was a lad of eighteen years then. Now, he would be twenty-one.

She was thinking of him to-night. Memories dragged at her heart. When Patrick was with her, it had been fun to make Christmas cheer for the two "bairns," and there had been many a spice-cake baked in those days against the celebration of Christmas in the wee house on the prairie.

Unseen fingers tugged at her skirts. Little hands reached out to her. In the space beside the chimney, she could see "himself" sitting, the old pipe in his mouth, a tiny boy on each knee, droning out for them the tale of the fairies of Bally-nish and the way they had waited by the bog for Farmer O'Toole and dragged him out of his cart, the night he had said in the tavern that he didn't set any store by "the little folks in the green coats."

"Bairnies, cuddle doon," she found herself singing softly as she went about the mixing of the spice cake. A tear fell on the big, bony hand that held the mixing spoon. She started guiltily and looked around. This would never do, even if there was no one to observe her weakness but Tiger, the big yellow cat curled up in front of the fire. "A stiff upper lip" had been her watchword for many a long year and she wasn't going to weaken now. Another tear splashed on the rug at her feet. Quickly, she thrust the cake in the oven and fled up the little stairs. Making her way in the dark to a tiny crib in the corner, she knelt beside it. "Oh, laddie, laddie," she moaned, as she buried her face in the little quilt.

Presently, she came down the stairs again, eyes red, but with her mouth set firmly. Tiger waited for her reproachfully by the door. He wanted to get out and his attitude showed plainly that neglect of his wishes wasn't improving his temper. He waved his tail stiffly as he stalked forth and sat down, tail wrapped tightly about him, on the doorstep. "It's a cold night. Ye'd better come in soon," she admonished him severely. But he only waggled an impatient ear and looked up the road.

Mrs. Lanigan took a small oil lamp from the closet and carefully cleaned the chimney, blowing in it with distended cheeks and then wiping it painstakingly with a piece of newspaper. She trimmed the wick with the scissors, giving it a nice point, then lit the little lamp and placed it in the window. As it had done for three long years, the radiance spread in a soft glow far up the road that went by the house.

At the crossing, half a mile away, the train whistled. With a smothered exclamation, Jerry Lanigan stepped off the tracks and scowled as the big engine and its trailing cars thundered by. Then his brow relaxed, and he smiled as he reached for the bundle he had dropped, and resumed a limping way. Under the ragged boots and the equally ragged socks, his feet were sore and chafed. Much of the two hundred miles between him and his home had been made by rail. He had ridden the bumpers for long cold hours, huddled carefully under a noisy freight car, and one section had been done in an "empty," with two half-drunken bums for company,—but the last fifty miles had been on foot, as he could testify to anyone who cared to examine his pedal extremities.

He had stepped into a little pool when he left the track to let the train go by, and the cold water congealed about his toes, trickling through the ragged sock. He would have sworn about it at an earlier stage of the journey, but now he was too near his destination to let a little thing like that worry him. Coming to the brow of the hill that separated him from a sight of the house, he hesitated for a moment. It was no way to be coming back at Christmas time—like a criminal, with nothing in his pockets or his hands——

The light in the window winked a welcome to the wanderer. His mother's light—the light she had promised to keep shining for him through the night. For a long space Jerry Lanigan looked at the radiant square that showed him the way to his home. The light went out—for a moment—under the rush of sudden tears that made it swim and flicker through a misty haze.

Then—with a stiff upper lip, the heritage of his Scotch grandmother, Jerry Lanigan strode down the hill to his home.

The Unknown Wise Man

By WALLACE HAVELOCK ROBB

Not three, but four Wise Men set out,
To find where Jesus lay;
But three alone
Became well known;
The fourth man lost his way.

'Tis said he stayed behind, to do
Good deeds, until too late,
He tried to go,
But was so slow,
The others would not wait.

The three Wise Men brought Jesus gifts;
The fourth man gave his love;
He has no fame,
But Jesus came
To him, from Heaven above.

The above poem was written at the urgent request of a little boy who came to the poet and said, "All the children in my class are expected to recite. Everything I know is already chosen by someone else. Won't you please write me a special Christmas poem? If you will make me a nice one, maybe I would learn it off by heart."

And what poet could resist the prospect of a sweet child learning his words off by heart?

THE LEGEND OF LOVESICK LAKE AND OTHER POEMS

Warwick Bros. and Rutter, Ltd., Toronto

Mrs. Emily Marguerite Marshall, a Toronto lady who every year holidays at her cottage on the shores of Lovesick Lake, has given us a charming book of verse in "The Legend of Lovesick Lake and Other Poems." Delicately phrased and with a simplicity of outline that is refreshing as a relief from the ponderosity of contemporaneous poetry, these verses bring something of the freshness of the pretty lake where doubtless their inspiration was born of summer sunshine and glittering water.

While the legend that tells of an Indian maiden's love and sorrow and final tragic joy is of particular interest to Peterborough people, because of its local associations, there are many shorter poems in the little volume that will perform a grander mission of relieving care and bringing brightness. "The Legend" is easily read, interesting, and has the lilting cadence of the wind in the trees and the rushing of the rapids. Written somewhat after the style of "Hiawatha," it has high individuality.

In "A Voice from the Deep," there is told the age old story of the seas' power to enthral, and the poet finds of the breakers:

"They bring me a world of beauty
And a heart full of joy each day."

"My Garden of Dreams" is a delicately-told idyll of life and love; "Early Spring" tells of life's awakening; "Sunset" is a word picture of the day's ending in a blaze of color—and then the dark; "The Ideal Country" sounds a call to self-less-ness and service; and "Seeking the Truth" garbs an old precept in new and attractive manner.

In "If I Were" the writer touches a lighter strain very acceptably in a little love song that will delight many:—

"If I were just a butterfly,
With pretty, gauzy wings,
With all the shades of rainbow tints,
And many other things,
I think I'd light upon thy lips,
And take a long sweet kiss,
And give thee thought of my desire,
My everlasting wish."

Particularly suitable to the season is the graceful "Goodbye Old Year":

"And in thy dying hours I pray thee take
All sad and mournful thoughts away,
to fade with thee,
So that with morrow's morn I might awake
With nought but kindest thoughts and love, 'twixt thee and me."

A sombre, but beautiful, thread of old memory runs through "Do I Remember?" telling of unrequited love and friendship's regret:

"My dear old friend, had I but known whilst yet the day was young,
And summer flowers a-blooming and,
"love's old sweet song," was sung,
I might have saved thee sad regrets and thoughts of days that were,
When you and I were in our youth,
without a thought or care."

All in all, Mrs. Marshall's volume of verse will find an appreciative reception by lovers of beautiful poesy. She will be remembered for her "Legend of Lovesick Lake," but there are many who will enjoy more the tender ballads and lyrics that touch the universal chords—love—youth—home.

REV. W. HAROLD YOUNG'S GREAT CANADIAN PREACHING

(Ryerson Press, Toronto, $2) light.

By J. R. H.

We are always glad to see a new Canadian book, and the pleasure is doubled when the proprietory interest is heightened by personal knowledge of the author. In "Great Canadian Preaching," Peterborough has a real part, for it is written by Rev. W. Harold Young, popular former pastor of George street Church, and it contains a sermon preached there by another former minister, Rev. Samuel P. Rose, D.D., of Montreal, on the occasion of the Golden Jubilee. The modesty of the author has led him to an omission that will be regretted by many of his friends here, and by lovers of high thoughts nobly expressed everywhere. Those who heard Rev. Mr. Young during his pastorate in Peterborough will agree that he is worthy a place in the hall of fame to which he elevates eighteen of his contemporaries, but none of his personal sermons is included in the work he has just published.

The book is a decided addition to the religious literature of the day. It is not doctrinal, or denominational, or sectional. There is nothing here for the religious alarmist to fasten upon; the emphasis is laid upon the fundamentals of Christian experience, and if these be indeed representative sermons from the pulpits of Canada, then the Church is not slipping into the controversial philandering so many profess to believe. The denominational line is scarcely apparent—Church of England, United Church, Baptist Church, Unitarian Church and the colleges all contribute typical addresses. And not "addresses" written specially for publication, remember; all of the sermons were delivered in Canadian churches, East and west and centre—with such patent farces as that enacted in Tennessee."

The sermons collected by Rev. Mr. Young show abounding faith in the here-ness of the Divine. Religion, with these preachers, is not a cloak to be taken from the closet every Sunday. It is a vital force in all the situations and eventualities of everyday life, and the preaching founded upon that premise is eminently practical in its applications.

Just a word about the preachers. Those chosen by the author for inclusion in his book are nationally and internationally known Canadian ministers. They are—Richard Roberts, D.D.; Arthur L. Huddleston, D.D.; Hon. H. J. Cody, M.A., D.D., LL.D.; J. W. G. Ward, D.D.; Trevor H. Davies, D.D.; Bertal Heeney, B.D.; Samuel P. Rose; J. W. Aikens, D.D.; John MacNeill, D.D.; Canon Allen P. Shatford, M.A., D.C.L.; George Campbell Pidgeon, D.D.; W. H. Sedgewick, D.D.; Murdock Mackinnon, D.D.; James E. Hughson, D.D.; G. G. D. Kilpatrick, D.S.O.; Sydney B. Snow, D.D.; Clarence MacKinnon, D.D.; J. R. P. Selater, D.D. Every sermon is prefaced by a short biographical sketch of the preacher, written in interesting style by Rev. Mr. Young.

The subjects include "A Forward Look," "Unexplorable Wealth," "The Rebirth of Joy," "Arms and the Man," "The Appeal of the Church of England," "The Deserter," "Canada and the Kingdom of Christ," "Offended in Christ," and "The Race Problem."

One remarkable feature about the book, which gives cause for reflection, is that although it is a Canadian book, written about Canadians by a Canadian, and published by a Canadian firm, it is marked "Printed in the United States of America."

M'GILL KEEPS 'SHAG' AS COACH

Frank Shaughnessy Offered Another Contract For Year.

ENGAGED IN 1912.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 19 (Canadian Press)—Frank Shaughnessy has been re-engaged as coach of two of the major sports at McGill, rugby and ice hockey, a one-year contract, the customary one signed by the McGill coach since he came to the Unviersity in 1912, having been offered to Shaughnessy following a meeting of the Athletic Board of Control.

Shaughnessy is at present engaged rounding the red and white hockey teams into condition for the winter programme. On December 30 the McGill team will start on its annual holiday invasion of the Eastern United States, playing leading college teams of the United States at Boston and in the new Madison Square Garden rink at New York.

HIJACKERS' DOOM AFTER CHRISTMAS

Supreme Court Rejects Appeal of Condemned Men.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 19.—(Canadian Press). — Owen Baker and Harry Sowash, confined in the death cells of Oamalla Prison, are not aware that their doom has been sealed by decree of the Supreme Court of Canada.

Unless attorneys engaged by the prisoners convey the tidings, it is probable the condemned men will not be informed of the verdict until after Christmas. The authorities must await official communication from the Department of Justice at Ottawa.

Sheriff H. P. McMartin, of New Westminster, whose appointment carried the responsibility of conveying the verdict to the condemned men, does not expect to receive official notice of the verdict till after Christmas.

Baker and Sowash were convicted of the murder of William Gillis and his son aboard their boat, the Beryl G., loaded with liquor, while directing a highjacking expedition. The liquor was the objective of the attack on the boat, according to evidence, and was cashed after the murder on a barren island near Victoria, B.C., and afterwards smuggled into United States territory.

INSIDE GOLF.

Maker of 27 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

By CHESTER HORTON

To begin a struggle to hit the ball hard, at the instant of starting the club forward—or a moment before that — then ease up when the club head gets near the ball is the golf swing upside down. Instead, ease the club off from the take-off of the forward swing, then put zip into it at the bottom. Just let the club begin to fall downward somewhat of its own volition then, when it gets going well, begin to whip it with the hands. The action is a good deal the same as cracking a whip—you want the snap of the clubhead to be when it meets the ball. The delicate muscles of the hands and wrists hae only so much strength, and if you use that up in starting the clubhead away from the top there will be none left to work at the bottom. Don't carry the club back too far. The farther back you go, the more likely you are to lose control of the club and even if you maintain control of it, the longer the back swing the greater your chance of mis-timing.

By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

I suppose you and the few customers which read this letter every week has been waiting to hear me pan the Petes cause they was knocked out of the S.p.A. serious. Well, your due for a disappointment. This week I got a lotta nice things to unload about the team which, if they was outlucked by Mister Ashley and his gang, showed about 1,500 fans an eyefull of speed, stickhandling and dash. They had everything but horseshoes and a blue print showing where the net was located, and I figger that now they has got a chance to practice at home and get some coaching, the gang is going to shake down into a machine that will make more trouble in the senior group than static does the night you invite some friends in to hear the new radio.

This Preston team played plenty smart hockey, too, especially this bird Arnott, which used to be a sort of neighbor when he lived in Belleville, but didn't show any neighborly spirit Mon. night. If you think the guy that named Mister Arnott "gunner" was crazy, so's your old man. If he'd of missed his train Mon. the Petes woulda won by 3 to 1, the way I see it.

THE JINX GONE.

A lot of superstitious cusses is plumb tickled to see the S.p.A. Trophy get away from Peterboro anyhow. They warble that no senior or junior team which won the Sportsmen's Trophy ever went on and copped the O.h.A. title. And you can't laff that one off very easy neither, for they're right.

The home customers is to get a chance to see our wandering Petes in action on the local cushion Mon. night, when Mister C. Smythe will bring his Varsity team here to meet Mister Bailey and his pals. It just naturally ought to draw a crowded rink, cause the students is a classy outfit which will extend the home talent to the limit, and Peterboro fans has a hankering for hockey after 2 or 3 weeks following the game through the newspapers or the silver-voiced tones of the announcers at the movie shows. Mister Wright will trot out his whole stable for the approval of the home guard, and it oughta be an evening cramful with action. It may not be as big an ouching as Mister Tex Rickard staged in N. Y. Tues. night, but at that I have a notion they will be just about as much hockey dished out. As Mister Shakespere didn't say, but might of if he had thought of it, "Let's go."

SAY IT WITH BALLOTS.

I am a peacable party, Mister Sporting Editor, and I ain't got no longing to get into no controversy over this daylight savin' question, but it seems to be kinda up to me to remind those folks what wanta play baseball or socker or tennis or see anybody else play or have an extra hour for fishing or gardening or any of them pastimes after supper in the summer evenings, that they is going to be a vote taken at the municipal election. If they wanta to do any of them things they better find out where they vote and get out and mark a ballot, cause it is a cinch bet that daylight savin' is about as popular as a soprano solo on a radio to a lotta people, and they won't have to be drug out election day. Some of them got their pencil all sharpened up now and can't hardly wait till election day to put their X against daylight savin'. It is up to the birds which want that extra sunkist hour to say it with ballots or else keep quiet about it next year.

On the same day there'll be a chance to vote on the question of Sunday swimming. Somehow the majority of the city fathers seem to have got the notion that the folks which venture to plunge into the Otonabee on a Sunday is just naturally heading for a spot where, according to the popular conception, there ain't no swimming neither Sundays or week days, and it is up to them to billy Sunday the backsliders back to a sounder footing. If the civic dads is right, the local Sunday swimmers is going to have a lotta company and find the traffic jammed with Sunday motorists and Sunday golf players, etc. Plenty of folks don't agree with the Council, however, and they'll have an opening to say so on election day.

LET'S ACT OUR AGE.

Up in the Western Senior o.H.a. group they has adopted a kinda Locarno pact in which the clubs has agreed to work for fair treatment for referees and for visiting teams. It is a excellent policy, and I for one hope that Peterboro fans will please copy. There ain't no reason I can see why every official should be treated as if he was out to rob the home birds. This habit of booing and hissing every time a referee calls a home play offside or chases a local player to the hoosegow is out of date—village stuff. Our hockey boys has graduated into the big time—it's up to the fans to follow them. Same thing about visiting players. The Petes has found them all pretty good fellows since they made the jump into senior hockey—why not treat them as so when they come to Peterboro? Give them a hand when they pull a smart play, and leave the raspberry at home. We gotta a real team—why not tell the world we gotta real senior town, too?

The new o.H.a. rules will be introduced here Mon. For the benefit of the local bugs, I may say that a line is drawn across the ice 40 ft. from each end of the rink, a kind of a private offside area for the defending sides. Inside of that 40 ft. the defenders can pass the puck forward or kick it, but the attackers must play onside. They can be no body checking outside of those lines either, which means that there ain't no bumping in mid-ice, and the forward, which used to like to slow down his check by charging into him, has gotta adopt new taetics. The changes ain't hard to follow and they tend to a faster, cleaner game.

My congrats is extended to the management of the city League, which is planning a lotta good things for hockey. The junior section should prove a excellent feeder for the junior o.H.a. teams of the future, the senior section will provide a lot of good sport for older players, and I'm tickled to see them tackle a intermediate team, which will give some lads a chance to play which otherwise would hafta to take their exercise watching the Petes. There can't be too much hockey if Peterboro is to keep the place which last year's team won and this year's team is holding.

GOOD WISHES.

This being my last offence before Christmas, I "feel I can't let this occasion pass," as the presentation addresses always says, without passing out some seasonable wishes. Tastes differ about Christmas. Some folks like a white Christmas, some like a green one; some people wanta wet Christmas, some want a dry one, which makes it difficult for a guy to express his message. All I can do is to hope that it will be a dry Yuletide for them as like it that way and for them that want it wet—well, I hope they get their wish, too.

For the hockey fans I suggest to Sandy Claws that he put a championship in Peterboro's stocking, and for the Peterboro hockey team the ability to average four, five goals per game, which ought to see them through, might be hung on the tree.

To those which wade through this rambling column each week the season's greetings is most heartily offered.

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

This combination allows one person with limited means to buy a complete meal for himself at an unusually reasonable price.

One shop has eclipsed its rivals advertising a "lunch" for a halfpenny: the lunch consists of cake, biscuits and sweets.

PHANTOM LIGHTS WORRY PEOPLE

Residents of Buffalo Basin Have Been Mystified for Many Years.

MANY THEORIES

BEECHY, Sask., Dec. 16.—(By Canadian Press).—For many years the residents of the Buffalo Basin district have been mystified by a phantom play of lights, which have sent terror and superstition into the hearts of those who have tried to solve its origin.

Resembling the sweeping beam of a searchlight or the glare of the headlights of an automobile, the strange illumination for the past fourteen years has baffled the neighborhood and defied explanation.

Like previous attempts to discover the source of the phenomenon, the latest expedition has been one of complete failure. A party, determined to get at the root of the mystery recently launched into the affected area. Observers were stationed at different points and each person kept a close look-out.

Descending apparently from the southern sky, the light was seen, faint at first, but gradually increasing in volume. For several minutes the beam held its brilliance, then it faded into a dull glow only to repeat its vagaries much akin to the throbbing of a lighthouse signal. The party was obliged to abandon its mission none the wiser.

Many theories have been advanced for the eixstence of this mysterious light, but all have been rejected as unsound. There is no house within a mile of the place which is located in a wild, uncultivated stretch of slough and hills. Visitors have suggested that the phenomenon might be caused by the reflection from burning straw stacks, but this finds no support among the residents of Buffalo Basin, who point out that the light has been observed in winter and summer alike.

Coins are made at the Royal Mint in London at the rate of approximately 1,000,000 a day.

Earl Beatty Has Received £15,000 to Repair "Implacable."

FAMOUS VESSEL

Was in French Line at Trafalgar And Was Captured.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—(By Canadian Press.)—It was announced recently that Earl Beatty, Admiral of the Fleet, had received £15,000 from an anonymous donor towards the proposed £25,0000 for the restoration of the Implacable, one of the warships in the Battle of Trafalgar. In this connection it is interesting to recall something of the history of H.M.S. Implacable, which originally was not in the British. She was not called the "Implacable" when she took part in the Battle of Trafalgar, but was known then as the French battleship "Duguay-Trouin."

This vessel is rich in honor and inspiration. She was built for the French Royal Navy before the Revolution and was launched in 1789. Later on she carried the flag of the Revolution she was incorporated in the Battle Fleet of Napoleon, and so 120 years ago came to Trafalgar, where she exchanged shots with Nelson's flagship, the Victory. At that time she was called the Duguay-Trouin; later, when she had been taken after a most gallant action, she received her present name.

In 1855 she began a new career as a training-ship for boys at Devonport. To sail in such a vessel in these days, when the wars in which she took part are no more than a memory, glorious alike to both combatants must surely exercise a profound influence on the minds of the boys in training.

The ship, if sufficient funds are obtained to save her from destruction, is to remain at Falmouth on loan to Wheatley Cobb, who has maintained her at his own cost for the last fifteen years. She will be used under his direction as a holiday training vessel for Sea Scouts, Sea Cadets, and other boy's organizations.

BIG LENSES FOR OBSERVATORIES

Two Being Made in Vancouver for Use on Coast.

FIVE FEET ACROSS

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 16.—(Canadian Press).—Construction of two reflecting lenses, five-feet in diameter, one for the new Grouse Montain meteorological observatory near Vancouver, and one for the Father J. S. Ricard memorial observatory at the University of Santa Clara, California, has been commenced by Prof. T. S. H. Shearman at his laboratories here.

The Grouse Mountain and California observatories will work in cooperation with each other, according to Prof. Shearman. A great deal of the work at Grouse Mountain will have to do with minor planets and comets. During cloudy weather the Santa Clara observatory will assist in charting the course of the comets and take photograpns for the local institution.

Funds for the building of the Grouse Mountain observatory which will overlook Vancouver harbor, were subscribed before the war, but only now has the project reached the construction stage with the building of a scenic highway to the top of the mountain. The altitude of the new observatory will be higher than that of the Lick observatory, the largest in the world, located near San Jose, California.

There are rumors of a municipal election n Chandos. The present Reeve, Robert Scott, and all the Council have decided to run again. Several names are mentioned as aspirants for the Reeveship, amongst them Alan Caldwell, who has been beaten in that canacity no less than eight times. There is little talk of opposition in Burleight and Anstruther, though it is expected that Duncan Reeve will again be in the running for Reeve.

ANNUAL CONCERT AT BRIDGENORTH

Rev. J. V. McNeeley Presided at United Church Entertainment.

GOOD PROGRAMME.

Bridgenorth United Church was comfortably filled last night on the occasion of the annual Sunday School Christmas concert. The pastor, Rev. J. V. McNeely, occupied the chair and welcomed the audience.

A pageant entitled "Rock of Ages" was the outstanding attraction of the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Telford and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Sidey sang the verses of Toplady's famous hymn. Mrs. Franklin Sidey and Mrs. Melville McWilliams, dressed in white flowing robes and stationed before a large white cross, enacted the sentiments of the hymn in pantomime, while J. Jopling read passage of Scripture, dealing with the sacrifice of Christ on the Cross; Miss Phyllis Jopling, Mrs. Albert Nichols and Miss Ruth Bailey were torchbearers.

The Rev. W. S. Edgar, who brought neighborly greetings from Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church, spoke on the significance of Christmas and traced the development of Saint Nicholas into Santa Claus, the children's friend. Mr. Edgar interspersed his remarks with several racy anecdotes.

"Southern Melodies" were rendered by a company of 15 boys from the Sunday School whose faces showed traces of a liberal application of burnt cork. The songs included Tenting Tonight, My Old Kentucky Home, Old Black Joe, Darling Nelly Gray and Good Night Ladies.

The Primary class rendered an acrostic "Santa Claus." Recitations were given by Clifford White, Max Fowler, Vera Heard, Fred Stubbs, Mildred Heard, Avis Forsythe, Tom Stubbs, Norman White, Wilma Telford and Frances Jack sang a solo. Helen Jopling's class carried out an exercise "Seven Days in a Week," in which seven girls appeared, each performing a daily household task. "Waxworks" were staged in which were represented Brittanica, Canada, Little Red Riding Hood, Little Bo-Peep, Old Mother Hubbard and other characters famous in the world's nursery literature.

Mr. Nickren played several piano solos in his usual fine style and the choir sang "Ring Out, Ye Christmas Bells."

Miss Freida Jobe and Mrs. Wallace Nichols were the accompanists for the evening.

Fine Weather In Argentine Sends Wheat Price Down

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—(Canadian Press.)—With reports at hand that fine weather for the harvest is prevailing in Argentina, wheat prices here averaged lower to-day in first Board of Trade session. Indications that world shipments would show an increase for the week tended also to depress values. On the other hand, new unofficial advices from Buenos Aires were current saying that altthough the yield in Southern Argentina is expected to be large, official figures on the total production are considered half a million tons too high. Chicago opening quotations 5-8 off to 1-4c. up, new style Dec. 172 to 172 1-4 and May 165 3-4 to 166 1-4 were followed by a moderate general upturn and then by a decline to 171 for December and 164 7-8 for May.

Trading To-day Centred On Consolidated Smelters

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—(Canadian Press.)—Another blow was aimed at the British monopoly controlling crude rubber prices yesterday when Representative Tilson, Connecticut Republican floor leader, after a conference with Secretary Hoover introduced a resolution calling an investigation into the situation by the House Commerce committee.

The resolution charged that extortionate profits were being taken in the rubber supply to United States' consumers ,through the workings of the British colonial monopoly and asked the committee to recommend a course of action for the governmetn to protect the public.

Mr. Tilson repeated figures first made current by Mr. Hoover, who has charged that for this year alone, $666,000,000 will be unfairly extorted from United States' rubber users through the workings of the monopoly.

The mines and unlisted sections were very active, however. The two leaders moved individually. Smelters was sold up to 153 1-2 and closed at that mark for a point and a half gain while Duluth sold as low as 28 1-2, recovering to 29 for a loss of two and three quarter points.

BRIAND AFFIRMS LOCARNO PACTS QUITE EFFICIENT

Will Use All Influence To Obtain Russia's Entry Into League.

NO ANTI-SOVIET.

Cited Greco-Bulgar Settlement as Proof of Capability in Such Incidents.

PARIS, Dec. 19 (Canadian Press) —Premier Briand, of France, as President of the League of Nations Council, will use all his influence to obtain Russia's entrance into the League of Nations on an equal footing with other nations if the Soviets will apply for admittance, he told Joint Foreign Affairs and Army committees of the Chamber of Deputies today.

The Premier's announcement came while he was explaining the Locarno security agreement and arbitration treaties to committee men. The agreements he said were in no manner directed against Russia, and he had so informed Foreign Minister Tchitcherin during the Soviet statesman's recent visit here.

Had the Locarno treaties been in effect in 1914, M. Briand continued, there would have been no world war. He cited the recent Greco-Bulgar incident as proof that the League of Nations was fully capable of settling differences of that sort.

RESCUERS BUSY.

LONDON, Dec. 19. — (United Press.)—When an explosion shook the Birchinwood colliery last night, 370 miners made their way to safety, according to reports from the coal region. Six miners were still entrapped, the dispatches added, and it was feared they had small chance of life.

Four rescue parties worked throughout the night fighting fire which followed the explosion. The entombed men are reported almost a mile away from the opening of the shaft.

FARMER ROBBED AT SYDENHAM

Was Assaulted By Two Men While Stepping Into Car.

KINGSTON, Ont., Dec. 19. — (Canadian Press.)—Jay O'Brien, a young farmer who lives in the vicinity of Sydenham, was the victim of a hold-up last night. O'Brien after doing some business in the village about 8 o'clock stepped up to the car, when he was suddenly assaulted by two men. Peter Grooms, passing the O'Brien car later in the evening, heard groans, and found O'Brien lying unconscious in the back seat. On regaining consciousness Mr. O'Brien told his story of being assaulted and robbed.

WOMEN GATHERED GRAIN MANUALLY

Speaker Recalled Year of 1815 When Grasshoppers Threatened.

WINNIUEG, Man., Dec. 16. — (Canadian Press).—The traditions of Manitoba were discussed the other day by Miss Kenneth Haig, before the American Women's Club. She told of the part women played in the harvesting of crops in the grasshopper plague of 1815. One day a great cloud of grasshoppers settled over the fields and by sundown hardly a leaf was left. The women went into the fields and into their aprons carefully gathered any remaining heads of grain. "When we think of these few poor handfuls of grain, garnered by the women of the Selkirk colony in 1815, and then think of the 97,000,000 bushels harvest of 1915, made possible by the courage and faith of this colony of men and women, we have, indeed, a tradition to be proud of," said Miss Haig.

AT THE CAPITOL

COLLEEN MOORE DUE SOON IN MOVIE OF ZANGWILL'S NOVEL

Star Satirizes Fast Pace of Younger British Set in "We Moderns."

Better than a Cook's tour, more informative than a Baedeker guide—and all to be experienced while you repose in a comfy upholstered seat!

Such is one of the pleasures to be extracted from a visit to the Capitol Theatre the coming Monday, when "We Moderns," starring Colleen Moore, will be shown for the first time locally.

Other pleasures which will make the gorgeous background of "We Moderns" only an incident, although a most prepossessing one, is the presence of the star, Colleen Moore, heading what has been described as an ideally balanced cast, an intriguing plot bristling with action and excitement.

Miss Moore, together with Jack Mulhall, her leading man, and other members of the cast, went to London to film all exterior scenes of the new offering, adding the piquancy of authentic settings to a racy screen narrative that again presents the inimitable star in a new expression of the ultra-modern type as it exists in England.

"We Moderns" was adapted from Israel Zangwill's startling story of loose living among the younger British set immediately following the war. With society, generally, considerably demoralized by the effects of the conflict, these once decorous youngsters "get away with murder," being in position to give the young jazz set of America cards and spades and outdistance them. Into this vortex plunges Mary Sundale, as portrayed by Miss Moore, and her brother, both of whom indulge in that supreme folly, the "Treasure hunt."

How these young people are brought to their senses forms one of the most absorbing tales seen upon the screen in many weeks.

The picture was produced by John McCormick for First National.

"EXCHANGE OF WIVES"

Based on a play by the celebrated dramatist, Cosmo Hamilton, and adapted to the screen and titled by the accomplished writers, Frederic and Fanny Hatton, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, "Exchange of Wives," is an amusing, sophisticated comedy of newly married life.

The apt title gives a good idea of the plot. Living side by side are two couples. A jazzy flirtatious husband has a quiet, sedate wife. In the other house the situation is reversed. The jazzy wife attracts the other woman's snappy husband and the two quiet ones find solace in each others company. The quiet wife, discovering that both husbands have one thing in common, love of good home cooking, contrives to get the four to a lodge in the mountains, where the conventionalities are observed, but each wife cooks for the other husband. Her own husband's ardor for the other woman cannot stand canned food and he begs to be taken back. The other husband takes matters in his own hands, uses caveman methods and wins back his wife's love.

There is nothing boisterous about the humor here; it is easy-going comedy, aided by good subtitling and clever little touches.

During the past ten years twenty prisons have been closed in England and the prison population has declined from 167,000 in 1915 to about 58,000 today.

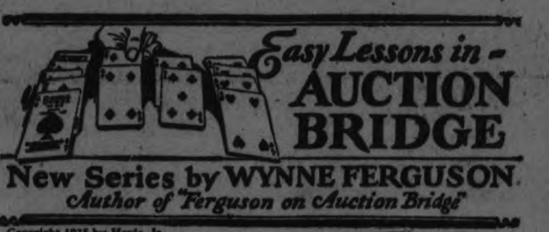
SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE.



New Series by WYNNE FERGUSON
Author of "Ferguson on Auction Bridge"

Copyright 1925 by Wynne, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 19

A great many players seem to be in doubt as to whether or not they are justified in taking advantage of the personal element in auction. In other words, is it fair and within the ethics of the game to note and take advantage of the mannerisms or characteristics of your fellow players? The answer is simple. You are playing a game with three other people, your partner and two opponents, and it is not only allowable, but it is your duty to study them as carefully as you do your cards. The players in the game are just as important as the cards and should be studied and analyzed just as carefully. If you are playing with strangers, it is rather difficult to profit by such analysis, but when you are playing constantly with the same group you should take into account all of the characteristics of the different players, when bidding, playing the dummy or playing against the declarer. You can bid freely with one partner but must be conservative with another. You can take a chance against one opponent but must be very careful of being doubled with another. If one opponent does double, look out, for you are probably beaten; but if another doubles, figure on an extra trick or so. In the play of the hands, however, a little different point arises. It is not considered good form to hesitate or otherwise indicate by your method of play, that you do or do not hold certain cards. If a player becomes noted for doing this as a matter of habit, however, his opponents are certainly justified in taking due advantage. One player, for example, always gives a nervous cough when he holds the missing honor and the opponent leads through his hand. He has tried hard to cure himself of this habit but without success. As a result, his opponents play for this signal and nearly always get the necessary information. Another player had a habit of always redoubling when doubled. The word "double" seemed to call up in his mind the word "redouble" and he was helpless to refrain from saying it. Every player at the table has the same opportunity of drawing conclusions that you have, so be on the alert at all times for the human element. Bridge is a game of wits and the player who can best match his wits against the others is the winning player. On the other hand, always avoid unfair tactics, such as private conventions or signals. Unpremeditated slips or mannerisms should be taken advantage of but watch out for those that are made with the intention of deceiving. For example, if you have a singleton of the suit led, you should play it promptly and not hesitate. Hesitation in such a case would lead your opponent to believe that you have a choice of two or more cards and might influence his play to his disadvantage. Such tactics are not mannerisms and are distinctly unfair. Play a man's game, man fashion, at all times.

One of the types of players that one meets very often is the player who always tries to take his partner out of a double. He gets the idea into his head that his partner has made a bad bid or he wouldn't have been doubled and that it is his duty to rescue him. Here are two hands that came up recently which are excellent examples of what not to do:

Hand No. 1

Hearts — 7
Clubs — K, 8, 7, 5, 2
Diamonds — 8, 3
Spades — Q, 10, 9, 5, 3

	Z

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid no-trump. A bid two hearts and Y doubled. B immediately got panicky and bid two spades which Z doubled. A now bid three hearts, Y doubled and all passed. A lost his contract by only one trick so that if B had left the double alone, he and his partner would have won game and rubber. What B failed to consider was: First, that A must have a very strong hand to bid over one no-trump; and, second, that if he wanted a spade bid, he would have doubled no-trump. Be on the look out for such hands and don't take your partner out of a bid just because it has been doubled. The following hand is an even worse example of what not to do:

Hand No. 2

Hearts — J, 10, 4, 3
Clubs — 9, 7, 2
Diamonds — J, 10, 8, 7, 5, 3
Spades — none

	Z

No score, first game. Z dealt and bid three spades and A doubled. Y never hesitated a minute and promptly bid four diamonds. B doubled and defeated the contract 400 points while the three spade bid would have lost only 200 points less eight honors. This example is an extreme case perhaps, but is a fine illustration of what not to do.

Here is a peculiar hand, both in the bidding and play and an illustration of the great possibilities of apparently weak hands.

Problem No. 10

A	B
	Z

Hearts — 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 2
Clubs — 7
Diamonds — K, J, 9, 7, 6, 4
Spades — none

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and passed. A bid one spade. Y passed and B bid two clubs. Z bid two hearts, A three clubs, Y three hearts and B four clubs. Z bid four hearts, A five clubs, Y doubled, B passed and Z bid five hearts. A doubled and all passed. A opened with the ace of clubs and then played the ace of spades which Z trumped. How should he plan the play of the hand? An analysis of the play and the other three hands will be given in the next article.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

Some people involuntarily resent "truth," which contradicts what they have been taught to reverence and believe, for the simple reason that that course is about the easiest thing they can do. Because of this impediment or intellectual inertia they do not have the comfort that "truth" would bring to them Others pooh, pooh, plain Scriptural statements, designating the preaching of the same a fad, hobby, or some ism. They will not investigate for themselves. They have no need to fear to do this, for truth will bear the closest scrutiny. Some may think it strange that so many love darkness ("error") rather than light ("truth.") There is a way out of darkness, and a few have found that way. John 1:12. The veil that has been over the minds of the people is gradually being lifted. "Truth" is shining forth as never heretofore.—M. T. Butcher. 1d145 4781

Tots of St. Luke's Sunday School Had Annual Christmas Party.

On Thursday, the Primary and Beginners' Departments of St. Luke's Sunday School were entertained at a very merry Christmas party in the parish hall of the church. Supper was served from tables decorated with bright Christmas candles and evergreens, and prizes were given from the Christmas tree, which was beautifully arranged with vari-colored lights and tinsel decorations.

Prizes were awarded to children who had taken first and second places in Sunday school work, a total of 27 gifts being awarded for proficiency in this study. Bags of candy for each child were donated by a member of the parish, a grocer in Ashburnham. During the evening, lantern pictures of the Christmas story of the Christ Child, and of Gulliver's Travels, were presented for the children.

ADVANCES MADE IN SOCIAL LEGISLATION

Parents Now Have Equal Rights of Child Guardianship.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 19.—(Canadian Press)—Recent advances in social legislation were discussed by Miss Mildred McMurray in an address before members of the Women's Educational Labor League. The speaker dealt in some detail with the Child Welfare Act. The fact that parents now have equal rights concerning the guardianship of the child, where formerly the father was the senior guardian, was pointed out. A recent amendment to the divorce laws, gives the wife the same grounds for divorce as the husband. The Rural Health Nursing the work of Manitoba stood second to no other district on the North American continent.

MANY HOMESTEADS TAKEN DURING 1925

Number Was About the Same as That for 1924.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Totalling 572,960 acres, 3,144 homesteads and 437 soldier grants were taken up in Western Caanda from January 1, to October 30, of the present year, according to figures just released.

In the corresponding period last year 3,152 homesteads and 488 soldier grants, totalling 582,120 acres were taken up.

By provinces the figures for soldier grants and homesteads: Manitoba, 413; Saskatchewan, 1,746; Alberta, 1,289, and British Columbia, 139. The greater part of the entries during the past ten months were made at Edmonton, Alta., and Prince Albert, Sask.

During October, 528 free grant homesteads were recorded, 46 in Manitoba, 359 in Saskatchewan, 111 in Alberta and 12 in British Columbia. This is an increase of 164 compared wit hthe same period of 1924. Homesteads and slodiers' grants total 97,440 acres, against 53,240 for October last year.

The Moose Jaw division recorded 233 homesteads and 43 soldier grants in October. Offfcials point out that this activity is probably due to the reopening for entry by actual residents of certain areas withdrawn from homesteading two years ago.

ALMOST any set of coils, tubes, condensers and rheostats can be made to get some results some of the time, but—is that enough?

Isn't it good music and speaking; faithfully reproduced that you want and pay for?

Then, why not get a genuine OZARKA—the last word in scientific radio receiving sets at a reasonable price? Moreover, through training under OZARKA factory engineers, I know the instrument thoroughly; know how to install; how to adjust and how to service it so as to assure best possible results.

When may I bring an OZARKA to your home for a practical demonstration? I'll not touch the instrument after it is installed. WINNIPEG TRIO STILL AT LARGE NO CLUE FOUND

One of Bandits in $15,000 Hold-up May Have Been Wounded.

HOLES IN AUTO.

Suggestion That "Master Criminal" Directs Winnipeg Coups.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 21 (Canadian Press).—The three men who on Friday slugged the cashier of the Manitoba Liquor Commission over the head with an iron bar, snatched a satched containing $15,000 from him, and escaped, were still at large Saturday night, without the slightest trace of their whereabouts being known.

The possibility of one of the bandits having been wounded is entertained by the police following a minute examination of the stolen automobile used in the robbery, three bullet holes having now been found in the car; one is in the right side curtain of the car at the height of a man's shoulder, but a thorough search has failed to reveal any place where the bullet made an exit. A shot fired by the cashier, Thomas Nuttall, at the fleeing men may have found a mark though there are no blood stains in the car.

The similarity of the Liquor Commission robbery and that of the Winnipeg Electric Railway, when $37,000 was secured last August, has brought the suggestion that a "master criminal," keeping in the background, but planning the crimes, is responsible. Police, however, place little credence in this theory, believing the robberies to be the work of a band of travelling criminals.

BIG SAW MILLS MAY COME HERE

WOULD BUILD MILL.

FENELON FALLS, December 21.—(Special.) — It is announced here that the Schraeder Lumber Company, which has mills and limits in the Parry Sound District, are negotiating for the purchase of a number of townships in the County of Haliburton from the old English Land Company, which is represented by Toronto interests.

It is stated that the Schrader limits in Parry Sound are well nigh depleted, and that the company is desirous of securing new limits in the north.

If the deal is negotiated the company it is reported will require some 50 acres for their mills and yards.

Lindsay, Peterboro and Fenelon Falls are among the centres that are anxious to secure the mills.

Bank Clerk Found Dead In Vaults Clasping Revolver

WHEATLEY, Ont., Dec. 21—The lifeless body of Warren Moses, teller of the Royal Bank here, was found in the vaults of the bank at 1.45 p.m. Sunday by D. M. MacGregor, manager of the bank. Death was evidently self-inflicted, a 32-calibre revolver, the property of the bank, being found clasped in the right hand of the deceased young man.

Two letters were clasped in the other hand, one addressed to his mother, Mrs. Anna Moses, of Hamilton, and the other to J. A. Thompson, teller of the Bank of Montreal. Mr. Thompson's letter indicated that the act was premeditated. It is not thought Moses was in any financial difficulties but that he was in a peculiarly morbid state of mind. He has been in Wheatley only a few weeks.

FASCISTS MAKE BATTERSEA FLY NATIONAL FLAG

Municipal Council Has Always Flown [illegible] Flag.

COMMUNIST DISTRICT.

LONDON, Dec. 21 (Canadian Press).—For the first time in six years the people of Battersea, a suburb southwest of London, yesterday saw the national flag floating from the flagstaff of their town hall. Battersea, which is represented in Parliament by Chapurji Saklatvala, a Communist, has a municipal council made up mostly of Socialists and Communists.

This body has steadily refused to fly the Union Jack since it has held power. Their plea is that it is a party flag, and that they substituted for it the tri-colored municipal ensign, which alone was hoisted on occasions when the national flag was flown elsewhere.

Early Sunday morning members of a society calling itself the National Fascisti succeeded in running up a Union Jack and then cut the lanyard, so that it cannot be lowered without difficult. The Fascists fixed a notice to the town hall door warning the council in future to fly the national flag, and above all not to attempt to hoist "the foul red flag."

BOYS DROWNED AT BELLEVILLE

Little Lads Were Playing on Ice and Went Through.

NOT RECOVERED.

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 21 (Canadian Press)—A double drowning accident occurred in this city Saturday afternoon, the victims being Eugene Ellsworth, aged 10 years, son of Adjutant H. C. Ellsworth, in command of the Salvation Army, and Bernard Brown, aged 9 years, son of A. R. Brown, a fish merchant, also a member of the army. The lads were playing on the ice in the harbor when they broke through and were carried beneath the ice. Lloyd Ellsworth, aged 8 years, brother of one of the victims, witnessed the accident and called for help. The bodies have not yet been recovered.

MUSSOLINI AGREES WITH KING TO PROCLAIM IMPERIAL STATUS OF ITALY IN VERY NEAR FUTURE

Hope To Restore Grandeur of Caesars, Says London Times.

PLANS ASIAN COUP.

Reported That Dictator is Planning New Naval Base at Rhodes.

LONDON, Dec. 21 (Canadian Press).—Italy is to be proclaimed an Empire. Premier Mussolini of Italy purposes during the coming twelve months to issue such a proclamation, according to the Sunday Times. Mussolini, the newspaper says, has entered into an agreement with King Victor Emmanuel to this end. It is also stated that he will at the same time seek an accord with the Holy See on the "Roman question."

In Court and Fascist circles, it is said, the Empire idea is making rapid progress and may become a fact in the near future. Mussolini's latest project is freely discussed in Fascist political quarters and the hope is expressed in the government press that the "Black Shirts," through Mussolini, will restore the Imperial grandeur of the Caesars.

This report is received with a great interest by politicals. It is remarked that Mussolini, having ruthlessly crushed all opposition to his rule in Italy and made himself indisputed master in his own house, the time is becoming ripe for the pursuit of any foreign adventure on which he may care to embark.

Diplomats in London are discussing a report from Angora that Mussolini plans the construction of a modern naval base on the Island of Rhodes, with an eye to the extension of the Italian sphere of influence in Asia Minor.

In connection with these reports, Mussolini's speech at Milan on October 28th is being recalled. He then told the Fascist troops: "Legionaires, I give you the rendezvous for next year, only the place is unknown. But I am certain, as I am certain of truths in mathematics, that next year also you will answer the call."

Jewish Rabbi, Stephen Wise, Denies Jesus Was a Myth, Claiming His Code Of Ethics As Unparallelled In History

NEW YORK, N.Y., Dec. 21 (United Press)—Contrary to Hebraic teaching Jesus of Nazareth was not a myth but a man and the Jews must accept the teachings of Jesus, Rabbi Stephen H. Wise of the Free Synagogue said yesterday. The teachings of Jesus comprised a code of ethics unparallelled in any writings in history, continued Rabbi Wise, adding that if Christianity were impracticable and unattainable, as the Jews said it was, the Christians by failing to live up to the tenets of their faith—made it so. "Jesus was," Rabbi Wise said, "I accept this despite the notion I had earlier in my life—a notion that Jesus was a myth and never existed, I tell you, and I will repeat these words to every Jew if need be—Jesus was—and we must accept this fact at once."

CHILD KILLED OTHERS HURT

Motor Car Crashed Into Telephone Pole at Delaware Sunday.

LITTLE TOT DYING.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 21 (Canadian Press).—Rose Marie Collins, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Collins, Benjamin Ave., Windsor, is dead, her brother, George Edwin, aged 3, is dying, and her mother is in a serious condition as the result of a motor car accident at Delaware Village yesterday evening. A car driven by Louis Boughner crashed into a telephone pole opposite the village hall. The injured are in Victoria Hospital here, the child with a fractured skull and his mother with a broken leg. She is in a delicate condition, and because of this complications are feared.

TEAMSTER HERO IN RESCUE SCENE

Saved Ten People, Including Five Children, When Ice Gave Way.

SLEIGH WAS LOST.

PEMBROKE, Dec. 21 (Canadian Press) — Eleven persons, including five children, had a narrow escape from drowning on Saturday afternoon when a sleigh on which they were driving across the Ottawa River crashed through the ice in mid-stream where water was 51 feet deep. Through the heroic work of Leo Mackay of Pembroke the drivers of the sleigh all were rescued. After everybody was safely on solid ice, he managed to save the horses but lost the sleigh.

BRITISH PARLIAMENT RECESS FINDS GOVERNMENT STRONGER THAN GENERALLY EXPECTED

This is Chiefly Due To Successful Efforts of Chamberlain at Locarno.

PEACE IN IRELAND.

Solution of Mosul Difficulty Is Expected To Be Satisfactory.

LONDON, Dec. 21.— (Canadian Press).— Parliament will recess on Tuesday with the government in much better repute than might have been expected a few months ago. In political observations this is attributed to the successful efforts at Locarno of Sir Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary, and the totally unexpected peaceful settlement of the Irish boundary question. Moreover, although the unemployment problem is still of the gravest nature, there are signs of improvement in trade and industry, and it is generally believed that should the New Year bring any strong business revival and a reduction in the number of unemployed, one of the government's most difficult tasks would be partialily removed.

The solution of the Mosul difficulty finds many active critics on the opposition benches. Common belief, however, is that the government will succeed in negotiating a satisfactory agreement with Irak and that the threatened danger from Turkey will blow over.

ACCEPTED BAIL.

Former Bank Branch Manager Had Refused Bail Until Last Saturday.

TORONTO, Dec. 21 (Canadian Press).—Harry Coffey, former manager of the branch bank at Schomberg, who has been in the Toronto jail under arrest on several charges of theft, obtained bail on Saturday night, and was home over the week-end. Coffey had refused, previous to Saturday, to accept bail.

Detroiters Languished Near An Unknown Oasis

DETROIT, Dec. 21.—(Canadian Press).—All Friday, $8,000 worth of whiskeys and champaigns were lying in a boat at the head of Belle Isle without anyone to guard them. But the news came too late for thirsty Detroiters, for the fact was not made public until after two members of the United States immigration service had discovered the boat Saturday. The thirty-foot cabin cruiser is locked in the ice near the head of Belle Island. It contained 150 cases of whiskey and champaign and apparently had been abandoned by bootleggers.

DOUMER DENIES CURRENT RUMOR OF RESIGNATION

Has No Intention at Present of Giving Up Office.

TRIUMPH FOR BRIAND.

Chamber Votes in Favor of Maintaining Mandate in Syria.

PARIS, Dec. 21 (United Press).—Rumors were current to-day that Finance Minister Doumer would resign, following a visit to him of Minister of the Interior Camille Chautemps and M. Israel, Edouard Herriot's right hand man, for the purpose of communicating the Radicals' demands for financial projects. The United Press, however, was informed authoritatively that Doumer had no intention—at least not at present—of resigning.

Premier Briand to-day had a new personal triumph to his credit in a vote of confidence, 300 to 29, on a technical motion congratulating the French troops in Syria. Briand told the Chamber that "we have no intention of giving up the French mandate in Syria." Subsequently the Chamber voted, 428 to 35, to maintain the mandate.

LAKE STEAMERS FURL FLAGS AS WINTER SETS IN

Navigation on Great Lakes Closed on Saturday Until Spring.

VESSELS BERTHED.

Snugly Tied Up in Harbors Already Bound By Ice.

SARNIA, Ont., Dec. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Once more the hand of winter has stretched out to put an end to navigation on the Great Lakes. The last steamer passed down the St. Clair on Saturday, the John F. Squires, her icy decks and sides showing her grim battle with the waters of Superior and Huron. As she nosed her way amid floating ice in Sarnia harbor the ships in the bay and the ferries bellowed out their salute to which the Squires responded.

The Squres is again the last ship down in 1925 as she was in 1924, and last year she was caught in the ice in Lake St. Clair for about a week. With the passing of the Squires the Marconi station at Point Edward closed on Saturday night for the season. The Huron lightship was removed in the morning. The Canadian Range lights are still in operation, but these will cease to function in the near future. Sarnia harbor has already a generous quantity of ice and in the opinion of Marcus Hitchcock, Sarnia's veteran fisherman and sailor, there is more ice this year than in the last forty years. Already the still waters around the ships at berths for the winter are well frozen and the ships must wait patiently for the spring days that will call them back to service.

The Huronic and Noronic are snugly tied up together and the sister ships of the Imperial Oil Company, the Sarnolite Royalite and Isoolite are close together in the shelter of Sarnia Bay. The season just closing is declared by marine men as highly successful, only one fatal accident marring the perfect record, the floundering of the barge Crane.

TCHITCHERIN WILL DISCUSS DEBTS WHEN U. S. ACCORDS RECOGNITION

Says His Attitude on Debts Has Been Misquoted.

ANXIOUS TO DISARM.

Will Consider Any Invitation Except to Conference in Switzerland.

BERLIN, Dec. 21 (United Press).—In an exclusive interview with the United Press, Soviet Foreign Minister Tchitcherin here declared Russia was anxious to disarm and to co-operate with other nations in either partial or total disarmament, but would not participate in any conference in Switzerland.

However, he declared Russia was prepared sympathetically to consider an invitation to an eventual naval disarmament conference in Washington.

He repeated his recent suggestions that any more for Russo-American rapproachment must come from Washington and asserted that he had been misquoted in Paris as to his position on the repayment of Russian debts. He declared he has repeatedly proposed discussion of the Kernesky debts and other questions.

It was, however, premature to discuss the probability of a moratorium on Russian debts and United States credits before a full diplomatic recognition was accorded Russia, he said.

These High Temperatures Won't Help Your Coal Bill

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 21 (Canadian Press)—Buenos Aires sweltered today in the highest temperature of summer, the mercury rising to 93 degrees. Fifteen heat prostrations were reported yesterday, one of them fatal.

In Rosario, the second city of the Republic, the temperature Saturday was 101, while in the northern province of Santiago Del Estero it was 110 in the shade.

THE WEATHER.

By way of contrast with the mild conditions prevailing this morning, it might be of interest to know that a year ago this morning the temperature here in the city was 15 degrees below zero, and that in the more northern parts of the county (in Apsley to be exact) it was 29 below zero. The wet snow which fell during the night clung to every thing it touched and all the trees presented a genuine Christmassy aspect, but the mild conditions prevailing soon dissolved the fairy-like scene.—W. BRITISH SCULPTOR DEAD.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—Sir William Hamo Thornycroft, Royal Academician and sculptor, died Saturday at Oxford, aged 75. He executed many of the best known statutes in London, including that of Queen Victoria outside of the Royal Exchange, Gladstone, General Gordon and Oliver Cromwell.

TIDE IN FAVOR OF PROHIBITON HAS TURNED SAYS DR. BUTLER

Debate in Senate Was Only Beginning of Movement For Abolition.

COLOSSAL FAILURE.

Prohibitoin is Not Temperance, University President Says, in Answering Critic.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 (United Press).—"Such tide as there has been in favor of prohibition has definitely turned," according to President Nicholas Murray Butler of the Columbia University, in replying to criticism by a New Jersey woman of his attitude on prohibition.

"Last week's Senate debate invited by Senator Walter Edge of New Jersey," Dr. Butler said, "was only the beginning of what is bound to be a successful movement to reform the present intolerable situation."

Dr. Butler said that prohibition efforts in the United States had proved the most colossal failure in the history of government, and the most immortal task ever undertaken by any government.

He asked that prohibition be not confused with temperance, because "prohibition itself isn't temperate."

HOCKEY MATCH OFF TO-NIGHT

Mild Weather Causes Postponement of Varsity Game.

Owing to the mild weather, the hockey game between Varsity and Peterboro, scheduled for Brock Street Rink to-night has been called off, and may possibly be played Wednesday night if the weather conditions are favorable.

Death From Heart Disease Ends Absconder's Flight

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 21 (Canadian Press).—Death from heart disease in a taxi-cab yesterday ended the flight of Edward F. Keller with approximately $40,000 in loot taken from the Corn Exchange National Bank where he was employed as a watchman. Nearly $14,000 of the loot was in cash and the remainder in cheques.

ELEVATOR BURNED.

Estimated Loss of $30,000 Caused By Fire of Unknown Origin.

WAPELLA, Sask., Dec. 21 (Canadian Press)—The Canada West Grain Company's elevator here was destroyed by fire yesterday morning. The cause is unknown. There were about 11,000 bushels of grain in the house at the time, and this will be almost a total loss. The loss is estimated at $30,000.

WINNIPEG WOMAN FREED.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 21.—(Canadian Press.)—The Christmas spirit prevailed in the Provincial Police Court Saturday and for the sake of her two young children, Mary Shupenuin, charged with aiding her husband to escape from the provincial jail here on October 8, was given her freedom. The woman, who smuggled saws into the jail and which were used in the sensational jail break when five men escaped custody, was given two years' suspended sentence.

A recent report of the Diamond Workers Protective Union of America says that more than half of the oragnization's membership of 420 are at present without employment.

CARE FOR FAMILY.

County Master of Orange Lodge Assures Murder Suspect of Justice.

TORONTO, Dec. 21 (Canadian Press).—Ald. John Winnett, County Master of the Loyal Orange Lodge, announced this morning that the Orangemen would look after the family of William Marshall, arrested here on a charge of murder in Ireland. "We will also see that he gets justice," said Ald. Winnett.

KING ALI QUITS HEDJAZ THRONE

Abdication Forced By Fall of Jeddah to Ibin Saud.

SON OF HUSSEIN.

PORT SUDAN, Egypt, Dec. 21. (Canadian Press).—King Ali of the Hedjaz, eldest son of King Hussein, who was forced to abdicate in October, 1924, has himself abdicated, owing to the collapse of the defences of Jeddah, invested by Ibn Saoud, Sultan of Nejd.

For many months, in fact since he succeeded his father on the throne of Hedjaz, King Ali has been engaged in a desperate struggle to put down the opposition of Ibn Saoud, head of the Sultanate of Nejd. Several days ago Ali was reported to be planning his escape from the invested city of Jeddah, whence he fled after the Wahabi tribesmen under Ibn Saoud had captured the Holy City of Medina.

The conflict between the Arabian states of Nejd and Hedjaz actually began in 1919, and the warfare became more embittered when early in 1924 Hussein assumed the Califate, made vacant by the deposition of Sultan Abdul Majid by the Turks. A violent attack against Mecca, the capital of Hedjaz, was begun by the Wahabis, and when the city fell into the hands of Ibn Saoud, King Hussein, pressed to abdicate by the people of Jedah, relinquished the throne, having held it for eight years.

LAWYERS LEAD COMMONS LIST

Sixty-three Elected —Farmers Second With 39—Doctors Third.

15 MANUFACTURERS.

OTTAWA, Ont., December 21. — Canadian Press. — Lawyers will hold the largest number of seats in the House of Commons, when the 15th Parliament convenes here on January 7th next. Sixty three members of the legal profession have been gazetted, following the recent general election and will be entitled to take their seats in the chamber next session.

Farmers follow with the second largest number, 39 farmers of different political persuasion having been elected. Doctors, including those of the professions of medicine and dentistry, will have 29 of its members in Parliament. Twenty two of the elected members gave their occupation as merchants, and 15 described themselves as manufacturers.

While lawyers, farmers, doctors, merchants and manufacturers will in the order named, have the largest number, the coming parliament, in its composition, will be one of the most democratic since confederation. Practically every profession, business and occupation will be represented.

A wide and varied assortment of occupations is given by other elected members. These include brokers, agents, druggists, contractors, notary publics, lumbermen, publishers, accountants, journalists and retired farmers; while one clergyman, lecturer, canner, director, student, superintendent, manager, teacher, publicist, cattle exporter, editor, oil producer and farmer, economist, miller, fruit grower and civil engineer, locomotive engineer, mining operator, municipal secretary, geological surveyor and flax grower has also been declared elected.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

SPLENDID PAGEANT GIVEN AT MILLBROOK

"The Romance of Canada" Was Staged by Continuation School Pupils.

MILLBROOK, December 21. — History repeated itself and became full of vital interest, as characters famous in Canadian annals, seemed to step from the pictured page into living realities, at the entertainment, "The Romance of Canada," given in the town hall, on Thursday evening, under the auspices of the Millbrook Continuation School.

For several weeks past Miss Muir and Miss Sutton, principal and assistant principal of the school, have labored indefatigably in training the pupils for the Pageant, the programme, as finally produced, attaining a well-deserved success. The business side of the entertainment was in the hands of Mr. H. Jordan, the third teacher.

Music was furnished by the Byam family orchestra while the large audience was gathering. Miss Sutton presided at the piano during the Pageant itself and was ably assisted by Messrs. C. Thorndyke and G. E. Burnham with violin and cornet, giving a splendid lead for the many choruses sung.

As the curtain rose the Goddess of Fame (Margaret Howard), in soft robes of white and silver, and with crown and wand, entered to slow music, accompanied by four little maids of honor (Mary Burnham, Bryar Edmunds, Myrtle Nattrass and Marjorie Vance) each dressed in white, tinsel-trimmed, two with red, and two with blue scarves draped from either wrist across the shoulders.

Fame sent out her challenge and was then seated on the double throne which occupied the centre of the stage, her little maidens doing her homage in a very pretty dance. The various claimants for the Goddess' favor were announced by the Herald (Jack Hutchison), who spoke with good voice, the first to enter being the Fathers of Confederation — Sir John Macdonald (Fred Swain), Hon. George Brown (Jack Byam), Hon. Etienne Cartier (Melville Braithwaite), Sir Charles Tupper (Henry Lancashire), Sir Leonard Tilley (Dickson Hutchison). Presenting their claim to fame, they took their places behind the throne, and the chorus "In Canada," was sung. Throughout the pageant the characters in every case, were appropriately costumed, the nine provinces each carrying a handsome shield bearing a distinctive emblem.

Beautifully colored maple leaves decked dress and crown of Ontario (Jean Fairbairn), and following her came Laura Secord (Martha Bonner), her black dress and old fashioned bonnet being in sharp contrast to the scarlet coat worn by General Brock (Aubrey Todd), after whose claim the chorus "On the Old Ontario Strand," was sung.

Quebec (Bertha Lang), in her quaint dress, with lace trimmed cap, cape and panniers of flowered muslin, presented a strong claim which was further emphasized by the Habitant maiden (Hazel Armstrong), who recited Drummond's "Leetle Bapteese," winning warm applause from the audience.

Enthusiasm rose high at the entry of Generals Wolfe (Piercy Pitt), and Montcalm (George McKnight), who stood with crossed flags while the stirring strains of "La Marseillaise" were sung.

New Brunswick (Wilma Fallis), in blue and silver, brought with her the river drivers (Lawrence Rowland and Walter Sayles), whose rollicking song, "When I lived on my Father's Farm," won them great favor. Claiming Chas. D. Roberts as one of New Brunswick's gifted sons, his poem, "The Story of Mrs. Gamit's Pig," was recited graphically by Eddie Nattrass, who wore a backwoodsman's costume and made a decided hit with his narration.

Evangeline (Muriel Ball) accompanied Nova Scotia (Bessie Wood) on her visit to the Hall of Fame, while Prince Edward Island (Eileen Armstrong) brought with her the milkmaids (Olive Carl and Bena Bena Brown), who sang "Polly, the Cows are in the Corn," receiving well merited applause.

Manitoba (Margaret McCarthy) had a buffalo prominently displayed on her shield, the trapper (Oliver Brock) who represented one feature of life in this western province, coming equipped with snowshoes, rifle and steel traps. "The Man of the North" was the appropriate chorus while these waited the Goddess' favour.

A yellow gown, typical of the ripened wheat fields, was worn by Saskatchewan (Thelma Armstrong), the chorus being "My Little Grey Home in the West." The sister province of Alberta (Laura Foley) had snow-capped mountains, with range cattle on the plains in the foreground, as the emblems on her shield; the cow-boy (Norman Cain) who naturally appeared as a representative of this province, having lasso and revolver as realistic details of his costume.

British Columbia (Agnes Breckenridge) wore blue and silver, typical of the Pacific, and had a golden sunset flaming on her shield. As one would expect, Pauline Johnston (Elsie Spence) appeared with her and recited, "As Red Men Die,' with decided effect.

The Yukon Territory (Pearl Davis) wore white and gold, her claim including a reference to Robert Service, one of whose poems, "The Call of the Wild," was recited by Donald Rutherford, wearing a prospector's outfit, with the Yukon adding a further word of appeal at its conclusion.

A jingling of merry bells heralded the arrival of the Snow Queen (Marian O'Brien), glittering in white and silver, her little attendants daucing about her as she took her seat beside the Goddess on the throne, while "Jingle Bells" was heartily sung by all.

Canadian literature next made its appeal, the brief sketch of Archibald Lampman's life, with a recitation of one of his poems by Mazel McMahon, being full of interest, as was also Nora M. Holland's "Bedtime Story," told by candlelight to the children clustered about her by Phyllis Brown; her quaint, old-fashioned costume being most appropriate. The piano solo played by Lillian Cocker constituted Music's claim, further emphasized by the Iroquois Lullaby, sung by Beryl Wood, Elizabeth Russell, and Margaret Armstrong. Carrying cake dish and stirring spoon, Clara Bonner gave Jean Blewett's, "A Christmas Conversion," and following her came the Pioneer Family (Mr. H. Jordan, Eleanor Fallis, Sadie Rowland, and Verna Fallis), with the Pioneer Preacher (Robert Larmer) immediately afterward; while the chorus, "The Little Brown Church in the Wildwood," was sung.

Soldiers (Gordon Armstrong and Kenneth Fallis); nursing sisters (Marjorie Pugh and Mildred Bothwell), New Canadians (Flossie McMahon, Mabel Johnston, Mary Atchison and Marjorie Winslow) Canadian Railroads (Martha and Marguerite Lang), and the Canadian Press (Bruce Freelove and Raymond Brown), preceded the arrival of Britannia (Helen Larmer), who was heartily greeted while "Rule Britannia" rang out with loyal ethusiasm.

A red velvet cushion was placed by one of the little attendants, and on this the Pioneer Mother (Eleanor Fallis) knelt, while Britannia placed the crown of ermine and laurel on her head as the most deserving claimant.

The concluding chorus "Canada, Stand Fast,' was sung after the Goddess had urged the forward look, and six characters spelled out the word, "Canada," each holding a letter as the whole group of over fifty performers was artistically arranged on the platform.

The surprise of the evening came when the Goddess requested Miss Muir, "our stage manager"; Miss Sutton, "our music manager," and Mr. Jordan, "our business manager," to come to the stage when the two former were presented with beautiful bouquet of orchid-colored 'mums, and the latter with an Eversharp pencil. Each spoke briefly in reply, expressing personal gratitude for the spirit of harmony and helpfuness which had prevailed throughout the rehearsals; and, to suitable music, the retiring march from the stage, through the centre aisle and down the stairs took place, the audience applauding continuously until the last character had disappeared.

The total receipts were over $80, the money to be used in providing needed equipment for the Continuation School.

ST. ANDREW'S UNITED

Rev. J. W. Gordon, in a very brief talk at the evening service, emphasized the lesson of unselfishness that is found in the Christmas season. If one's friends do not confide in one, he said, the life should be examined under the bright white light of Christmastide, to discover whether selfishness has excluded all thought and sympathy with others.

The service was almost entirely musical, with selections by the choir and D. Carlisle; Mrs. Turner, Mrs. Park, Mr. Humphage, Mr. Niven and Mr. Brown.

ST. PAUL'S PRESBYTERIAN

The Christmas season brings forth its quota of special church services, when people's thoughts are turned to that wonderful happening, centuries ago, in Bethlehem of Judea, when the Saviour of the world was born. In Peterborough churches yesterday this occasion was especially marked, and in none more so than in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, when Rev. William Allan delivered two splendid sermons, full of thought and interest to capacity congregations.

At the outset, the matter of decorations of the church might be mentioned. The star in the east with the wise men pointing the way to the stable, the evergreen cross in front of the organ, with here and there the imitation snow, all aided to make a wonderful effect to the pulpit and choir loft, and showed splendid taste on the part of the three workers responsible for the setting.

The Music.

The choir was out in full strength, no fewer than fifty-four being present at each service. Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., the capable organist and choirmaster, was successful in rendering a programme of music of the highest merit, the anthems and carols, of an early date, were artistic and catching, and the choir responded to his training with marked ability. To Mr. Chenhall, Miss Agnes Logan as pianist, and Mr. Harry Chenhall as flautist, is due very great credit for the musical success of the day.

The Sermon.

Mr. Allan's subject in the morning was "Strange Happenings in the Heavens," (Luke 2, 7-11), telling of the birth of a King, the world unheeding, then and even today, and how much we have lost through our familiarity with the Advent. At last, concluded Mr. Allan, human life will be salvaged, and deliverance, from sin will be our goal.

"Crowded Out."

This subject was most appealing in its presentation, showing how the new-born King was crowded out of the inn, through His life on earth; His abodes were borrowed, and at death He was buried in another man's grave. Is there any story better known? asked Mr. Allan. Christmas is always associated with joy! From that wonderful day, up to the present, we have celebrated Christ's natal day with song and joyfulness. But the tragedy is seen in His being crowded from the inn, and from public life today, through our ignorance and blindness.

There was no room in the political world—in Imperialistic Rome of that day. They cared nought about that birth, and it is still too true of politics.

No room in the religious world—the Judaism of those days tried to be religion, but failed miserably. The Church at Laodicea was the centre of religion, but through riches and ceremony, they lost sight of the great need of Christ and today, our religion is inclined to be so much outward show, and not of the heart.

And there was no room in the earth for the King of Kings. He was despised and rejected of men. He had nowhere to lay His head. So, in the midst of our rejoicing, let us not forget these things—let Christ be a part of our festivities, and we will feel the better for it. Christmas is too much commercialized—too much attention to giving and receiving gifts, and too much catering to the supply and demand for these. Don't crowd Him out, or into the valley of the shadow of death we will have to go alone.

Order of Service.

A printed bulletin was placed in the hands of the congregation, with the musical numbers as follows:—Carol—"Star of Bethlehem" (Old Cornish). Solo by Miss LeBarr—"O Divine Babe" (Hamblen). Anthem—"Nazareth" (Gounod). Male Quartet—"It Came Upon a Midnight Clear." Carol—"Arise and Hail" (Old Cornish). Anthem—"Christmas Day" (Holst), choral fantasy on old carols, with accompaniment for pianoforte and organ. Carol—"The Neighbors of Bethlehem," Old French (Gevaert). Carol—"Shepherds' Christmas Song" (Reimann), Austrian folk song, with accompaniment for pianoforte, organ and flute. Male Quartet with Chorus—"Hosanna" (Jude). Mixed Quartet—"When the Sun Had Sunk to Rest" (Knight), old English Noel. Hallelujah Chorus. (Handel's Messiah).

ST. JAMES' UNITE CHURCH.

At the morning service the pastor spoke on the significance of Christmas.

There is no other day in all the calendar of the year which so touches the imagination and stirs the heart as Christmas, he said. Even those who think little of religion feel something of its meaning when Christmas comes.

It speaks to us of our happiest memories, our most unselfish impluses, our most cherished experiences.

All over the world, at this season of the year, men are moved by the spirit of goodwill. Heaven seems to come near to us, and we catch a new vision of the meaning of life.

And it is natural that it should be so, for on this day we commemorate the birth of the Son of God. More than nineteen hundred years ago Jesus came into the world, living a life such as was never lived before, bringing a message such as had never been heard before, exerting an influence such as has never been exerted by any other. His life was the greatest ever lived on this earth; His message, the greatest ever heard before or since; His influence, the holiest and mightiest this earth has ever known. And His life has become holier, His message mightier, His influence greater with the passing centuries. His name is acknowledged more widely today than ever before. And more and more clearly men see that the world's only hope is in the Babe of Bethlehem.

The Divine Presence in Human History.

Christmas comes to remind us of the Divine presence in human history. It means the coming of God into human life, into direct and constant relationship with the world of men in a new and more vital relationship than had ever previously existed. The most significant name which prophecy had given to the Christ who was to be born was Emmanuel—"God with us." And the first and most essential note struck by the Angel chorus when they appeared to the shepherds was not "Peace and goodwill to men," but "Glory to God in the Highest." It was an announcement or proclamation that God had come into the world in a new form, revealing Himself as a man and so bringing Himself into touch with men in all the varied relationships of life. Then out of this new relationship should issue Peace and Goodwill.

We are inclined to put the latter first. We say that the message of Christmas is "goodwill to men" peace, goodwill, kindness, universal benediction, a sort of kindly humanitarianism. And that surely is a spacious message, yet not its first and greatest message. The call of Christmas is primarily a call to worship and praise because God in Christ has come into the world.

The great need of the world today is not primarily goodwill, but God. Goodwill may be a mere sentiment, which quickly evaporates, but an abiding sense of God makes it permanent. The message of Christmas is God in the world in the person of Jesus Christ, His spirit pervading and energizing humanity. And where God comes in Christ there is peace and goodwill. And Christmas will never be what it ought to be to the world until every voice sings that first and mightiest word: "Glory to God in the Highest," as its fullest and mightiest expression. And then learn that love to man flows out from love to God our Father.

God's Redemptive Purposes.

Again, Christmas comes to remind us of God's redemptive purposes for mankind, the greatness of His redeeming grace. If it comes to remind us of the divine presence in human history, that presence is for some great and wonderful purpose. And that purpose can best be expressed in one word—Redemption—to redeem the world. The purpose of His coming is always closely associated with the fact of His coming. And one needs to be as strongly stressed as the other. We read that "Jesus came into the world"—that is the Incarnation. But the writer hastens at once to add the purpose of His coming—"To save sinners.' That was the purpose of His coming, and the only reason assigned in Scripture for the incarnation is man's redemption from sin. Jesus came into the world to save men, to redeem humanity, to lift from sin to God, to bring men into fellowship with the Divine. God means to redeem this old world from its sins and sorrow and suffering, to save humanity from the blight and course of sin. And that divine purpose is made clear in the incarnation; the coming of Jesus to this earth, the life that He lived among men. No wonder that on the night of His birth angels sang above the pasture fields of Bethlehem "Glory to God in the Highest.'

The Power of Love in the World.

Christmas also comes to remind us of the power of love in the world. The manger at Bethlehem with its Babe wrapped in swaddling clothes is the expression of a wonderful divine love. And all true benevolent love in the world today is a reflex of that divine love.

The world may still be filled with its suspicions, dissension, fears and hates. It may still be far from the Christian ideal. But into the very midst of this Christmas comes and spreads everywhere the spirit of love, peace and goodwill. During the Great War, when men faced each other in a life and death struggle, they fought every day in the week and did not cease on Sunday. They continued the struggle without interruption. But on Christmas Day they made a truce. That was the one day when war seemed hideous and impossible.

It was religion—true religion—the world needs and Christ alone can bring in the day of justice and world brotherhood. He alone can put an end to injustice, hatred, suspicion and war.

No other single hope has taken so universal a hold upon mankind in recent years as the desire for peace, the achievement of a warless world. Men hope and long for that day

"When the war drum throbs no longer
And the battle flags are furled,
In the parliament of man
The federation of the world.

Anw it is the very essence of our faith in Christ to believe in the coming of such a day and to labor sincerely for its early advent. But it can only come to pass as Christ is reborn in men's hearts. Whatever of love and goodwill is in the world is there because Christ came and taught men the spirit of service and brotherhood. "Let us go even unto Bethlehem" to find the way of light and life and peace for ourselves and for all men.

The evening service at St. James was entirely musical. The choir rendered a splendid programme of Christmas music, the chief feature of which was the Christmas cantata "The Light of Ages." The manner in which the cantata was rendered reflected great credit on the leadership of Fred W. Chenhall, organist and choir leader.

Irregular Tendency In Wall Street Stock Offers

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 (Canadian Press) — Considerable irregularity developed in today's stock market, but the main price tendency appeared to be upward. A sharp break in Chrysler on selling inspired by the failure of directors to take a dividend action on new stock at today's meeting had a temporarily unsettling influence on the general list during the morning. The marking up of the call money renewal rate to 5 1-2 per cent, the highest opening rate since October 16th, had little effect, the higher rate generally being regarded as temporary. The market was largely a specialty affair, with a spirited bidding developing in a number of pool favorites.

Advance Of New Doranda Featured Mining Market

TORONTO, Dec. 21 (Canadian Press)—The advance of New Noranda, an unlisted gold stock, to a new high level at 13.80, featured a quiet market on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange this morning. Opening strongly at 12.50, Noranda forged ahead and closed at the top for a net gain of 1.70. Transactions totalled 12,205. Elsewhere the trading was quiet, with prices steady. McIntyre advanced 25 cents to 22.60 while Teck Hughes gained 4 at 2.43. Among the silvers Keeley moved up 3 to 1.63.

Chicago Wheat Declines Following Initial Advance

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(Canadian Press.)—Rainy, unfavorable weather reports in Argentina, together with the unexpected firmness of the wheat quotations at Liverpool, led to-day to an early advance of the wheat market here. A substantial decrease of the amount of wheat on ocean passage tended also to lift the values. Buying here, however, was of only a scattered sort, and price gains failed to hold well. The opening, 1-4 to 1 1-4 cents higher, new style, Dec. 170 1-4 to 170 1-2 and May 164 1-4 to 165, was followed by slight additional upturns, but then by reactions that in some cases carried the market to below Saturday's finish.

Corn and oats were largely governed by the action of wheat after opening unchanged to 1-2 higher, May 80 3-4 to 81, corn market scored slight general gains, and then receded somewhat. Oats started at 1-8 off to 1-4 cents gain, May 44 5-8, but later the market was inclined to sag. Provisions were easier, responsive to a setback in hog values.

JOINT MEETING OF CITY CLUBS GREAT SUCCESS

MEMORABLE MEETING.

Musical Numbers Feature Gathering of Service Clubs.

The splendid spirit of harmony and good fellowship that exists between the local Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs was exemplified at the Empress at noon to-day when the Kiwanians attended the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club and a most enjoyable joint meeting was held. President John Seels of the Rotary Club presided over the gathering, and the seventy-five minutes of the meeting were full of enjoyment to the members of both clubs, who fraternized around the tables and joined in the singing and fun-making with a will.

Rotary President Seels expressed the appreciation of himself and of the Rotarians for the assistance given by Kiwanis to various Rotary efforts, and Kiwanis President Charlie Cook followed with similar hearty thanks for the support given by Rotary to the various Kiwanis shows.

President-elect Dr. J. J. Craig of the Kiwanis Club was introduced to the gathering and warmly received, while at the beginning of the luncheon each organization sang "They are Jolly Good Fellows" in honor of the other, and followed with an outburst of cheers.

There was no special speaker today, and the entertainment was given by a quartette composed of Rotarians Doug. Carlisle and R. A. Brown and Messrs. M. H. Park and Herb. Gillesnie, with Rotarian John Crane at the piano. They sang a medley of old-time favorites with great effect, and as an encore gave a sympathetic interpretation of "It came upon the Midnight Clear." Later on the quartette was heard to equally good advantage in "Kentucky Babe."

Both presidents called the attention of their club members to the desirability of exercising their franchise at the coming municipal election and of trying to get others to do so, and at the conclusion of the meeting, in unison, extended the season's greetings to Rotarians and Kiwanis.

It was a memorable meeting.

NO MEETING TO DISCUSS STRIKE

Operators Decline to Attend if Pinchot Plan is Sole Basis.

CAN'T COME TO-DAY.

SCANTON, Pa., Dec. 21 (Canadian Press).—There will be no meeting of the anthracite miners and operators here to-day to discuss the strike situation.

This was made known by Major W. W. Inglis, spokesman for the operators, who stated the negotiations committee of mine owners could not come here to-ha , regardless of any new developments. QUEEN'S PARK MUST ACT.

Not all the County Councils of Ontario are opposed to legislation requiring all vehicles travelling on the roads after dark to carry lights.

Several counties have taken advantage of the authority granted by the Legislature and have passed a bylaw putting the regulation into effect.

The Lincoln County Council has, however, taken a more logical attitude by approving of the principle of the legislation and passing a resolution asking the Ontario Legislature to adopt an Act to make the measure effective throughout the Province.

That is putting the onus where it belongs.

The Legislature has been pussy-footing around this safety first movement for years.

The Drury administration fought shy of it, and their successors in office have contented themselves with trying to shove the responsibility on the shoulders of the County Council, with results that might have been expected.

In spite of the willingness of many farmers to risk death to save the expense and inconvenience of providing lights for their vehicles, the menace of unilluminated horse-drawn vehicles must be driven off the highways, and that can only be done effectively by the Legislature.

Queen's Park must act; the County Councils refused to accept the responsibility.

THOUGHT FOR OTHERS.

It is an old subject, almost as old as Christmas itself, and there is nothing fresh or original that can be said about it, yet the Examiner feels that a word or two about the desirability of thinking a little of the welfare and convenience of others during the last days of the Christmas rush may help to relieve the pressure.

The staffs of the various stores are working longer hours than usual these days, and also at a faster pace, and those employed in the delivery service are finding few idle moments.

Much of the strain could be avoided with the co-operation of the public.

In the first place, for the next three days morning shopping would do much to avoid congestion in the later hours of the day.

There are many people who, with little effort, could as easily shop before noon as not, but they are creatures of habit and unthinkingly put off their purchasing until the afternoon or evening.

If in the three buying days that remain they would do their buying before dinner they would be making a real Christmas contribution.

And then about parcels.

If shoppers would help out by carrying their smaller purchases the pressure on the delivery service would be relieved to a considerable degree.

It is a busy season for drivers and co-operation by the public would materially improve the conditions for those who are called upon to work long hours in delivery work.

MUST STOP SPENDING.

A feature of the municipal elections that have already been held in Ontario this month was the illsuccess that was attained by money bylaws.

In most municipalities the electors showed a reluctance to increase obligations, and the significance of this attitude should not be lost sight of by local aspirants for office.

As the Financial Post expresses it, "it has evidently been brought home to them at last that there is a direct connection between municipal expenditures and tax rates."

Around election time there is always a demand for economy, and candidates usually build their platform around the satisfying of that demand.

Unfortunately, the ratepayers rarely give point to their wishes afterward, and the successful candidates, alas, forget their promises and the expenditure goes on.

For this the civic bodies are no more to blame than are the people.

The latter, forgetful of their clamor for economy, are never weary of urging financial support for some cause or another or expenditure upon undertakings that represent a drain on the treasury, and the civic bodies have difficulty in refusing their requests.

The fate of so many money bylaws seems to indicate that the people are beginning to see that expenditure can only be reduced by stopping the spending of money, and that civic budgets, if they are to make tax reductions possible, must be prepared with a firm resolve that retrenchment shall prevail.

STREET RAILWAY DOOMED?

Ontario street railways are experiencing a period of great depression, and the local situation, in which the service is being operated by the Ontario Hydro Commission at a loss and efforts are being made to persuade the city of Peterboro to take over the system, is duplicated in other centres.

St. Thomas, of course, has scrapped its street railway entirely in favour of a privately-owned bus service.

In Guelph the street railway has been experiencing heavy deficts, and the situation is under discussion.

The Hamilton street railway has been running at a loss, and the citizens have declined to purchase the system or grant the company a 25-year franchise.

London has been threatened with a street railway tie-up, and the line is being operated under a temporary arrangement, while Brantford reports annual deficits on its municipal railway.

What the ultimate end of this problem will be is not quite clear, but the evidence all points to the disappearance of the street railway method of transportation, with motor buses filling the gap.

The improvement both in motor vehicle and in roads makes the bus a very dangerous rival of street railways, and before long the railway may disappear off the [illegible] other Ontario cities besides St. Thomas [illegible] Made's more modern method of travelli[illegible]

BUSINESS STUPIDITY.

There was a day, happily passed, when the business man who succeeded in gaining an advantage over somebody through cunning, and even actual fraud, was considered clever, says the Financial Post. Today the business man who takes advantage in any way is simply stupid. Such a man does not know his own interest. He is ignorant of the side of his bread that is buttered. Men simply refuse to do business with other men who will not deal fairly.

This attitude marks a great advance in business ethics, says the American Exchange-Pacific National Bank. It is no longer necessary to be constantly on guard against the cunning of others. The old legal maxim, "caveat emptor," is no longer a rule of reason in business transactions. The seller who takes an advantage is the one who must beware. Itinerant merchants, flitting from place to place, gypsy horse-traders and those who are here today and gone tomorrow, may profit from cunning, but the merchant or other business man who occupies a permanent place in the community cannot afford to pay the cost of cunning. Patronage falls away from the sharper. Men will go miles to avoid dealing with tricksters and slickers.

Business is on an entirely different basis. Men live up to their promises and they make a point of giving just a little more in courtesy and fair dealing than strict business calls for. The man who comes back is the man who builds business for other men. Every wide-awake business man of the day knows that this is the basis upon which modern business is done, therefore the man who attempts to take advantage is stupid. Stupidity does not belong to ignorance. Stupidity is connected with the neglect of an intelligent man to do something that his common sense tells him he ought to do. It might come from a momentary lapse or it might appear as the deliberate act of a man who knows better but has failed to take all the consequences into account.

A COAL CONTROVERSY.

Enforced increased use of bituminous coal has caused debate in Boston where, as in Toronto, anthracite has long been the favorite domestic fuel. Several gentlemen, one of them a physician, have protested against advocacy of widespread and permanent substitution of soft coal for anthracite. They fear that if the advice of the advocates of the bituminous coal is taken the atmosphere of their city will be impregnated with smoke. It is a penny-wise and pound-foolish policy, they say, to fill the streets with smoke that covers buildings with filth and ruins the furniture in homes. Furthermore, they call upon Boards of Health and physicians to oppose a wholesale use of soft coal as a menace to the public health, because it would vitiate the air and also discourage the opening of windows and the ventilation of houses. To this Senator Charles P. Howard of Reading, Pa., replies. He asserts that "the cause of smoke in burning bituminous coal is incomplete combustion, due to improper firing by unskilful or uninstructed people." This, he says, is the conclusion of combustion experts and of every public body that has investigated the coal question in recent years, including the Massachusetts Coal Commission, the New England Governors' Fuel Committee and the Committee on Fuel Economy of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. He quotes the experience of certain prominent citizens, who have long burned bituminous coal and from the chimneys of whose houses smoke rarely issues, and the statement of the chief smoke inspector of Cincinnati that his department "shows citizens how to burn bituminous coal smokelessly and they do it."

The controversy indicates one difficulty of the use of bituminous coal. The householder must learn how to burn that fuel if he does not want black smoke issuing from his chimney and a certain amount of dirt in his house. Yet, in some sections of the United States the people have long burned soft coal in their furnaces and stoves and have looked upon anthracite, even at much lower prices than the present ones, as a luxury. The strike in the Pennsylvania anthracite mines is compelling many more people to burn soft coal this winter. It may have the effect of adding permanently to the number of those who use it as a domestic fuel. On the other hand, if the strike and the high prices of anthracite cause householders to purchase other fuels, there may be an increase in the production of coke in the United States and Canada. Coke has gained popularity as a domestic fuel in recent years and has since the beginning of the strike in Pennsylvania advanced in price. The establishment of a large coking plant calls for a considerable capital investment as such a plant should include equipment for the recovery of other products of coal. It should also have a market for those other products. At the present time a good deal of attention is being given to the subject of distillation of bituminous coals to obtain from them coke, for smelting, for use in the generation of steam and electric power or for domestic heating, and tar, fuel oil and motor spirit. The time may come when there will be a larger and more stable demand for all the products of coal and when it will be considered wasteful to burn raw bituminous coal and allow some of its constituent substances to escape in smoke to contaminate the atmosphere.—The Mail and Empire.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

And now the ranks of the last-minute shoppers will be augmented by the people who thought they were all through but have been checking up their lists.

If the small boy had a vote there would not be much doubt of the result of the plebiscite on Sunday bathing.

The mayoralty field is still enveloped in a smoke screen. Still 9 o'clock Thursday night will find the air cleared.

For the next three days try to do your shopping in the morning, thereby helping yourself, the merchants and the folks who can't get out early in the day.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 19 (Canadian Press).—Surprise over a collapse in wheat prices at Rosario, Argentina, led to increased selling pressure late today on the market here, and forced values down. Chicago wheat quotations closed heavy 1 5-8 to 2 3-4 cents net lower, new style, December 169 1-4 to 169 3-4 and May 163 7 8 to 164, with corn 1 to 1 3-8c off; oats at 1-4 to 1-2c decline, and provisions unchanged to a set-back of 12 cents.

Sudden tumbling of quotations at Rosario left the finish there lower by as much as 8 1-2 cents a bushel in some cases. Earlier the wheat market here had shown a downward trend the greater part of the time today influenced largely by reports that fine weather is favoring the Argentina harvest. Current talk that world shipments would show an increase for the week tended also to depress values On the other hand, new unofficial advices from Buenos Aires said that although the wheat yield in Southern Argentina is expected to be large the official figures on production are considered half a million tons too high.

STERLING RATES

Sterling demand $4.84 7-8
Sterling cables $4.85 1-4.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 20 (Canadian Press).— Extreme dullness marked the trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market Saturday. Car lots of Ontario and Quebec No. 2 white oats selling at 53 cents, No. 3 white at 51 1-2c and No. 4 white at 50 cents per bushel, ex-track. Canadian western grades were steady.

In the market for winter wheat grades of flour a fair amount of business was reported done, with offerings of a limited nature. Choice grades at the close of the week were steady. Trade in white corn was light, with the prices steady at $6.80 to $7 per barrel in jute bags, delivered to the trade.

Business in rolled oats was done at a fair rate, with standard grades selling at $3.40 to $3.50 per bag of 90 pounds delivered to the trade

Receipts of butter in Montreal last week totalled 1,399 packages, as compared with 1,671 packages in the preceding week and 1,819 packages in the corresponding week of last year. Business here last week was almost at a standstill, practically no export inquiry being reported and little trade of a domesic nature being done

A THOUGHT.

HAPPINESS.

Oh, what is happiness? Tell me that!
My mother thinks it is a hat;
My brother thinks it is a car;
My father calls it his cigar!

My cousin tells me it is dances,
And Ray declares it's taking chances—
Though Archie says that its' a yacht,
While Frances sneers that it is not!

But as for me, I cannot say.
I find a little every way.
Perhaps I'm stupid—very so—
And that is why I do not know!

The moon, shining impartially on victors and vanquished, showed the original ship's company of the Filomena in sorry plight. Salt was propped against the thwarts, his arms pinioned behind him, but his legs free. His classic features were somewhat marred through contact with hob-nailed boots, as well as the length of pipe whose acquaintance Bing had made.

He was still a perplexing distance behind the tide of events. Semiconsciously he spelled out the name on the battered bow of the aggressor, Bloody Nuisance, and, still hazily, tried to attach some meaning to the name, to grope for some connection, but failed.

Aunt Celimena was stretched out, not far from him, on a bench. She was very pale except for a dark streak of blood that stood out diagonally across one cheek. Mr. Brewster lay in a confused and terrified heap in the bottom of the boat.

"I guess I like to croaked the old dame, but she shouldn't have grabbed my legs the way she done, and pinched me too." The speaker removed a loudly checked cap, possessed of an abnormally long peak that had thrown his face into shadow. The moonbeams played caressingly upon a polished dome of surprising magnitude.

Pooch, for it was he, kicked meditatively at the prostrate form of Mr. Brewster, and the man in the torn jersey, who had been the first to board the Filomena, came over to stand beside him, staring down at the lawyer.

"This old geezer ain't much better off neither. I guess the other bird's drownded; little Mary here, has a way with her that don't call for much back chat." He patted the section of pipe tenderly. "This here's the hell an' all of a fix Doc an' you have bin and got us into," he added in a different tone. "What're you going to do about it?"

Pooch contemplated the speaker a minute with an expression of virtuous indignation.

"We got you out of, you mean. I'd like to know where you'd bin if Doc hadn't figgered out a way to flash that message to you. Walking plumb into a trap, that's where you'd bin, by now. That little Scotch devil had it all baited an' set for you."

Before the other could reply to this, a slight, trim figure appeared on the deck of the crippled boat and announced in a calm voice:

"You won't have to bother with the old Bloody Nuisance no more. She's pretty near filled. One o' you heave this guy over."

Without a word Doc calmbered over and picked up a limp bundle of clothes, lowering it none too gently into the Swede's tender possession.

"Say, bring a bit of rag with you, Sweetie, to plug up this old Jane," called Pooch turning, "she's bleeding some."

Sweetie stopped to pick up from the deck something that looked like a white scarf, and, jumping briskly down onto the Filomena, bent over Aunt Celimena. After a brief examination, she straightened, casting a glance of withering scorn at Doc, who happened to be nearest. Involuntarily that gentleman retreated a step or two, his face assuming swiftly an abashed and hangdog expression that sat incongruously enough upon it.

"You're a rough lot, banging a woman about this way. That ain't no manners," the girl said fiercely. "Clear out now, an' leave me fix her." Deftly she bathed the victim's face and neck, discovering the gash on her head to be only a superficial wound. She completed her first-aid ministrations by winding the white scarf about her patient's brow turban-wise, giving the old lady a rakish, piratical appearance. Then she stood back and cast an appraising eye over the scene before her.

Sweetie had spoken correctly. The Bloody Nuisance had been slowly settling. Now, with a final lurch she dived forward, following her battered bow under.

The Swede watched her disappear, stolidly unconcerned.

"Gets rid of some o' the evidence," he said in a matter-of-fact tone. His glance went to Aunt Celimena's turbaned head, and the little, beady eyes narrowed unpleasantly.

"What's the use of dollin' the old girl up?" he demanded. "We got to clean up all these bums."

Pooch slowly turned to him. "I don't go in for bumping off birds in bunches. I ain't that kind of a guy, see?"

"Well, what 'n hell d' you want?"

"I want to get the boat off this mud flat she seems to have landed on for keeps, after that you can set me down here on the Long Island side somewhere handy, and then go to the devil and take her with you."

The Swede muttered something inaudible, but set his crew to work, nevertheless, carrying out the first part of Pooch's suggestion.

With the help of the rapidly rising tide, prying the Filomena loose from the mud flat on which she had drifted during the fight, proved a simple task. Salt was ordered into the water to help, and even the bedraggled and thoroughly dazed Brewster was unceremoniously bundled over the side to aid in the launching. Hearty kicks, however, failed entirely to arouse the mysterious stranger whom Doc had lifted down from the deck of the Bloody Nuisance. The medicine administered evidently approached being an overdose, for the only response to the kicks was a feeble grown.

As the Filomena fetched free there was a scramble to get on board. Salt with his bound arms was hauled roughly up the side, and in rolling over tripped Sweetie's feet from under her. That efficient young person steadied herself by grasping the most convenient portion of his anatomy which happened to be his hair. Salt had long since cast dignity and reserve to the winds; and seeing no petticoats to call for a gentlemanly restraint he hurled objurgations at the wearer of Lacy's fashionable yachting costume.

The young lady was about to reply in kind, when she pulled the wretched Salt's head into the light, stared a moment, and with a laugh that the listening Mr. Brewster could not interpret, said:

"If that don't beat the Dutch—if this ain't my little Percy! What's he doing here in this rough company? Mother's darling better watch his step!"

CHAPTER XII.
By Bernice Brown.

Sweetie had spoken too soon. She was in no position to do anything more than stare. Sweetie stared too, her expression a provocative combination of amusement and something perhaps not so kindly.

"To think of seeing you here!" she remarked. "Well, as the saying is, the Japanese are an interesting little people."

"Miss O'Reilly,"

"My name" (of course it's a little difficult to be dignified lying flat on one's back, even if one were a Cabot Adams)—"my name is not——"

"Oh, of course, I remember. It's Le Roy."

"No, it's——"

Sun Spots Stop Sales Of Fertilizer To Farmers

TOYKO, Dec. 19.—The presence of "spots" on the sun is declared to have caused a decided slump in the sale of artificial fertizer in Jaapn.

A boom trade had been expected earlier in the year, but thus far dealers have found business extremely bad. An investigation disclosed that the superstitious farmers feared that the presence of the sun spots meant that a famine was due next year and that the purchase of fertilizers would be just so much waste of money.

HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN, GUEST AT BRANDON DINNER, ATTACKS KING

Says Premier Had Big Majority in Parliament, But Failed To Put Policies Into Effect—Canada Needs Stable Tariff.

CONSERVATIVES READY FOR OFFICE.

BRANDON, Man., Dec. 21.—(Canadian Press).—"What Canada needs is a stable more than a high tariff. A stable tariff is better than a variable tariff even if it is high. I have not shifted my position nor changed my goal. The Conservative Party stands ready, but not impatient for power, ready to implement as a fact, what was promised in the days of opposition," declared Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader in the closing sentences of an hour's address to a gathering of more than 200 members of the Brandon Conservative Association Saturday night.

Th first visit of the Conservative leader to this constituency in several years was made the occasion of a complimentary banqut in his honor at the Cecil Hotel. Lack of accomodation resulted in the imiting of the number of invitation issued and the confining of these, to friends and supporters from the rural districts. The banquet was presided over by Dr. J. H. Edmison, independent member of the Manitoba Legislature, with the only speaker being Major F. G. Taylor, Conservative leader in the legislature.

Assails Government.

The record of the King Administration was assailed by Mr. Meighen who reviewed its record in the matter of transportation, taxation, and senate reform. Although the Prime Minister had declared he had been handicapped by lack of a visible majority, Mr. Meighen asserted he had the largest majority in history to support him in implementing the Liberal platform of 1919, "had he been sincere."

Mr. King, the Conservative leader charged, had appealed to the country for a majority of Liberal supporters so he could put the Liberal policies into effect. "Now behold the picture," said Mr. Meighen, "the Liberal representation had shrunk from 118 to 100. Of 18 Cabinet ministers only nine are left. Of the 64 Progressives, if they were not the people Mr. King wanted, they are at least the quality—only 26 or 27 of them left. The whole of those opposed to the administration are back with their numbers doubled, back with the people of Canada behind their candidates and policy, ready to enjoy the sweets of office and the emoluments of power."

Liberal Protectionists.

The Conservatives had never sought allies, Mr. Meighen said, but those who believed in their policies and believe they were right. The Liberals had "stuck with the Progressives for four years and then had thrown them into the discard." Dealing with the tariff Mr. Meighen asserted that more than half of the Liberals were elected on a protectionist's pledge. The Conservatives had sought to get a verdict on this issue and in great measure had succeeded. It would be interesting to wait and watch the Government, if it maintains office and see if its fiscal policy follows the Conservative or the uow tariff policies of the West "The change of principles is nothing more to Mr. King than the passing of the time of day," declares Mr. Meighen.

DR. TAYLOR SAYS WEST WAKING UP

Has Just Returned From Extended Trip—Conditions Better.

KINGSTON, Dec. 21.—(Special)—Interviewed here on his arrival from an extended trip to the west, Principal Dr. Bruce Taylor of Queen's University, stated that the west is distinctly waking up. Dr. Taylor stated that conditions are a great deal better than they were. "And everybody is hopeful", he added.

Dr. Taylor stated that there were two things everyone was talking about in the west, the change in the transportation situation due to the Panama Canal, and the wheat pool. Goods from the middle west are now being shipped out through Vancouver and Dr. Taylor believes that this will have some effect on the railway situation and on the future of Winnipeg. He found both apprehension and approval of the wheat pool.

CHANGE IN DRY LAW DEMANDED IN 'WET' DEBATE

People of United States Don't Want To Be Bone Dry.

MILLIONS NEEDED.

Cost of Enforcing Volstead Act Opposed at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21. (Canadian Press). — From the floor of the House Saturday wet members poured out a concerted fire for modification of prohibition laws.

The guns of criticism were trained in turn upon the Volstead Act, Wayne B. Wheeler, the Anti-Saloon League and other active factors in the present enforcement situation.

Consideration of the annual treasury appropriation bill, which carries funds for prohibition enforcement for the next fiscal year, served as the vehicle for the discussion.

Opening the debate, Rep. Vare, Republican, Pennsylvania, declared expenditure of millions had shown the Volstead Act to be "unenforcable" and demonstrated that the people of the United States "don't want to be bone dry."

Rep. Gallivan, Democrat, Massachusetts, described Mr. Wheeler and the Anti-Saloon League as the mainstay of a "vicious system that is destroying the soul and conscience of America."

"These are the types," he said, "that threaten and insult the President. They mis-represent his moves and motives. They tell him that they, not he, represent Americans."

Challenges Wayne B. Wheeler.

Mr. Gallivan began his speech with a statement that before he entered the chamber he had been warned that if he turned his guns on the Anti-Saloon League that organization would put five Democrat candidates in the field against him next year in order to assure the election of a "dry" Republican.

"I challenge Wayne B. Wheeler to come to my district," shouted Mr. Gallivan. "He'll find that if I keep my health I'll be back in Congress next Fall."

He aroused laughter as he described the activities of the two prohibition agents who looked for "evidence" in liquid form at one of Washington's big hotels. He read from the agent's expense account:

"Entertainment for two, dancing for the lady. Supper for two. Cost, $7.20."

"Glory be to God, what an appetite they must have had!" he exclaimed. "How the prohibition agents do enjoy themselves at the expense of the people! Here I read, tips to maitre d'hotel, $10; to assistant maitre d'hotel, $5; to numerous waiters, $6. Why, when I give them a 25-cent tip downstairs they nearly fall on my neck.

Beverage Rouses Mirth of House.

"Now, what did they eat? Supreme of Cantaloupe au Porto Supreme of cantaloupe au porto," repeated Mr. Gallivan, rolling the phrase on his tongue. The House applauded and laughed uproariously.

LADY PROSPECTOR VERY SUCCESSFUL

REMOVING STING OF LONELINESS

Radio Means Much to Inhabitants of Northern Outposts.

SPECIAL MESSAGES

Radio has been of untold benefit to Canadian farmers, and no doubt it is fully appreciated by them. Bringing into their sphere all the advantages of educational and entertainment programmes, radio has removed much of the handicap under which the rural resident suffers and has provided him with means to offset the loneliness sometimes experienced by those who are pushing forward the Canadian agricultural frontier, says the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior.

But, while radio is a welcome companion on the outlying homestead, there are other Canadians in far more isolated positions and to whom radio means much. In Canada's Arctic northland members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and others are occupying outlying post, and carrying on investigational work beyond the region of settlement and beyond all hope of relief or communication with the outside world until the Government steamer again visits them next summer. Practically all of the country north of the Arctic Circle is now in continuous darkness, and the feeling of loneliness must at times be almost overpowering. To these men radio means everything. The Canadian Government has provided each of these northern ports with receiving sets and they are reported to be receiving the programmes from a number of the more powerful stations, while once a month during the winter season messages will be broadcast particularly to those who are upholding the authority of Canada in the far-off northern islands. One can imagine the watchful waiting of these men for the monthly message, and realize what radio means to them. The more fortun-

TO SAVE ANTELOPE

Game Laws Will Be Strictly Enforced in Saskatchewan.

REGINA, Sask., Dec. 21.—(By Canadian Press).—A determined effort to save the depleted herds of antelope in Saskatchewan from complete extinction, is being taken by the provincial game guardian's department and the provincial police. Patrols have been assignnd to duty throughout the country where the animal is known to roam. According to A. Bradshaw, chief game guardian, the law will be rigidly enforced and the penalty of $200 fine or six months imprisonment imposed on offenders.

"Men who hunt simply for the lust of killing, should be banished from society and held responsible for their cowardly deeds, Mr. Bradshaw declares. Drastic measures, he added were necessary to save the antelope from the same fate as the buffalo and passenger pigeon, which were practically extinct now in the province.

PRINCE GOT UP TO VISIT BED OF DYING SOLDIER

Friendless Veteran Expressed Wish to See Wales, With Whom He Served.

CHAPLAIN CALLED.

Soldier Died Happy After Early Morning Visit of Prince.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 21.—(Canadian Press).—No hour of the day or night is too late for the Prince of Wales to visit at the bedside of a dying soldier. This fact has just come to light and illustrates an instance of his compassion for the afflicted.

A veteran of the war lay dying in a London hospital, and having no friends in the metropolis, except Rev. T. B. "Tubby" Clayton, M.C., padre of Toc H. (Talbot House), who called on him every day. One day the veteran turned the conversation to the war and the days of Toc H. at Peperinghe and to the man's close association with the Prince in the Ypres salient. He expressed the desire, as a dying wish, that he might see His Royal Highness again. Undaunted "Tubby" sought out the Prince, who had returned to York House after attending an evening function, only to find that the heir to the British throne had retired for the night. But on being acquainted with the fact, Mr. Clayton decided to leave a note for the Prince. The latter apparently recognized the voice of the padre, descended the stairs in pyjamas and dressing gown to see what "Tubby" wanted. On being apprised of the soldier's wish, the Prince, though tired, immediately dressed and accompanied Mr. Clayton to the hospital. He tip-toed down the ward to the cot of the dying soldier, took his hand and stayed with him for some time. Although too far gone to speak, the soldier opened his eyes and gave a smile of recognition and shortly after lapsed into a state of coma.

A few hours later he beckoned to the nurse and asked if he had been dreaming. On being acquainted that His Royal Highness had come specially to visit him, the veteran smiled again and died happy in the knowledge that his wish had been granted.

QUALITY WHEAT IS BEING SHIPPED

Burbank's Grade Will Be Tested for Milling Qualities.

IS NOT GRADED

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 21—(Canadian Press).—Two bushels of Quality wheat, grown in Manitoba, are being sent to Europe for a special milling test by the Central Selling Agency of the Canadian Wheat Pools, for the Manitoba pool. This wheat, originated eight years ago by Luther Burbank, has been grown in the West for the past three years. Last year the pools handled four cars of this wheat, but as it comes under no established grade, it was decided to make a test of its milling values in comparison with competitive wheats in the European market.

C. H. Burnell, president of the Manitoba pool, obtained one bushel of Quality wheat, from the Brandon experimental farm. It was grown in the Brandon district. Another bushel was obtained from D. Ruse, of Bradwardine, Man.

The bushel from Brandon goes to the Paris office of the Canadian Wheat Pools and will be ground by one of the largest mill customers of the pool in France, the Grande Moulins de Paris. The other bushel will be ground by the Joseph Rank's mill in London, Eng., a firm which also does considerable business with the pool.

It is claimed that Quality wheat is earlier and heavier yielding than Marquis and of excellent milling quality. These milling tests, the pool officials feel, will contribute to the examination of these claims.

"A CHRISTMAS TREE FOR OUR FEATHERED FRIENDS"

By Marjorie Howe Dixon.

SCENE I.

A CHRISTMAS tree in the center of stage, arranged to give an outdoor effect. Eight or ten children, or more around it, placing last decorations on the tree. Color can be introduced into their wraps by using gay scarfs and caps, or "tam o'shanters."

Boy: Do you think the birds will like it?

Girl: Oh, I'm sure they will! It will be the nicest Christmas tree they ever had.

Another Boy: Which ones like the suet?

Another Girl: Well, the robin for one, if the Blue Jay doesn't get it first—and the wood peckers like it too, and the bread as well.

Boy: Mother said the cracked corn would suit the sparrows and Sandy brought some mixed grain.

Two girls join group: There, it's all finished. We tied bits of bread on the tree and scattered some more around. Let's sing before the birds come.

All sing to tune of Annie Laurie:

When snow the ground has covered
And food is hard to find
'Tis then the needs of bird friends
We ought to call to mind.
Upon our Christmas tree
Full plenteous food will be,
To share our Christmas glee.

The birds are few in winter
But loved the more for that,
We hope they'll like their Christmas
And all grow fine and fat,
Upon our Christmas tree
Full plenteous food will be
And all the birds are welcome
To share our Christmas glee.

Boy: Sandy promised us the one about the "little warm owl." (Children form two groups about the tree and Sandy comes to center and recites "Little Warm Owl" by John Vance Cheney).

Sandy:

"Darkness, grow and blacker fold,
Rattle, hail and blast be bold. (etc.)

(page 258 "Twelve Months with the Birds and Poets" by Harper. Any other bird poem may be substituted here.)

All clap.

Girl: Let's sing once more about the tree and then we must run home before the birds come. They'll be as hungry as anything and we mustn't keep them from their feast. (All join hands and dance around tree as they sing.)

Oh come, our pretty bird friends
And join our Christmas song
Though now 'tis cold in winter
The spring appears ere long
And now upon our Tree
Full plenteous food will be
And all you birds are welcome
To join our Christmas glee.

(Curtain)

SCENE II.

Setting same as scene 1.

Birds are represented by children with smocks over bloomers, and caps pointed at front like bills. A cape with notched edges will give the effect of wings, the ends being attached to wrists. Each child should imitate the walk of bird as far as possible. The following are suggested: Junco,—slate colored wings, dark grey cap, white bloomers. Crow—all black, older child. Robin,—Red smock, dark brown cap, brown cape and bloomers. Sparrows,—Speckled brown outfit. Woodpeckers,—Red cap, white bloomers, and smock, black and white cape. Blue Jay,—Cap, peak on top, of blue, cape blue, white and black, white smock and blue bloomers. Owl,—Use hood with pointed ears, suit of speckled brown, cape the same. Others may be added, goldfinch in grey winter coat, Nutthatches, Red poll, Chickadees, downy and hairy woodpeckers.

Robin: What are you doing here?

Jay: Why shouldn't I be here? It's my tree.

Robin: It's my tree! I found it first!

Jay: Did you indeed! Well, I shall eat all I please at any rate! (Wood pecker comes in and runs around to back.)

Robin: There's that mean wood pecker! I'll have to chase him away, too. (Flies after him.)

Woodpecker runs around to front. Jay has pecked off food and is pecking at it.

Jay: My,that's good; I was so hungry. Why, you folks must be hungry, too. Come and eat.

Robin: Why, what's come over him, he's always been so pert and saucy?

Woodpecker: Well, I'm going to have some any way! Oh, it's SO good, why, I feel so different toward you all. Come on and eat, Robin.

Robin: It's strange, even the quarrelsome old woodpecker is feeling kindly. I'll have to try some. (eats) Oh, it is fine. Let's go and bring in all the others. (All fly away.

Jay returns with Sparrow who is protesting.

Sparrow: There, I won't be hustled any more. You can't make me believe you want to show me some food, you've always driven me away before.

Jay: It's Christmas, old dear, that's what. And we watched the children fill this tree with good things this afternoon. It's made such a difference, why, I don't feel like scolding any more. Try some cracked corn and see. (Sparrow eats and chirps.)

Robin returns with Junco, Junco tries to get away when he sees Sparrow and Jay.

Robin: They won't hurt you! Its Christmas and we're all friends. Come and eat. (Junco approaches shyly and eats)

Woodpecker comes in with Crow. Others draw away in a little crowd.

Jay: What did you bring him for? He will eat it all.

Woodpecker: Oh no, not after the first bite. He will change as we all did.

Crow (struts back and forth importantly): Well, I am glad to see all that food. Caw, Caw. It looks fine, I think I can eat every bit of it. There won't be any left for the others, I can assure you. I shall drive them all away. Caw Caw.

Jay (aside to woodpecker): There, I told you.

Crow: Here goes. (Eats) 'mm, that's good. Caw Caw. What a lot there is, I could spare a bit for the woodpecker. I didn't believe him when I heard him drumming on that hollo tree, saying Food, Foo-ood,—I know where there's food. Come on all you fellows and eat. Who gave us this fine feast, anyway?

Jay: The children thought of us and are sharing their Christmas with us. (All gather and eat. If other bird characters are to be used, they can join the group now. Chirps of contentment. Screech owl is heard in distance.)

Robin (startled): What was that?

Joy: It's getting late, we must be going.

Smaller birds (gather in frightened group): One,—We are afraid. It's the owl, oh let's hurry and hide. (Owl sounds nearer).

Crow: Don't be frightened, I'll protect you. Here he comes.

Owl appears, running with swooping motion of wings.

Crow: Before you go any further, look at that tree.

Owl stops, gathers wings to sides and regards tree solemnly.

Crow: That is a Christmas tree. And it is for us, all of us, from the children. Now you go and eat something and then we will talk to you.

Owl: Who-whoo, oo?

Crow: You, Caw Caw, go and eat. Threatens him.

Owl (goes to tree and eats. Nods head): Goo-ood.

Crow: Now you are changed as we were. Come near you little birds and join us. He won't harm you. This is Christmas night. Listen.

In distance children's voices heard. (Last verse, Oh come our pretty bird friends.) Birds listen to first part and then March around the tree in time to music for last part.

Curtain.

REFORESTRATION IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

Large Sections of Logged Overland to be Replenished.

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., Dec. 21.—(Canadian Press)—When the British Columbia forest service still contends that the natural reproduction of timber in this province is more than sufficient to keep pace with the loss through fire and logging operations, experiments in reforestation are now being carried on in the Fraser River valley which may be extended in future years to embrace large sections of logged-over land.

Five hundred pounds of spruce seed was sown on thirty acres of land in the Coquitlam river district a year ago The seed has taken firm root and is flourishing according to Edward Walmsley, crown timber agent here, who has been supervising the experimental work.

"The present demand for merchantable timber made on us by European countries serves as a lesson that should be taken to heart," Mr. Walmsley believes. "We still have billions of feet of timber in reserve, but at the rate of the present cut and depletion of our forests through fire, the time will come when we will be in a similar position as regards timber supply to those countries which have now realized the value of reforestation."

NEARLY MILLION TO FIGHT FIRES

Province of British Columbia Spent Over $800,000 During 1925.

CARELESS CAMPERS

VICTORIA, B.C., Dec. 21. — (Canadian Press).—It cost the provincial government $816,712 to fight forest fires in British Columbia this year, according to official figures released by Chief Forester P. Z. Caverhill. This is by far the largest amount ever expended by the government on this account.

The increase in the fire hazard is said to be partly due to the expansion of logging operations. In 1910, when fire fighting cost only $210,000, there were 350 logging camps in operation. In 1924, however, there were 3,167 camps operating. Another explanation for the growing menace is also to be found from the fact that the number of automobiles in the province has jumped from 1,026 in 1910 to 54,799 in 1924.

The careless smoker and camper, however, were blamed for hundreds of serious fires during the past season by Major C. S. Cowan, chief of the operations branch of the provincial forest srevice. Mr. Cowan in-

Gift Suggestions from The Shops

By Marjorie Howe Dixon.

There are two ways of approaching the proposition of Christmas giving. One is, to take this viewpoint—"what would I like to give Mrs. Andover?" And proceed to buy a bit of pewter, with the tag "Early Americana," just because you love pewter so of course Mrs. Andover may be one of those people who thinks that Americana is the name of an encyclopedia—and perhaps she just hates pewter!

Then there is the other way of looking at it, and that is "What would Mrs Andover like to receive?" It is much more difficult this way, oh, much more difficult. And the results are not always satisfactory, alas, no. Each of us could write a young volume on "Gifts of mine that have been promptly disliked." But every now and then we manage to strike it right, and the Mrs. Andover is just as delighted as we fondly pictured in our imagination.

To return to pewter. So many people are furnishing with "Early Americana" or collecting it, that the shops have several things ready for our selection.

Many Uses for Saucers.

Among the pewter things are trays and platters, candlesticks and ewers and small saucers besides. Some of these are early American, many are Italian and English. These saucers have many uses,—they will serve as cigarette trays, coasters, pin trays and so on.

A pretty gift with a pewter ink well is a simple desk set. The portfolio has a cover of India Print, and the shot cup to hold one's quill pen, is a quaint little one-half gill measure.

Also of metal, this time bronze, is a new old article for the ardent collector. How would you like a bronze bell for your collection? Some of these old Continental bells are originals, some are cast in the old molds, bearing a date as far back as 1619. A pretty lady with full skirts is one design,—her skirts making the bell,—herself the handle, and her leg,—or shall we be lady like and say her limb? the clapper.

Old mortars and pestles are subject to collection, too, these days. Very handsome old boys they are, too, but a bit difficult to use,—that is, well, wouldn't you say so?

Oriental Brass Bowls.

From the Orient comes a great number of stunning brass bowls. Some of these are called opium bowls,—oh, dear, wicked, aren't they,—but very satisfactory to the eye. They range in size from six inches to fourteen in diameter and rest on clever teakwood stands. Each is chased with a truly Chinese pattern and will make a distinctive gift, for a flower bowl.

Also from the great country of China come marvelous bits of embroidery. The panels from mandarin coat sleeves are especially popular just now. Long panels are used for bell pulls, shorter ones ornament table runners, and lamp shades, while some are used for wall panels. A very lovely one on midnight blue showed, in colors of brown, gold, red and yellow a truly oriental idea, the stag-symbol of grace and strength, the crane—symbol of longevity and eternity,—these together signifying felicity in marriage.

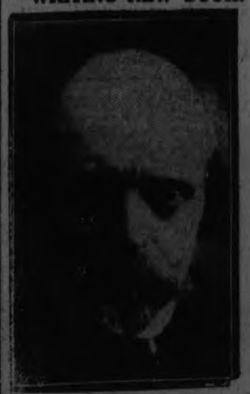
Speaking of weddings, and brides, of course, from the Far East comes the idea of presenting the young lady with a pair of "Bride Trees." Originally these were precious affairs, with carved jade, carnelian and ivory or amethyst mounted in cloisonne or cinibar lacquer jardinieres. Now pretty colored cup soap stone is used effectively and is, of course, much less expensive.

Novelty Smoking Articles.

Among the novelties from which one may select are varied smoking articles. Cut glass ash trays in green, wisteria and amber to match one's table glass may meet with one person's approval, while another may be intrigued by the new strap ash trays. The tray is fastened tightly to its brocaded strap which may be flung carelessly over the chair arm. It is weighted at either end with medallions wrought in imitation jewels, to hold it in place.

Upset stomach, sluggish liver, and acid condition cause bad breath. Seigel's Syrup gets at the cause. Try it and have a wholesome breath. Any drug store.

WRITING NEW BOOK.



Sir Hall Caine is in Palestine, where he is writing a book on the life of Christ. It is not expected that he will return to the Isle of Man until next spring.

With special apparatus it has become possible to take pictures with an exposure of only a millionth-part of a second. Fifty years ago from ten to twenty minutes exposure was always necessary.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY'S HISTORY REVIEWED IN MARMORA ADDRESS

Rev. F. J. Horwood Concluded University Extension Lectures.

ANCIENT CHURCH.

MARMORA, Dec. 19 (Canadian Press).—The sixth and final lecture of the University Extension Series was delivered in the Town Hall on Friday evening by Professor H. S. McKellar, B.A., of Toronto. The subject taken was "Westminster Abbey, the Shrine of Our Empire." The Rev. F. J. Horwood efficiently acted as chairman. The lecture was preceded by an additional feature in the presentation of High School Graduation Diplomas, merited by the following: Albert Wells, Mary Maloney, Edith Phillips, Barbara Emmorey, Hilda Thomson, James Hughes, Dora Osborne, Vincent Lynch, Hazel Williams and Gertrude Franklin.

For more than an hour, Prof. McKellar dealt comprehensively with the history and associations of the famous abbey. In his prefatory remarks, he reminded his hearers how that the highest honor which can be paid any Englishman is to have his remains rest within the Abbey. "In order to appreciate Westminster Abbey as it is today," he continued, "it is wise to go back in history to when it was erected and to the church preceding it. In the days of Julius Caesar whose army invaded England, the Romans erected a temple in the west of London to Apollo, this building being destroyed by earthquake in 154 A.D. Remains found centuries afterwards funish positive proof of this. It is also known that at that spot opposite Parliament Buildings now occupied by the Abbey, a monastery once stood. It was erected in the Eighth Century and was Benedictine. It possessed dormitories, a dining hall or refectory, Abbott's apartments and the monastery church.

A Norman Edifice.

Before 1042 A.D. it was a Saxon building. Edward the Confessor, after 30 years' exile in Normandy, much of which was spent at the court of his uncle, returned to England to ascend the throne. He was named the Confessor, because he was devout and had suffered persecution and exile thereby. It was said of him that he was more fit for a monastery than for a throne. In his exile he had become acquainted with the churches of Normandy. He was used to their custom of making their churches, burial places. He borught ideas with him as he came back to England in 1042. He noticed the Saxon monastery in Westminster did not look so well as those seen in Normandy. So he began to build a second church. He began to build in 1045 and finished in 1065. The dedication was fixed for the beginning of aJnuary, 1066. At this service, he was too sick to appear. He died January 6, 1066. On his deathbed, he told Harold that he had promised the throne to William of Normandy. At his funeral, it was decided to grant Edward's wish to be buried in the Abbey. He intended the building to be a place for royal conorations and burials as well as a church for general worship. However for two hundred years it was not used for royal burial but for royal coronations only. Henry III. was crowned in the Abbey church that he was instrumental in building. The central portion of Henry III.'s structure was finished in 1269.

Gothic Substitute.

Henry III. was not only devout like Edward the Confessor, who an hundred years after his death was made a saint, but like Edward, too, he was a lover of beautiful architecture. He saw the new Gothic architecture to be much more beautiful than the Norman in regard to the arches, and he saw the pillars to be more graceful. He decided to tear down the existing Abbey church. It seems extravagant on his part that he should demolish a building that had stood well for two hundred years. From 1222 to 1276 was the age for building cathedrals in England and France. So in Henry III.'s abbey, we have a beautiful building that has served for 656 years. To visit it now is to make history so real to you. Since its erection, 31 sovereigns or 26 kings and 5 queens have been buried there. It was opened for worship on Oct. 13, 1269. Henry III. used to hear three masses a day there, for the usual Roman Catholic service was then in use there. Since 1560, it has been a Protestant Church. For ten years it served as a cathedral. Today, it is under no Anglican or English Church authority. It is entirely under the King's power. The Dean who has charge, is appointed under the King. Some of the estates belonging to the Abbey were sold in order to get money for the repair of St. Paul's Cathedral. The Abbey being known as the Collegiate Church of St. Peter, this sale of part of its property gave rise to the expression of "robbing Peter to pay Paul." The remainder of the lecture dealth with the tombs and tablets contained within the Abbey and also chambers associated with it. A series of beautiful limelight views greatly added to the interest of the lecture.

At its conclusion, Mr. H. W. Sabine, in very fitting speech, moved a hearty vote of thanks to Professor McKellar, which was seconded by Mr. John Richardson. Miss Marion Shannon gave some pleasing pianoforte selections and accompanied the National Anthem sung at the close. Another course of lectures may be given in the early party of 1926.

Annie Mathews is about to enter upon her second term as Registrar of New York County. The position pays $12,000 a year, and is said to be the highest salaried public office ever held by a woman in the United States.

WARSAW NEWS

Deer Seen on Road Near Village—Cheese Factory Meeting.

WARSAW, Dec. 21—Geese have brought 22c, turkeys 37c, chickens 18c.

It snows a little nearly every day and all kinds of vehicles are seen on the roads, but the car still is most common.

On Tuesday a deer came on the road between Gerrard and Matthew McMurray's places, stood looking at the men for a few minutes, then ran jumped into Mr. J. A. Crowe's field and later tracks were seen in the direction of Maloney's Lake.

The sale of the late Miss Ada Crossen's property was held yesterday. The furniture went quite well, but the other things went very cheap. Some few old friends bought articles for old friendship's sake.

The village stores are in holiday array.

On Wednesday evening the Warsaw Cheese and Butter Company held a social evening in the town hall. Mr. E. Hawthorne was chairman. The attendance, alhough fair, was not so large as when there was an oyster supper.

Fred Crowe gave the factory report for the season: No. of pounds of milk received, 2,360,818; No. of pounds of cheese, 211,379; No. of pounds of butter fat, 84,147.89; value of cheese sold, $44,932.91 pounds of milk to 1 pound cheese, 11.12; value of cheese to patrons, $39,340.71. Except in a very few cases the milk was taken to the factory on motor trucks.

Mr. Charles Foster was not prepared for a speech so said little more than that he hoped the patrons would all stay by the factory.

Mr. George Gillespie, Peterboro, started out by showing that there was no walk in life out of which some fun could not be gotten. He told the story of Sir Charles Tupper preparing speeches for and against tariff, so he would be able to oppose Sir Richard Cartwright, whichever way Sir Richard went. He complimented the members on the factory report. The products were a better quality than ever before. Last year Peterboro had to face being told that the county was quite a bit below the best. The loss of Mr. Ward as instructor was great, as no one could be more earnest and faithful. The grading of cheese has done much to bring up the quality, also institute instruction.

Wallace Anderson recited "Leaving the Farm."

During his address Mr. Barr said that the cheese and butter industry were among the greatest in rural Ontario, but the quality of cheese is not always up to the mark. Grading must bring better results. It is only fair to give the man who brings in the best raw material better pay than is given him who brings in a poorer grade. Poor butter does last longer than good, but people do not want to buy poor butter.

Some people make a fuss if the cheesemaker returns the milk, but why should milk be kept that will spoil a lot of cheese even slightly. He spoke strongly about turnip-feeding. One factory sent out very tainted cheese.

At the end he urged the people to patronize their own industries, and to keep the very highest ideals in mind for they will never get ahead of their ideals.

Refreshments were served and a social half hour spent.

TRENT VALLEY COMPANY SEASON SUCCESFUL AND AND PROFITABLE

Great Deal of Butter and Cheese Was Manufactured.

ANNUAL MEETING.

John Ingram Was Elected President For 1926 Season.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 21—At the annual meeting of the Trent Valley Cheese and Butter Company, whose factory is in Campbellford which was held on Saturday afternoon the following officers were elected for the coming year:

John Ingram, president
W. W. Clark, secretary
Directors, John Ingram, W. M. Stephens, Roy Loucks, Wm. Craighead, Henry Forestell, David Meiklejohn, W. C. Todd.

Mr. Forestell replaces Herbert Stotts on the Board of this year but with this exception all the old officers were re-elected.

The Season's Record

According to the report of Secretary W. W. Clark, which was accepted, there were 1,114,836 pounds of milk delivered at the factory during the season and this was converted into 89,550 pounds of cheese, 12.44 pounds of milk being required to make one pound of cheese. The average price received for cheese was 20.91 cents a pound, the price of butter fat per pound being 30.23 cents. The value of the cheese sold was $18,526.95 and that of the cream disposed of $562.23. The patrons bought cheese to the value of $200.24. The total amount paid to the patrons was $16,558.50, and the balance on hand amounts to $188.01.

H. B. Cowan Heard

H. B. Cowan of Peterborough, who represents the United Dairymen's Co-operative, was present and made a brief address in which he expressed the hope that next year the Campbellford factory's output will be sold to the U.D.C. The average price paid the patrons of that co-operative he said was 21.20 cents a pound, somewhat higher than that received from other dealers according to the reports in the newspapers of the annual meetings. The business of the U.D.C. this year showed a gratifying increase and the entire increase of the dairy business in general throughout Canada was about 37 per cent. It had been a good year for the producers of milk.

One benefit that Mr. Cowan claimed the U.D.C. had secured not only for their own patrons but for dairymen in general was securing correct weight when the cheese is weighed in Montreal.

Mr. Cowan also gave some interesting information with regard to the dairy business in New Zealand.

The Empire Factory.

The Empire Factory, the largest in the district, handled 2,845,588 pounds of milk this year, and manufactured 247,527 pounds of cheese, this selling for a total of $51,707.82. The total paid the patrons for milk was $45,963.93.

The number of pounds of butter made was 5,313, and this sold for $1,763.80. The patrons were paid $1,224.09 for the butter sold, the cost of manufacturing this article being $531.

For making a pound of cheese, 11.49 pounds of milk were used, and the average price of cheese for the season was 20.90 cents a pound.

The Empire Factory opened on April 10, and closed on November 30. A truck was hired to carry the cheese to the depot; this cost $152, and $82 was paid for hauling the ice required.

Officers Elected.

The following officers were elected:

President—Russell Peake.
Secretary-Treasurer—Albert Grills
Auditor—Ernest Craighead.
Directors—W. S. Grills, Will Haig, Fred Peake and Russell Peake.

Robert Maybee, who has made cheese at this factory for the past eight years, has been re-engaged.

Out of the enormous amount of milk handled during the season, only 1,000 pounds were rejected at the factory as unfit for use.

TRAVELERS' ANNUAL.

A. E. Cowley Re-elected President of Association.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 21—J. H. Laughton and J. H. Grierson were eleced first and second vice-presidents, respectively, of the Ontario Commercial Travellers at the annual meeting held on Saturday afternoon. A. E. McKay, J. C. Doidge and D. S. McGugan. There were 1,211 ballots cast.

At a subsequent meeting A. E. Barbour was elected treasurer and George T. Hair, secretary. A committee was named to arrange a celebration next year of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the association.

ACQUITTED OF LIQUOR CHARGE

Owner of Car Picked Up Man Who Had Liquor.

PASSENGER JAILED.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 21.—R. J. McMullen, who was formerly in the employ of the Water and Light Commission, but who has recently been living in Cobourg and Port Hope, was acquitted Friday in the Cobourg police court, before Magistrate Floyd, of a charge of having liquor in a place other than his private dwelling. He was defended by A. R. Willmott, of Cobourg.

McMullen was out in his auto when he picked up a man named Duncan Martin, of Grafton, and a short time after the car collided with another driven by Victor Buckingham. The men were badly injured, and when the police arrived at the scene of the accident they found liquor in McMullen's car. Hence the police court hearing.

The testimony showed that the liquor belonged to Martin and he was sentenced to pay a fine of $800 besides the costs, and to serve a sentence of five months in jail. If $400 of the fine is not paid forthwith the jail sentence will be increased.

Martin was defended by C. A. Payne, of Colborne.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

PRAISES ST. PAUL'S.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Will you allow me space in your valuable paper for a word of appreciation of the splendid service at St. Paul's Church last evening?

The musical part of the service, from the first note of the prelude to the close, was admirably arranged and splendidly rendered, and reflects great credit on Mr. Chenhall and those associated with him, while the pure Gospel sermon was a treat.

Services such as these would, if continued, cause the subject of the sermon, 'Crowded Out," to apply to the Church itself in a very real sense.

Thanking you, yours faithfully,
Geo. Leader.

IMMACULATE CONCEPTION CHURCH.

At the Church of the Immaculate Conception, yesterday morning, Rt. Rev. Monsignor McColl spoke from the text for the Sunday, taken from the Gospel according to St. Luke, chapter 3, verses 4 and 5: "Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make straight His paths. Every valley shall be filled, and every mountain and hill shall be brought low; and the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough ways shall be made plain."

The Precursor of Christ, John the Baptist, coming forth from the wilderness, brought his message to the world and it has its parallel in the message of Advent, announcing the coming of Christ on Christmas Day, and exhorting the world to repentance and to penetential ways. The impediments to the soul's progress in life are the hills which must be levelled and the valleys are the negligences which retard its growth.

"Of all the evils which afflict the world, the greatest is mortal sin, but there is an easy and sure way to redeem the mistakes of the past, and that is by a sincere and true repentance." The man who has made an absolute failure of his business or of his health, said the reverend speaker, may find it almost impossible to regain his lost wealth or physical well-being, but to the man who has failed in spiritual ways and who has made a wreck of his spiritual life, there is always the hope of redemption by the simple means of repentance and a resolve to do better things.

"At this season of the year," said Monsignor McColl, "the heart of the Christian should overflow with gratitude to Almighty God for the help and the strength that He constantly bestows upon His children, merely for the asking. Christ did not come down to the world to have a share in its happiness. He came to suffer and die for our redemption and for the salvation of our souls. He came, not as a man, but as a little child, for no one is afraid to approach a child who inspires love and confidence in the heart."

GEORGE STREET UNITED

George Street Church was thronged Sunday evening to hear the inspiring cantata, "The Coming of the King," by Dudley Buck. The large choir, directed by T. H. Renwick, rendered in this splendid music, the whole joy and goodwill caused by the birth of Christ.

Mr. Todd delivered a short sermon, "The Angels' Song." Christ lived only to give glory to God, whether there is peace or war among men. There is a great yearning to come to God in us all at certain times in our lives. People who are religious often have a spirit of intolerance to those who are still wandering and this dogmatic which insists for the best often forces cruelties upon people in the name of religion. Although one must believe that even in the cruelty of the rack, and thumb-screw, etc., there was a sincere desire to please God.

The angels sang, "Glory to God in the Highest and on Earth goodwill towards men." Those who do not love and bear goodwill toward their neighbour are helping to postpone the coming of God's Kingdom. This personal lack of goodwill is really the cost of wars because wars are only caused through lack of it.

Jesus lived his life and example to all of the practising of goodwill and love to all mankind. Love, service and finally sacrifice were the fruits of His life. The spirit of Christmas must always be associated with the shadow of the Cross.

MURRAY STREET BAPTIST

Doctor C. W. Rose delivered a splendid Christmas message to a large congregation yesterday morning. Mr. Rose took as his subject "the Characters around the Christmas Cradle."

The old and young each hear the wonderful story of the birth of Christ with a quickening pulse and a fresh joy and so it has been down through the Ages. Jesus was the gift of God to the children of men.

The characters around the cradle of Christ were: the parents, Mary and Joseph; the shepherds, the wisemen; Herod the Great, Augustus Caesar; Simian and Amma and the angelic group.

The loving parents bring the message that Jesus came into the home life to solve its problems and raise it to a higher plane. Mary was a wonderful woman although as yet she has received scant attention from Protestants. The shepherds, represent the plain, yet thinking man and designates that Jesus came into the farm or pastoral life. The wisemen who came bearing gifts represent that the highly educated, thinking man must too, take an active part in Christ's Kingdom. Herod the Great, the cruel and jealous monarch, is the evil in the picture that Christ came to change. It was by a proclamation given out by Caesar that caused Jesus' birth in Bethlehem, and this show that sovereign sway also entered into the birth and its conditions. The angelic group represent the rejoicing that took place in heaven at the of Christ.

PARK STREET BAPTIST

Rev. Norman R. McLeod, of Park street Baptist Church continued, yesterday morning, a series on the answers of Jesus to the question asked by the disciples of John the Baptist, "Art thou He that should come, or look we for another?" Yesterday he dwelt on the last of the answers which were apparent to John, the miracles of Christ, and on some answers to the question contained in the latter part of the life of Christ and of His church, which are apparent to Christians of the present day.

When John's disciples came, said the speaker, Christ was performing miracles, and He didn't speak to them until He was ready, when He told them to tell John of the things which they had seen. Mr. McLeod said that the Master performed the miracles because he came to meet men's needs, and he helped them in whatever they needed help.

Proofs that He was Christ, which were not known to John, said the speaker, are found in His death, His resurrection, and His abiding presence. He said that the death of Christ was necessary, and that it was both physical and piritual. He died to save men. The resurrection is the corner stone of the Christian faith. The abiding presence of Christ is the final great answer to John's question. The gift of tongues to the early church was a dispensation for proof of this.

The great challenge, said the speaker, in conclusion, is for people to follow and serve Christ.

Before starting his sermon Mr. McLeod referred to the question of Sunday bathing, urging his hearers to consider the matter carefully before casting their votes.

The pastor announced that there would be a service in the church on Christmas morning at 10 o'clock, to which a very hearty invitation was given to all.

ALL SAINTS' ANGLICAN

Rev. J. Douglas Paterson preached the last of a series of sermons on some of the ten commandments at All Saints' Church last night, the subject being the tenth commandment, "Thou shalt not covet."

He said that it would seem that the first taken up in the series, "Honor thy father and thy mother" was important, and that the others became gradually less important until the last was reached. He cited examples, however, showing the evil wrought in the world, in both biblical and secular history, through covetuousness.

"Covetuousness," said the speaker, "is seeking more than your rightful share, when obtaining it will make some one else poorer." He quoted the advice of St. Paul, "Covet earnestly the best gifts" and urged his hearers to covet, instead of money, generosity, so that others might benefit, and instead of pride and envy, to covet humility and love.

Mr. Paterson said that the first and the last commandments link together. The first covers them all. If a man keeps it and has no other Gods he will not worship idols or take God's name in vain, he will not commit the various sins against his neighbors, or covet their goods. If he breaks the last commandment he is likely to break others. If a man breaks one part of the law he breaks all of it.

After the sermon the choir sang a number of Christmas carols, including "Cradled all lowly," "Holy Night," "The First Nowell," "See Amid the Winter's Snow," and "Hark! What Mean those Holy Voices." The singing showed excellent training, the boys' voices being especially fine.

ST. JOHN'S ANGLICAN

At the morning service at St. John's Church yesterday morning, Rev. Dr. Blagrave continued his series of studies of the apostolic fathers, dealing with the Shepherd of Heimas, and pointing out some of the lessons that could be derived from this work of antiquity.

A very large congregation heard Dr. Blagrave's scholarly recital of the various visions of Heimas and the morals that could be drawn therefrom for service today. He explained that Heimas was the author of a work called the Shepherd that was circulated early in the second century, and several extracts from the book were quoted as the basis for the speaker's sermon.

In announcing the Christmas Day services, Rev. Dr. Blagrave declared that it was a mistake to put emphasis upon the joyousness of Christmas until Christmas Day itself. It was still Advent and the speaker felt that in stressing the joy of Christmas in advance of the actual beginning of the festival, an error was being made that took away some of the effect of the celebration.

Services are to be held at St. John's at 7, 8 and 10.30 a.m. on Christmas Day and Dr. Blagrave declared that Christmas could not be properly celebrated without attendance at service on that day.

ST. LUKE'S ANGLICAN

Rev. G. J. Bousfield took as the subject of his sermon, Thomas, the disciple who doubted the resurrection of his Master. Other disciples had told him of the reappearance of Christ to them in the upper room. Thomas had not been present and when told the wonderful news refused to give it credence. Unless he could feel the torn side and the jagged nail prints with his own fingers, he would not believe that Christ was risen.

It was with the sole purpose of convincing Thomas of His resurrection, Mr. Bousfield believed, that Christ again confronted some of His disciples a week later. This time the dubious one was present and when he was told to touch the wounds he was constrained to cry out at once. "My Lord; my God." Nor did he avail himself of the opportunity which his Master afforded but was immediately convinced that He was indeed risen. Then the Saviour said, "Because thou hast seen, thou believest, blessed are those who, not seeing, yet believe."

There is no record in Biblical history of Thomas' subsequent apostolic labors, said Mr. Bousfield, although tradition related that his field was east of Palestine. At the time of the first Portuguese journeys to India there were records of the discovery of an edifice called the Church of Saint Thomas. If that were true and there was no evidence to the contrary, it was then apparent that Thomas, after his conviction, had worked faithfully in the cause of the Master. That doubt, so honestly expressed and so convincingly refuted, must have directed him to continue his work without undue ostentation and in such a manner that no authentic record was left.

All experience a time of doubting, a period when the strongest faith sometimes is overcome. The very essences of life seem as if they are not and cannot be. It is not harmful to have moments of doubt when God is asked for some special revelation for the very time when the doubt has reached its highest limit of strength; God will pour something into the heart and soul which will restore belief and to a stronger degree than before.

When the Saviour had uttered his salvation, Thomas showed by the intensity of his emotions that his doubt had vanished. Possibly, when faith is passing away, God is purposing to supplant it with a stronger and more enduring assurance.

MARK STREET UNITED

The church service at Mark Street yesterday morning was especially adapted to the Christmas season, as the sermon and all hymns told the story of the Saviour's birth at Bethlehem. The Scripture lesson was taken from the second chapter of Luke which records the journey of Joseph and his affianced wife to the centre where they were to pay the tax to Caesar; it told of the angelic chorus and the group which gathered to adore the Child which lay in the manger. An anthem, "Oh, Little Town of Bethlehem," was sung by the choir.

The minister, Rev. R. T. Richards, B.A., chose as the subject of his sermon the exultant song of the heavenly choir, "Glory to God in the Highest and on earth peace, goodwill toward man," a message which, he said typified the spirit of Christmas. "If an inhabitant of another planet were to visit the earth at this time, he might question as to the reason of the rejoicing. What would we reply? Some might say that it was a season of festivity, but others see something deeper and more magnificent back of the Christmas spirit. It is the same thing which moved the angel voices to burst into song, heralding the tidings of the Virgin birth. The spirit of Christmas may be called the spirit of love, joy and peace," said Mr. Richards.

The greatest of the three characteristics was love. It was the fundamental note in the Kingdom of Heaven. Standing back of the Babe of Bethlehem was the tender love of God who looked down into the world of sins and sinners who were groping for some indefinable object. For them God gave His greatest gift. He had expressed His love before when He had sent prophets and priests, but those had not been sufficient. Accordingly, the love of God was manifest in a marvellous way. People manifest the same spirit in terms of the family which in reality is the greatest institution, because the ties are more closely knit with love. Any nation, said Mr. Richards, which destroys its family life, making it possible by lax legislation, for those ties to become easily sundered, will fall as surely as the great Roman Empire crumbled into the dust.

In the midst of the festivity there are mingled sorrows with the joys, for when the time comes for gathering around the board there are places which remain vacant, faces which cannot be found. Then the spirit of love predominates, presaging the greater union which will come when all things are consummated, when Christmas will last through all eternity.

The Spirit of Joy.

Joy is the highest and best emotion which marks Christmas indelibly as being different from all other seasons. There would be much misery and discontent if there were no means of expressing happiness; the world would be a drab and weary place. Real Christmas joy is seen at its best when reflected in the eyes of a child which is made the recipient of some gift. There is something which gladdens the heart of the giver, too.

So, in a tangible way, joy finds expression and people reflect on the gift which God gave.

The expression seen in the eyes of a child should be visible in the eyes of all people as in gratitude for heaven's kindnesses. But the people of the world are not children and are not gratified. If they could but accept the Divine present at its face value, a wonderful change would come over the face of creation.

According to the conception of some, peace is regarded as freedom from war, but there are two elements more essential in the definition. The first is goodwill and the second is sacrifice. Peace is therefore a fitting background for the Christmas spirit.

Peace treaties represent sacrifice, but is it not a more worthy sacrifice than that of the flower of nations and valuable property which was the dread toll of war. Ultimate and complete peace can only come the way of the Master, Who was the Babe in the manger, and the Christ on the Cross. When the world can realize that peace is obtainable that way and endeavour to reach it, the dream of Isaiah will come true, and Christmas will extend through all the days of the year.

TRINITY UNITED

The morning service was featured by special music, the choir rendering several beautiful anthems. Mrs. Doig sang "Star of Bethlehem," in a very impressive manner. The Pastor, Rev. A. J. Langford, took as the subject for his sermon "Immanuel, God with Us" and took his text from Matthew, 1, Verse 23—And they shall call his name Immanuel, which, being interpreted is, God with Us. Mr. Langford exhaustive some length with the circumstances and conditions of the prophecy, and the almost immediate fulfillment of it. He said, that as far as is known, Isiah's prophecy was never fulfilled as there was no trace of any child having being called Immanuel. Though in its primary application the prophecy was not fulfilled, Isiaah spoke words that day better than he knew, words so pregnant that even he did not know the full effect. We have not yet come to the place where we have a parliament for the world, but we are in a fair way for it. He went on to tell of how the baby Jesus was born and of the wise men being led by a star to the place. Jesus was big enough to fulfill Isiah's prophecy. The very significance of his name proves it. The meaning of his name—He shall save his people from their sins proves that he fulfills this prophecy. Jesus made the people feel that He was Immanuel by His actions towards them. Christ was unique in that He was a Prophet, Comrade and at the same time their Master. Christ was an enthusiast, He was a Friend and a Brother. If God is a personal Being the natural theory is that He revealed Himself in a natural way and there is no other adequate way. Man was made in the image of God, and when this material goes back to whence it came the spirit will go on. Personality can only express itself through personality. Another truth revealed, He shall save His people from their sins. God could not save the world in any other way but by becoming one with us. God is with us and our Friend and Helper every day. People take on new courage at this thought as a friend and a helper is what the world needs. Christ has always made men do their best and individually it should be God with me—Is God Immanuel to you.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL

At St. Peter's Cathedral last evening His Lordship Bishop O'Brien gave an interesting account of his audience with the Holy Father in Rome, on October 17th, during his recent visit in connection with the Holy Year.

The Bishop reviewed briefly the history of the origin of the Papacy by Christ, nearly two thousand years ago when He chose Peter from among His Apostles and gave him the commands which bestowed such wonderful prerogatives upon him and his successors. The present Pope is the two hundred and sixtieth successor of St. Peter, in a chain whose tenure of life will last into eternity.

The Catholic Church does not claim that the Pope is impeccable and incapable of committing sin, but it claims that in matters of dogma relating to the conduct of the Catholic Church he is infalliable.

The Pontiffs are not chosen from among the rich and the powerful alone. They come from all ranks of life. Pope Leo 13th was a nobleman but the father of Pope Pius 10th was a humble postman, whose son made his own way through college and the present Holy Father also comes from a family of lowly birth. "Therefore Holy Church is the most democratic institution in the world and it is because of her Divine origin that she succeeds and lasts. St. Peter, said the Bishop, was a poor fisherman, coming to the proudest and richest city of the time, determined to conquer it for Christ, entering it, a poor Jew, with his staff and His bare head, and making it, with the help and the faith of those who came after Him, the centre of Christianity for the whole world, after three hundred years of terrible persecution.

Going to an audience with the Pope, His Lordship said that the visitor passed by many of the ruined temples of bygone pagan days, the tower where Nero stood to watch Rome burning, the Roman Forum, the palace of the Caesars, and the burying place of the Emperor Hadrian, coming to the Vatican, where the Holy Father receives the faithful from all over the world.

The Bishop spoke of the kindly gracious manner in which the Pope receives his visitors and the interest and attention with which he listens to accounts of their work in far-off lands. He said it was "a great pleasure and a great consolation" to hear of the peace and friendship existing between those of differing religions in the Dominion and was much interested in hearing of the efforts being made just now to acquire the share allotted by the Constitution of Canada of school monies hitherto withheld from the Catholic population.

In speaking of the presentation of this case in a friendly lawsuit which opens today in Toronto, in which the appeal of the Catholics of Ontario for a share of school monies will be heard, the Bishop exhorted his people to pray that justice might be done. "But if there is an injustice to be suffered, we are willing to suffer it rather than to inflict it on others, for it is better to suffer injustice than to commit it."

At the Cathedral at the morning Masses, Rev. P. Costello spoke on a text from the third chapter of St. Luke, 3rd verse; "Prepare ye the way of the Lord make straight His paths," and admonished his hearers to prepare for the holy feast of Christmas by straightening out the crooked paths in their lives, forsaking habits which were harmful to the soul, such as missing Mass, forgetting to be charitable to one's neighbors, and neglecting the duties of one's state of life.

Masses on Christmas Day at the Cathedral will be at the usual Sunday hours of eight, nine-fifteen and ten-thirty. The midnight Mass will be followed by two low Masses.

In the Catholic congregations of the city, the usual Friday abstinence from flesh meat is lifted for the solemn festival of Christmas, the day preceding it, Thursday, being observed instead as a day of fast and abstinence in preparation for the holy-day.

KNOX UNITED

At Knox United Church yesterday morning there was a very pretty "White Gifts Service," when children of the Sunday School, following in the footsteps of the Magii, brought gifts for the needy. From the tiny tots of the junior school up to the seniors of the Bible classes, all had hampers and baskets of goods to bring Christmas cheer to families that would otherwise lack.

The service was largely choral, but Rev. M. C. Mackinnon spoke briefly to the young people, telling the joy in Christmas giving and in unselfishness.

At the evening service old carols were sung by the choir and suitable selections played by the organist.

Soloists were: Mrs. Ross Williamson, Maurice Park, Misses E. and V. Buckham and H. Hughes.

THE SECRETS OF CHARM

By Lucrezia Bori

A recent article in one of the newspapers waxed quite emphatic in its denouncement of the modern girl.

While I think the author was unduly alarmed, some of the points touched upon are well worth recalling to mind.

Among other things said was that those speaking so encouragingly of the high average of health and naturalness of the modern girl are laboring under a delusion.

The charge made was that we are forever making the point that the girl of to-day is so much healthier because of her wider activities than the girl of yesterday. The author was inclined to think this smug declaration applies only to a small per cent of the girls of to-day.

He (I shall call him he, for convenience) made the point that the college girl, who, after all, forms only a minor quota, may be healthier, but that it is not the college girl who may be considered representative.

He said that the girls who live in cities and small towns, who are often the girls that go to business daily, try to give the appearance of health by a coating of lipstick and, rouge. He thinks that they gloss over the effects of ill-health and loss of sleep in this manner. This, as he rightly surmises, cannot give results for long, as the appearance of health cannot be kept up where health is lacking.

The author condemns late hours, cigarettes and drinking, followed by a short period of unrestful sleep on a "day bed," and another day which ends in the same manner.

Now, many of you who read this may see justice in it, and there undoubtedly is a certain amount of truth. Where we recognize truth, we should be sufficiently alarmed to set about to readjust matters.

If the young girl will allot to herself a certain amount of daily exercises, she will not have the great urge to resort to too many cosmetics to gloss over a wan appearance.

I preach sufficient sleep constantly, and I trust that the young girls who realize the need for generous sleeping hours also recognize the equally pressing need for comfortable beds, real beds upon which their bodies can relax thoroughly.

You who read this over, let it cause you to look into your own manner of regulating the things mentioned, and any other necessary things unmentioned. If you find cause for alarm, let this move you to make the necessary adjustments that will bring about health and a sane, happy life.

(day) .....(month) .....(year) .....

J. W. H.—You are by nature very generous and sympathetic; are generally ready to relieve the needs and sufferings of others. You are artistically-inclined, and are physically fit for exacting work. You have a great deal of personal attraction, and shine in company, but you are inclined to be fickle and changeable. You have a good perception of details, and have excellent perception of relative size; are very good at measuring and working by the eye; can detect errors in supposed perpendiculars and angles. You are affectionate. Your color is pink. You were born on a Tuesday. The day of which you enquire is one for real personal freedom. Don't let yourself be hampered by people or circumstances. Be individual in thought and expression.

H. N.—You are inclined to fuss over trifles and worry others unnecessarily. You are selfish and self-seeking, but with this overcome would be capable of much kindness and affection. Remember that others have rights and privileges as reasonable as yours. You were born on a Sunday. Your color is green.

Russet—Your reading gives indication of change and uncertainty, coupled with large mental power. But the uncertainty is overcome, to some extent, by the high development of your ability to face the circumstances of daily life. You are capable of great affection, and are kindly disposed to all people, making many friends. You possess a full share of reverence and respect, but are apt to make religion subservient to whatever else may be esteemed necessary, according to the combination of conditions. You have a good degree of the discriminative element, are witty, and genial in company. You were born on a Saturday. Your colors are red and brown. The day of which you inquire is not one for important business transactions or for speculation. Watch your actions carefully and act only after careful deliberation.

J. S. M.—Real happiness will not be yours without great effort and a broadening of your vision. You are inclined to be self-centred and of limited outlook. You are logical and daring, but your mental efforts do not run in the same channel with your work. Seek activity where the sky is the limit, apply all your mental force, and take your rightful place in the world. You are governed by a high order of moral principle and are honest and upright. Take a kindlier view of the world and the people with whom you come in contact. Don't endeavor to live to yourself alone. You have a good perception of first principles and can reason correctly. You are interesting in conversation, but must be interested in your subject. Your color is flame. You were born on a Friday. The day you name is not a good day for lone ventures. Carefully obey the instructions of superiors.

Veritas—You will have to work hard for any success you gain, and must cultivate initiative and efficiency. Whatever you are given to do, do it well. Think ahead of your job, and work towards the next step. You have fair observing power, but mainly confine yourself to objects around you, and are not highly concerned about delving beneath the surface. There is a lack of study or training or both that is handicapping you. You should have good selling ability, and would be an expert linguist, with application and initiative. Be more aggressive, but be certain you have the goods to back up your claims. The day you name is suitable for new ventures. Be bold, but let your boldness be tempered by logic and good judgment. You were born on a Saturday, not Thursday or Friday, as you state. Your colors are gold and white.

M. G. T.—You will not win by fighting—discard the mailed fist and put on the velvet glove of diplomacy. You are strong mentally and are well developed. You have great integrity and virtue, and the grace of constancy. You love the good opinion of others, but are too sensitive to censure. Great nurses have had your characteristics. You are charming in manner and gracious to acquaintances, but your affection is given to a few close friends. Yours will be a happy life, with love and home and material satisfaction. You should be a leader in social life. You were born on a Wednesday. Your colors are red and brown. The day of which you enquire is one for originality. Take advantage of every new opportunity—no matter how slight—on this day.

M. J. V.—Yours are really great indications, you have lived a full life, with its shares of shadow and sunshine, and have brought joy to many. You have unusual understanding and sympathy, and have achieved much, perhaps not so much materially as spiritually. You seek truth and right. You have a fair share of self-satisfaction, but are not selfish; you like to see and make others happy. Your color is steel gray. You were born on a Friday. I am sorry that owing to delay the day of which you enquire is past.

June—You have a benevolent nature and do good spontaneously. You are ready to forgive injuries done to you, and quick to heal a broken friendship. You have great affection, but must guard against spreading it too widely. You are intensely fond of home, and are liable to home-sickness when away, yet would enjoy travel for travel's sake and would benefit by it. You have a good share of prudence and forethought; are rather cautious, but not timid. You can meet great issues squarely. Cultivate patience; indulge in outdoor sport; and do not act rashly in matters of the heart. You were born on a Sunday. Your color is the royal color—purple.

Bud—You are not sufficiently aggressive or pushing, and must cultivate the power to assert yourself. Diplomacy and earnestness, with some, are effective in gaining material ends, but your nature is different. You have very strong mental powers and show superior practical talent in managing large affairs. You are capable of much good or evil, according to the development or restraint of your other faculties. You are steady and reliable in crises, affectionate in nature though not fickle, and you have a ready and accurate judgment of men. You have a full share of mental acuteness and penetration, and could rise to a high position in intellectual society. Lend a helping hand to others where you can. The day of which you enquire would be a good one for a change of habitation, or for entering new fields of endeavor. You were born on a Sunday. Your color is brown.

POPULAR IN SOUTH—HERE IN SPRING

Above are three simple little costumes of the type that has become very popular in the south this season and may mark the Canadian mode of next spring. Fancy pearl buttons are generously used to ornament the little frock at the left. The removable collar and cuffs are of heavy corded silk trimmed with the braid. The skirt is 14 inches from the ground. In the centre is an afternoon frock of French blue crepe with touches of gay color added at the collar, cuffs and waist. At the right is another smart model in tangerine crepe with puff cuffs and embroidered cuffs. Spring hats are to be small.

Egyptian Influence Shown in This Cotton Frock for Southern Wear

The dress above shows gay colors in horizontal treatment against a background of deep cream. Like the Egyptian fabrics, the cotton material is of fine texture, so the joining bands of fine pleats can be inserted without making the frock bulky.

Nut wafers require one and one-half cupfuls of brown sugar, four tablespoonfuls of flour, two tablespoonfuls of water, one egg, two tablespoonfuls of butter (melted), one and one-half cupfuls of chopped nuts. Add water and sugar to melted butter, sift in the flour, then the beaten egg, then add nuts. Mix well, then drop from a teaspoon on buttered tins and bake ten minutes.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Some of the letters I receive are a real inspiration. They come from grateful persons who think they have been helped, or from others who need advice. A few days ago I had a wonderful letter from a lady living in Canada. She gave me several important suggestions and then asked what I thought of her son, aged 27.

It seems that this young man has "albuminuria." He has had spells in consequence and the disturbed mother is anxious to know what can be done for the son.

This lady does not realize she has asked a question I cannot answer without more information. I shall attempt to explain why.

The word "albuminuria" is a general term applied to albumen in the urine. There should be no albumen in the urine and when it is present there is something wrong.

A good example of albumen is the white of egg. Another form of albumen is present in the blood. If you strain out of the blood the red and white corpuscles, there is left a clear serum. This, in a sense, is not unlike egg white. At least it contains albumen.

In some abnormal kidney conditions blood may escape from the vessels and find its way to the urine. In every such case albumen will be found if the urine is tested. There are a lot of such disturbances of the kidneys.

You would expect albuminuria in inflammation of the kidneys—the condition the doctors call nephritis. Every inflammation has as a symptom congestion—a surplus of blood. It is not to be wondered at that the fluid part of the blood oozes out and reaches the urine.

It is not necessary to have an actual inflammation. Anything which produces kidney congestion will do the same thing. Diseases of the lungs, liver or heart sometimes produce congestion of the kidneys and it may be so severe as to result in albuminuria. Any fever may do the same thing.

There are conditions in which the blood is thinned, leaving it more likely to leak into the urine. Of course, this is a pretty crude way to explain the condition but, at least, it will make it understandable.

Among the disturbances which produce albuminuria are anemia and poisoning by drugs. Albuminuria is a symptom observed in epilepsy, concussion of the brain and other diseases of the brain or nervous system. In women it is not uncommon during pregnancy.

Young persons may have albuminuria even in the absence of any exciting disease. After severe exertion or after a cold bath it may be present.

In short, it is impossible to form an opinion in any case of albuminuria without knowing all the circumstances. It may be a thing to worry over, or it may not be. To know what to do you must first find out why the symptom appears.

COURT APPEARANCE FOR SLEIGH RIDERS

Chief of Police Warns of the Dangers of Coasting on Streets.

"Coasting on the streets of the city must stop," said Chief of Police Newhall this morning.

"Offences of that nature will receive summary treatment in the future, as those implicated will be called upon to appear before the magistrate," he added.

The Chief said that yesterday there was one party of grown girls, who should have known enough to observe the Sabbath more decently. They persisted in coasting down the Hunter street hill at their own risk, and that of pedestrians trying to cross the street. He declared that coasting on that hill in particular made it difficult for cars to climb it, and that the intersection being at the bottom, made it very dangerous to those who were coasting.

The Chief indicated that the same amount of enjoyment might be found of the travelled streets.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

DORIS MEETS A QUEER LITTLE VILLAGE

When Doris looked across the prairie and saw all the little mounds of dirt scattered about, she stopped and wondered.

On one mound, not far from her, sat a little furry creature calling, "Chit! Chit! Chit!" at the top of his voice, and every time he yapped his funny little tail would jerk up and down in such a funny way, Doris began to laugh.

"Oh, that's all right; laugh if you want to," he chuckled. "I have an idea you think my tail is funny? So it is. Chit, chit, chit. Beware! here comes a girl!" Like a flash of lightning, he turned and darted into the center of the mound upon which he was sitting, and disappeared out of sight.

"Well, of all things," said Doris. "Oh, I wish——" but she got no further when a tiny hand touched hers. Looking down at her side, Doris saw a happy little elfin face smiling up into hers.

"Oh, Squeedee, you dear!" Doris exclaimed, shaking the elfin's hand, "I'm glad you happened along. Tell me, what are these mounds scattered over this place? I just saw the dearest little furry creature sitting on top of one, but he chattered something about me being a girl, and disappeared before I had a chance to tell him I wouldn't harm him. What are they Squeedee?"

"Why, don't you know that this is a Prairie Dog village?" asked the elfin. He walked up the nearest mound and, rapping gently on the side, called softly, "Hello, there! Anyone at home?"

"This Is Prairie Dog Village"

"Well, is that you, Squeedee?" inquired a tiny voice and, quick as a wink, out popped a little Prairie Dog.

He looked more like a ground squirrel than he did like a dog. His little coat was reddish-brown, mixed with grey, while his feet were covered with the scattered black hairs. His ears were sharp and his tail was [illegible] flattened.

"I'm glad to [illegible] Doris," the little fellow [illegible] Squeedee had introduced [illegible] Doris. "When we hear our [illegible] call, as my neighbor did a few minutes ago, it sends a Prairie Dog Village [illegible] into a panic. My wife was rather excited. She didn't want me to come [illegible] see who it was. Ever been down into one of our houses? Then come on, Squeedee, use your magic and follow me."

Squeedee shook his magic whistle over Doris and hand in hand they followed Mr. Prairie Dog down into the hole in the top of his mound. At the end of a long, long tunnel through the ground they found Mama Prairie Dog sitting with her three little babies in a cozy little room. She was glad to see Doris and let her pet the youngsters.

She busied herself bringing out bits of corn, nuts, oats and vegetables until she found something Doris and Squeedee would eat, then they all sat down and had such a nice time, that Doris was sorry when she heard her Mama calling her. She bade her friends goodby and, promising to call again sometime, she hurried on home.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 22

Conflicting testimonies are to be found in this day's wheel of lunar transits. Although the strong place of Mars points to much activity and initiative, and the friendly position of Jupiter augurs well for successful issues, yet the luminaries are in malefic attitude and Saturn wields a baneful force. According to which employment may be in danger, and there are omens of setbacks and disappointments of various natures.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of conflicting interests. There may be some delays and disappointments and also some progress. But those in employment are warned to safeguard their positions. A child born on this day may be resourceful, enterprising and ambitious and should make its best success in business for itself.

Maroons Defeat New York 4-1 - Bruins Lose To Canadians In Overtime 6-5

RICKARD'S AMERICANS LOSE TO MAROONS 4-1, SECOND IN WEEK

Montreal Team Jolt New York After Their Train Wreck Experience—Strong Defense Backed Up Fast Forwards.

CROWD OF 10,000 WANTED VICTORY

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(Canadian Press).—A lightning fast forward line, an airtight defense, and an almost impregnable goal cage was presented by the Montreal Maroons to the New York Americans and 10,000 hockey fans at Madison Square Garden Saturday night and after sixty minutes of hockey that was for the most part brilliant, but occasionally sluggish, the Americans went down to their second home defeat in a week. The score was 4 to 1.

It was a vastly improved team that Manager Gorman sent in against the Maroons, and only the stiffest kind of defense around the Montreal citadel accounted for the seeming "lop-sided" score. "Tex" Rickard's boys played with a dash and fire that was not in evidence last Tuesday when they bowed to the Montreal Canadiens, and they showed no signs of weariness from their clash with the Pittsburgh Pirates, Friday night, nor their hazardous experience of being in a train wreck on their way back from the "Smoky City." The Maroon hockey machine was working in perfect unison, however, and the bombardment they led on Vernon Forbes in the American goal was impossible to weather.

The lone tally of the locals registered [illegible] Billy Burch in the middle period might have been added to [illegible] off-side plays. A scoring attempt propelled from the opening face-off and which ended with the puck resting in the Montreal net was "killed" through the referee ruling that Burch was offside when the disc was shot by "Red" Green. In the third period, when "Shorty" Green accepted a pass from Burch to net the puck again, the goal was disallowed because it was scored from a forward pass.

Everything considered the Maroon victory was a well deserved one. The combination plays of the forwards line, led by Stewart, were scintillating, which time after time, the strong defense turned back the mighty drives of the New Yorkers.

The game itself was well received by the newly initiated metropolitan crowd, and both the home and visiting players earned well-deserved cheers on their brilliant plays. The stick-handling of Stewart and Seibert, was specially bright and the youthful forwards players of the Maroons drew round upon round of applause.

COBOURG FANS ARE DISPLEASED

Grouping With Belleville and Trenton in O.H.A. is Not Satisfactory.

TOO EXPENSIVE

COBOURG, Dec. 21.—Cobourg Intermediate Hockey Club is not at all well pleased with its present grouping by the O.H.A. The group at present includes Belleville, Trenton, Port Hope and Cobourg. For the last two named clubs to go to Kingston will mean an expenditure around $150 and this hockey fans consider too much. Cobourg would like to return to last year's grouping, consisting of Cobourg, Port Hope, Bowmanville and Oshawa.

WINNIPEG GAME AT SOO ROUGH

16 PENALTIES

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Dec. 21.—(Canadian Press).—The Winnipeg Maroons made a clean sweep of a two-game series with Soo Greyhounds in the U.S.A.H.A., winning Saturday night's game 3-1 after sixty minutes of the most strenuous hockey seen on local ice. The ice was soft causing great deal of roughness and resulting in 16 penalties. Friday night Winnipeg defeated Soo 1-0 in the Soo's opening fixture.

Both aggregations showed vast improvement over Friday night's form. The game was nip and tuck all the way through with Maroons having advantage in breaks in luck. Art Somers opened up the Winnipeg scoring by slipping one past J. P. Walsh on a lone rush two minutes before the end of first period. Cliff O'Meara added another in the second on a pass from Somers and Cecil Browne who won Friday night's tussle for Winnipeg on a lone tally, scored the third in the last period. M. J. Phillips, Soo's outstanding centre man, scored for the home team in the third from a scrimmage when Charles Gardiner was lying on the ice in front of his net in an attempt to break up the attack.

BIG FOUR RUGBY LEAGUE FAVORS BROADER ZONE OF INTERFERENCE

Will Advocate Five-Yard Limit Beyond Line of Scrimmage.

J. J. DOLAN, PRES.

OTTAWA, Dec. 21 (Canadian Press).—The annual meeting of the Interprovincial Rugby Union was held in the Chateau Laurier here Saturday, with the following delegates in attendance: Toronto, Dr. Kinsella and J. J. Dolan; Montreal, Frank McGill and W. Caven; Hamilton, S. Dumoulin and G. W. Ballard; Ottawa, Dr. Andy Davies and Dr J. R. Hand.

Of premier importance was the decision that Dr. Kinsella of Toronto and Dave McCann of Ottawa, delegates to the Canadian Rugby Union rules committee, should advocate a change in the present playing rules regarding intereference. It is proposed to advocate the extension of the interference limit from three yards, as it is at present, to five yards beyond the line of scrimmage.

Would Increase Players.

A notice of motion was given that in future the teams should be permitted to dress 22 men and play 20, instead of the existing regulation which permits the dressing of 20 men and the playing of 18.

The question of having a head linesman act in each game was discussed. Under C.R.U. rules, a head linesman is now necessary, but the rule has not been followed closely. If this is insisted upon, it will entail quite an additional expense for each club in the league The matter was finally left over until the semi-annual meeting.

The system of a rotating schedule was adopted A tentative schedule has been drawn up and forwarded to the intercollegiate authorities for approval The Union does not wish to have their dates conflict with those of the collegians, and accordingly have submitted their list of dates for comment. The schedule as now constructed, has been built around the dates used by the intercollegiate Union since that body adopted the rotating schedule. If the rotating system comes into vogue in the interprovincial it will mean that, as is now the case in the intercollegiate, the schedule will be permanent with the rotation, providing the variance in the individual club's dates each year.

J J. Dolan, President.

The election of officers resulted in the following men being placed in office A secretary was not named. C. B. Snelling of Ottawa, has been secretary under the presidency of Tom Clancy of Ottawa during the past year, but the president names his own secretary and Mr. Dolan will, therefore, likely select a Toronto man as his aide President—J. J Dolan, Toronto: 1st Vice President, Frank McGill, Montreal; 2nd Vice President, S. W. Ballard, Hamilton; Executive, Dr. Kinsella, Toronto; Mr. Sep. Dumoulin, Hamilton; Wallace Caven, Montreal, and Dr. J. R. Hand, Ottawa.

After the conference the delegates and a number of other rugby enthusiasts were entertained to dinner at the Chateau by Mr Tom Clancy, the retiring president.

ESKIMOS WIN 9-4

Shake-Up of Edmonton Beat Vancouver.

EDMONTON, Alta., Dec. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Rolling up the largest score of the season the Edmonton Eskimos broke into the winning column of the Western Hockey League in impressive fashion on Saturday night, when they sent Vancouver down to a 9 to 4 defeat. The result indicated that the Eskimos will have to be reckoned with.

Manager McKenzie shook up his team for Saturday's game, putting Stanley on the defence with Shore, and moving Sheppard up on the forward line, the shake-up worked liked a charm, the Reats-Sheppard combination worked beautifully on the forward line and this pair of sharpshooters fairly rained pucks on the opposing citadel. Shore and Stanley teamed up nicely on the defence and the Maroons found it exceedingly hard to break through.

HOCKEY TEAM IN DERAILMENT

Players of New York Team Suffered Minor Injuries.

ONE MAN DEAD.

ALTOONA, Pa., Dec. 21.—(Canadian Press.) — Derailment of Train No. 32 on the Pennsylvania railroad, fast express between Pittsburgh and New York, west of here, Saturday, resulted in the death of one man and injury of nine others, four seriously. Ben E. Hess, 21, a student at the Carnegie Institute of Tecnology, Pittsburgh, died as a result of hsi injuries.

The locomotive and all eight cars of the train were derailed, two day coaches upsetting.

Railroad officials said they had no information as to the cause of the derailment.

The private sleeping car in which the New York Hockey Club left Pittsburgh to come to New York was the next to the last of the Pennsylvania train.

The thirteen members of the team had tales of a hectic night to tell before piling into bed at the Claridge Saturday afternoon, soon after their arrival at Pennsylvania Station. They played a prominent part in the rescue work in the hour and a half that elapsed after the wreck before the arrival of a relief train. A special train took them to Philadelphia, but from that city to New York they had to stand up.

"There was a crash, then a scraping sound as if we were ploughing through a forest," said Tom Gorman, manager of the club. "This was followed by another crash. The lights went out. The train was off the tracks and we were thudding along the ties. The car swayed this way and that, then heaved over onto its side. We might have been worse scared than we were if we had known it was just a few feet from a 100-foot embankment."

Gorman was thrown violently against the windows in his berth as the car careened before toppling. Then he found himself in the aisle with a bruised shoulder. Earl Campbell, substitute forward, was thrown from an upper berth to the floor. Most of the others in the party received wrenches and contusions by being thrown out of their berths. The other members of the team were Jimmie Smith, trainer; Red Green, forward; Shorty Green, substitute defense; Vernon Forbes, goal; Ken Randall, right defense; Eddie Bouchard, forward; Alec McKinnon, substitute forward; Charlie Langlois, left defense; Joe Simpson, utility defense, and Billie Burch, centre and captain.

The hockey players smashed windows to reach panic-stricken and injured passengers who were crying for help within the cars. Some of the players got blankets from their own car and distributed them to shivering figures in night attire. At on point they came upon a woman with a baby in her arms. The baby was sleeping soundly, Gorman said, and had done so throughout the confusion.

Later Gorman and Smith heard a strange conversation from the far side of the train. By aid of a flashlight they found two men with smoking clothing, their faces black with smoke. They were the engineer, Pyle, and the fireman, Paschall, of the wrecked train. Unable to see because of injured eyes, Gorman said they were wandering, hand in hand on the edge of the embankment, each imploring the other, "For God's sake don't leave me, don't leave me." They refused to relinquish each other's hands.

Randall, Forbes, Burch and "Shorty" Green received treatment for contusions and lacerations.

CANADIENS WIN OVERTIME FROM BOSTON BRUINS

Montreal Team Leg Weary From Four Games in Week.

TOOK EARLY LEAD

Boston Defense Left Opening for Morenz in Extra Period.

MONTREAL, Dec 21 (Canadian Press).—Worn out after a heavy week of four big games, Canadiens still had enough fight left to rally and take an overtime battle from the Boston Bruins Saturday night, 6 to 5 The victory sent the local team from near the cellar position up to fourth place in the league standing, being headed by Ottawa, Montreal and Pittsburgh.

Howie Morenz, flashy Canadian centre, clinched the exciting tussle for his team two minutes and fifty seconds after the extra period started Boston had finished with a great rally to force the overtime play and it looked dangerous for Canadiens. In the first two minutes of the extra period play was evenly divided, both goalies having some dangerous shots to handle, from Morenz on the one side and Herberts and Cooper on the other. Then came the break. Mitchell was banished from the Boston defence for tripping, and the Bruins were handicapped. Instead of playing cautiously until the penalized player returned to the ice, Boston kept forcing the pace Red Stuart broke up a Canadian rush and started for the Canadian net. He lost the puck to Morenz

Morenz Seized Chance.

The Canadian centre had earlier shown the effects of his heavy week's play and was about exhausted But he was still keen enough to sense an opening offered. No one had fallen back to fill Stuart's place on the defence Morenz got the puck and rallied his last bit of strength. Down the ice he tore on his final dash—outstripping the fast following Boston wings. It was nothing for him to round the long Boston defence man; bear right in on top of Doctor Stewart and swiftly drive the puck for the goal, which brought victory and ended successfully the Canadiens' heavy programme of four games in seven days.

The goal came only after a bitter struggle in which Boston showed surprising fighting qualities. Led by the spectacular and tricky Aurel Joliat, Canadiens went into the early lead, simply smothering about everything the Bruins offered in the way of attack, so that after about eight minutes of the second period the local team was leading by 4 to 1. Joliat had accounted for three of the goals, two on Jone rushes, which left the Boston defence dazed, and the other on a rebound from a shot by Billy Boucher. Geran had counted Boston's lone goal in the first period in a clever double passing bout with Carson Cooper

Three goals ahead half way through the game, Canadiens, jaded by their strenuous week of road games, started to fall before a sensational rally by the Boston players. Such dogged forwards as Herberts and Cooper were not to be counted out easily and, with terrific attacks, the Bruins gradually drew up. Hitchman, Herberts and Cooper counting the goals; the tying fourth goal for Boston being a beautiful drive from the defence by Cooper wihich simply whizzed into tht net past Rheaume.

Tied Up Game

With the score deadlocked at the start of the final period the two teams started in to speed up the game afresh and Boston had an edge in this final session, but could not outguess the Canadien defence and the sensational work of Herbie Rheaume in the local net Then along came Albert Leduc to provide what looked like the climax Three minutes before the end of the scheduled time, the substitute defence played blocked a rush at the Canadien defence and started for the other end. He went tearing in to Hitchman and Mitchell, the Boston outer guard at the moment. He cracked these two huskies asunder, slipped in between them and recovered the puck. Down he coasted on Doctor Stewart and as the Boston goalie fell to cover the net, Leduc lifted the puck over him to put the Canadiens up 5 to 4.

Only three minutes to go, the one-goal margin loomed large. The roar of delight from the crowd had not subsided 40 seconds later, but Sailor Herberts suddenly changed it to a gasp of astonishment as he tore to the defence and for the second time in the game sizzlied a terrific long shot behind Rheaume.

Then came the overtime period and Howie Morenz's act as a climax to the biggest scoring game of the National Hockey League season to date.

The manner in which the struggle swayed from side to side held the crowd of 4,000 in a state of tense excitement throughout. It was a spotty game of hockey, but there was a battle in evidence practically every minute.

Hitchman came in for attention from a spectator of the so-called weaker sex, who leaned over from a promenade seat and cracked him over the head as he drew up suddenly against the promenade boards after a body check. Hitchman did not know exactly what had happened, but when he got to his feet started gunning with his stick until he discovered who had hit him; then with true gallantry he smilingly retired to his position.

SOCCER SALES WORRY SCOTS

Fear End of Reign in Football—Bought By England.

DRAIN OF STARS.

LONDON, Dec. 21—The sale of professional soccer players is becoming a feature of Great Britain to the same extent as the sale of baseball players is in America. As high as $35,000 has reputed to have been paid for the transfer of a player to the Newcastle club, and Scotland is very much excited She sees a steady drain of her best men either to America or England and fears her national prestige in association football is seriously threatened.

Soccer never has been as popular in Scotland as in England, where it is the national game during the winter and where the annual contest for the Football Association Cup draws tens of thousands of spectators to see the final in the Wembley Stadium. Scotland fears she inevitably will be beaten in international matches if her best players are attracted by high salaries and big bonuses to the English clubs

The steady growth of professionalism in association football caused a curious debate at last week's conference of headmasters of the great English schools A large number of the best known schools have been giving up soccer for rugby with the result that soccer is played now only by such schools as Westminster, which has a traditional connection with the kicking game. Consequently each year it is harder to find amateurf soccer players fit to cope with professional and even the standard of such a famous amateur club as the Corinthians is steadily falling.

This is greatly regretted, as nobody wants to see a great popular sport completely professionalized, and so the headmasters adopted a resolution hoping that the big schools would be faithful enough to soccer to maintain a good nucleus of amateur players

TEACHING TOUR WAS HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL

Lady Taught Fisher Folk Use of Loom and Making of Dyes.

LONDON, Ont., December 21 — Canadian Press. — Mrs. H. H. Stansfield of Toronto, Ont., lecturing here before the Women's Canadian Club of the city, has done some interesting things in the mastery of her art. This "lady of the loom" taught weaving under the auspices of the Newfoundland outport nursing and industrial committee last summer and thereby linked Canada with the splendid work being done among the isolated residents of the Newfoundland coast.

The three months' teaching tour was accomplished at no small sacrifice, since Mrs. Stansfield is a very busy woman. At Pool's Cove, the scene of her labors, she secured the services of the fishermen in making six looms and during the ten weeks of her stay she taught four classes a day with four women to a class; each pupil received instruction for one week. As a result of her labor of love, some of the women have become proficient weavers of material, rugs, mats, curtains, jumpers, stockings, shawls, etc. Mrs. Stansfield has taught them the making of dyes from native plants. Occupation, communication with the outside world and a financial return are some of the results of that brief ministry of teaching.

Ten Years At School Never Absent Or Late

DUNCAN, B.C., Dec. 21—(Canadian Press).—Jack Stroulger, now a pupil at the Duncan High School, is being proclaimed the champion of Vancouver Island and possibly of the entire province of British Columbia when it comes to attending school regularly.

FIRST TIE GAME IN N. H. LEAGUE

St. Pats and Pirates Staged the First Draw of the Season.

PLAYED OVERTIME.

TORONTO, Dec. 21. (Canadian Press).—A large number of local professional hockey fans went to the Arena on Saturday night to see St. Patrick's win at the expense of Pittsburgh Pirates, while as many more, judging by the cheering, went to see the former United States amateur champions defeat the local entry in the National Hockey League, but both factions were disappointed as the game ended in a one-all tie, after twenty minutes' overtime play, the first no decision game of the Calder loop this season. There were two big reasons why the Irish did not win, lack of substitutes and the phenomenal playing of Roy Worters in the Pirates' goal.

DUNDEE DEFEAT RANGERS 2 TO 1

Feature of Scottish Soccer League—Snow Spoiled Games.

TWO POSTPONED

GLASGOW, Dec. 21—(Canadian Press Cable).—Heavy snow fell throughout most of Scotland on Saturday. As a result the Hibernian and Morton game had to be postponed, while the Cowbenbeath-Queen's Park match had to be abandoned ten minutes from the finish owing to darkness after a late start when the former were leading by two goals to one. The outstanding feature of the balance of the list of games was the nasty knock received by the Rangers at the hands of Dundee United, who came home the winners by two goals to one, Cunningham scored in the first half from a penalty for the Rangers but in the second the United team harassed the Rangers defence throughout and Campbell and Simpson scored. St. Mirren fell before Hamilton in a hard match, Moffat netting a brace and Williamson one for Hamilton and McCrae two for the Saints. Partick Thistle had a thrilling tussel with Raith Rovers, Grove scoring twice for the Thistle and Noyes for the Rovers from a penalty.

Motherwell scored three goals through McFayden getting a couple and Ferrier one against the Hearts, for whom Dand netted. Falkirk the followers of the game in Scotland by beating Kilmarnock, by three goals to two, Dougall scored 2 and Cox for the winers aond McCall and Weir for the losers. The Aberdeen forwards showed great improvement in the affair with Clydebank, their team coming out four to one victors. McDermid got two, Smith and McLachlan one each for Aberdeen, while Reid counted for Clydebank. Airdrieonians score the first goal in thier match with Celtic, but when the latter settled down they put on goals enough to win through. Thomson (two and McGrory (one). Airdrie registered through Somerville and McPail. The Celtic-Airdrie battle was the best match in the senior section of the day.

A scientist of Princeton University believes that recent discoveries in radio-activity have given us means of estimating the age of the earth. Uranium loses one-half of its radiating power in 5,000,000 years, and the presence of this element in the earth's crust would indicate that it is not less than 1,000,000,000 years old.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21.—(Canadian Press.) — In a signed statement issued, Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight pugilistic champion, has announced that his contract with Floyd Fitzsimmons, calling for a bout with Harry Wills next September, had been abrogated.

Dempsey said that the contract had called for payments to be made on November 1 of this year and when these were not made extensions had been granted to Fitzsimmons. On Nov. 27 notice was served upon the promoter that the contract was considered null and void.

CHELSEA LEAD SECOND GROUP

Cardiff's Defeat by Burnley Soccer Surprise Saturday.

ENGLISH LEAGUE

LONDON, Dec. 21.—(Canadian Press Cable).—There were comparatively few surprises in games in the English Soccer League on Saturday. Generally the home teams had things much their own way. There was, however, one big upset, Burnley's defeat of Cardiff by three goals to two after losing to Bury earlier in the week by eight goals to one.

The Arsenal, who were narrowly defeated at Birmingham by one goal to nil, still retain their position at the head of the first division of the English League on their goal average with a match in hand of their immediate challengers. The ding-dong struggle for promotion in the second division brought another change in the leadership, Chelsea going to the top again, even though they only drew with Portsmouth at Stamford Bridge in a scoreless match. Bradford's fine win over Wigan Borough on the latter's own grounds by three to one places them well ahead of all rivals in the Northern section of third divisino, while Plymouth's defeat of Gillingham by two goals to one give them a similar happy position in the Southern section of the same diivsion.

A curious incident is reported from Hull, where the City team defeated Wolverhampton Wanderers by three goals to one. The city netted the ball six times for their three tallies, three shots being made for one penalty and two shots and one proper goal for a second penalty.

Rough play marked the Huddersfield-Notis County fixture, in which the former won by two goals to nil. The referee had to intervene several times. At Ashington, where the home team tied with Chesterfield in a scoreless affair, much fun was caused by the ball continually sticking in the snow.

STRONG TEAMS IN CITY LEAGUE

Managers in Both Series Are Rounding Up Classy Aggregations.

INTERMEDIATE TEAM

The City Hockey League is looking better every day. All four teams in the Senior series will be strong and the Junior series will bring out a large number of youngsters whose work is sure to please the fans.

Raybestos supporters are rounding out a team that will take a lot of beating. They claim to have Legros, who has done fine work in the nets for local Intermediate O.H.A. teams. Edie Williams and Jack Thornton are two other likely starters. And Jimmie McMartin, who will manage the Brinton Carpet Co. team, has also corralled some of the good ones. Down at the De Laval, where the team has been presented with new uniforms, there is great enthusiasm, in spite of the fact that two of the players who were expected to be of great strength to the squad are under doctor's care and will not be able to start the race.

Crescents will be one of the teams to beat for the championship. The south-end crowd always put out a strong team in their various athletic activities.

As the Intermediate O.H.A. entry has been given a bye, the City League should have a large field of players available for an Intermediate team to take to the ice in [illegible] when the first workout was February.

Ladies' Mercantile.

In the Ladies' League the Insurance Ladies, who finished close to the bottom last season, are causing the other teams some anxiety with a string of 15 wins without a loss. There are no outstanding bowlers on the Insurance team, but each member is a steady, consistent scorer, and the determination of the team as a whole, to win, is carrying them along in great style.

Undefeated In 124 Battles Boxer of 17 Dazzles London

LONDON, Dec. 21.— Teddy Baddock, a stripling of seventeen, has taken the boxing world by storm. Since he left school three years ago he has been in 124 battles and never has met with defeat. Often he fought twice daily in the East End, where he is regarded a hero. The experts are hopeful that the will prove to be a second Jimmy Wilde and retrieve some of Great Britain's lost pugilistic fame. The lad comes of fighting stock. His grandfather fought in the bare knuckle days of the squared circle, and his father also was a fighter. Baldock's latest victory was on Thursday night in Albert Hall, when he defeated a Frenchman, Antoine Merlo, in a brilliant exhibition.

The death occurred at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. E. H. Hickey, 360 Simcoe Street, at half-past two o'clock on Sunday morning, of Mrs. Bridget McManus, widow of the late James McManus, of Smith Township, in her 80th year.

The late Mrs. McManus was born in Haldimand Township, but had lived for the most part of her long life in the Township of Smith, where she and her husband were among the pioneer settlers. She was well and favorably known in the community in which she lived, her kindly character and generous nature making her one of the real old-time type of neighbor who never hesitated at personal effort or sacrifice when help or assistance was required.

J. English, of Toronto; Mrs. E. H. Hickey, of Peterboro, and Miss Mary McManus of Detroit, Michigan.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday morning, from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Hickey, 360 Simcoe Street, to St. Peter's Cathedral, where Mass will be said at nine o'clock, thence to St. Peter's Cemetery for interment.

COLLEEN MOORE IS ORIGINAL "MODERN"

Will Demonstrate New Term for Girls in Next Film, "We Moderns."

Now that the "modern" has replaced the "flapper"—or is rapidly doing so—as a term more befitting the young generation of girlhood, we are to meet the new young creature face to face.

In fact, we are to meet her original and reveice our first lesson on the difference between a "modern" and a "flapper." The introduction comes with the appearance of Colleen Moore in her new picture, "We Moderns," at the Capitol Theatre today.

When the Camp Fire Girls launched their anti-flapper crusade recently, with "modern" as a more dignified and serious substitute, their national president, Mrs. Oliver Harriman, New York society and civic leader, telegrapher a request to Miss Moore to lead it. Colleen, Mrs. Harriman maintained, was most typical of the "modern" meaning—ambitious, hard working and getting ahead.

And Colleen responded by jumping into the campaign with both feet, so to speak. Her first jump was to produce "We Moderns" and demonstrate the difference between a "flapper" and a "modern."

The picture is said to be one of Colleen's best. It was produced by John McCormick for First National.

AT THE REGENT

NOTED DIRECTOR FILMS STORY OF MARITAL REBELS

Hobart Henley Makes Photoplay Version of "Exchange of Wives"—Based on Broadway Hit—Eleanor Boardman, Lew Cody, Creighton Hale and Renee Adoree in New Movie.

Hobart Henley's fifth production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, "Exchange of Wives," is coming to-day to the Regent Theatre.

Henley will be remembered for his production of "So This Is Marriage," one of last year's greatest successes. "Exchange of Wives" has in its cast two members of the former success, Eleanor Boardman and Lew Cody as Mrs. and Mrs. Rathburn. The two have turned their talents from drama to comedy in this picture, however, and according to advance reports are even more successful.

The story concerns the domestic difficulties of the Rathburns and the Morans, neighboring couples. Each couple has been married long enough for the novelty to wear off, and both the men lose sight of the desirable qualities of their own wives in their admiration of the other's. This leads to the trial "exchange of wives," and the complications resulting bring about some of the most brilliant comedy of the year.

CHRISTMAS TREAT.

Knights of Columbus Plan To Entertain Children of Orphanage.

The arrival of Santa Claus at the I.O.O.F. Temple Saturday was a big event in the lives of some 325 kiddies, who had waited anxiously all day for his coming, and from one o'clock until three a steady stream of small humanity climbed the stairs to be in readiness to receive him.

Together with their attendants between six and seven hundred filled the spacious hall, the seats being all filled and the remainder being seated on the carpet to witness the movie pictures thrown on the screen by F. G. McNeeley, and his able assistants, Messrs. Keith Copping and Alex. Rogow.

The views shown were very suitable for the occasion, comics that were received with roars of approval, interspersed with views portraying the birthplace of the Saviour in the stable, with its attendant scenes.

Past Grand Master Rev. Walter Cox of Lakefield, who together with Mrs. Cox, was present for the occasion, made a most acceptable and efficient chairman, and proved his worth by the capable manner in which he handled the youngsters during the meeting; and led them in singing during intervals in the programme, and also announced the arrival of Santa Claus, by aeroplane at several towns on his way to Peterboro, where, according to a wireless message he had forwarded he intended distributing stockings to every girl and boy in the hall, and this message carried the house by storm.

After the views and singing all hands were lined up and were led to the dining hall, where tables were spread for all, and with the Daughters of Rebekah in charge, a raid was made on the good things provided and to which all hands did ample justice.

The feast had barely concluded when the arrival of Santa was announced. A rush was made to the Triple Link Club reading room where a huge Christmas tree was located, which was handsomely decorated, and covered with colored lights.

Here Santa Claus was in evidence, and he gave one and all a hearty welcome, and immediately began distributing stockings well filled with apples, oranges, candies and nuts, and continued until he was satisfied none had been overlooked.

This finished the business and all proceeded to their several homes happy and contented, vowing that they would be on hand next year to welcome good old Santa Claus.

This entertainment provided for the children of all Oddfellows living in the city was arranged by the two lodges, both Encampments, Golden Link Lodge No. 81, Daughters of Rebekah, and the Triple Link Club.

The splendid Christmas decorations in the Triple Link Club and dining room, received the highest praise from all present.

The entertainment provided by the Y.M.C.A. boys was greatly appreciated by all present during the afternoon.

Golden Link Lodge members excelled in the splendid meal provided and the prompt service given. The long hours they spent in making this day such a signal success is credited to them by all the others, who lent their services to the same end.

The presence and assistance as accompanist to the singing by Bro. Martin B. Chenhall, was greatly appreciated.

Bro. J. H. Price deserves special mention in the role of Santa Claus.

The splendid lighting effects on the Christmas tree, and on the dining tables, is credited to Bro. C. C. Mowry.

District Deputy Grand Master F. Merritt, representing District 1: 44, was among those present at the Temple.

HEAR RESERVATIONS IN COURT DISCUSSION

Senators Say That World Court Is Independent of League of Nations.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (Canadian Press)—The world court drew both offensive and defensive action in the Senate yesterday with opponents laying down their first barrage of reservations.

Taking up the gauge of battle thrown down by Senators Swanson (Democrat), Virginia, and Lenroot (Republican), Wisconsin, Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee, vigorously, disputed their contentions that the court was independent of the league of nations, and offered reservations which he held to be necessary to safeguard United States interests.

INSURANCE STAFF WAS ENTERTAINED

Metropolitan Co. Held Banquet For Agents and Office Staff.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company entertained its local and district staff at a very enjoyable banquet at the Empress Hotel on Saturday evening, when about thirty five people, including wives of several of the agents, were present. Mr. Spencer Gale, manager for this district, acted as chairman, and gave a genial, friendly atmosphere to the gathering which permeated the entire evening's entertainment, cut short at rather an early hour by the necessity of many of the out-of-town guests catching their several trains. Excellent music was provided during the banquet by Charles Sedgewick's four-piece orchestra, and there was a good deal of jolly singing from the song sheets.

Among those present from out-of-town were F. Roberts, A. J. Brennan, A. J. Wood, W. J. Callahan, J. Hartnett, H. T. Morton and Miss L. Wilson, of Lindsay; S. Marchen of Uxbridge and C. H. Calvert of Campbellford. After a brief opening address by the chairman, Mr. O. Kellar of the local staff read a humorous, poetical list that included very clearly all the members of the local staff who were present: Messrs. S. Gale, whose name was received with three cheers from the assemblage, N. Tobin, W. E. O'Brien, C. R. Banks, J. Hayes, A. McLaren, J. Rogers, A. Tiffin, Miss L. Simons, the company's nurse, Miss Helen Chambers and Miss Nellie Francis, two of the clerical staff of the local office. Mr. Kellar also read a "take off" on a few of the district members, which was thoroughly enjoyed. Present at the head table were three of the company's physicians, Dr. W. D. Scott, Dr. G. Ray Scott and Dr. J. M. O'Brien.

Mr. Gale rose to speak in very complimentary terms of two of the company's staff who were honored at the banquet on Saturday evening: Mr. Neil Tobin, the assistant manager, whom he commended for his "wonderful work," and who on Saturday attained the twentieth anniversary of his inclusion on the company's staff. Mr. Tobin became eligible on this date for admission to the Veterans' Association of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and Mr. Gale read a letter from C. Stansfield, secretary-treasurer of the Veterans' Association, congratulating Mr. Tobin on becoming an associate member and enclosing an emblem for his coat lapel. A presentation to Mr. Tobin of a tie pin from the Peterboro and Lindsay staff was also made by Mr. Gale, who had with him two of the twenty-year policies written by Mr. Tobin on the first day of his employment by the company, and maturing for their holders on Saturday last.

To A. J. Brennan, of Lindsay, was also presented an emblem signalizing his admission to the ranks of the company's personnel as "agent unattached," a position which carries certain special privileges with it, and a letter from the superintendent of agencies, H. F. North, congratulating him on his excellent work.

Both presentations were suitably acknowledged by the recipients.

The musical programme presented during the evening included two songs, "Until" and "Lilac Time (Perspiracity)," sung very prettily by Miss Ernestine McManus, with accompaniment by Miss Florence Giroux; a vocal quartette, "Carry Me Back to Ole Virginny," by Messrs. Roberts, Brennan, Wood and Callahan, all of Lindsay; a step dance and humorous story by F. Roberts, and two readings, given with splendid dramatic feeling and expression by Miss Lillian Simons, who recited "Lasca" in a manner that brought much applause and gave as a second number, "Seein' Things at Night." H. T. Mofton of Lindsay also contributed a recitation to the programme.

The toast to "The Ladies" was proposed by Mr. Tobin and seconded by Mr. A. J. Wood of Lindsay.

Y.W.C.A. CHILDREN CHRISTMAS PARTY

Big Christmas Tree Was Feature of Jolly Affair on Saturday.

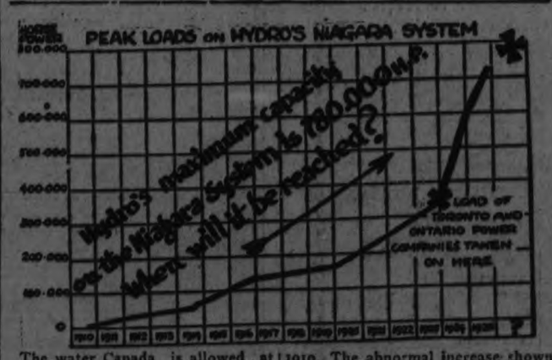
One of the jolliest of the many jolly parties held at the Young Women's Christian Association throughout the year was given on Saturday in the big gymnasium when upwards of three hundred children were present for a hilarious morning of frolic and merriment. The enormous Christmas tree, which reached to the high roof, decorated with gay red streamers and bells and silver tinsel, was loaded with gifts for every child, and Santa Claus, assisted by Miss C. Littlefield, with helpers in Mrs. R. M. Waddell, Mrs. H. Wightman and Miss M. Jory, had very busy time distributing a present to each member of the party. Mrs. T. Cruickshanks, president of the Y.W.C.A., and Mrs E. E. Harvey, convenor of the Physical Comittee, were also present for the occasion. Ladies who looked after refreshments were Mrs. H. Beal, Mrs. R. E. Carmen, Mrs. J. Mackintosh, Miss C K. Large and Miss Madge Lawrence

Senior members of the "Y" contributed gifts for the visitors, the Saturday Clubs and the orphans. Children from the Shelter were the guests of the Association on Saturday morning, but children from St. Vincent's orphanage, also invited to the party, were unable to be present. The "Y" Juniors contributed gifts for their own classes, and the Ladies' Class and Mr. G. A. Gilespie, gave the ice cream.

The singing of carols which formed a pretty portion of the entertainment, was led by Three Wise Men. A play, "The Christmas Conspiracy," had the following cast: Santa Claus (Patricia McClelland), Mother Goose (Irene Foster), Jock (Helen Cole), Jill (May Cooney), Jack Horner (Olive Elcombe), Mary Contrary (Lillian McClelland), Boy Blue (Rhoda Cullen), Miss Muffet (Sadie Levine), Red Riding Hood (Ethel Cooney), Bo-peep (Betty Hopwood), Simple Simon (Irene Killingbeck).

IN POLICE COURT

A local man appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning, charged with driving past a standing street car, to the danger of passengers. He pleaded guilty, and the Magistrate imposed the minimum fine of $10.00 and costs. He declared that the carelessness shown by the accused was the more regrettable as he was a licensed chauffeur and should know better.



The water Canada is allowed at Niagara Falls under the treaty with the United States will develop a maximum of 780,000 h.p. under the most favorable conditions. The peak load on the Hydro's Niagara system already reaches 720,000 horsepower for short periods. The normal increase in the power demand may be put at between 60,000 and 75,000 h.p. The diagram shows, roughly, how the peak load on the Niagara system has developed since 1910. The abnormal increase shown at the end of 1923, is due to the loads of the Ontario Power and Toronto Power Companies, which were purchased, being included in that year. Present indications are that the Hydro will be able to supply the demand next winter, but will have insufficient power for the winter of 1927. The Hydro commission is now looking about for sources of power that can be made available within two years.

Last night in the main lobby of the Y.M.C.A. the moving picture, "From the Manger to the Cross," was shown to an appreciative audience. This same picture was shown in the Boys' Division on Saturday evening and in St. Andrew's Sunday school yesterday afternoon.

To-night the boys are having a full programme of cartoon comedies in the Boys' Division, starting at 7.15, to which they are to bring their mite boxes or mite box tickets.

The firemen received two calls yesterday, the first at 12.50 p.m. to 561 Patterson Street, and the second at 7.55 p.m. to 33 Jackson Avenue. Both were chimney fires, and no damage resulted in either case.

The total number of names on the list at the Local Government Bureau is 173. For the week ending December 19 there were 24 applicants and 26 placements.

BRITISH COMMONS SIGNIFIES APPROVAL OF MOSUL POLICY BY ALMOST UNANIMOUS VOTE OF 239 TO 4; BALDWIN URGES NATIONAL UNITY AGAINST TURKS

Laborites Withdrew From House After Obstructionist Effort—Premier to Negotiate With Turks Over Disputed Territory.

GREAT BRITAIN MORALLY OBLIGED TO ACCEPT LEAGUE OF NATIONS' AWARD

Irak Under British Mandate for Years Until Able to Stand Alone as Separate Nation in the League.

LONDON, Dec. 22 (Canadian Press) — The House of Commons last night approved the Government's Mosul policy, "in principle," with only four adverse votes. The Prime Minister's motion asking for such approval was adopted 239 to 4.

The Laborites, however, withdrew from the House after employing obstructionist tactics and obliging the Government to disarrange its business and delay prorogation by another day.

In the course of his speech, the Prime Minister made the important announcement that he would meet the Turkish ambassador today to begin negotiations covering the entire question of Mosul. Great Britain, he declared, was anixous for Irak to live in neighborly amity with Turkey, and in pursuance of this policy he would discuss with the Turkish ambassador an agreement regarding the disputed territory.

Need Unity Nation.

"For this we need the support of a united country", said the Premier, "and I would appeal to those who have criticized our policy so vehemently to consider whether the prospect of a peaceful settlement will be improved or damaged by agitation which consistently misrepresents the policy we have followed and which is calculated to create doubt abroad both as to our resolution to honor our obligations and as to the sincerity of our desire for peace."

The Laborites threatened to keep the House sitting through the night, to prevent discussion of the Mosul motion, and were in process of making good their threat when the Government resorted to counter tactics, postponing the scheduled business until today It was then that the Labor party left the House as a protest.

Mr. Baldwin promised that the British taxpayer should be relieved of burdens on account of Irak at the earliest possible date. This took the edge off the criticisms, and when division was called only four members entered the lobby against the Government. Most of the Liberal abstained from voting, and the outcome of the diivsion caused Ministerial laughter.

Must Accept League's Award

Mr. Baldwin, in defending his motion, argued that the Government was only continuing the action taken by previous Governments, including the Labor administration of Ramsay MacDonald, which last September submitted an Irak treaty to the League, and he asked what would the world think of British professions of zeal for the League as an instrument of peace if Britain rejected the League's award.

The Premier did not wish to commit the House to the actual terms of the projected treaty with Irak, but only to the principle involved. He then read a statement of the British policy which guided the British representative at Geneva. It

PARIS, Dec. 22 — (United Press).—The Briand Cabinet to-day authorized the Minister of Justice to present to the Chamber of Deputies a bill tightening restrictions on the carrying of arms and permitting dissolution or organizations where members carry arms.

The measure is aimed at Fascist and Communist organizations which might produce trouble.

NO PAROLE FOR EX-TREASURER

Hon. Peter Smith Has Large Fine to Pay, Says Nickle.

CANNOT AGREE.

TORONTO, Dec. 22 (Canadian Press).—Until such time as Hon. W. F. Nickle is in receipt of the fine levied by the courts at the time of his trial and conviction, the Ontario Government will not agree to the parole of Peter Smith, now being urged by Hon. W. E. Raney, his former colleague in the Drury Cabinet. Mr. Nickle will make this quite clear in a letter to Dept. of Justice, in reply to a letter from the Dominion authorities asking for the view of the Ontario Government in connection with Smith's release.

"The feeling of the Ontario Government is that as substantial sums were improperly diverted from the public treasury, the Government believes a sincere effort should be made to reimburse the province before further applications for clemency are entertained," stated Mr. Nickle.

"That means until you get the fine you will not agree to Smith's parole" Mr. Nickle was asked.

"I would not like to put it quite as bluntly as that," was the reply.

Indians Chose Rapid Travel Government Won't Pay Bill

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(United Press). — The United States Government has frowned upon the too rapid modernization of its Indian wards.

Two young Indians recently wanted to return from Kansas City, Mo., to the Osage Indian Reservation of Pawsuska, Okla. The trip by train would have cost them a total of $16.04, but they declined to use such an ancient mode of travel. One made the trip in a commercial airplane and the other took a taxi cab.

When the cab and airplane company presented their bills, amounting to $264, the superintendent of the Osage Agency refused to pay on the ground that the companies should first have obtained the consent of the Indians' guardians for the use of the novel methods of travel.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs Burke has upheld the superintendent's decision.

CHURCHILL SAYS LABOR GROUP IS UNFIT TO GOVERN

Chancellor of Exchequer Addressed Ladies' Imperial Club in London.

NOT CONDUCT BURDEN.

Still Had Devastating Principles and Absurd Organizations of Four Years Ago.

LONDON, Dec. 22 (Canadian Press).—Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, addressing the Ladies' Imperial Club here today, reiterated his well remembered declaration that a Labor party was unfit to govern a country.

Exhorting the ladies not to forget the great world responsibilities resting on the Conservative party at the present time, Mr. Churchill declared that if the Labor party were returned to office it would mean that the whole power and majesty of the complicated interests of a mighty empire would be dependent upon instruments and organizations which, apart from their devastating principles and absurd organizations, were still, as he said five years ago, quite unfit to conduct the whole burden of affairs of State.

MORE RELIEF FOR FARMERS WANTED

U. S. Co-operative Marketing Bill "a Sugar Pill."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(By Canadian Press)—Demand for more extensive farm relief legislation than proposed by the administration was voiced in the House Monday coincident with introduction of Secretary Jardine's co-operative marketing measure.

This bill, the only farm measure bearing the endorsement of President Coolidge, was introduced in the Senate by Senator McNary, Republican, Oregon, and in the House by Chairman Haugen of the agriculture committee.

Senator McNary, however, also reintroduced the McNary-Haugen export corporation bill, frowned upon last session by the President, and Representative Dickinson, Republican, Iowa, declared in the House that farmers demanded some legislation aimed to regulate the sale of surplus crops.

The co-operative bill, said the Iowa member, "is a sugar pill that may soothe for the moment and will do no harm, and may do some good."

Utilities Commission Replies to Mr. Hall In Following Statement

December 22nd, 1925.

Editor of The Examiner:

Sir.—Mr. R. R. Hall renews in your paper of Saturday his attack regarding the electric power used by the Campbell Flour Mills Company, and thinks that the Commissioners were asleep. If there was anything wrong in the charges made to the Campbell Flour Mills Company in 1919-1921 there must have been others besides the present Commissioners asleep, for part of that time Mr. T. F. Matthews was Chairman of the Commission, and the late W. H. Moore and Messrs. C. E. Sisson and G. H. Duncan, members of the Commission—men who did not usually sleep on their job.

It is noticeable that Mr. Hall does not, as indeed he cannot, dispute the statements made by us of the records of the meter which showed the quantity of power used, or the means taken to assure the accuracy of the records, as again given in your paper of December 12th. No reasonable person would enter upon an expensive lawsuit with these facts before him. The Solicitor for the Commission, Mr. E. H. D. Hall, and Mr. Christopher Robinson, K.C., of Toronto, who were consulted, have viewed the evidence and records, including the affidavits, and advise that there is no ground on which to base a claim, thus confirming our own opinion.

Mr. Hall asks what we would do if we had a set of scales which did not weigh correctly. In that case we would call in the Government Inspector and have the scales tested, and that is just what we did with this meter, when it's accuracy was questioned; we called in the Government Inspector and had it tested.

Mr. Hall, apparently recognizing the weakness of his attack on the Campbell Flour Mills matter, branches out on other lines, and shoots wide of the mark of those lines, too.

He sneers at this Commission as being subservient to the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario. Mr. Hall, as a lawyer, must know that any rates charged by this Commission for electricity must, according to the law of Ontario, be approved by the Ontario Commission. No matter who occupied the position of members of this Commission, they would have to obey that law.

Mr. Hall also refers to the street lights. This Commission did not inaugurate that system. It was in operation when the electric system was taken over by the City.. This Commission has been and is quite satisfied to instal any street lighting system the Council desires. The Council knows this. In a section of the northern part of the City, the lighting has been changed; and the Commission recently received authority from the Council to change the lighting in the East Ward. The reason the whole system has not been changed sooner is because neither the Commission nor the Council wished to expend money faster in making the change than circumstances would permit. The distributing system had to be rebuilt in order to change the street lighting system in the way desired, and to rush into the necessary expenditure would have increased the rates. The Council, as well as the Commission believed that to proceed cautiously was the better way in the interest of the people, and we believe that, when the changes are completed, the people will be satisfied.

Mr. Hall further refers to undeveloped powers north of the City. Whether these powers could or should be developed is not a matter for this Commission. The City Council is the body that must consider that matter, for the people. This Commission has no authority to develop power, or to expend any money for that purpose, even if they had the funds. In attacking the Commission about the development of power, Mr. Hall is barking up the wrong tree.

KING PROROGUES PARLIAMENT FOR THE CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS

Refers in Speech From the Throne to Death of Mother.

FOREIGN RELATIONS.

Visit of Prince to South, and Locarno Treaty Were Recalled.

LONDON, Dec. 22 (Canadian Press).—Parliament was prorogued over the holidays to-day with the Speech from the Throne.

"The grievous loss which I and my family sustained by the death of my beloved mother is first in my thoughts," the King wrote. "It has been a solace to me in my grief to have received from all condition and classes in all parts of my Dominions and from all foreign countries touching assurances of their deep sympathy in my sorrow and expressions of their affectionate regard for one who was enthroned in the love of my people.

"I was happy to welcome home my son, the Prince of Wales, on his recent return from his visit to South Africa, West Africa and South America. I have been deeply touched by the account he gave to me of the warm welcome everywhere accorded him, and I am proud to think that his visit served to deepen the affection which has united my people and to strengthen the bonds which link this country with the peoples of South Africa.

"My relations with foreign Powers continue to be friendly. It was a source of great satisfaction to me to welcome in London distinguished plenipotentiaries of Germany, Belgium, France, Italy, Poland and Czecho-Slovakia, who on December 1 signed the diplomatic instruments initialed at Locarno October 16.

"It is my belief and earnest hope that these instruments by giving surety to the peoples immediately concerned, will prove to be not only the foundation of true peace between them but the beginning of friendly co-operation which cannot fail to benefit the whole world."

After expressing gratitude to all throughout the Empire who co-operated in the great Wembley Exhibition, the speech continues:

"Further preferences on goods imported into this country from other parts of the Empire have been accorded by legislation and other measures for the development of Empire trade are receiving the close consideration of my Government.

"An Act has been passed to give effect to certain provisions contained in the treaty of commerce and navigation with Germany and ratifications of that treaty have since been exchanged."

The remainder of the Speech deals with domestic affairs.

ALD CROWE PASSES FROM COUNCIL TO ACCEPT POSITION AS OPERATOR OF CITY SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT

His Aldermanic Service Terminated With Appointment Last Night.

SPECIAL MEETING

$51,620 Debentures for Utilities Commission Authorized in Bylaw.

Technicalities were abundant at a special meeting of the City Council held last night. They started when the by-law for which the meeting had been called came up. This was to authorize the issue of debentures for $58,000 to finance extensions and alterations in the Peterborough Utilities Commission's distribution system. Three of the aldermen, Messrs. Meyers, McIntyre, and Greene, were absent, so that the necessary three quarters vote could not be obtained.

While Alderman Greene was being sent to provide the quota, it was suggested that the next by-law, that of appointing a caretaker or operator for the sewage disposal plant, be dealt with, and the name of Alderman Joseph Crowe was mentioned for the commitee. A hold-up occurred here, as it was recalled that Alderman Crowe would cease to be a member of the council as soon as he was appointed, and that the money by-law would be stalled again even with Aldermen Greene present, for lack of the three-fourths vote.

With Alderman Greene present the money by-law was proceeded with, and it was then discovered that the Hydro letter of approval mentioned the sum of $51,620, the amount needed for one of the two projects to be financed, instead of the $58,000 needed for both of them. Without the consent of the Hydro Commission the full amount could not be authorized so the by-law was changed to call for the sum mentioned by the Hydro, and the remainder will be authorized by another by-law.

Ald. Crowe's Farewell.

Alderman Joseph Crowe ceased, with last night's meeting, to be a member of the City Council, as his appointment as operator of the sewage disposal plant at a salary of $125.00 a month, was passed. After the appointment Mr. Crowe thanked his colleagues for the appointment and told of the interest he had taken in the plant since it had first been mentioned. He said that he had been in the council in 1905, when the subject had first come up, and recalled the difference of opinion between the city engineer and the provincial engineers on the type of plant to be installed. He said that he had studied the workings of the system at other places and felt qualified to work with the city engineer in managing the plant. He invited the aldermen and officials to be his guests at a supper after the meeting, where more speeches were made, reminiscent of comradeship in the council during his eight years of service.

Change In Train Service.

The Canadian Pacific Railway advised the council that on January 4 there would be a change in the service on the Port McNichol branch of the system. Under the new plan a mixed train will leave Havelock every morning at 7.30, passing through Peterborough at 9.00 and ariving at Port McNichol at 5.00 o'clock. The companion train will leave Port McNichol at 9.00, pass through Peterborough at about 6.00 p.m., and arrive at Havelock at 7.15. This service will replace the present daily passenger train and the tri-weekly freight service for the winter months. The separate trains will be restored when the schedule is changed again in May.

Rink At Inverlea Park.

A letter was read from the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association protesting against the reported decision not to have a rink in Inverlea Park. Alderman Turner, chairman of the Parks committee, said that there had been no intention of discontinuing this rink, and that arrangements had already been made to provide better lighting.

A grant of $115.00 was made to the Trent Waterways Development Association to help finance the annual exhibit at the Motor Boat Show in New York in January.

A request for permission to install a gasoline tank and pump on Armour road was granted on the usual terms.

Owing to the resignation of one of the Deputy Returning Officers appointed for the municipal elections, Matt Clancy, who has served a number of years as a poll clerk, was promoted, and Frank Millard was appointed to act as poll clerk.

A gentleman named Rickey waited on the Council to ask why he had been told that he would get a job as caretaker at one of the rinks and had then been informed some days later that another man had been appointed instead. The reason for the change was explained by Alderman Turner. Mr. Rickey caused some amusement when he told Alderman Fife who asked if it were true that he had accused him (Ald. Fife) of being the cause of his losing the job, that he hadn't anything against the Alderman but that he wouldn't vote for him if he came out for election to the mayoralty.

DOURO GIRL WON FIRST PRIZE IN ESSAY CONTEST

LOCAL WINNERS.

George Mattice Was First in City Schools, and Second For Grand Prize.

Anna B. McMurray, a pupil of S.S. No. 5, Douro, is the winner of the grand prize of $25.00 for the best essay submitted in the contest held by the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce on the subject: "Why Peterborough is Eastern Ontario's most important industrial and shopping centre." She scored 88 per cent. The other prizes for the whole district were all won by Peterborough city students, George Mattice of the Prince of Wales school standing first in the city, and second for the grand prize, with 84 per cent; Dorothy Swanger of the King Edward School, taking second in the city contest, and third in the larger contest, with 82 per cent.; and Josephine McCague, of the Immaculate Conception, with 80 per cent., taking third and fourth in the two contests.

The teacher of the successful scholar is Miss Frances Fitzgerald, R. R. 2. Indian River, who receives the special award of $25.00 provided for the teacher of the prize winner.

In his letter announcing the names of the winners the Judge, John Jeffries, B.A., principal of th Jarvis Collegiate Institute, Toronto, says:

"I might add that I read the essays with a great deal of pleasure. Most of them reflect much credit on both the pupils who wrote them, and the teachers who instructed the writers. I hope the unsuccessful will not feel disheartened. The very effort they made brought its own reward. And in most cases at least the effort was not one to be ashamed of."

The prizes will be presented by His Worship Mayor Turner in the Council room of the Chamber of Commerce at 2.30 p.m. on Wednesday December 23rd.

LONDON OFFERS BUS FRANCHISE TO ANY COMPANY

Ontario City Wrestling With Problem of Adequate Transportation.

COUNCIL'S EFFORT.

Will Consider Both Bus and Street Railway Prospects.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 22.—(By Canadian Press). — The London Street Railway Company, G. A. Kamm of the Metropolitan Bus Lines, the International Bus Company of Toronto, and any other company that will consider the situation will be asked by the City Council to submit propositions at once for providing London with adequate transportation.

This was the decision of the new City Council which met in committee of the whole Monday to discuss transportation in general. The question was taken up from every possible angle and after nearly one an one-half hours had been given to the subject, it was unanimously agreed that it would be well to consider both bus and street railway propositions. If the proposals are received in time a special meeting of the council will be held next Monday night to give further consideration to the problem.

Need Transportation.

A deputation from Baling under the leadership of J. R. Vincent was heard. The deputation assured the council that the people of Baliug would give the mayor and aldermen every possible co-operation. But they wanted better transportation facilities. Many residents of this district were in favor of the busses because they were improving the transportation. It was further suggested that the street railway company be asked to improve its service on Hamilton Road by double tracking the line and by speeding up the service. The deputation also declared that they wanted a service in accord with the price they were paying for it.

In the meantime the several members of the council are availing themselves of every opportunity to obtain as much information as possible with reference to urban transportation in general.

MARMORA CAPTAIN.

Clifford Jones Will Lead Village Team.

MARMORA, Dec. 22—Mr. Clifford Jones is to be the captain of the Marmora hockey team for the ensuing season. Certificates have been received from the Hastings County League Secretary and are being filled in without much delay. Players signed on so far include R. Reynolds, V. Jack, A. G. Berry, J. Quinn, M. Auger and G. McWilliams.

STORES OPEN SATURDAY

Following a rumor that the stores would be closed on Saturday following Christmas Day, a number of merchants were seen, and the following signified their intention to remain open as usual: Cressman's, Fair's, Neill's, Turnbulls, Merrell and Meredith, Woolworth's, Grafton's, and Dickson's. The probability is that these represent the general feeling on George Street.

Here's Wishing Ye An Olde Tyme Merry Christmas

TO OUR MANY patrons and citizens generally the Joplings take this opportunity of extending heartiest wishes for the gladdest Christmas ever; also that New Year may for them be one of health, happiness and prosperity. Coupled with these Season's Greetings we ask acceptance of our warmest thanks for an ever-growing patronage at our two stores, where quality, fair prices and four-square dealings have and always shall prevail.

WITH CHRISTMAS but two days hence we invite attention to our extensive preparations for catering to public demand for meats and poultry full of real Christmasy goodness—Yuletide delights for the festival board which are nothing if not the best in the land. While the display windows of our two stores will irresistibly attract and hold the interest of passers-by they only convey a hint of store interiors laden with the makings of Christmas Cheer, tempting to the most discriminating tastes. Therein you'll find an overflowing abundance of excelling viands, including delectable Turkeys—kings of all table birds—prime juicy beef, tender as a chicken and sweet as a nut; plump and luscious geese, a favorable dish at many a well-spread banquet board; dainty chicks and truly appetizing lamb, veal and pork.

YOU CAN'T GO wrong or meet with disappointment by letting us worry about your Christmas bird or joint, for your holiday dinner will rank with that of an "Old Tyme Epicure" if only dominated by Jopling's especially fed Christmas poultry or meats.

WESTERN GRAIN POOLS CONTROL THE USE OF CANADIAN PORTS FOR EXPORT, SAYS PRES. OF C.N.R.

"Persuasion" the Only Pressure That Can be Directed to Shippers.

COMPLEX QUESTION

Sir Henry Thornton Says Harmonious Effort May Help.

ST. JOHN, N.S., Dec. 22 (Canadian Press).—Placing the responsibility for the use of Canadian ports for Canadian export trade squarely on the shoulders of grain pools and owners of grain, Sir Henry Thornton, President of the Canadian National Railways, last night in a statement to The Telegraph-Journal, declared that neither the C.N.R. nor he, as president, can control the port of shipment for export grain.

Sir Henry even doubts whether the Parliament of Canada can exercise effective control and sees "persuasion" as the only pressure that can be brought to bear on shippers to use Canadian ports for export. This pressure, he says, is being fully employed by the C.N.R., but the "entire matter is affected by economic shipping and market conditions of considerable complexity."

Sir Henry's view was invited by The Telegraph-Journal, which is stressing a movement to obtain use of the Trans-Continental Railway for grain traffic to Canadian ports. He was asked "whether the putting into the of the Trans-Continental Railway is in accordance with the conditions under which it was built, rests with you as president of the road or with Parliament of Canada."

Pools in Control.

Sir Henry's statement in full is as follows:

"Notwithstanding statements made to the contrary neither the Canadian National Railways nor myself as its president can control the port of shipment for export grain. The control lines entirely with the grain pools and the owners of the grain.

"There is every reason why the Canadian National Railways should desire Canadian ports to be used to the fullest extent, but persuasion is the only pressure we can bring to bear and this is being fully employed. I do not think even the Parliament of Canada can exercise effective control in opposition to this inclination of owners of grain.

"The subject is engaging the earnest efforts of ourselves and other interests, and will not be assisted by precipitous statements made without a full knowledge of the facts. The entire matter is affected by economic shipping and market conditions of considerable complexity and a satisfactory conclusion will only be gained by a recognition of sincerity of purpose by all sides coupled with harmonious effort."

TREATY SIGNED BETWEEN TURKS AND THE SOVIET Provides That Neither Shall Join Alliance Against Other.

TO BE NEUTRAL.

Follows Visits of Emissaries Between Angora and Moscow.

BERLIN, Dec. 22 (United Press)—The Soviet Embassy here confirmed to-day to the United Press the conclusion of a Russo-Turkish neutrality treaty which presumably is calculated to counteract their influence in the Near East.

The treaty provides that neither country shall, participate in a hostile alliance or inimical action directed against the other, while, in the event of hostilities of one with a third Power, the other party to the pact shall observe neutrality.

Turkish reports last week indicated that a Turkish emissary had gone to Moscow to seek the aid of Russia in the event of a clash with Great Britain over the award of Mosul to Britain. Another report claimed that a Soviet representative had "returned" the Turkish agent's visit by making a trip to Angora.

SPECIAL POLICE ARE DISBANDING

STRIKE IS OVER.

BELFAST, Ireland, Dec. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Disbandment of the Ulster special constabulary provided for under the Irish agreement reached at London began yesterday. More than 700 constables were paid off this morning in Belfast. All were given pay for January and February as well as remainder of December, in fulfillment of Ulster Government's promise which ended recent costabulary strike.

OTTAWA GIRL IS KILLED IN DETROIT

Had Been in City For Few Days and Was on Way to First Job.

DETROIT, Dec. 22 (Canadian Press). — Miss Marie Skane, 23 years old, was fatally injured by an automobile yesterday afternoon. Miss Skane came to Detroit from Ottawa several days ago, and was on her way to work for the Detroit Edison Co. for the first time when killed.

August Despres, the driver, is being held by the police. Despres said Miss Skane stepped off the curb and he was not able to stop the car due to the slippery pavement.

The word chaperon is not feminine, although it is generally applied to a woman. It means a hood, and when used metaphorically signifies that the married woman shields her youthful protege as the hood shields the face.

HUSBAND KILLS WIFE AND BABY

Wounded Stepdaughter of 14 Who Was Family's Support.

BROKE INTO HOME.

ORANGE, N.J., Dec. 22—Stealthily gaining access to the home whose upkeep he had shirked, Antonio Morano, 47, shot and killed his wife, his two-year-old son and wounded his wife's 14-year-old daughter, upon whose earning power alone the family of nine had been ekeing out a miserable existence.

Frank Grieco, 12, the dead woman's child by a previous marriage, told police the story of the crime.

In tremulous tones the boy described how his stepfather had circumvented Mrs. Morano's attempt to lock out her husband, against whom she had obtained a summons for non-support. Morano crawled along a ledge and entered the room in which slept nine persons — the wife, the four children Morano had had by her, and his four step-children—by cutting out a window.

Frank said he was awakened by the sound of a shot, and saw Morano bending over his mother.

Hit Baby.

"I was too afraid to scream," the boy continued. "I lay still and saw papa go over to my sister Anna's bed. He shot at her and the bullet hit my little step-brother Dominick.

"Anna ran and crawled under the bed and papa shot at her again. I could hear her cry.

"Then papa rushed back at mama once more and shot her again then raised her head several times and banged it against the bed."

Search for Morano has been extended to the Italian districts of New York and New Jersey cities.

HASTINGS NEWS

IN MEMORIAM.

HENDY.—In kind and loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Chas. Hendy, who passed away Dec. 22nd, 1924.

"In Maple Grove Cemetery, softly sleeping,
Where the flowers nod and wave,
Lies my dear mother I loved so dearly,
In her lone and silent grave.
My heart is full of sorrow
And tears have dimmed my eyes,
But I shall meet you once again
In the home beyond the skies.
Farewell, dear mother, your life is passed,
I loved you dearly to the last.
In life I loved you dear mother,
In death I do the same,
And Christ shall bind
That broken link when we meet again."

GARAGE SOLD FOR SALESROOM

Biggest Real Estate Deal in Some Time Is Reported.

MISSION LECTURE.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 22. — The biggest real estate deal reported for some time was closed recently when D. W. Douglas became the owner of the brick building next to the sales service station, which he now occupies and which is used as a garage by E. Warner. Mr. Douglas will take possession at the beginning of the year and will use his new premises as a sales room for new and second-hand cars, the rapid increase in his business during the past year making it necessary to secure additional space.

Will Lecture Here.

A lecture will be delivered here in the Regent Theatre some time in January by Dr. G. R. Maguire, the well-known missionary who has spent so many years in the Congo and who is now making a lecture tour of Canada. This lecture will be given under the auspices of the Lawn Bowling Club. Dr. Maguire lectured here some time ago under Masonic auspices, and made so favorable an impression that it has been decided to give the general public a chance to hear him. The subject chosen for his next appearance is "An Irishman in the Congo."

Mr. McIntosh in the West.

Writing to a friend here, Rev. C. F. McIntosh, formerly pastor of St. Andrew's Church, and who is now supplying in a church in Edmonton, says in part:

"Knox Church, which I am supplying, has a very enthusiastic congregation. On Sunday we had 659 partake of the Lord's Supper. There was an attendance of 479 at Sunday School, in addition to over 300 at two branch schools under Knox's care. The missionary interest is shown by the allocation of $7,000 made for the maintenance and extension fund. The people are appreciative and very hospitable and I am very happy in the work."

Mr. McIntosh adds that he is glad to hear of the continued harmony and progress in St. John's Church, Campbellford, of which he became associate pastor after the congregation of St. Andrew's had decided by a majority vote to continue as Presbyterians.

Operation Successful.

The family of John Jeff, who was taken last week to a Toronto hospital for an operation, received a telegram Monday from Dr. Douglas of Toronto, a nephew of Mr. Jeff, stating that the operation had been successfully performed and that the patient's condition was favorable.

ONLY ONE BID TO LEASE SCALE

Same Price as Last Year Obtained By Town of Campbellford.

EXPRESS DELIVERY.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 22—The last meeting of the Town Council was held last night, a special session in the office of Clerk McGregor, with Mayor Meyers, Reeve Davidson, Councillors Stone, Moore, Cole, Wiggins, Kingston and Abernethy present. The meeting had been called for the purpose of opening tenders for the lease of the public scales at the depot for 1926.

There was only one tender and that was sent in by E. Nancarrow, the present lessee, whose bid was $192, the same price he paid this year. On motion of Councillors Wiggins and Cole this offer was accepted.

Express Delivery

Some time ago Peter McMillan, a gardener on the Havelock road near the town limits, complained to the Council that the Express company did not deliver goods as far out as his place of business and asked that the matter be taken up with the company. Councillors Stone and Wiggins were appointed a committee to investigate.

Councillor tSone reported last night that he had seen Express agent Ryder who explained that in no direction does the free dellery zone, which is defined by the Municipal and Railway Board, extend to the town limits. The town is divided into quarter mile squares for a distance of a quarter of a mile from the center. Each of these squares must contain at least fifty residents to be entitled to free delivery. That being the case the Council decided that nothing could be done for the relief of Mr. McMillan.

In Holiday Attire

The stores in town are bright with Christmas decorations and all will be kept open eery night until the holiday.

Ottawa, Canada's capital city, is less than a century old, although it now has a population of 150,000.

LABOR PROTESTS MOSUL MOTION

May Withdraw From House While It Is Being Considered.

TIME TOO SHORT.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—(Canadian Press).—John L. Clynes, Laborite, speaking in the Commons stated that he would ask his party to leave the house when the Government's motion regarding Mosul was reached.

This was in protest against the Governments' procedure in proposing a motion asking for the approval of its Mosul policy just as Parliament was adjourning for the holidays.

The opposition declared this gave it no chance to consider whether an amendment should be proposed.

Premier Baldwin previously had declined to remove the Governments motion from the paper of the house but he promised to place an Irak treaty embodying the Mosul settlement before the house early in its next session for acceptance or rejjection. Mr. Clynes said that the Government's procedure amounted to coercion of the House.

COASTING CHILDREN OCCASION CONCERN

Bylaw Passed Placing Onus on Children and Parents—Special Constable.

MARMORA, Dec. 22.—Marmora Village Council held its last regular meeting for 1925 on Tuesday, December 15th.

The matter of children sleigh riding on the streets came in for considerable discussion. As a result it was decided to appoint Mr. Hugh Gillen as constable for one month with instructions to act in this matter. Responsibility for accidents now rests with the children or their parents.

A bylaw was passed providing for an additional polling booth in the possibility of a municipal election. Mr. C. A. Bleecker was appointed deputy returning officer. The collector was given until January 15th to collect the balance of 1924 taxes and instructed to take the necessary legal proceedings to collect any unpaid at that date. The treasurer's statement met with acceptance. Various accounts were presented and passed.

THE POLLING BOOTHS.

The list of polling places to be used at the coming municipal election has been prepared, and the Examiner will publish it for several times prior to the election for the benefit of the voters.

As announced a short time ago, the old system has been discarded and all the polls this year will be held in the schools or at the City Hall.

The new plan may cause a little confusion this year, but hereafter should prove of much benefit, inasmuch as the pinning down of polling booths to the same location year after year will do away with the old query on election day, "Where do I vote?"

The one drawback to this method is that it has been impossible in some cases to avoid making it necessary for some voters to make a long trip to vote, although the distance will be no longer than that covered by the children from the same localities in going to school, so that if youngsters can do it at least twice a day for five days in the week and over nine months in the year adults should not complain about the remoteness of their polls when it only concerns them once annually.

Once the plan is understood it is expected that there will be general endorsation of the idea of using the schools as polling booths.

PETERBORO DROPS OUT.

The Ontario cities which are arguing over the question as to which has the worst civic building are hereby notified that the entry of Peterboro's City Hall, unofficially made by the Examiner, is now withdrawn.

In official circles the references to the local building have not been appreciated, and it is, therefore, thought wise to inform the contestants that Peterboro is not a competitor—although we still think that this city had a fighting chance to bring home the honours.

In justice to Peterboro's City Hall, of course, it might have been pointed out that the building is weather-proof, that the roof does not leak, that the quarters of the officials are as comfortable as a pair of old shoes, even if they are not commodious, and that it bears evidence of having been painted within modern times.

The setting forth of these advantages will compensate for the omissions made in Saturday's article, and the withdrawal of Peterboro's entry will close the discussion.

Incidentally, the fact that the Examiner's joking references to the matter caused some stir in officialdom illustrates that the saving grace of a sense of humour is not as generally distributed as it might be.

NOMINATIONS TOMORROW.

Tomorrow is nomination day in Peterboro, and it is to be hoped that citizens generally will show more interest in the proceedings than has been the case in other years.

Nominations for the mayoralty, Utilities Commission and Board of Education will be held from 10 to 11 o'clock, while candidates for the five aldermanic vacancies will be named between 7.30 and 8.30 o'clock.

An opportunity will be given to candidates to state their views on municipal affairs, and with a number of issues of much importance to the fore, the aspirants for office should have little difficulty in securing material for their addresses.

On some of these questions the Examiner believes all office-seekers should make their opinion clear.

Especially is this true of the Collegiate Institute issue.

The need of more accommodation is admitted on all other sides, but there is a difference of opinion as to what should be the course of the Council.

Candidates for Aldermen should be prepared to say whether they favour authorizing the building programme recommended by the Board of Education without consulting the people or whether they believe that the bylaw should be submitted to the ratepayers.

The electors are entitled to know as to what policy they are endorsing when they vote for any particular candidate, and they are likely to leave at home any candidate who declines to definitely commit himself on this question.

THE DUTY OF CITIZENS.

It is encouraging to note that at the joint luncheon of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs John Seels and Chas. Cook, the respective Presidents of Peterboro's two splendid service organizations, strongly urged every member not only to vote himself at the coming municipal election but to persuade others to use the franchise.

The Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs are composed of representative business and professional men who should see the necessity of carrying out this advice and of taking an interest in municipal affairs.

If their efforts are earnestly devoted toward persuading the electors to discharge their responsibility as citizens there is not the least doubt that they can effect a very noticeable improvement.

This problem of overcoming the apathy of a careless democracy is not confined to Peterboro or to municipal affairs.

It is a general symptom and occurs in Provincial and Federal politics in as acute a form as in the civic arena.

To the credit of Canadian newspapers it can be said that they have given this subject more publicity than any other topic, and have never failed to preach in season and out the doctrine of civic patriotism as exemplified by an intelligent use of the ballot box as the agency by which public opinion is implemented.

The service clubs are setting a good example for the community in their attitude toward Peterboro's municipal election; it is to be hoped that good results will follow.

There are sixty-three lawyers in the House of Commons—and one editor. Draw your own morals from that fact.

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT.

The Christmas trade this year is a large one. Let us hope that the buyers have lengthened the radius of the circle of those to be benefited by their buying. Besides the extras, besides the gifts of elegant and luxurious things, and also of useful things to those near and dear to them, there is, we hope, a good tonnage of the necessaries of life being bought and sent to the poor and needy by those in better circumstances, says the Mail and Empire.

Christmas is itself a day for religious observance, but it may well be that the few weeks preceding Christmas are by the great mass of the people spent in a way more worthy of religion than is the holy day itself. That period of immense aggregate spending is, generally speaking, one of self-denial. Money that would ordinarily be applied to the satisfaction of one's own needs or tastes is saved up and expended for the purpose of giving pleasure to others. People who may be more or less covetous for eleven months of the year have been known to become altruistic at Christmastide. Doubtless much of the money that is spent brings but fleeting pleasure to the persons in whose behalf it is spent. But if it gives an hour of happiness to a child or to a grown-up person who had not expected to be kindly thought of, it is by no means wasted, tawdry or fragile though the gift may be. The crowds that fill the shops day after day may in a sense be regarded as a body of worshippers filling the temples of commerce, sacred for the time to the reigning spirit of good-will. Truly that spirit must be a powerful one, for it makes men and women restless until they have fulfilled their heart's desire to minister to the happiness of others. Women carrying babies in their arms with one or two little children holding on to their skirts stem their way through dense crowds in the shops to reach the counter at which the Christmas gift is to be bought. He is an unhappy cynic who would not involuntarily give his blessing to the Christmas shoppers.

WHAT IS NATIONAL GREATNESS?

The Dearborn Independent tells of a man from England who dropped into the office and spoke of the feeling of resentment there was in Britain toward United States and United States goods. He claimed that in Regent street "you will see store windows filled with German goods displaying German trade-marks to all passers-by. But if a merchant has a stock of American goods he carefully removes every evidence of their place of origin—they would not sell otherwise."

The Dearborn paper comments on the situation as follows:

"The reason for this state of mind is obvious. Britain is slipping off her high places. Telling herself that she is the greatest nation in the world has no effect in improving her fortunes. She hates to bow to a nation which has only the aristocracy of work to boast of. She cannot forgive America for possessing more energy and brains than Britain does. So she just cordially dislikes us and says so with superior bluntness."

We don't think Britain has been engaged in telling herself or the world at large that she is the greatest nation in the world. Since she emerged from the war Britain found by even a cursory process of stocktaking that in world possessions she was very humble; her shipping trade had been broken down; her place as a sea-faring nation of carriers had been seriously challenged; she was in debt on a colossal scale; her pound sterling was very much discounted. There were labour troubles at home; there were suspicions between her and her immediate European neighbors; there was a huge war debt to pay to United States and there was no prospect of Britain collecting from her debtor nations. There was surely nothing in that situation that could warrant Britain "telling herself that she was (or is) the greatest nation in the world."

The claim that Britain "is slipping off her high places" can very conveniently be linked up with the above. Britain was not in a position to slip off a very high place. As positions are rated by dollars and industry, she was in humble station.

Britain has not slipped off a high place; rather she has moved toward it. It seems necessary here to take only two of the cardinal characteristics that make nations either great or small, (1) the determination of a nation to pay its debts, and (2) a realization by the nation of its moral obligations in a community of nations.

Before urgency developed on the part of United States for collecting war debts Britain sent a financial commission to United States headed by Mr. (now Premier) Stanley Baldwin, and undertook the repayment of $160,000,000 per year for sixty-two years; these payments started in 1923 at a time when Britain had no prospect of collecting from other nations. It made her people the most heavily taxed in the world, but it was exactly what the world expected Britain to do. Her money was not high in the world market; New York discounted it heavily. Britain tried no substitutes and took no short-cuts to currency restoration. It was the rough-hewn path of dogged persistence that led back to the reinstatement of the pound sterling.

Britain has recognized her responsibility to other nations, not by proclaiming, as the Dearborn Independent states, that she is the greatest nation in the world, but by a course of toleration that treated defeated enemies as equals and persisted always that confidence is greater than suspicion and mutual advantage is stronger than individual pre-eminence. It was her desire that true national greatness should become the property of all nations. Her statesmen contributed leadership, the sincerity of which she never been called into question; they defied war-born prejudice in asking fair treatment for Germany and in making possible her entrance to the League of Nations on an equal footing with other members. Britain conquered the inherent fear of France of German aggression, and it was in London that German signatures were affixed to the Locarno pact.

All these things are attributes of true national greatness. They are not computed in terms of ocean tonnage, nor are they written in trade statistics or clipped off as coupons. They can only be designated as the visible evidences of a sense of national honor that has not "slipped off its high place."—London Advertiser.

A THOUGHT.

FIVE LAWS OF SOUND THINKING.

(By Glenn Frank)

Father Fox, president of Marquette University, in the casual performance of an after-dinner speech has put into vivid and rememberable form five fundamental laws of effective thinking.

As I have suggested over and over again in these essays, the difference between effective and ineffective thinking is the difference between realistic and romantic thinking.

Whether we are to be responsible realists or irresponsible romantics depends upon the way we handle facts.

Whether we are statesmen or stenographers, the problem is the same.

Thinking is an adventure in fact-handling.

Father Fox suggests that we have separate and salutary duties to perform in handling the facts of any problem or situation with which we have to deal. He resorts to "apt alliteration's artful aid" in stating these five duties, viz:

Find the facts.
Focus the facts.
Filter the facts.
Face the facts.
Follow the facts.

I acquit Father Fox of any responsibility for the comment I make upon these five laws he has laid down, but their meaning seems to me as clear as it is important.

First, we must find the facts. We must not pre-judge things in terms of our conservatism, our liberalism or our radicalism. We must not decide in advance that we are to be conformists or non-conformists on any issue. We must begin by finding the facts, for we cannot fly in the face of the facts without courting ultimate disaster.

Second, we must focus the facts. Facts are not important for their own sake ;they are important as a basis for human action. We must be more than mere cataloguers of facts. Our brains must be more than cold storage plants for unrelated stores of information. We must focus the facts we find upon the issues we face.

Third, we must filter the facts. We must contrive to separate the facts from admixtures of prejudice, passion, partisanship and selfish interest. Facts that are diluted, colored or perverted by these factors are valueless as a basis for action.

Fourth, we must face the facts. It is sometimes hard for us to look a fact in the face without blinking. But we must learn that the energy spent in trying to find ways to get around, under or over the facts is wasted energy. Facts have a ruthless way of winning the day, sooner or later. It is better to face them frankly at the outset.

Fifth, we must follow the facts. We must say of facts as Job said of God: Though they slay us, yet shall we trust them. If the fact threaten to upset our cherished plans, it will pay us to re-examine our plans. This way lies realism, and realism is the ultimate good.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal Winnipeg

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Dec. 21.—Prices on export cattle Monday were quite firm and first purchases were made at $8.60 a cwt., for not too choice steers; $7.50 for heifers and $6.50 for a choice fat cow. A bunch of good butchers' heifers, rather light, was bought at $6.60 a cwt.

The top paid on export steers was $9.00 a cwt., and prices wree expected to average 25 cents higher. Top heifers were $7.60. The packers were not competing on the heavy cattle, but space had to be filled and this made a good market. The asked prices on butchers was higher all round. Frank Hunnisett said his purchases were 50 cents a cwt. higher. Mixed handyweight butchers, just good quality, sold at $6.90 a cwt. and medium butchers $6.00 a cwt. The cow market was strong and good useful cows were $5 a cwt. There were only a few loads of feeders on sale and those sold firm. The market was snappy all round.

There was no change in the calf market and prices were as firm as last week. Best calves made 14 cents and good mediums were 10 to 11½ cents a pound. Some common calves were up to 8 cents.

Lambs sold steady with last week's close and just good lambs were 13½ cents a pound. All the good sheep brought 7 cents and yearlings 9 cents a pound.

Packers discussed lower prices for hogs but the sellers refused to listen to anything lower than $12.50 a cwt. f.o.b., and with only 650 on sale the packers had no force to their arguments.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 21 (Canadian Press).—Wheat took a decided downward swing in price today owing largely to a material increase of the United States visible supply total and because of absence of any active export demand. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 2 1-4 to 2 3-4 cents net lower, new style, December $1.67 and May $1.61 3-8 to $1.61 1-2, with corn 1-4 to 1-2 cents off; oats 3-8 to 1-2 cents down, and provisions vatying from unchanged figures to a setback of 35 cents.

Announcement that the domestic visible supply of wheat had gained in bulk 1,687,000 bushels during the last week was taken as evidence of continued liberal movement of the crop compared with a year ago, a circumstance made all the more conspicuous by the fact that export business from North America today amounted to only about 350,000 bushels, chiefly Canadian. Under such conditions holders of future delivery contracts here became free sellers and the market weakened fast in the latter part of the board of trade session.

STERLING RATES

Sterling demand $4.84 7-8.
Sterling cables $4.85 1-4.

EGG PRICES

OTTAWA, Dec. 21 (Canadian Press). — Increasing receipts are bringing an easier tendency on the Toronto egg market. The Vancouver market is also declining under heavier production. Poultry prices remain firm and unchanged.

Toronto — Shippers report increased receipts; paying, extras 55, firsts 40, seconds 28, and making sales extras 60 to 65, firsts 44, seconds 32 f.o.b.

Montreal—Unchanged.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND

MONTREAL, Dec. 21 (Canadian Press).—Prices for oats showed a decline of 1-2 cent per bushel with car lots of Ontario and Quebec No. 2 white quoted at 52 1-2 cents, No. 3 white at 49 1-2 cents per bushel extrack. Canadian Western grades were steady.

Owing to the further weakness in the Canadian cash wheat situation a weak feeling developed in the local flour market for spring wheat grades and millers generally reduced prices 40c per barrel. The volume of business in all directions was slow and the market was dull.

The feature of the market for winter wheat flour was the weaker feeling that developed and prices scored a decline of 30c per barrel, which was due to the lower prices ruling for the raw material and the fact that the requirements of the trade at this season of the year are very small. The trade was quiet. The tone of the market for white corn flour was steady and prices were unchanged at $6.80 to $7 per barrel in jute bags, delivered to the trade.

Owing to the continued limited demand for potatoes, the unfavorable weather and the fact that supplies on spot is still somewhat in excess of the requirements, an easier feeling prevailed in the market, and prices were lower with car lots of Quebec varieties quoted at $2.40 to $2.50 per bag, and New Brunswick Green Mountains at $2.65 per bag of 90 lbs. ex-track.

Butter Weaker.

The receipts of butter were 272 packages as compared with 167 for the same day last week and 212 for the corresponding day a year ago. In spite of the small stocks of creamery butter held on spot as compared with last year at this period a weaker feeling has prevailed in the market of late and prices have scored a further decline of 1c per lb. but even at the lower level there was no improvement in the demand and the volume of business was small. In a wholesale jobbing way prices were also reduced 1c per lb. with sales of finest creamery at 44c per lb. in solid packages; and at 45c per lb. in blocks.

The receipts of cheese were 932 boxes as against 294 for the same day last week and 1670 for the corresponding day a year ago. A weaker feeling also developed in the market for cheese and prices show a decline of 1-4 to 1-2c per lb. which was attributed to the very disappointing demand from English importers for supplies and business was dull with current receipts of No. 1 white and colored quoted at 18 1-4 to 18 1-2c per lb.

COMMONS DEBATE MOSUL QUESTIONS

Government Had To Combat Hostility From Labor and Liberal Parties.

LONDON, Dec. 22. (Canadian Press.)—House of Commons Monday was debating the action of the British delegate at Geneva in accepting the League of Nations award in the dispute between Turkey and Great Britain. This motion takes the place of the proposed opposition motion condemning the action.

The Government has to combat a good deal of hostility from Laborites. Liberals and some of its own followers. According to some Parliamentary followers if all Ministerialists who disapprove of the British committment in Irak voted regardless of party affiliation, it would be doubtful whether the Government could pull through, but it is not suggested that the Cabinet is in any real danger of defeat.

CANADIAN GRAIN SHIPPED

Washington, Dec. 22 (Canadian Press)—Canadian grain shipped last week from United States ports amounted to 5,737,000 bushels, against 5,421,000 the previous week, while total North American exports of wheat flour were 174,000 barrels, against 233,000.

SALEM, Mass., Dec. 22. — (Canadian Press).—The brain of Professor Sylvester Morse, a noted authority on zoology, who died here Sunday, was removMonday and sent by express to the Wistar Institute of Anatomy and Biology, in Philadelphia. This action was taken in accordance with instructions left by Professor Morse, who desired that it be examined to determine the relation, if possible, tween his brain and his hands, which made him ambidextrous. Professor Morse was able to use either hand with equal skill.

WEST SEYMOUR CHEESE OUTPUT 116,817 POUNDS

Average Price of 21.26 Cents Highest in District This Year.

FACTORY MEETING.

R. Innis Re-elected President With Other Officers.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 22—At a meeting of the patrons of the West Seymour Cheese factory held Monday afternoon, Marshall H. West, the secretary reported that the amount of milk handled during the season was 1,348,671 and that 116,817 pounds of cheese wre manufactured. The amount of milk required to make a pound of cheese was 11.54 pounds. The average price received for cheese during the season was 21.26 cents. This is the highest price reported so far in the district this year, and it is accounted for by the fact that the factory was not running in the month of April when the price was low. Another reason is the excellent work done by the maker, Alex. Johnston, who has been engaged for another year.

The average price for butter fat was 58.3 cents. The value of the cheese sold was $24,843.43 and of the whey cream $692.57, a total of $26,536. The cost of manufacturing was $2755 leaving the sum of $22,781 to be distributed among the patrons.

General Business

It was decided to leave to the directors the matter of making necessary repairs to the factory, further action to be taken at the Spring meeting. It was also decided to continue to do business with the Standard Bank.

Officers Re-elected

All the officers were re-elected as follows:

President—R. Innis
Secretary—Marshall H. West
Auditor—John Locke
Directors—The president and the secretary with Henry McKelvie, P. Collins and Phillip Slogget.

New One Re Turnips

A point new to the majority of those present was raised when it was given as the opinion of some agricultural expert that the best way to secure a good crop of turnips was to cut off the tops late in the Fall, the idea being that the roots would then make more rapid growth.

A Pioneer Factory

The West Seymour Cheese factory is one of the oldest, if not the very oldest, in the district. It was built over 60 years ago on land that was leased from the late John McKelvie at the nominal rental of $1 a year. The present owner of the site is Henry McKelvie, one of the patrons. Mr. McKelvie was nominated for the presidency yesterday but declined to let the motion go to a vote. President Innis, who was chairman of the old Campbellford Cheese Board, has held the position to which he was re-elected yesterday, for the past four years.

FARM PRODUCTS PRICES HIGHER

Purchasing Power of Farmers' Goods Exced General Level.

REPORT FOR YEAR.

OTTAWA, Dec. 22. — (Canadian Press).—Wholesale prices will average higher in 1925 than in 1924. The average index number for Canadian wholesale prices during the current year will be 160, says a report of the Bureau of Statistics; in 1924 it was 155.2.

The increase of five points is largely due to the high prices prevailing at the beginning of the year on grain and wool. Since the beginning of the year prices have actually reached lower levels. In January the index was 165.5. On vegetables and their products, on fibres, textiles and their products and on iron and its products, the index of prices dropped considerably between January and November. There was, on the other hand, an increase in the index number for prices on animals and animal products and on wool products and paper. There has been practically no change in the index for nonferrous metals, non-metallic minerals and on chemicals and allied prodructs.

The index for Canadian farm products, wholesale, stood at 166.7 in November, which is 5.6 higher than the general index number for all commodities, which would indicate that the purchasing power of goods which the farmer has to sell is definitely above the general level of prices, the statement says. The index for fully or chiefly manufactured goods was 157 or three points below the general level. Consumers' goods, food, clothing and household equipment rose from 154.5 in January to 164.4 in November. This was due in the main to higher prices for hog products, potatoes and coal.

JEWELS STOLEN.

Residence of Prominent New York Man, Robbed of $75,000.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22. (Canadian Press)—Burglars entered the home of William T. Starr, a member of the New York Stock Exchange, Sunday, and escaped with jewels estimated to value $75,000, it was learned today. The intruders apparently used a key to gain entrance, the police said, and the house was ransacked in their search for the jewels.

UNMORAL METHODS OF PROCURING 'DRY' EVIDENCE DISGUSTS PROHIBITIONISTS

Would Prohibit Fraud, Deceit or Falsehood by "Dry" Agents in Course of Their Duties—Motion in U. S. House.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Prohibition enforcement methods, which have been subject to vigorous attack recently, became a voting issue in the House Monday for the first time at this session.

Representative Tucker, Democrat, Virginia, an avowed dry, initiated a move designed to prevent a repetition of the much-debated Hotel Mayflower incident, in which a dry agent masqueraded under the name of a member of congress to obtain evience at a cost of more than $900 to the Government.

The vehicle employed by Mr. Tucker was an amendment to the annual Treasury-Post Office supply bill, which carries funds for dry law enforcement for the next fiscal year. A vote on the proposal was deferred until today. The amendment, which was directed at a section of the bill making $250,000 available for procurement of evidence in the next fiscal year, would prohibit the use of "fraud, deceit or falsehood" in the expenditure of any part of this sum.

WILL INVESTIGATE THE RUBBER RATE

Commerce Committee of U. S. Will "Conduct Inquiry" Into "'Bad Faith."

WASHINGTON, December 22. — Canadian Press. — Investigation of an alleged manipuation by the British colonial government of the price of crude rubber and other raw materials, was ordered yesterday by United States House of Representatives.

A resolution directing the commerce committee to conduct this inquiry was adopted without a roll call after Representative Hull of Tennessee had charged Great Britain with acting in "bad faith" in the matter.

UNITED STATES TO INVESTIGATE RUBBER MARKET

"Bad Faith" Alleged Against Britain by Democrat Representative.

"LAUGHING AT SAM"

Rumor of Canadian Pulpwood Embargo Also Mentioned in House Debate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22 (Canadian Press) — A charge of "bad faith" was made against Great Britain Monday as the House ordered an investigation of alleged manipulation of crude rubber prices by British Colonial governments. The scope of the investigation was enlarged to include an enquiry into alleged monopolistic cntrol of other raw materials including pulpwood and in connection with the latter cognizance was taken of a reported movement in Canada to have an embargo laid on the export of pulpwood.

Representative Hull of Tennessee former chairman of the Democratic National Committee made the charge of "bad faith" against Britain, declaring that Britain "is openly proclaiming that she intends to collect four billion dollars from us in increased rubber prices to pay its war debt. The British Government is laughing out loud at us," he said. "Europe is laughing up its sleeve at the way we are being held up for rubber."

The pulpwood matter was taken up by manufacturing representatives, who charged that the Dominion Government is to be asked to inaugurate a plan that would force pulpwood operators in this country to transfer their entire operations to the Canadian side of the border.

Order Investigation

The resolution ordering the investigation was approved without a record vote after a brief debate and Chairman Parker of the interstate commerce committee, which will conduct the inquiry, announced he would start hearings about January 5.

Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the Republican leader, who proposed the investigation after a conference with Secretary Hoover, told the House that rubber consumers were paying $700,000,000 annual "tribute to Great Britain because of its control of the rubber prices.

Investigation of control of coffee, silk, nitrates, potash, quinine, iodine, tin, sisal, quicksilver and other "important raw materials" was also approved by the House.

The course of the investigation has not been outlined, but Chairman Parker indicated he would ask Secretary of Commerce Hoover as well as some of the leading users of these products to appear before the committee.

Set Back in London

LONDON, Dec. 22 — The news from Washington that crude rubber is to be the subject of the latest congressional investigation reached London too late yesterday to catch the rubber market in operation or to evoke comment in the House of Commons which is engaged in the Mosul debate, before rising today. Unless some of the members of the House manage to make impromptu queries when the House meets for its final sitting, there will be no opportunity for the rubber question to be mentioned in Parliament until early in February, when the new session starts.

If, as Representative Hull is quoted as informing the House of Representatievs, the British are laughing out loud at the United States over the rubber situation, the laugh was reduced considerably here last week, with a changed facial expression on the part of speculative buyers, when spot prices of the product fell nearly a shilling, due largely to United States influences on the market.

This reaction, which was partially overcome as the week closed, is not viewed with general alarm by the market, however, because it is maintained that the law of supply and demand—a congressional investigation notwithstanding—finally determines the prices.

Commenting on the rubber situation, the Statist says that a temporary fall in the price of the commodity to 2 shillings 6 pence may be expected within a year, but unless the rate of increase in consumption is severely curtailed, it appears probable that by 1928, and possibly by 1927, consumption actually will be in excess of full production.

BRITISH COMMONS

was to the effect that no undertaking should be given to remain in Irak twenty-five years, but only until Irak acquired stability justifying its membership in the League, and then in the event of Irak being attacked and an attempt being made forcibly to overthrow the boundary fixed by the League council, it would be the responsibility of the League, as the body directly challenged.

British responsiiblity apart from the League the statement added, would depend upon circumstances then arising.

Continuing, Mr. Baldwin pointed out that the House would be better able to judge the precise extent of the obligations involved when it was in possesion of the actual terms of the proposed treaty. The House would then decide whether to endorse the Government policy.

Obligated For Years.

Walter Runciman, Liberal, said that Mr. Baldwin's statement might involve Great Britain in obligations stretching for a generation, as it was quite unlikely that Irak would qualify for membership in the League under twenty-five years. He cited the danger of a possible frontier incident involving British lives; public opinion would then insist upon the Government taking action without waiting for the League. He regarded the matter with grave disquiet.

T. P. O'Connor, Nationalist, declared that the country stood united behind the Government, and asked why Great Britain should give back to Turkey in the name of self-determination a people between whom and massacre she alone stood.

Commander Kentworthy, Liberal, understood that Turkey was prepared to negotiate on certain conditions and ready to arrange terms for the exploitation of oil. He protested against thretening the Turks with an Anglo-Italian alliance and an Italian descent on Smyrna, because it would mean starting again to rebuild the shattered ruins of Europe.

D. C. M. Amery, Secretaray for the Dominions, in winding up the debate, dilated on the fine progress Irak was making toward stability and self-support. He was convinced that within a very few years Irak would no longer require financial or military support from Great Britain.

No "Oil" Influence.

No interest of any sort directly concerned with oil, he declared, had influenced the British policy. What was undoubtedly true was that if oil should be discovered in considerable quantities it would undoubtedly bring development and revenue to Irak. The contract between the Turkish Petroleum Company and the Irak Government was more favorable to that Government than any oil contract he knew of elsewhere, and if oil should be found—it was not yet proved—then the Irak Government might receive an increase of revenue, enabling it to find money for dealing usefully with the far more importance liquid—water—and might irrigate the country.

Emphasizing British responsibility to the Christian and other inhabitants of the country concerned, Col. Amery asserted that if Great Britain gave lup the present frontier she would be obliged to spend vast sums in sustaining the refugees.

In conclusion, he denied that he had taken any unconciliatory or uncomprising attitude toward Turkey.

The majority of the court favored reduction of sentence as made while a minority would have been more lenient.

TIDE IN FAVOR OF PROHIBITON HAS TURNED SAYS DR. BUTLER

Debate in Senate Was Only Beginning of Movement For Abolition.

COLOSSAL FAILURE.

Prohibitoin is Not Temperance, University President Says, in Answering Critic.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 (United Press).—"Such tide as there has been in favor of prohibition has definitely turned," according to President Nicholas Murray Butler of the Columbia University, in replying to criticism by a New Jersey woman of his attitude on prohibition.

"Last week's Senate debate invited by Senator Walter Edge of New Jersey," Dr. Butler said, "was only the beginning of what is bound to be a successful movement to reform the present intolerable situation."

Dr. Butler said that prohibition efforts in the United States had proved the most colossal failure in the history of government, and the most immortal task ever undertaken by any government.

He asked that prohibition be not confused with temperance, because "prohibition itself isn't temperate."

THE HOLIDAYS IN OLD ENGLAND

Britain Gives Itself Over to the Christmas Spirit.

SHOPS THRONGED.

LONDON, Dec. 22—The spirit of the Christmas season in England seem to permeate the air for weeks. Of course, there is the business stimulus, which is quite like that in other countries. The shops are adorned and are thronged from morning until night.

Even the poorest people have money for Christmas presents. These people of small income, or of no income, perform marvels of finance. There are all sorts of odd devices to help them. Who would think of making the butcher one's bankers And yet a system of the kind prevails all over England.

Nearly every local butcher shop is conducting its "Christmas Club" months before Christmas. And those customers who wish to become members, receive little cards or pass books in which are recorded the various amounts of their savings. The deposits are mostly in pennies, and these are augmented by discounts made by the dealer. The transaction has its mutual benefits, since it insures the merchant continuous patronage and cash business, and provides for the club member a fund to meet the demands of Christmas cheer. When Christmas days come round there will be many a good roast of beef on tables that would have been bare except for the incentive to thrift.

The Chirstmas dinner in a comfortable English home is a noteworthy function and its preparation begins before December. Some time in November the air is redolent of Christmas plum pudding, and from that time on the spirit of Christmas broods over the entire country.

Everything but Plums.

This is not the place to discuss the ingredients or the construction of an English plum pudding, but I have discussed the matter with some of the best English cooks and bakers and am deeply impressed. The English plum pudding is fearfully and wonderfully made. It seem to contain almost everything except plums.

So rich is it that it can be taken only in small portions. It is a feature of every Christmas feast, but the family plum pudding is not consumed at a sitting. It is expected to remain over and to be brought out to be sampled by friends who call the following day, or perhaps a week later. Its keeping qualities are marvellous, and everybody agrees that a properly constructed plum pudding ripens and mellows and improves in every way as the days go by. What limitation may be placed upon this constant development of virtues, has never been determined, since in every case the last crumb is devoured before its full attainment of perfection has been achieved.

The carol singers of England are world famous. Judged by the more exacting critical standards, it must be said, however, that a good many of the carolers deserve honorable mention only for their motives. On Christmas Eve professional choirs and bands of trained singers render the old songs with fine effect. The bulk of the carol-singing, however, is done by ragamuffins who take advantage of the softening influences of the season to finance their Christmas cheer.

Beggars Are Few.

As Christmas approaches, the opportunities for the exercise of charity multiply. There are not many beggars in England. Seldom is one found soliciting alms in the streets. Indeed, a magistrate in court recently asserted that there was no need for anyone to beg anywhere in the country, because the authorities had made provision that all should be cared for.

However that may be, there is practical begging, thinly veiled under pretence of some trivial form of service. It is one of the indexes of the vast amount of unemployment and genuine poverty. If a motor car stops for a moment by the curb, it finds a voluntary caretaker ready to watch it, for the chance penny or sixpence the owner may be willing to give. There are hundreds of match-sellers, many of them women holding babies in their arms.

Wherever queues form at the theatres—and there are queues at all the theatres in these strange times of mingled prosperity and adversity—all manner of entertainers and traders gather. It is a motley throng. Vendors of sweetmeats cry their wares; strolling violinists render solos; women with quavering voices sing plaintively. Occasionally a threadbare artist renders a snatch from an opera with all the verve and spirit of a professional, as, indeed, he may well be. And the queue shells out liberally when the hat is passed. Those waiters-in-line have not much money, else they would not be patient applicants for the cheap, unreserved seats, but they have large charity.

Spirit of Giving.

Many of them know what it is to be out of a job, and most of them have the vague fear that such a misfortune may be theirs at any time. That common sympathy makes many a beggar's income bigger than the dole.

The spirit of giving is abroad at Christmas time. All the churches have organizations for furnishing Christmas dinners to the poor. Usually they confine their benefactions to the unfortunates of their own parish, and in most cases there is plenty for each society to do. Similar work is done by lodges and other social and benevolent organizations. At least for the one day there will be plenty of good cheer in nearly every home in England.

NEW WAY FOUND TO CROSS GORGE

Aliens Enter States By Crossing Niagara River on Arch.

MAN ARRESTED.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Dec. 22 (Canadian Press) — Aliens anxious to get into the United States are said to be thronging the border along the Niagara River offering big prices to be smuggled across. Word has gone out to the United States immigration inspectors and to the federal border patrol to double the guards and shorten the beats in an effort to tighten the lines against the threatened invasion.

Immigration officials have discovered a new route. Aliens, it is claimed, have been going over the Canadian bank and into the Niagara gorge, making the descent hand over hand down a rope tied to a tree on the upper bank. From this point they have made their way to the Michigan Central Railroad bridge and have crawled from shore to shore on the arch of this structure, making the perilous journey on their hands and knees.

Chief Immigration Inspector Robert P. Clark last night arrested Archibald Grisch, 28 years old, an electrical operator for the Hydro Electric Commission. Grich, it is alleged, drove across the upper steel arch bridge with Josef Peters, a Roumanian, 35 years old, concealed in the rear luggage compartment of his small coupe.

FENG'S LOSS HEAVY.

Plains Covered With Chinese Dead.

LONDON, December 22. — Canadian Press. — After 24 hours artillery duel ending on Sunday night on the Yangtsum front, the fighting ceased, says the Daily Mail correspondent with the Chinese armies. Feng Yu-Hsiang, head of the National People's Army, apparently made a final attempt to force the positions held by the troops of General Li Ching-Ling, civil governor of Chihli province, but failed.

Feng's losses are described as tremendous, the plains being covered with dead.

HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY AROUSED BY THE SLURS IN POPULAR NOVELS

Libel Suits Will be Entered Against Any More Offenders.

"NO MORE VILLIANS."

References to Alleged Methods of Its Employees Injure Reputation.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 16.—(Canadian Press)—Aroused by what they regard as an unjustifiable slur upon the name of the historic company and its pioneer employees, the governor and committee of the Hudsons Bay Company has issued a warning to writers of Northland fiction that liberties with the name of the company will not be tolerated in the future.

In a letter sent to Prof. W. T. Allison, president of the Canadian Authors' association, J. Chadwick-Brooks, secretary of the company in Winnipeg, states that a ban has been placed on H. B. C. villians and that offending authors will be sued for libel.

The official remonstrance of the executive officers, as expressed in the communication, is as follows:

"The attention of the governor and committee of Hudson's Bay Company has been drawn to numerous publications of popular fiction in which references are made to alleged methods employed by the company in its fur trading business. In many cases also it is implied that reprehensible actions on the part of the company's employees are instigated or condoned by the company. These statements misrepresent, and are distinctly derogatory of the company.

"While it was felt that an isolated instance might be ignored, the statements have become so common that it was evident that the company's name and reputation might be injured. The governor and committee therefore decided that in all cases where statements are published which by implication or otherwise libel the company, legal action should be taken against the authors and publishers. In several instanese action has been taken as a result of which apologies have been tendered and the books withdrawn from further sale.

"It is probable that in some instances authors write fiction without fully appreciating the import of some of the statements and references made therein, and they thus unwittingly become liable to suffer loss is the publication has to be discontinued on account of libellous passages. In these circumstances we have thought it advisable to an that the governor and committee feel obliged to protect the companys name and reputation in the manner mentioned."

WILL IT COME TO THIS?

Little Playlet Predicts Probable State of Affairs in 1950.

An extract from the Canadian Police Bulletin predicts the state of affairs which may obtain if the pampering of prisoners is continued. It is written in the form of a play.

Time—A.D. 1950.

Place—Governor's office in up-to-date prison.

Enter a prisoner.

Governor—"Please be seated." Why am I so honored.

Prisoner—"I have several complaints to make regarding the service at this place."

Governor—"Oh, my dear sir! In what respect have we failed you?"

Prisoner—"To begin with, the brass name-plate newly affixed on my apartment door is without the prefix 'Mr.' In the second place, the turnkey entered without knocking, and twice failed to say 'Sir.' Furthermore, I have only two instead of three of the latest books in my library. I cannot be expected to leave this place refreshed unless my literature is kept strictly up-to-date."

Governor—"I am very sorry, sir, but there has been a shortage of social service students who volunteer as servants. Pardon my asking, but how is your liver?"

Prisoner—"Rotten! I couldn't find any polophyllin in my medicine chest."

Governor—"Too bad! How about a mechanical horse for your apartment? A jog before breakfast would do you a world of good."

Prisoner—"Put one in. I'll see. By the way, there's altogether too much static hitting my radio of late. I have no razor blades, shaving cream or deodorant."

Governor—"Everything will receive attention, sir. Won't you have a whiskey and soda before you go?"

Prisoner—"Send it to my apartment. I never touch anything before eleven. Besides, a guest can't possibly drink with a government official."

Exit prisoner. He goes to his apartment and peruses the morning mail, which includes a letter of apology from the judge who sent him down; one from the secretary of the central organization for the immediate release of prisoners, informing that the machinery had been set in motion to obtain his freedom; one from a lady organist, asking if she might dedicate a hymn to him, and one from the Prisoners' Friend Bank, saying that his wife would be paid $30 a week during his incarceration. The last letter he opened was from his wife, in which she told him she hoped he would serve his full time because, on the $30 a week, she and the children would have the time of their lives.

FRENCH SOLDIERS KILLED IN AMBUSH

BAGDAD, Dec. 22 (United Press) —A convoy arrived here to-day reported that two French officers and 100 men were ambushed and massacred when rebels surrounded homes to the north of Damascus. The district was reported to be restive with pillage and murder increasing.

Agency reports to London over night claimed new successes for the Druse tribesmen, who were reported to have taken the town of Khyam and to have attacked two other towns near the Palestine border.

POIGNANT PLEAS IN SANTA'S MAIL

Hundreds of Letters Flooding New York Post Office.

MANY ADDRESSES.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22—One of the best things about Santa Claus is this:

No matter where you address a letter to him he is certain to receive it. The post office department and such organizations as the Santa Claus association here attend to that.

Hundreds of letters are pouring into the offices of the association and there is far from unanimity as regards the whereabouts of the famed gentleman who will begin travelling Thursday night on a trip that will carry him all over the world before daybreak.

For example, here are some of the addresses on the scrawled envelopes the post office has turned over to the Santa Claus association:

1. "Reindeer Hall, Iceland."
2. "Anywhere he is"
3. "Ice Castle, North Pole."
4. "91 Frost street, Arctic City"
5. "Hotel Arctic, North Pole"
6. "Corner of Ice and Snow streets, North Pole."
7. "Fairy street, New York"
8. "Snowy Peaks, Greenland"
9. "Hut 57, Chimney Corner, Eskimoland."
10. "Care of St. Nick in Heaven"

Care for 10,000

In the neighborhood of 10,000 children are cared for each year by the local branch of the Santa Claus association, which was founded in 1906. There are 16 such societies throughout the country, under a decentralized organization. Prior to their foundation letters to Santa Claus were sent to the dead letter office, Washington, but now each one is investigated, and if the writer is found worthy, individual donors answer in a substantial way on Christmas.

"No Chimney"

The sublime faith of children in Santa Claus is mirrored in the many letters. One of them attached the postscript: "The front apartment on the fourth fioor," after giving her address. Another enclosed a key, "in case there's any trouble. We haven't no chimney."

Another child in an chatty letter suggested that "if you ever have any parties during the year, Santa, I'd love to come."

Some of the almost illegible missives are indescribably poignant. For example:

Forgotten Last Year

"Dear Santa: I just want you to no that last year I rote you and received no anser and we had a unhappy Christmas please send us something to play with this year we are five children the oldest one is me. I am 8. Please send us something. Ancello S.

"Please Santa anser this year, won't you?"

Some of the requests are not so modest. One litlte girl, writing in German script, asked for "an electric train, a pair of skates, a dozen dolls, a toy auto, a trunk, dresses and anything else you have."

Lots of the letters carry apologies for actions which Santa might consider "bad".

"If Jimmy hadn't slapped my face I wouldn't have put paste in his bed," explained one obviously mistreated sister.

MACDONALD WISHED FOR YOUTH AGAIN

Lt.-Col. Parkinson Recalled Conversation Between Sir John A. and a Pretty Girl.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 22.—(Canadian Press.)—At a banquet given by Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Ross to celebrate the fortieth anniversary of the "Journal" Lt.-Col. R. F. Parkinson told of his having as a young reporter seen Sir John MacDonald, looking very stately in his Windsor uniform.

"It was the first time I have ever seen Sir John," said Col. Parkinson, "and I got up close, and while I was standing near him he happened to be talking to a pretty girl. She was telling him that she admired a speech he had made, and I overheard his reply. 'My dear young lady,' he said, 'I would cheerfully give up all I have ever done to be again as young as you are.' I thought that just a bit of flattery then, but I guess that is the way most of us old fellows feel when we look back even from fine occasions like this."

To qualify for membership in the Caterpillar Club of London men must have been forced to leap with parachutes from balloons, dirigibles or seaplanes, as a last resort. Ar jumps for mere pleasure or thrills do not count, there are at present only ten members.

She giggled. "How stupid. You're either the Prime Minister of Portugal or an admiral in the Swiss navy."

Saltonstall Cabot Adams struggled into a sitting posture. "For God's sake, Miss O'Reilly, be reasonable."

Sweetie was human. "Don't agitate yourself, dearie." She sat down beside him. "You're in good company. None of these folks—" she indicated with a nod the rough lads who had taken command of the absent Mr. Harvey's motor boat—"is social register, but they're good stock. You can't tell what a couple of generations of money will do for them. Now, your folks started their nest egg by cheating the Indians. These boys——"

"Miss O'Reilly—" he was very earnest. "I haven't a doubt your friends are charming, delightful, perhaps a little abrupt"—he rubbed his shoulder—"but perfectly splendid Yale boys. But what are they doing here and where are we going and—for Lord's sake, don't lean up against that shoulder."

Sweetie drew herself away stiffly. "Beg pardon. I hadn't meant to presume on the informality of the occasion."

"Miss O'Reilly, don't misunderstand me——"

She smiled gently. "Oh, I don't." Then her expression relaxed into something that bordered kindness. "I know. The Swede fetched you a clip on the shoulder. Well, I'm sorry. I'm almost sorry I tried to get your goat. But you'll admit it was a golden opportunity after all the welfare work you and your family have done for me and the likes of me. It used to be a real treat for all of us little shopgirls to be herded out on our one Saturday-afternoon-off to a 'picnic' at your mother's place and be read a paper on 'Browning's Influence on the Aztecs' and another on the 'budget system,' when you're making eight-fifty a week."

Saltonstall Cabot Adams blushed. "I'm sorry, Miss O'Reilly. I can see now how little that must have benefitted you in your chosen career of, say, rum running."

"Wrong again," said Sweetie. "Only the coarser natures go in for that sort of thing."

"Then what is it?"

She glanced up at the heavens. "'Last night the moon had a golden rim.' You don't get nothing out of me, except abuse. Here—" she took off her jacket and rolled it into a pillow—"lean your shoulder up against that. It'll be easier."

He looked at her. "You're very kind."

"Yes, I am," she snapped. "But here's where our conversation ends. If you're sensible you'll lay low and inconspicuous from this on." And to strengthen her point Sweetie moved away.

Meanwhile the rough lads, one of whom Sweetie had referred to as Swede, had the boat running rapidly, though by no means quietly. Valiantly she nosed into the heavy sea and she left a pathway of churning silver behind her. It was really rather beautiful, but no one noticed it.

"You're to put me ashore," said Pooch.

"When I get good an' ready," said the Swedish person. "We came out here to fetch something and we ain't fetched it yet."

Pooched squirmed. "I tell you it's dangerous."

"Who's there to be afraid of now we've shook the Scotchman?"

Pooch shrugged his shoulders. "You can't shake a Scotchman. He's probably stickin' to the side of this very boat now. I tell you there was something uncanny in the way he disappeared—or didn't. And the girl——"

"You're seein' things," interjected Doc., who was listening.

"I'm not seein' 'em. That's what makes me suspicious."

"Shut up," said the Swede. "We can't make no landing hereabouts, anyway." The Swede was a big man and he had a way of speaking with authority. "So we're goin' right on to where we started for."

Pooch bided his time, but he was not convinced. Meanwhile his eyes watched the figure that had been so casually stowed aboard. Eventually the figure stirred. He was all but suffocated by the sail cloth that had been wrapped around him. He was bruised and sore. He wasn't at all sure, either, what had happened. By some maneuvering he managed to peer out through a hole in the canvas. At first he could see nothing. Very cautiously he made himself free of the canvas. If they thought he was done for, so much the better. He would lie low until the time came. Then all at once Lacy's heart turned over with a jerk. There, huddled in a coat, close beside him, was someone with a rakish white turban.

"Connemara." He whispered it, but above the sound of the engine no one could hear him.

The figure in the turban started, but did not speak or turn her head.

"I—I thought you'd got away with McTish. Oh, I wish to God you had."

The figure beside him started again.

Lacy stretched forth an aching, but would-be assuring, arm. "I could have sworn you went over the side with him just at the moment I was engaging these other vandals. You're not hurt?"

The figure shook her head without turning around.

"What a night!" said Lacy. "I like my adventure, but I like it toned down to the drawing-room pitch a bit more than this." He stopped. "And I don't care about having you mixed up in this either." Lacy had a way of masculine protectiveness that almost never failed to charm. The figure in the turban knew this technique was as old as Adam and also that it was only by some absurd floundering of chance that she was its recipient, but she experienced a strange and entirely pleasurable thrill.

Certainly she had a right to play this game a little longer. This gentleman knew a great many things she wanted to know, that she had a right to know. Besides which there was something curiously familiar about him. She hadn't seen his face, of course, but his voice and his manner were reminiscent.

"Would you care what happened to me?" the figure in the turban whispered.

"Care—" His voice indicated there was no word in English worthy of conveying the intensity of his emotion. "Of course I care, a great deal more than usual, so much more I'm getting a little disturbed about it. I've cared so many times before," he went on with agreeable candor, "that I can recognize all the symptoms. I'm no amateur carer. I have cared in every capital in Europe."

"Really——"

"It's a compliment, of course, to be admired by one who comes with a record of taste and accomplishment behind him."

The figure in the turban cleared her throat. "There are two schools on that subject."

"Connemara—"

The figure did not move.

FAILS PURPOSE.

Re-union Not Attracting Ex-students as in Former Years.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 22.—The annual "Conversat" of the High School will be held on Tuesday evening in the Town Hall at 8 o'clock. This event has a two fold function to provide a social gathering for the pupils of the school and also as a re-union of ex-pupils who have sailed from the little harbor of school activities into the great ocean of life.

The latter side of the "conversat" has not been as noticeable in the last three years as formerly and it would seem a pity if the re-union should be discontinued and that old boys and girls "should neglect this opportunity of getting together."

ONE BIG UNION ENCOURAGED BY STEEL COMPANY

Effort to Disrupt the United Mine Workers, Witness Avers.

HALIFAX HEARING

Coal Enquiry Covered Picton Field Affairs on Monday.

HALIFAX, N.S., Dec. 22 (Canadian Press).—That officials of the British Empire Steel Corporation had endeavored to disrupt the United Mine Workers of America in Pictou County by encouraging the One Big Union, was the charge made Monday by Thomas I. Scott, U.M.W., sub-district board member, before the Royal Commission investigating the coal industry of Nova Scotia. In support of his contention the witness produced a copy of a letter purporting to have been addressed to a committee of the O.B.U., during the course of the last strike, by Vice-President J. E. McLurg, outlining terms under which the Corporation was prepared to enter into a separate agreement with the Pictou miners.

Under cross-examination by Mr. McLurg, the witness expressed a desire to have read into the record a letter addressed by the cross-examiner to various O.B.U. officials, under date of October, 1925, indicating that the company was not prepared to do business with the One Big Union.

Another witness was Alonso Hall, a former U.M.W. official. The Commission held three sessions Monday—morning, afternoon and evening. At the morning session various witnesses from Springhill told of mining conditions in the Cumberland coal fields and at the afternoon session a start was made with the Pictou County witnesses. Today representatives of the One Big Union operating in Pictou County will be heard. It is anticipated, Roy M. Wolvin, president of the Corporation, will be called to the stand for cross-examination. Much of the evidence adduced at yesterday sessions had been previously covered during the Cape Breton sittings of the commission.

WANT ARTICLES OUT OF TREATY

Move in Britain To Have War Guilt Clauses Removed.

FOLLOWS FRENCH.

LONDON, Dec. 22. (Canadian Press).—A strong movement has been launched in England to supplement similar efforts made in France this summer to eliminate articles 231 and 227 from the Treaty of Versailles. These are the articles in which Germany acknowledges guilt for bringing on the war and which fix upon Germany the accusation of having committed offences against international morality, the sanctity of treaties and the customs of war.

ELEVEN RESCUED FROM ICY RIVER

Sleigh Containing Party Broke Through Crust.

PEMBROKE, Ont., December 22. —Eleven persons, including five children, had a narrow escape from drowning on Saturday afternoon when the seligh on which they were driving across the Ottawa river crashed through the ice in midstream, where the water was 51 feet deep.

Through the heroic work of Len Murphy of Pembroke, driver of the sleigh, all were rescued. After everybody was safely on solid ice he managed to save the horses but lost the sleigh.

Without any warning the horses and sleigh, along with all its occupants, crashed through the ice into the icy water. Three men, Lorne Keown, of Sheenborough, Alex Lapierre and Peter Leblanc were able to clamber on to the solid ice and helped two women, who were on the sleigh, to reach solid ice. Murphy also remained on the slowly settling ice, and although up to his neck in the water rescued each of the children, throwing them to Keown on the ice. Four of the children were daughters of Keown. After uncoupling the horses, Murphy had to swim to the solid ice. He later rescued his team.

NORWAY'S QUEEN 56.

Called "The Royal Tomboy" in London.

LONDON, Dec. 22 (Associated Press).—Queen Maud of Norway, who, as the gayest of King Edward's daughters, was known as "the royal tomboy," celebrated her fifty-sixth birthday in London, where she has been visiting relatives.

Old attendants of the royal household are still fond of relating to their friends some of the pranks and informal doings which often caused the name of the Princess to be placed in the black books kept by the strict court disciplinarians.

While Queen Maud as a girl was often referred to as "the royal tomboy," her sister, the Princess Royal, to this day retains the title given by her brother, King George, of "Her Royal Shyness," because of her aversion to publicity.

MARKET FOR MOTORS.

Great Britain Provides Market For Several Million Cars.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 22. (Canadian Press). — Sir Alan Burgoyne, M.P., addressing the Royal Society of Arts on the future of the motor car, expressed the opinion that there is a potential market in this country alone for between six and seven million vehicles.

The export of British made cars and cycles for the first ten months of the year showed an increase of £2,534,450 over a similar period of the year before. He thought that to increase the export trade more rapidly, the British manufacturer would have to develop his cars on American lines. He held out hopes of cheaper cars in Britain.

PLANE HUNT FAILS.

Officials Give Up Search After Third Attempt.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Dec. 22.—Failure Sunday marked the last organized search for the wreck of an airplane which Warren Campbell of Brooklyn, N.Y., said he sighted more than a week ago while lost on a hunting trip deep in the Tyringham Woods, south of here.

Campbell made his third trip into the woods in an attempt to relocate the plane and more than 100 Pittsfield American Legion men, Boy Scouts and volunteer searchers from surrounding towns beat through the brush and woods unsuccessfully.

At the conclusion of the search Selectman Thomas F. Curtin of Tyringham said the hunt, so far as he was concerned, was "all over."

Efforts to find the plane were renewed last Thursday after a six-year lapse, in the belief that it might have been the machine in which Captain Mansell R. James, Canadian aviator, disappeared on May 29, 1919, after a forced landing in Tyringham.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

EVEN HONOR TO FAIL.

Mothers and Grandmothers Thwart Progress of Education in India.

TORONTO, Dec. 22 (Canadian Press).—Mothers and grandmothers in the village homes are the "pull-backs" of India, in the opinion of Miss Dorothy Kilpatrick, who has spent several years in close touch with the girls of that part of the Empire, in a brief but vital talk to the members of the University Women's Club.

In India it is considered a great honor to write an examination, whether or not you are successful. Miss Kilpatrick declared that when she first went to India she was puzzled by the letters F.B.A. or F.M.A. after a student's name; upon inquiring she learned that the mystic letters stood for: "Failed Bachelor of Arts" or "Failed Master of Arts."

CAR CARRIED ALONG TRACKS

Was Struck By Shunter at Corner of McDonnel and and Bethune.

SKIDDED ON TRACK.

A peculiar accident occurred at the C.N.R. crossing at the corner of Bethune and McDonnel Streets last night at 9, when a shunting engine pushed an automobile driven by Carl MacDonald for a distance of 150 feet along the tracks.

The driver of the auto, it is said, did not see the engine until quite close to the track; when he did see it he immediately put on his brakes and attempted to notify the engineer in the cab. The car, however, skidded to the track, and was pushed broadside for a considerable distance. MacDonald, who reported the accident two hours later, said that he was forced to jump out of the car and attract the engineer's attention from the side of the track. The car was badly damaged.

PLENTY TO SAY ON HAMILTON SPEECH

Meighen Arrived at Toronto, Refuses to Discuss Criticism By Montreal M.P.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 22 (Canadian Press) — Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Federal Conservative party, arrived in Toronto this morning from Manitoba. He is here to address a meeting of commercial travellers tonight. Mr. Meighen said that he had found that his "Hamilton speech" in which he defined the position he would take in the event of another war, was approved in the West. Decorative Boxes For Christmas

BY MARJORIE HOWE DIXON

If one is clever with the use of paste, scissors and paper one can make many lovely gifts of boxes that are ever acceptable, and among this year's gift suggestions are new ones, of unusual charm.

The use of wall paper to cover boxes is an old story, but a similar idea is popular—the use of small-patterned Japanese papers. These are available at the art stores in sheets, and exceedingly dainty and attractive are the patterns, and designs. When using a wooden box choose a color from the paper, and enamel the inside that color. Thin glue may be used for pasting the paper on the outside. When the top is hinged, a knob made of a large bead may be attached to it and thus add to the joy of the box.

Prints are being used for cover decorations. For a lady, an old print from "Godey's Lady's Book" will appropriately adorn the lid. The inside of the box can be divided into compartments with the use of wooden partitions. One place should be large enough for a powder box, another long and narrow for hairpins and so on.

Use Shellacked Paper.

If paper is used to line this box, it should be shellacked, so that dusting it will be easy. The easy removal of the partitions will assist, too, to keep it clean. A box of this kind will be a great help for storing the small things that are so hard to keep tidy on the dresser.

Inside the lid a mirror is placed. Narrow strips of wood will hold it in. The edges may be painted or covered with gold braid. It is not always easy to find a print from Godey's Lady's Book. Other quaint old prints will lend themselves to the same purpose. Sometimes an old catalogue of paintings, will contain good steel engravings which will serve excellently.

Besides prints, and patterned papers there is gesso to use in decorating boxes. The effects one may obtain are diverse and varied enough to please everyone, and all sorts of originality can be displayed.

Something About Gesso.

For those who are not familiar with gesso it may be said that it is a thick gummy substance that is applied to rough or "raw" surfaces, to get raised effects, drying in a short time. Besides boxes, picture frames can be made with gesso as basis of decoration. Gesso can be bought at art stores, and sometimes at department stores.

Suppose we start with a small box to hold playing cards. A small colored picture may be applied to the top and glued smoothly in place. Feet for the box can be made by using tiny tacks to fasten squares of wood to each corner of the box.

Let us imagine that we want a curved design on the top. Heavy cord can be used and glued into the desired shape. Now we are ready for the gesso. A good sized water color brush will be about right to use with gesso. Dip it in the gesso and apply freely all over the box, making a careful outline around the picture. When it is partly dry, varigated effects may be obtained by dabbing at it with the brush. Too much lumpiness is not really good, giving a rather rough or unpleasant xture to the box, which should be teeasantly smooth to the touch.

pl- Apply Coat of Gilt.

Now coat the gesso with gilt and allow it to dry. Yes, it seems to take time all right. There is still another coat, this time of paint. Select from the picture a predominant color, and paint lightly over one end of the box. Take a soft cloth and wipe away most of the paint, leaving it in grooves and hollows, giving an "antique" effect. This will be found to be very attractive. The gaudiness of the gilt is softened by the top color, and gently blended to match the picture. It is well to do a small surface at a time, so that the paint will not dry before you have wiped away the surplus.

Picture frames are handled in a smiilar way. If you can get the prepared board, that is best because it is braced and will not warp. If not, get wall-board and nail flat strips of wood to the back of it. Or these may be nailed to the front to form a design around the picture. Magazine covers have been worked up on such a background, to form most effective panels.

The Finished Product.

When the picture is firmly glued in place, and the strips of wood or cord forming the design are fastened tightly, then cover the exposed surfaces with gesso as you did the box, next use gilt, last of all paint, wiping it away as before.

It is a fascinating pastime and yet a most practical one and the effects are often surprisingly good. Needless to say people have committed atrocious things in this medium, but a moderate use of good sense and good taste will prevent disasters of this sort. For Christmas gifts, it is a happy idea since no two pieces will be alike, and one can do much original work on each, giving to it some little personal touch that makes for charm.

A Fashion Model's Diary

By Grace Thorncliffe

DESCRIBING A YOUTHFUL AFTERNOON FROCK

Pam came down from the fitting room today in a perfect ecstasy.

"What has pleased you so?" I queried, noticing her thrilled expression and the sparkle in her eyes.

"I've just been fitted in a dress that's a duck!" she informed me. "I'm sure I know the client that will buy it right off the bat."

"Who?" I asked.

"You know that young Miss Waldon who comes in?" Pam asked.

I replied that I did, and Pam told me Miss Waldon had asked her to phone whenever she came across a model that she thought would suit Miss Waldon especially.

"But won't the saleswoman who takes care of Miss Waldon feel hurt if you do that?" I asked, knowing as I do the value of diplomacy in a shop such as Madame's.

"Heavens! I wouldn't presume. I'm only going to suggest that the saleswoman do it," Pam answered.

Later in the morning I happened across Pammie, hurrying toward the salon clad in the most adorable outfit I've seen in some time.

"Is that the dress you admire so?" I asked.

"Wouldn't you know at a glance that it is?" Pam asked, by way of reply.

"Well, I do know your failing for turquoise blue, and that plaid is the bluest and blackest I've ever seen," I responded.

The plaid top of the frock was a turquoise silk with lines of black velvet to complete the plaid, and the velvet against the blue was stunning. It enhanced the color value of the blue, and made the velvet seem blacker than ever.

The skirt was black velvet with fulness at the front, and the little hat was turquoise blue felt.

"Don't you like the scarf?" Pam asked, adjusting the velvet scarf about her neck as she spoke.

"I love it," I answered. "And Madame does know how to apply scarfs in a manner to produce careless grace."

With these wise words we went our separate ways. I knew the frock was as good as bought, and learned later that the client was simply mad about it.

Yuletide - Good - Fellowship

It was a story in the Atlantic that referred to the "Inasmuch theory—the gospel of sharing. In case the reader isn t quite certain of the entire quotation, it comes from Matthew and reads thus, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me.

It is the spirit of this quotation that is exemplified in the good fellow work that has been carried on for many years. At the Christmas season, it is a truism, of course, to say, that as our hearts are overflowing with "good will to men we desire to share of our bounty with those not so fortunate.

How best to extend of our good to others is the great question. The newspapers have taken a lively interest in the matter and have supplied names to all who wished them so that Christmas would be more of a joyous occasion to the needy ones.

But while with these names a splendid work may be done, there remain those dear shy folks who will not admit that for some good reason this Christmas is to be a slim one. If through careful questioning one can find out these people, an opportunity is afforded for giving, that will be keenly appreciated.

Teacher Distributes Packages.

In the schools, too, good fellow work has been carried forward, with excellent results. Packages are brought to the teachers for distribution, and each child has thus had a chance to share his good with his "brother.

The children, no question about it, will enjoy their Christmas more for having thought of others, and for having prepared for their happiness. A valuable suggestion has come in the form of interesting children in the hospitals of their own cities. Children in one family or in small groups can prepare Christmas for the Children s ward of the hospital.

For one thing, broken toys can be repaired for the sick ones. Paint and paste will do wonders, and keep little fingers happily busy. Games can be donated or bought. Then there are scrap books to be made. Colored pictures from magazines and advertisements can be cut out and pasted on paper cambric, the edges of which have been neatly "pinked. Animal pictures always interest children, and all sorts of childish scenes and activities.

Arrange "Letter" Scrapbook.

Then other scrapbooks can be filled, in the form of letters. A little printing is necessary here for example, "Dear Friend, (lettering) Father (picture) and Mother (picture) join me in wishing you a very merry Christmas (lettering). We expect Santa Claus (picture) and his reindeers (picture) soon. This will give an idea of how to arrange a "letter" scrapbook.

The older folks can assist in arranging for the decoration of the hospital ward, and arrange, too, for some Christmas music. In some wards, new records for the phonograph will be acceptable and in others, a little program of Christmas carols can be sung for the invalids. There are many, many ways to bring happiness to those who are perhaps weary of waiting to be "up" and well again.

Speaking of hospitals, reminds us not to forget the ex-soldiers who are still paying for the war in some way or other, in our institutions. In some communities this work is cared for by the women's clubs. Christmas boxes are prepared by members, with the definite stipulation that the box is not to exceed in value $1.00 or $1.50, so that all will receive gifts alike. Pretty boxes are made ready with gifts of stationery, cards, cigarettes, different things the men will enjoy. In one place, one organization gave each man a handkerchief, another group gave socks, another prepared a tree for each ward and so on.

Help for Settlement Houses.

Another fine work the women's clubs may undertake at Christmas is to assist a settlement house. One club reported to its members, that clothes, especially stockings, were needed at its ' adopted" settlement house, that soap would be welcome, and preserves and jellies too. A group of members were asked to make baby clothes, that were much needed, for babies in that district.

For each club, and for each family, there is an interesting and individual way of handling their "Good Fellow" work and it is hoped that some of the suggestions given here will prove worth while. It becomes, after all, a matter of looking beyond one's own doorstep, a matter of "sharing," a matter of adding to the "Peace on earth, good will to men that we all so ardently desire.

FASCISTI PARTY TO BE EXCLUSIVE

All Insincere Memberships Will Be Eliminated After the New Year.

CAREFUL SELECTION.

ROME, Dec. 22. — (Canadian Press).—The Fascisti party wants no more than 1,000,000 members and is going to select those carefully, General Secretary Farinacci declared yesterday in an address at Salerno, formerly Democratic stronghold but now safe in Fascist hands.

The mass of new applications will be held up during the New Year until every membership card is overhauled and insincere, luke-warm or suspected holders eliminated from the ranks. The candidates will be similarly investigated. The acid test will be their political sympathies up to last January, when Premier Mussolini announced his campaign against the Opposition and its press from the Government bench in the Chamber of Deputies. Those who failed to be with the Fascisti before that will not be allowed to enter the party now that the Opposition has been wiped out.

EFFORTS TO LOCATE BODIES ARE FUTILE

Two Boys Drowned in Belleville Harbor, Youth Donned Diving Suit.

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 22 (Canadian Press).—All efforts thus far to locate the bodies of the two boys, Ellsworth and Brown, who were drowned in the harbor here on Saturday have proved futile. Earl McQueen yesterday donned a diving suit and was under the water for some time. He recovered a toy gun which one of the boys had but could find no trace of the bodies.

All Shakespeare's plays will shortly be published, translated into Japanese.

OVERWORK FOR FARM CHILDREN

Fresh Air and Nature of Work Expected to Counteract Effect.

SAYS MISS McGILL

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 22—(Canadian Press).—"The child in Industry" is the title of a pamphlet issued by the Department of Labor, written by Helen MacGill, M.A., Judge of the Juvenile Court Vancouver, and member of the B.C. Minimum Wage Board. Some of her conclusions are given herewith. Describing ill effects of some child occupations she says:—In ' fruit packing and canning, long hours of sitting the lifting of heavy boxes and weights, the lifting and trimming of the heavy beets in the sugar beet fields, hoeing weeding, long hours in the hot sun with bent back produce curvature and strain. The Ontario children may weed, hoe, gather fruit and vegetables, work in the house at dishwashing family washing, cooking, any work, in fact, unlimited hours. The fresh air of rural life and the nature of the employment apparently is expected to obviate any ill results that might arise from fatigue, heavy strain and long hours. As to education these children may find books in "running brooks" and "sermons in stones" to make up for any other lack on the farm. Admitting hat the farmers lot is often a hard one; why license him to make it hard for children?

She mentions that fact that though inter-Provincial conferences are held frequently on Unemployment, the numbr of women members of the Provincial Minimum Wage Board are not called upon to attend. "In other words, the advice and help of the unpaid women members whom provincial governments honor by placing on their Minimum Wage Boards to represent women and children are not sought. If the women, who it is presumed, are appointed to these unsalaried positions because of their sympathy understanding or economic training, who give freely of their time, are not sent to these Conferences we must assume the loss is to the Conference or that the provincial government do not think it worth while to call them. However this may be, only men are summoned."

HUGE PROFITS FOR RUBBER COMPANIES

Sales To United States Made Up Bulk of the Business.

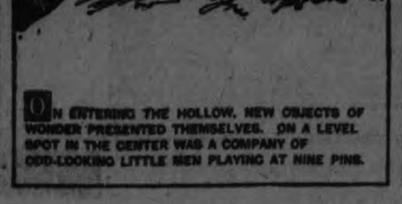
LONDON, Dec. 22. (Canadian Press).—An estimate printed in the Daily Express credits the British rubber companies with having increased their profits by about £60,000,000 this year. The bulk of this great transaction, the paper says, represents United States purchases, which exceeded £100,000,000 in the past twelve months.

ONCE UPON A TIME — RIP VAN WINKLE—VII. — by W. J. ENRIGHT.

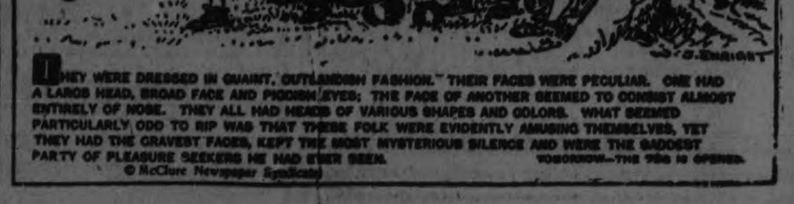
THE STORY UP TO NOW

IN A VILLAGE AT THE FOOT OF THE KATSKILL MOUNTAINS THERE LIVED RIP VAN WINKLE. HE WAS A GREAT FAVORITE WITH EVERYONE BUT HIS WIFE, WHO SCOLDED HIM BECAUSE HE WOULD DO NO WORK. ONE DAY, WITH HIS DOG WOLF, HE WENT HUNTING IN THE MOUNTAINS, AND IT WAS DARK BEFORE HE STARTED FOR HOME. THEN HE HEARD A STRANGE VOICE CALLING HIS NAME AND SOON A SHORT, SQUARE-BUILT FELLOW, CARRYING A STOUT KEG, CAME UP. RIP HELPED HIM CARRY HIS LOAD, AND THEY SOON CAME TO A HOLLOW IN THE WOODS.

RIP AND HIS COMPANION HAD LABORED ON IN SILENCE.



ON ENTERING THE HOLLOW, NEW OBJECTS OF WONDER PRESENTED THEMSELVES. ON A LEVEL SPOT IN THE CENTER WAS A COMPANY OF ODD-LOOKING LITTLE MEN PLAYING AT NINE PINS.



THEY WERE DRESSED IN QUAINT, OUTLANDISH FASHION. THEIR FACES WERE PECULIAR. ONE HAD A LARGE HEAD, BROAD FACE AND PIGGISH EYES; THE FACE OF ANOTHER SEEMED TO CONSIST ALMOST ENTIRELY OF NOSE. THEY ALL HAD HEADS OF VARIOUS SHAPES AND COLORS. WHAT SEEMED PARTICULARLY ODD TO RIP WAS THAT THESE FOLK WERE EVIDENTLY AMUSING THEMSELVES, YET THEY HAD THE GRAVEST FACES, KEPT THE MOST MYSTERIOUS SILENCE AND WERE THE SADDEST PARTY OF PLEASURE SEEKERS HE HAD EVER SEEN.

TOMORROW—THE TRIP IS OPENED.

Easy Lessons in - AUCTION BRIDGE

New Series by WYNNE FERGUSON

Author of "Ferguson on Auction Bridge"

Copyright 1925 by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 20

One of the most difficult points of auction bridge, as well as one of the most interesting, is the proper bidding of a two-suited hand; that is, a hand that contains two suits of at least five cards each. It is the strongest hand that can be held if played at the best suit of the combined hands. Such a hand is considered, on the average, one trick better than the usual suit bid, and at least two tricks better than a no-trump bid. This fact shows the importance of the proper bidding of such hands, in order to arrive at the best bid of the combined hands. As dealer, or before partner has bid, if your hand is a "two suiter," try for the opportunity to bid both suits, provided, of course, they are sufficiently strong to warrant an original or forced bid. As a general rule, bid the higher valued suit first, provided it contains sufficient strength to warrant the bid. If not, bid the lower valued suit, and show the higher valued suit on second or subsequent round. In the same way, always prefer, if possible, the major suit to the minor.

The following hands illustrate the principles just discussed and if you can figure out the proper bid in each instance, you are doing very well. In each case, there is no score. If you, as dealer, held the following hands, what would you bid? Compare your analysis with the one that will be given in the next article.

Hand No. 1
Hearts — A, 10, 9, 8, 7
Clubs — A, 10, 8, 7, 6
Diamonds — 7, 6
Spades — 6

Hand No. 2
Hearts — 8
Clubs — 6
Diamonds — K, Q, 9, 4, 2
Spades — K, J, 10, 7, 6, 5

Hand No. 3
Hearts — none
Clubs — A, K, Q, 10, 4
Diamonds — 10, 7, 6
Spades — A, K, J, 10, 7

Hand No. 4
Hearts — A, K, Q, 7
Clubs — K, Q, 10, 8, 7, 6, 5
Diamonds — none
Spades — Q, 6

Hand No. 5
Hearts — A, 8, 6
Clubs — K, J, 9, 5, 3
Diamonds — K, J, 9, 5, 3
Spades — none

Hand No. 6
Hearts — K, Q, 8, 4, 3
Clubs — Q, 10, 9, 8, 7
Diamonds — 7, 2
Spades — J

The following hand is noteworthy that YZ can make five odd in spite although AB have practically all high cards:

Answer to Problem No. 10

Hearts — A, Q, 4, 3
Clubs — 5, 2
Diamonds — 10, 3
Spades — J, 10, 8, 6, 3

Hearts — J, 10	Y	Hearts — K
Clubs — A, 8, 3		Clubs — K, Q, J, 10, 9, 7, 4
Diamonds — 8, 5, 2	A B	Diamonds — A, Q
Spades — A, Q, 9, 7, 4	Z	Spades — K, 5, 2

Hearts — 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 2
Clubs — 7
Diamonds — K, J, 9, 7, 6, 4
Spades — none

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and passed. A bid one spade. Y passed and B bid two clubs. Z bid two hearts, A three clubs, Y three hearts and B four clubs. Z bid four hearts, A five clubs, Y doubled, B passed and Z bid five hearts. A doubled and all passed. A opened with the ace of clubs and then played the ace of spades which Z trumped. How should he plan the play of the hand? Z should play the deuce of hearts and when A plays the ten, Z should stop to consider. There are now only two hearts unaccounted for, the king and the jack. If A has both, he is bound to make a trick, no matter what Z plays. If he has the king and B the jack, Z will lose a trick by playing the ace. If A has the jack and B the king, Z will win a trick by playing the ace. In other words, the play of the ace of hearts from Y's hand at trick three is an absolute guess. Personally the writer would play the ace although the play of the queen would not be criticized. From the hands given, the play of the ace of hearts at trick three gives YZ five odd. The rest of the play is easy but should be worked out for practice.

Problem No. 11

Hearts — K, Q, 4
Clubs — A, K, Q, 10
Diamonds — Q, 10, 7, 3
Spades — A, Q

	A B
	Z

Hearts — 7
Clubs — J, 8, 2
Diamonds — 9, 5
Spades — K, 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 4

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and passed. A bid one heart, Y one no-trump. B passed and Z bid two spades. A bid three diamonds, Y doubled and B bid three hearts. Z bid three spades, A bid four hearts, Y doubled and B passed. Z now bid four spades, A and Y passed and B doubled. All passed and A opened the ace of hearts. He then played the ace and king of diamonds and all followed. He then led a low heart, Y played the queen and B followed. How should Z analyze the hand and plan the play so that he can win the balance of the tricks against the best defense?

Answer to Problem No. 11

The bidding and B's double practically locate the remaining spades in B's hand and Z should plan the play accordingly. For that reason he should trump Y's trick with a low spade in his own hand. He should then lead a spade, winning the trick in Y's hand with the queen. He should then lead the king of hearts and again trump in his own hand. He should then lead another spade and win the trick with the ace in Y's hand. He should then lead a diamond from Y's hand and trump in his own hand. He has now led trumps twice and trumped three times so that he has left the king and ten of spades. He should now lead three rounds of clubs, winning the third round in Y's hand. For the last two tricks, therefore, he has the king ten of spades as a tenace over B's jack and five. It is a fine example of the so-called "grand coup," the trumping of a partner's winning trick to shorten one's trump holding. In this problem, Z was forced to trump his partner's tricks three times in order to make his bid. Play it out for practice.

CRYING AT THE THEATRE.

LONDON, Eng., December 22. — Canadian Press Despatche — does the modern woman cry at the theatre? Mlle Lysiane Bernhardt the granddaughter of the great Sarah Bernhardt says the modern woman does not. She recalls that when her grandmother played Marguerite Gautier it was common to see tears streaming down the faces of the women. Now she says it is rare to see anything of the kind. Philip Ridgeway of the Garrick Theatre, London, entirely disagrees. "Cry?" he exclaimed, "Why at the Garrick we are thinking of supplying handkerchiefs to the audience."

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

If there is one thing more than another that will upset a household it is a sick baby. Mother goes about with sunken eyes, her face the picture of distress. Father has a strange leaden feeling about his heart and is not a cheerful associate at the office. Even the little brothers and sisters tiptoe about, wondering if something more terrible can happen.

In a home where I spend considerable time there is a lovely baby. He is strong and vigorous, smiling and happy. A few weeks ago this little chap fell ill and I declare I was as upset myself as if he had been my own baby. We all felt like celebrating when he was back on his feet.

Most of the troubles babies have come from two causes—taking cold and contaminated or wrong food.

The breathing apparatus of a baby is a pretty delicate piece of machinery. The nostrils, throat, windpipe and bronchial tubes are small and the air cells are tiny almost beyond belief.

The lining membrane of all these parts is delicate and rich in nerves and little blood vessels. You know how sensitive your throat and chest are to smoke, dust and irritating fumes. If your strong tissues are so easily disturbed, think how much more sensitive must be the same parts of a little baby.

Much the same may be said of the digestive organs of the little one. Your stomach is upset if you get bad food. You make a terrible fuss over a little indigestion or gas formation. Yet your organs are strong, accustomed to all sorts of abuses. On the other hand, the stomach and intestinal tract of a baby are tender, easily disturbed and capable of putting the whole nervous system out of order.

Babies do not respond to annoyances in just the same way that adults do. If you have taken cold or have eaten infected food, the first sign may be chill. That is not the way with a baby. In his care the first sign of trouble may be a convulsion.

Even a single indigestible thing, a clot of milk, or in an older child a chunk of meat, may produce such a violent nervous reaction as to throw the child into a violent convulsion, or a series of convulsions.

Fortunately, the recuperative powers of a baby appear to be out of all proportion to his size and fragile appearance. The baby, so sick as to seem to be at death's door, will respond to treatment and in three or four days, or a week will be as well as ever.

Remember, dear mother, Nature is on your side. All the time she is doing her full part to make your baby well. With the doctor's help everything is likely to be all right.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

H. D. Q.—What would you advise for reducing?

A.—Weight reduction is chiefly a matter of self-control as regards to diet. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope, for full particulars and repeat your question.

* * *

MRS. M. R. S. Q.—What is the cause of my two-year-old baby gritting his teeth almost continually?

A.—This is usually due to intestinal worms. For further particulars send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

H. C. B. Q.—Is a meatless diet advisable for growing children?

A.—No, children require some meat, the amount depending on the age.

M. C. M. Q.—I suffer from mucus in my throat and have been advised to have my tonsils removed—I am a singer, 38 years of age. Am I too old to have such an operation and would it in any way affect my voice?

A.—Since you have been advised to have your tonsils removed, it would be wise to follow your doctor's advice. This is not considered a dangerous operation and should not affect your voice in any way.

FRANK J. S. Q.—When I was younger every time I cried my breath would shut off suddenly. This has not occurred for a long time, until recently the same thing happened and I nearly went into convulsions. What would you advise?

A.—This is probably due to a nervous condition. Consult your doctor and he will advise whatever treatment you need.

A. E. Q.—I am suffering from a pain in the chest, and back, especially in bad weather. What would you advise? 2—I have difficulty in breathing through my nose and have a stuffed-up feeling. What will relieve this condition?

A.—This may be due to a rheumatic condition, probably from some infection in the system. Massage and application of heat should give relief. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question. 2—This is either due to a catarrhal condition or some obstruction in the nasal passage. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicinal, hygiene and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it cannot be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. FAMOUS FORTUNES

WILLIAM ANDREWS CLARK—
The Montana "Copper King"

Some of the things we know about William Andrew Clark's start in life are that he was born on a farm in Pennsylvania in 1839 and moved from there to an Iowa farm; that he was restless and ambitious, and started out to paddle his own canoe when he was about eighteen; that he caught the mining fever, and in 1862 went overland by wagon-train to Colorado. After that his trail is fairly easy to follow. He joined the stampede to the gold camp, "Last Chance Gulch," in Montana. That was his first good chance, for the placer claim he worked, cleaned up about $2,000. Thinking merchandise offered a "quick turn-over," he put his money into supplies and opened a store.

He Went Overland by Wagon

Clark gradually established other stores, secured two mail routes, and acquired several mining claims which became splendid producers. He bought a gold claim in his poorer days and was swindled. He took the thing hard. The man who accidentally discovered it was a copper mine of fabulous richness had all he could do to get Clark to listen to him. Meanwhile, he went to New York and for a while attended the Columbia School of Mines. There was a lot he wanted to know about "outcroppings" instead of trusting to haphazard luck.

There he formed a partnership with Donnell, and they established a merchandise business in Helena and a bank in Butte, the hub of the great copper region. Later, his brother, J. Ross Clark, joined his banking and other enterprises. W. A. Clark built the first stamp-mill at Butte and the first smelter of importance. Among his modern enterprises there is the street railway.

Of all his varied interests, reaching from Maine to California, including mining, banking, merchandising, railroading, street railways, real estate, smelting, a stone quarry and a sugar plantation, the most important is the United Verde copper mine at Jerome, Arizona.

The world's "copper bonanza," was staked in 1880, but the discouraged prospectors gave it up. Clark finally bought it for $30,000. To date it has produced more than $200,000,000 in copper and gold, there are millions of tons of ore blocked out in sight. It is a family affair, W. A. Clark owning 97 per cent.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 23.

A very lively and pleasant day is the presage read from the dominant mutual and lunar aspects. This condition may be expected to prevail in business and in all personal relations. There is a figure pointing to probable extravagance and an unusual outlay of money, doubtless due to the quickening of the holiday spirit. The disposition may be free and generous. A tendency to wrangling and waywardness should not be permitted to cloud the happy skies.

Those whose birthday it is may look for an active and pleasant year, with a call for a free expenditure of money. They should crub all tendency to strife and rashness. Heart and home affairs should thrive. A child born on this day may be clever, versatile, popular and well-conducted. It should be free and generous with its money, but may be quarrelsome and impulsive, unless blessed with early discipline.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DAVID DISCOVERS A QUEER CHUBBY LITTLE FELLOW.

When David spied the funny looking animal behind the wires of the Zoo he laughed right out loud.

"You might tell me what's funny so I can laugh too," said the queer looking animal. "I just love funny things."

"I'm sorry if my laughing offended you," David said kindly. "But I never saw an animal just like you before and I can't make up my mind just what you are."

"Gracious me," laughed the little animal, "haven't you ever seen a Capybara before? That's what I am, a Capybara. It is plain you have never lived in South America. I used to live there before I came to this Zoo."

"But what's the idea of the webbed feet?" David laughed. "At first I thought you must belong to the pig family. Your body makes me think of a pig's."

"Well, I am shaped like a guinea pig," grunted Mr. Capybara. "Better take a good look at me so you will know me the next time," and he turned around and around so David could get a good look at him.

His great, heavy body was about three feet in length and so thick that when he walked around, it almost touched the ground. His snout resembled that of a pig and his ears were rather small for the size of his head.

"You never did tell me why you have webbed feet," laughed David. "Do you swim?"

"I'll say I swim," chuckled Mr. Capybara. "I'm rather clumsy on land but I'm a dandy swimmer and I guess I can dive about as well as any of my friends. Yes, and I can stay under water a long time too, when I take the notion. Being able to stay under water has helped me a good many times when I spied an enemy. I'd just duck under and wait until they went away."

"Do the natives hunt for you in South America?" David asked.

"My goodness yes," Mr. Capybara chuckled. "In the first place, we live on vegetable matter and we keep the river beds clear of all vegetable matters that would soon choke them up. We keep the banks all clear of weeds that would soon spoil the water. Then when we grow weary of such food, we run down in the sugarcane fields and not only eat all we can hold, but we store it away for our winter supply. This makes the owners peeved and they hunt us and kill us. You must remember our flesh is good to eat, too. That's another reason why they like to catch us."

"Then I guess you are glad you live in this Zoo," said David. "You are certainly a fine fellow and I'm coming back again some time to visit you. I must hurry home now." And waving goodby, David went down the path to the gate of the Zoo and hurried home to tell his mama about Mr. Capybara.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

Solution will appear in to-morrow's paper.

Don't wish for Health Grasp it!

In many languages at Christmas-time people wish their friends "Good Health". But wishes alone will not ensure good health. Rules must be observed—plenty of fresh air and exercise, moderation in all things, and most important of all, a system kept clear of clogging waste.

ENO's "Fruit Salt" is the invigorating effervescing health drink which ensures internal cleanliness, purifies the blood and stimulates the digestion. This is why ENO is so much relied upon to counteract any ill-effects of the late hours and over-indulgence associated with Christmas festivities. This is why ENO has its place in every home—now and throughout the New Year.

'PRO' RUMOR OF HOCKEY TRADES

Canadiens Looking Fo. Substitutes For Forward Line.

OTHER REPORTS.

MONTREAL Dec. 21 (Canadian Press).—Pro hockey trades are in the air with the National Hockey League teams rounding the first lap of the four in the season's schedule; New York, Canadiens, Montreal and St. Patricks being the clubs directly or indirectly concerned. The latest report of player deals came with the return of the Montreal team from New York. While in Gotham, it is understood, the Montreal management received an offer for the services of Sammy Rothschild, but the Maroon leaders did not accept. It is not known whether New York offered to buy Rothschild contract outright, or proposed a trade.

Leo Dandurand is also casting around for more substitute forwards and has been dickering with Toronto St. Pats for Bellefeuille and, it is stated, is in the market for a couple of smart amateur forwards, particularly to relieve his two regular wing men, Joliat and Boucher.

For the present local hockey interest centres in the game to be played here between Montreal and Pittsburgh here Wednesday night. Second place will be the stake, as only one point separates the two teams, with Montreal having an edge in that they hold the one-point margin at present and are a game in hand over Pittsburgh who have played nine to the Maroon's eight.

Odie Cleghorn former Wanderer and Canadien star whose astute leadership has been of great assistance in bringing the youthful Pirate team to its present contending position returned to his home here at the week-end. He has Herb Drury and Reg. Smith on the injured list; Drury with an injured hand and Smith with a badly bruised nose. Odie had Smith under a doctor's care Monday and states that by Wednesday night he will have his team in shape for a big tussle.

DEMPSEY AGREES TO NEW AGREEMENT

Bout May Be Staged in Michigan City.

LOS ANGELES, December 22. — Canadian Press. — Jack Dempsey, champion heavyweight fighter, and Floyd Fitzsimmons, promoter of the Dempsey-Wills title match, Monday agreed to new terms for the boxer for next fall whereby Fitzsimmons will pay substantial amount "on account" to the champion and the latter will post a large bond to insure his appearance.

The new articles of agreement, it was announced, are to take the place of those signed last summer, under which a South Bend syndicate was to back Fitzsimmons in staging the fight at Michigan City, Ind.

Under the new agreement, which is tentative only until it is approved by Fitzsimons lately acquired backers in Chicago; the champion is said to have the same purse guarantee as promised for the fight at Michigan City. The bout, according to the latest plans, may be staged in Michigan city or in any other town of several states where conditions are favorable.

The cut above shows the opening play of the first National Hockey League game in the New Garden Arena at New York. Nineteen thousand people—a lot of them New York society people in evening dress—saw the game from the big three tier arena. The players at the centre are Howie Morenz, of Montreal Canadiens, and Billy Burch, the Toronto boy playing centre for the New York team. Referee Lou Marsh of Toronto is tossing in the puck. NURMI OF THE ICE REACHES NEW YORK

Clas Thunberg, of Finland, To Meet Champions.

NEW YORK, December 22. Canadian Press. — Clas Thunberg, of Finland, Olympic speed skating champion, arrived Monday on the Leviathan to take upon the ice of Canada and the United States the campaign which his compatriot, Paavo Nurmi, conducted on the track a year ago.

Thunberg expects to match strokes with the champions on this side of the Atlantic in five title meets. The first two will be at Madison Square Garden on January 14 and 18, when he will be matched against Joe Moore, international indoor titleholder; Charles Gorman, Canadian flash, and Charles Jewtraw, winner of the Olympic 500 metre event in 1924.

The Finnish marvel, who has been popularly referred to as the "Nurmi of the ice" will then attempt to annex the world's outdoor championship at St. John, N.B. He will race there in a three day meet from Jan. 26 to 28 under the auspices of the international skating union, facing the pick of Canadian and United States skaters. Exhibitions by Thunbery at Pittsburgh, Saranac Lake, N. Y., and Detroit, also are planned.

The Finnish star is 32 years old and is married. Many championships have been held by him but it was not until he came into possession of all-around Olympic honors in 1924 that he achieved inter-national fame.

At that time, Thunberg met the pick of the world's skaters and won first place in the 1500 and 5000 metre events, in addition to which he placed second in the 10,000 metre race, and third in the 500 metre contest.

He followed these performances by winning every event in a world's championship carnival at Oslo, Norway.

By CHESTER HORTON

Whether the pivot—the turning of the shoulders deliberately to the right in the back swing—is used, is not so important as keeping the shoulders in unison with the club. That is a detail that must be mastered, because if the shoulders lag behind the club in the back swing, they will be ahead of the club in the forward swing, and the stroke will be spoiled. Mistiming will almost surely result, and players who suffer greatly from mistiming will do well to seek one cure for it through a correction of shoulder action. To understand this shoulder twisting take the clubhead back about two feet from the ball, then stopping it, deliberately shove the left shoulder around to the right until it points right down at the ball. Now look where the club is. The club will follow a natural course if you let it do so.

PRESENTATION TO DEPARTING TEACHER

Address Read by Principal of Havelock School—Given Leather Hat Box.

HAVELOCK, Dec. 22. — The school staff and pupils of the Continuation School gave an afternoon tea on Friday in honor of Miss G. Brewster who is leaving the first of the year for Kars, Ont.

During the afternoon Miss Brewster was presented with a beautiful leather hat box and the following address read by Mr. Fletcher, principal of the school. Miss Mary Anderson one of the students made the presentation.

Dear Miss Brewster:—

It is with genuine regret that we have learned of your approaching departure from our midst. We regret, not only because we realize that we are losing an excellent teacher but because we each feel that we are saying good-bye to a true friend.

In looking back over the years of successful service you have spent in our school, we appreciate the fact that you have always had the interests of the pupils ever foremost before you, and this has been evidenced by the consistent and repeated success of your classes.

We regret also to lose you from the social and athletic activities of our school and community to which you have always given wise counsel and hearty support.

We, therefore, your fellow-teachers, and the pupils of the Continuation School ask you to accept this gift with the hope that in the years to come you will be reminded of the love and esteem which you were accorded by us all. Our very best wishes go with you in the future, wherever your lot may be cast.

Signed on behalf of the teachers and pupils of Havelock School—P. Yuill, D. R. Fletcher, Olive Haig, Ruth Longmuir, Mary Wannamaker, Beatrice Crawford, Lorne Jack.

'FARM FOLKS' WAS SUCCESSFUL PLAY

Scenes Shifted From Barn Yard to New York Mansion and Back Again.

BAILIEBORO, Dec. 22.—On Tuesday evening, December 15th, the Peterboro branch of the U. F. Y.P.O. presented their play entitled "Farm Folks," in the Sunday school hall, Centreville.

A fairly large crowd was in attendance, and the play acted in a way which did great credit to the young people of the Peterboro Club, was immensely enjoyed by all those present. It was very humorous throughout and caused peals of laughter from the audience.

A miscellaneous entertainment was provided between the acts, and each number received a hearty applause.

Act 1 was a scene in the yard at Silverbrook Farm, on a very warm afternoon in August. Act 2 was the same scene as Act 1, only three days later. Act 3 was at the Burleigh residence, New York City, one month later. Act 4 was a scene back on the farm a few days afterward.

Philip Burleigh (Harry Huston) was the son of a very wealthy New York lady. He fell greatly in love with Flora Goodwin while holidaying in the country. Dave Weston (Gordon Hancock) was a country boy who was also in love with Flora Goodwin. Amos Goodwin (Gordon McGregor) and Sarah Goodwin (May Huston) were the parents of Flora Goodwin (Eulah Hancock). Bijah Finn (Allen Milburn) was a very humorous, general purpose countryman, who fell in love with Delia Slocum (Evelyn Gillis), who was the hired girl at the Goodwin home.

Mrs. Burleigh (Hazel Ackison) and her daughter Grace Burleigh (Rosanne Tully) were mother and sister of Philip Burleigh). His mother was very much opposed to his marrying this plain, though good-looking country girl. His sister, however, helped him out of his difficulty. Thompson (Earl Huston) was the butler in the Burleigh home in New York. Mrs. Peasley (Mary Tully the gossip, kept boarders and took in sewing.

The entertainment was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem, after which the members of the South Monaghan U.F. Y.P.O. served refreshments to the members of the play before starting back for their respective homes.

N. T.—You possess keen perception of sounds, and have extraordinary musical taste and talent. With a little stronger developed sense of time, and a cultivated sublimity, you might be a musical genius. You are not a naturally gifted speaker, and frequently hesitate for the right word. You have good powers of observation, and the mental ability to succeed in almost anything to which you apply yourself. You were born on a Wednesday. Your color is red.

N. O. H.—You possess great perception of colors, and have a natural taste for mingling and arranging them; you can carry in the eye and match them from memory. You are delighted with pictures in which harmony of color is well displayed, and would excel in painting. You are very systematic and particular about details, and are liable to break down in health through overwork in keeping things precise. You have a dislike for arithmetic, and are easily confused in figures. You are very affectionate and home-loving. Your color is brown. You were born on a Monday.

C. S. C.—You are remarkably cool and courageous, but are inclined to be contentious, fault-finding, and quarrelsome. You are naturally fond of opposition. Avoid debate; study human nature; don't abuse people. You can work well after a pattern; describe and act well what you have seen done by others, but have not much creative ability. You have a good perception of configuration, and a fair perception of relative size, but your mind is not worried by disproportion. You require much practice to balance your body well, your perception of gravitation being weak. You were born on a Tuesday. Your color is steel gray.

M. C. F.—You are naturally very enthusiastic; enjoy mountain scenery, and lean toward the sublime in nature. You may be given to exaggeration and bombast. Confine yourself more to the practical and tangible. Sympathize with people rather than things. Love of nature is a splendid thing, but the greater command is "Love thy neighbour as thyself." You have good mechanical ability and with practice may acquire great dexterity, and be able to use tools well. You are inclined to be un-methodical and disorderly. Give special attention to details. Have a place for everything, and keep things in their proper places. You have a good ear for music, and should not neglect this talent. You were born on a Sunday. Your color is yellow.

C. A. C.—You are honest and upright and strive to do justice, yet are inclined to make rather close bargains. Do not let your conscience be broken down. You have no great regard for popularity and are very little disturbed by either praise or blame; are inclined to despise flattery. You often stand in your own light by caring so little about the opinions of others. You are deficient in the creative faculty, and must develop it before you can make much material progress. You were born on a Saturday. Your color is blue.

S. G.—You are deficient in the power to perceive analogies, compare, and illustrate; you are lacking in appropriativeness. Endeavour to use figures of speech, symbols, and illustrations in your speech; study logic. Deviate now and then from your monotonous routine; take more recreation and observe more what goes on around you. Then classify this. You possess excellent ability to judge relative sizes, and will succeed in work requiring that faculty full. You were born on a Thursday. Your color is brown.

AT THE CAPITOL

COLLEEN MOORE IN "WE MODERNS"

The vivacious Colleen Moore, the perfect flapper, is at the Capitol Theatre in "We Moderns." The screen art of this nice little lady is increasing. She is a very foolish character, as portrayed in "We Moderns," at least she is a real flapper and flaps about with painstaking as John Rathbun, the wayward husband who imagines himself so clever, and Eleanor Boardman as his wife, who literally forces the "other woman" down his throat and makes him so sick of her that he comes back to his wife on his hands and knees pleading forgiveness.

energy in her desire to shriek to the world her emancipation from various forms of conventional chains, but she simmers down finally in a way that many a mid-Victorian creature might envy and gives promise, at the close of the picture, of being an exemplary member of society. It is somewhat like the story of the puppy that had a complete change of mind after it had eaten the soap and the shoe-blacking.

Unlike some other productions which have portrayed the reactions of modern youth in a manner far from pleasant. "We Moderns" is just a little bit tame. As Mary Sundale, a giddy young thing of the new generation, Colleen Moore has some adventures, but they are not particularly spicy or really dangerous ones. Her extreme youth and innocence are always in the foreground. Instead of the picture conveying a rather dangerous lesson, as some of them do, that you can do anything you like nowadays and get away with it, it resolves itself into a nice ending that makes one wonder why the young lady wasn't contented with being ladylike all the time.

She goes "treasure hunting" and winds up in bachelor quarters at midnight, but the bachelor is not a bad sort, and she arrives home, via the ladder from her window to the ground, without any serious damage to her morals or character. Then she takes a giddy jaunt on an aeroplane with a rather wild party, but gets tired of it in the middle of the evening and becomes a completely frightened young thing when the big plane takes fire and its occupants are in danger of death. The peppiest episode in the lot is the one where Mary rides into the reception room where her mother is entertaining her friends, on the back of a rearing racer, on a bet with her equally giddy brother.

The pretty, youthful charm of Colleen Moore and her habit of saying astounding things at any moment make "We Moderns" an entertaining picture, and there are numerous funny portions in its unrollment that add to its attraction. As an example of the feckless ways of brash modern youth, uncultured and delighting in wild manners, it is quite an interesting production and has the further advantage of ending in a perfectly proper and wholesome way, with the flapper regretting her flapperishness and resolving to do better in the future. Some of the subtitles incline to the daring in their wording, probably with an idea of suiting their words to the atmosphere of the picture.—Jeanette

CHINESE PIRATES, DISGUISED ON BRITISH SHIP, SEIZED AND LOOTED IT AFTER SHOOTING THE CAPTAIN

Forced Officers and Crew To Navigate Coastal Vessel To Pirates' Lair Nearly 1,000 Miles in the China Sea.

MANY PASSENGERS ABOARD DUE TO DISRUPTION OF RAILWAYS BY WAR

Sister Ship Passed Close By But Pirates Threatened the Prisoners With Death if Any Signal Was Given.

HONG KONG, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press)—The British-owned coastal steamer Tungchow, with several foreign passengers, some of them women, came into port here Tusday, after having been for four days the prize of Chinese pirates who looted her of a quantity of specie and valuables and directed the sailing of the vessel for approximately 1,000 miles. The piracy was the most daring carried out for many years in the China seas.

The steamer's British captain was suffering from a bullet wound in the groin, but will recover. All others on board were suffering from the strain of their four day adventure, but had not been injured by the pirates.

The Tungchow, a coasting vessel of 2,104 tons, owned by the China Navigation Company, had sailed from Shanghai for Tientsin. The pirates were aboard, disguised as steerage passengers. On December 18, at a point in the Yellow Sea about 300 miles south of Wei-hai-wai, the British port at the end of the Shantung peninsula, they appeared in their true character and seized command of the ship.

From this point (about 150 miles northeast of Shanghai) the pirates forced the ship's officers to put about and sail her southward to Bias Bay, a notorious pirate resort on the coast of Kwangtung province about 45 miles northeast of Hong King. There, while guns were still trained on the officers, and the foreign passengers were compelled to remain in their cabins, small boats came alongside and took off the loot.

The pirates made their getaway and permitted he Tungchw to steer for Hong Kong.

The number of foreign passengers was unusually large, because the railway line between Shanghai and the northern cities has been cut by the civil war of the last several weeks and the sea route offers the only means of travel between the Yangtze and Tientsin. Among the passengers were: H. G. W. Woodhead, editor of the China Year Book and the Peking and Tientsin Times; Mr. Sharp, of the British-American Tobacco Company; Mr. McAfee, of the American Oriental Banking Corporation; Mr. and Mrs. Emmot, missionaries; Mrs. Melcher, Mrs. Walsh, Mrs. Much, the Rev. Mr. Ford, and the Rev. Mr. Leafaki.

Crew Disarmed

The Pirates first surprised the ship's officers on the bridge and shot the captain to demonstrate the seriousness of their intentions. Their next act was to seize all arms aboard the steamer, rendering the crew helpless. (British coastal steamers in China Waters are officered by Britishers or other foreigners, with Chinese seamen).

The first and second officers were compelled to navigate the vessel, with armed pirates standing beside them. All the engineers also were guarded by members of the band. The yellow buccaneers made their headquarters in the first class saloon and threatened to shoot all aboard if they were interfered with.

The officers were forced to keep the Tungchow far from shore, and when other ships hove in sight the pirates threatened to murder anyone who attempted to signal. There were some tense moments near the end of the voyage down the China coast when another steamer of the same company passed cloe by, just before the Tungchow was steered into the pirates lair. The passing vessel, however, did not suspect trouble and soon the marauders were climbing over the Tungchow's sides with their treasure.

The captain's wound was dressed and he was nursed in his cabin by Mrs. Emmott while the male passengers took turns at watching in the cabin throughout the four nights to seak to protect the wounded man and his nurse if the pirates attacked.

MAN ARRESTED FOR ATTEMPT TO KILL HIS FAMILY

Is Charged With Turning on Gas Tap While People Slept.

FIVE IN HOUSE.

Wrote Note Saying That Wife Would Try To Kill Herself.

MONTREAL, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press).—Charged with attempting to kill his wife, two children and two young women boarders by deliberately opening a gas tap while they were asleep, Napoleon Descourcelles, aged 32, owner of a house on Everetta Street, was yesterday arrested after the unconscious victims had been dragged to safety.

A search of the house brought to light a letter written by Descourcelles, stating that in case "anything happens here I want it known that my wife has taken this means to do away with herself."

Mrs. Descourcelles was awakened by gas fumes, and was just able to crawl outside. A call was sent to the nearest police station, and officers rushed to the house and entered the gas-filled rooms and carried the unconscious victims to safety. They will all recover.

UNITED EUROPE THE OUTGROWTH OF PEACE MOVE

Economic If Not Political Unity Predicted By Leading Statesmen.

SOME SKEPTICS.

Common Interests of Countries Stressed in Symposium —First Steps Taken.

GENEVA, December 23. — Canadian Press. — Extraordinary interest has been created here by the replies which members of the League of Nations have made to a query propounded b a Geneva journalist — "Will there come a United States of Europe?"

Though varying in views concerning the desirability of the political unity of Europe, practically all the councillors questioned were of the opinion that an economic union was inevitable, thus confirming the impression held widely in Europe that the Locarno security conference meant an European economic federation.

M. Paul-Boncour of France, answered bluntly:

"Yes, we are headed towards the constitution of European union and confederation of the United States of Europe. What was achieved at Locarno and what we are achieving at Geneva, constitutes the first step towards the goal."

Belgian Doubtful.

Paul Hymans of Belgium, said he did not believe in the probability of a political entity like the United States of America but thought that an European union would take the form of a series of ententes based on peace and co-operation. That meant the creation of an economic understanding through the destruction of the economic barriers dividing the nations of Europe.

"What is coming is a political and economic entente between the countries of Europe, characterized by observance of their common interests and by solidarity in defence of those interests,' said the former Belgian foreign minister.

WHEAT SHIPPED BY CHEAP ROUTE IS POOL REPLY

Tonnage Comes Mostly To United States' Ports, Says Manager.

EXPORT PRACTICE.

"What is Desirable Gives Way to What is Economic."

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Dec. 23.—Canadian Press. — "It has already been stated in the Grain Trade News that the discussion of the shipping of grain from Canadian ports is being conducted from the wrong end," was the reply of D. L. Smith, sales manager for the central selling agency of the wheat pools, to a question as to the attitude of the pools on this question, and the statement of Sir Henry Thornton that the route was entirely at the shipper's discretion.

"Both these statements are true," said Mr. Smith. "The desirability of shipping from Canadian ports is recognized as much or more by the pools than any other shipper, since they handle a bigger volume of trade and can do more perhaps to make the route they want. Grain however is always shipped by the cheapest route, and what is desirable gives place to what is economic. The shipper can choose his route with this consideration.

Use Liner Space.

"The reason why the American route is so largely used is not because the overland rates are lower than Canadian but because the tonnage mostly comes to American ports Practically 70 per cent. of the crop is shipped in liner space, the remainder being tramp space. While the pools make all the use they can of Canadian ports they can only do so when liner space is available or if tramps can be induced to touch Canadian ports.

St. John is a good winter port; Halifax is a fine port with a new elevator, which will undoubtedly attract tramp tonnage in time. More than 3,000,000 of this year's vol wheat has gone out through Quebec. On the whole more than 50 per cent. of pool grain goes by Canadian ports, and still more will do so when there is tonnage to take it out. Liner space is sometimes quite cheap when wheat is scarce but the tramps are free lances of the sea and are generally chartered right from London so must be attracted by an economic offer. In a strange port without cargo they also cut their rates."

GRAIN SHIPMENTS SHATTER RECORDS

307,816,034 Bushels Shipped From Fort William.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Dec. 23 (Canadian Press)—All record, even those of 1923, for grain shipments during the season of navigation have been beaten by the shipments for the the period of navigation, 1925. The total quantity of all kinds shipped during the season was 307,816,034 bushels, which is 7,331,000 bushels more than the previous record of 1923, which was the first season in which shipment were over 300,000,000 bushels. In the previous season of 1924, the total shipments during the season of navigation were 275,283,072 bushels.

While wheat shipments this year were somewhat less than those of 1923, the excess in oats and barley raised the total to a considerably higher figure.

The shipments by grains were as follows:

Wheat, 224,586,638; Oats, 39,057,161; barley, 30,528,617; flax, 6,662,875; rye, 3,687,283; mixed grain, 2,393,460.

Ex-Alderman Holloway and Alderman J. O. Fife Announce Candidature—Robert Hicks and Gordon Matthews Out For Utilities — Some Speeches.

GOOD MEETING FOLLOWS NOMINATION.

Mr. Hicks Challenges R. R. Hall to Public Debate on the Campbell Flour Mills Charge—Meeting on December 29 in Victoria Hall.

"The City is in splendid working order; every deparment functioning properly. Consequently, whoever is elected your representative for 1926 will accept office under splendid conditions."—Mayor Turner.

"I am utterly opposed to adding to our $4,000,000 debenture debt unless absolutely essential."—Ex-Alderman W. T. Holloway.

"Peterborough needs a man with vision; a busy man."—Alderman J. O. Fife.

"There is no basis for the charges against the Campbell Flour Mills."—Robert Hicks.

"I have no criticism to make of the present Commissioners. I will stand on my merits."—Gordon Matthews.

Peterborough's City Council Chamber was filled this morning for the receiving of nominations for the Mayoralty, Board of Education, and Utilities Commission, and more than the usual interest was shown in the speeches that followed the official proceedings. It was, as nomination meetings go in Peterborough, enthusiastic. That doesn't mean the audience stood on the benches and cheered. But interest was shown in the issues before the council and utilities commission, and questions were asked of the candidates.

There were six nominated for the position of Mayor, all of whom had served as Alderman. They are His Worship J. J. Turner; Nagle Phelan and John O. Fife, present Alderman; Dr. W. T. Holloway, George A. Gillespie and A. H. Stratton. Three were named for the position of Utilities Commission: Robert Hicks, whose term expires this year; George Ball, and Gordon S. Matthews. Ten names were placed in nomination for the Board of Education, including the five members whose terms expire this year: Mrs. Kate Morris, Dr. John J. Craig, Dr. H. Max Yelland; E. Bruce Fowler; and Dr. F. C. Neal. Others nominated are: William Boulton, John A. McNab, E. Roland Wilson, Ernest H. Howson and Rev. James W. Gordon.

Those who desire to contest these seats must file their qualifications before nine o'clock tomorrow night, and the field will not be definitely placed until then.

The Addresses

At the close of the official proceedings at 11 o'clock, the meeting was thrown open for speeches by the nominees, City Clerk S. R. Armstrong being elected Chairman. Only a few of the nominees were present.

DR. HOLLOWAY.

Dr. W. T. Holloway recalled that two years ago he contested the mayoralty and was defeated. He had enjoyed his term as alderman and believed Council should seek general legislation rather than particular cases. Having no business interests he could give all his time to city affairs. He advocated sport as a good advertisement to put the city on the map. "We might pay a little more attention to sport." Mr. Holloway also approved an Old Boys' Re-union in 1927, but this could only be achieved after a year's intensive publicity.

As to the school question, Mr. Holloway recalled the city's debenture debt of $4,000,000 and he is absolutely against any increase in the debenture debt unless absolutely essential. "What kind of school did you go to?" he asked. "There is probably an excess of enthusiasm in building extravagant schools." (Applause). With the cost of a school added to the sewage disposal plant, the rate would be 40 mills before long. There need not be so much paving laid, he thought, and all unessential expense should be avoided. "We must not get the idea that Peterborough is another Toronto."

Someone in the audience: "How would you like to send your children down to the old school?"

"I haven't any children."

"Well, suppose you had?"

"It's not the highly educated man who is at the head of business today. Put the boys and girls at what they are best adapted to."

MAYOR TURNER.

His Worship pointed out the advantages of voting in the schools under the new plan inaugurated with this municipal election. He then went on to say:

Nomination day offers an opportunity of reviewing city business during the past two years, and the very first testimony I desire to offer is in connection with my colleagues, with whom I have been associated during my administration. The work of the City Council is done

CHRISTMAS CONCERTS

ST. JOHN'S, CAMPBELLFORD.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 23.—It was Christmas Eve to all intents and purposes for the scholars of St. John's United Church Sunday School last night, when the annual entertainment was held, with all the accompaniments usual on such festive occasions. The choir gallery of the church was tastefully decorated in colors suggestive of the season, with a large bell and a star, emblematic of the Nativity, appearing on the organ. An appreciative audience, that comfortably filled the church and overflowed into the gallery, thoroughly enjoyed the splendid programme that was put on by the little people who had been carefully trained by painstaking teachers for weeks in their various parts. There was not a number offered, where song, recitation or play, but what was inspired by the spirit of the holiday which all children regard as the greatest event of the year.

There were two Christmas trees laden with packages of candy, over 120 altogether, and these were distributed among the members of the various classes by Santa Claus, who was impersonated by S. A. Maguire and after last night the Hibernian nationality of the revered St. Nicholas can no longer be questioned. Santa, as represented last night, addressed his clients with all the sparkling wit for which his compatriots are famous.

The Chairman's Address.

G. A. Kingston, the superintendent of St. John's Sunday School, congratulated the teachers and scholars upon the success which had crowned their hard work of preparation, and spoke of the important work which was being done by the teachers, not only in Campbellford but throughout the country, all of whom give their services for nothing. There are three organizations in connection with St. John's School: the Girl Guides, with Miss Grace Payne as leader, and the Trail Rangers. The Guides especially are rendering the school a valuable service. After the holidays it is planned to improve the organization of the older boys.

Rev. Wesley Elliott, before the final number on the programme was given, in response to an invitation from the chairman, made a brief address, complimenting the teachers and scholars for their excellent work.

The programme was as follows:
Chorus—"Come Wake Up," by Primary and Junior Departments.
Chairman's remarks.
Recitation—Raymond Wragg.
Song by Beginners' Department.
Star exercise—10 little girls.
The Brownies—Trio and chorus.
Violin solo—Ronald Richardson.
Recitation—Raymond Covert.
Solo—Cherrie Turner.
Song—Sunday School Choir.
Play—"The Stocking's Revolt," by 15 boys and girls.
Solo—Doris Sutton.
Pantomime—"O Zion Haste," by seven girls.
Song—Sunday School Choir.
Recitation—Vernon Abernethy.
Solo—Irene Dunk.
Chorus—Primary and Junior Departments.
Distribution of candy.

There was a special Christmas box among the gifts distributed for Miss Grace Payne, head of the Girl Guides, and who acted as accompanist during the evening.

The children were trained by Mrs. J. H. Bell, Mrs. R. W. Scott, Mrs. G. A. Kingston and Miss Grace Payne. The beginners were the especial charge of Mrs. W. H. Ashton and Miss Cherrie Turner.

BURNBRAE, Dec. 23.—St. Andrew's Sunday School held their annual Christmas entertainment on Friday evening. In spite of storm and bad roads a good crowd was in attendance. A programme of recitations and music by the children was interspersed with motion pictures by Walter H. Smith of Brighton which added to the enjoyment of the evening. The receipts at the door amounted to over $30.00.

W.M.S. Meeting.

The Burnbrae Unionist W.M.S. met for their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Rannie, Menie, on Thursday evening last. A short programme followed the business, consisting of a solo by Mr. Malcolm Totton and readings by Mrs. Geo. Ingram and Mrs. Jas. Ketcheson. A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation of a life membership in the W.M.S. to Mrs. John Rannie, the faithful president of the local organization.

During the evening an appeal was read from the Sick Children's Hospital asking for assistance. As the Unionist Sabbath School, which met during the summer months, has ceased to function, the officers decided to forward the balance on hand, $14.50, to the assistance of the Hospital.

Mr. Carman Hay has returned from a visit to the West, which lasted well over a year. The people of this locality are pleased to have him back again.

New Minister.

Rev. Mr. Gardiner has taken charge of the services on his new circuit of Springbrook, Rlystone and Stanwood for the past two weeks. Everything points to a successful pastorate for this energetic young minister, and the Burnbrae friends of the Rylstone congregation will watch its progress with interest.

Due to the illness of Rev. D. A. McKenzie with tonsilitis, the Rev. Hugh Shaw of Menie conducted services at St. Andrew's Sunday morning. There was no evening service.

The annual Christmas concert and play was held at S.S. No. 3, Douro, on December 18. In spite of bad roads and weather the school was filled to its capacity and owing to the excellent preparation and management of Miss Eva Hill, the teacher, the various items on the programme received and applause and hearty laugh from everyone.

The play, which was presented by the younger set of the locality, was full of pep and hits of locaal interest on everyone. The following is the cast of "The Runaways".

Texana Gump—Ralph Selby.
Max Juniper—John Coughlin.
Mrs. Juniper—Violet Bolton.
Victoria—Grace Bolton.
Jean MacLean—Lauretta Harrington.
Teddy—Frank McMahon.
Jim Larabee—John Leahy.
Alonzo Willing—Raymond Walsh.
Deputies — Joe McMurray and Chas. Bolton.

Splendid music was rendered by Messrs. Wm., Joe and Francis Towns, and aided greatly in making the entertainment all that one should be.

After the following programme, at which Mr. James Walsh acted as chairman, Santa Claus clad in heavy furs made his appearance and stripped the heavily laden tree of its presents.

Recitation Exercise—Tom McMahon.

WARSAW, Dec. 23.—The Presbyterian Sunday Sch..l held their annual Christmas entertainment in the Town Hall on Friday evening. Dr. Munro, superintendent of the Sunday School, was in the chair. Programme consisted of an opening chorus, "Good News," by the school. Dr. Munro in his address spoke of the benefit of these gatherings and of the Sunday School training and church for the older people, but the Sunday School is most necessary for the boys and girls. Ivan Watts recited "I Can Grow"; Teddy Rose, Jean Munro, Aileen Myles and Willie Myles sang "Away in a Manger"; nine tiny tots recited "Christmas," each holding one letter of the word; Misses Olga Miller and Lilly Russel sang "Silent Night"; several boys had a dialogue, "A Little Mite"; Mary Tedford recited, "A Merry Xmas"; the orchestra, consisting of Dr. Munro and two of his pupils, Misses McMurray and Watley (violins), Messrs. Hal Choate and Gerald Crowe (cornets), gave two numbers; then there was a very pretty festival drill, during which the children sang, "Come, Children, and Join"; Miss Lulu Bell sang, "Sing Along"; infant class gave a motion song, "Rock a Cradle"; Jean Munro, an instrumental; Charles Moore recited, "Do You Know?"

Rev. Walter Cox spoke of the people who say "If they never did any good, they never did any harm." They do a great deal of harm, for if they are not progressing they are retrograding—they are useless. A future hell or heaven is in people's own making. Only those who believe in Christ can really have Christmas. Non-religious education does a vast amount of harm. Greatest thing in life is love to God and love to fellowman. At the end he described three scenes—the birth of Christ, the burning of the six hundred Christians in Rome, the saving of the little human sacrifice from the Druids by St. Boniface on Dec. 25—and these three led to the fourth, "Christmas at Warsaw, 1925," with its message of peace.

Then Jean Munro sang, "Silent Night," accompanied by Harold Choate on the violin and Kenyon Choate on the piano; Gwen McQuaig recited, "The Master is Coming"; a dialogue, "Little Pitchers Have Big Ears"; Mr. Currie's class of boys sang "Santa Claus is Jolly, Sir"; Rev. H. B. Herrington spoke of the origin of Christmas; a very amusing dialogue, "Thirty Minutes for Refreshments"; children sang, "Christmas is Here"; and the orchestra gave another selection.

The seals and diplomas for regular attendance were distributed.

Those getting diplomas for one year's regular attendance were—Kenyon Choate, Harold Choate, Tom Moore, Tom Hawthorne, Dora Tedford, Florence Tedford.

Red seals for a second year—Mrs. Albert McQuaig, Monda McQuaig, Aileen Myles, Kenneth McQuaig, Orval Watts.

SHELTER KIDDIES WERE VISITED BY SAINT NICHOLAS

Beneficent Saint Distributed Gifts to Little Ones With Free Hand.

CHILDREN'S PROGRAM.

Songs and Recitations Were Enjoyed By All Present—Liked Gifts.

Last night Santa Claus came to a happy group of children who live under the common rooftree of the Children's Shelter. A telegram, dated at Nassau, presaged his visit, and, right on time, with his heavily-laden pack slung over his shoulder, he burst into the room, to be welcomed with eager hands and shining eyes. When Santa asked if the children thought it a good idea to give out the presents at once they agreed instantly, and were soon revelling in a miscellaneous deluge of mysterious looking packages, little painted baskets stuffed with candy and fruit, useful looking stockings, mittens and sturdy suspenders. Not one child but received his share of the gladsome spoils—not one disappointed look on a face; all were shining with happiness at seeing their dearest hopes realized with such munificence.

The tree which stood in the corner shone with its tinsel trappings and long spiral striped canes hung temptingly from its branches. The sheltering spread of needles hid many a queer shaped bundle which provoked the curiosity and then gratified amazement of the fortunate ones. One little fellow had signified a desire for a new suit of clothes, and with all his uncanny intuition, Santa did not fail, for in a gorgeously huge bundle, there it was, short knee pants, little blouse and all the rest. And how the little fellow's eyes popped when he viewed it with gleaming admiration.

Then when all the parcels were distributed Santa produced a great heap of green stockings, all filled to the point of bursting with nuts and candy. These he distributed with an impartial hand to the further gratification of the little folk. Eagerly responsive, yet modestly restrained, they accepted of the bounty which St. Nicholas spread so generously.

Programme By Children.

After the little folk were marshalled into the room the Doxology was sung. John Edgar, as chairman, voiced a regret that B. F. Ackerman, the president of the Children's Aid Society, was unable to attend. He told of two of the little children whose Christmas would be spent in Toronto hospital wards and deplored the fact that they could not be present with their little playmates.

A children's chorus was much enjoyed and the singing earned a tribute from Robert Hendry, who followed that number with two Scottish dialect songs. A duet by Edward and Leonard Underwood earned much appreciative applause. Mr. Clark played a medley of southern songs on his banjo, in a manner which set the feet of all present tapping on the floor.

Margaret Wyllie told in a vivid manner an alleged adventure in which she and Santa Claus had been implicated one Christmas time, and Muriel Byers told of her trials in learning to play the piano, ending her dramatic recital by saying that she had rested ever since learning how from her music teacher.

The programme was concluded by a children's chorus. Before that number was given Geo. W. Powell was called to the telephone that he might hear the children's voices he loved so well.

After Santa had dispensed his gifts, a luncheon, consisting of ice cream and cake, was served to all.

TURKS LEAD IN BIRTH CONTROL

Economic Conditions Emphasize Need—Not Forbidden By Koran.

LITTLE POLYGAMY.

LONDON, Dec. 23 — (United Press).—The Turkish women are taking eagerly to birth control, according to Mme. Andre Rieder, speaking before a meeting of the Society for Constructive Birth Control.

She said that Turkey was in a race to catch with Europe on Western hats, clothes and hair cuts, but was far ahead of Europe on the question of birth control.

"One of the factors that has led to the ready adoption of birth control in Turkey," said Mme. Rieder, an expert on Turkish affairs, "is the fact that there is nothing in the Mohammedan religion forbidding its practice. Moreover, there are economic conditions in Turkey which work to emphasize the need and practicability of the sensible practice of birth control."

As for polygamy, Mme. Rieder declared that few Turkish men now had more than one wife, but she questioned whether the abandonment of polygamy had necessarily meant betterment in the condition of all women.

SPECIAL SERVICES HELD AT MILLBROOK

Two Churches Held Christmas Services on Sunday—Music Featured.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 23.—Christmas services were held in two of the local churches on Sunday, each being suitably decorated for the occasion.

In the United Church tiny red Christmas bells were hung among the green which festooned the gallery, small trees stood on either side the pulpit, while those of considerably larger growth were placed each side of the organ and the altar, crimson poinsettias in brown wicker holders being the flowers used. Wreaths of evergreen, tied with large red bows, were hung on the organ over the Memorial Shield for Frederick McKnight, who lost his life during the Great War, and one or two in the wrought iron work encircling the gallery.

The special numbers sung by the choir at the morning service were two anthems, "Silent Night," with solo by M. McDowell, and obligato duet by Misses Phyllis Richards and Ella Elson, and "The Birthday of the King," with bass and tenor solos by Mr. McDowell and H. W. Johnston, respectively.

"The world did not prepare very much in any way for Jesus; a manger in a stall served Him at birth and a cross between two thieves was all it offered Him at death," said Rev. F. H. Howard in his morning sermon on the subject, "No Room," the text being found in Luke 2:7, "Because there was no room for them in the inn."

"Many of the greatest servants of mankind have had a poor introduction; the prophet Isaiah, for instance, whose parentage is unknown, and Lincoln and Lloyd George. We can find no explanation of them in heredity, but they are given to the world by God, the intention being to throw us back wholly upon Jehovah Himself.

"Some have no room for the Saviour and are rather trying a substitute for Christ—a church, claiming salvation through ordinances; a priesthood, believing this the only channel for forgiveness of sins; a creed, imposing a belief, instead of a personal Saviour.

"We are actually saying to Christ 'No room' unless we are permitting His spirit, whom He spent upon His going, to function through us, for only so may we become effective agents for God in establishing His kingdom on the earth.

"We have room for pleasure, room for business, room for the world, but not for Jesus, because we are not anxious to hasten His coming, not making this the paramount purpose and desire of our lives. Instead we, like the unprofitable servant of Scripture, are using the Lord's talent for our own pleasure, gain and profit.

"What nation today is ready to receive Christ any better than did the Chosen People. Would England, or the United States, or Canada? Who are we voting for today when millions are spent even in peace time in military appropriations, exalting Barabbas the murderer rather than Christ the Prince of Peace. The nation's drink bill runs into the billions, and far too much is spent for drink in Millbrook, as well as elsewhere—many times as much as for the church of our Lord and His work. Are we voting for Christ when we invest after this fashion?"

In His own day the temple, the synagogue, his home town, the leaders cast Him cut and sought to slay Him. It cost the people of Gadara a bunch of hogs when they "prayed Him to depart out of their coasts." What would the farmers say to this sacrifice on His behalf today? Some would reply, "Yea, Lord, even if it costs the farm," while others, if it cost a hog, would likewise pray Him to depart. We almost unconsciously get the idea that the farm exists for us alone, and not as a means to serve the world's needs—and we count the income our own instead of recognizing our stewardship.

On the other side, "as many as received Him, to them gave He the right to be called the sons of God, even as many as believed on His name." We cannot come to God on any other grounds than the merits of His Son—this is the only way to gain the life we desire, the peace we need."

Grace Presbyterian Church was attractively decorated for Christmas Sunday, evergreens, poinsettias, intermingled with white flowers, giving an atmosphere in keeping with the season.

The choir, under the leadership of Miss Ethel Richardson, had prepared special numbers for the occasion, the service opening with a precessional anthem, "Silent Night," Miss Anna Hawthorne sang a solo, "The Star of Bethlehem," the anthem following the sermon being, "The First Christmas Morn."

Rev. W. A. Hunter of Woodstock preached in the morning at Centreville and in the evening at Millbrook, his sermon here being based upon the second chapter of Matthew's gospel and dealing in a somewhat unusual manner with the birth of Christ.

A vivid description of the inn at Bethlehem, "which was perhaps only an open yard with a high stone wall about it, with arched recesses round the sides for shelter," was followed by an equally clear account of the stable and manger likely to be found in Oriental countries.

"Bethlehem had been David's home. Here on the pasture hills he had tended his father's sheep, and as he watched through the long night had learned how 'the heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament showeth His handiwork.' Its grey stone houses are clustered thick together on a hill beyond the valley, and the rich orchards and gardens about it give it its name, which means 'the house of bread.'

"The shepherds were not ordinary herdsmen, it is thought, but men selected for a superior position—that of guarding the flocks dedicated to the uses of the temple. Joseph was of Davidic descent, and Mary also was of the lineage of David; in her veins ran the richest blood of the nation; she was born, not to the purple, but of it, though her hands knew the commonest toil.

"In the persons of the Magi science paid homage to religion, for these were the men of science of that period, and their science brought them the Christ. The significance of the gifts presented by the Wise Men were also emphasized—gold for a king, frankincense, the symbol of Deity and myrrh, the symbol of death and burial, a silent prophecy of the years to come. It is the shadow of the cross on His cradle; age, manhood and youth were probably typified by the three who had journeyed far to worship the new-born King, and wisdom, strength and devotion present their adoration and their gifts.

"By His entrance into human life through the gate of birth, Jesus made Himself the Prophet of Childhood, and that made Him, in the highest sense, the prophet of universal humanity. He became the child's prophet by Himself becoming a child, and thus showing that the possibilities of the infinite may be locked up in a child's heart."

Rev. Mr. Hunter will preach again next Sunday, December 27, both afternoon and evening, in Grace Church.

St. Thomas' Church will hold its special Yuletide services on Christmas Day and the Sunday following. The usual Christmas carols will be sung at the evening service, and there will be appropriate hymns and sermons, with seasonable decorations of the interior of the church. The rector, Rev. Canon Allen, was able to preach on Sunday morning, and will take part in the Christmas services.

INTENDING BRIDE RECEIVED GIFTS

Kitchen Dolly Reigned Over Heterogenous Collection of Presents.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 23.—A pleasant social gathering, attended by about twenty guests, was held at the home of Mrs. J. L. Byam on Friday evening, when the girl friends of Miss Irene Francey, whose marriage takes place next week to Mr. J. H. Yake of Brighton, held a miscellaneous shower in her honor.

The affair was planned as a complete surprise for the guest of the evening, who was invited for tea and kept quite in ignorance of the later arrivals until all had assembled shortly after 8 p.m.

Some time was spent in the enjoyment of music and games, and at an opportune moment Miss Hattie Barnard sat down at the piano and played Lohengrin's Wedding March, while Miss Amy Brock wheeled in the tea wagon piled high with gifts.

Before opening the many shaped parcels, the bride-to-be expressed her gratitude and appreciation with marked sincerity, and all enjoyed seeing the "shower" separated into its various parts. Beautifully embroidered linens, towels, hand-painted china, kitchen utensils, etc., were among the many articles, useful and dainty, which comprised the gifts, all of which were accompanied by loving good wishes for the new life ahead.

The "kitchen dolly," made by Miss May Byam, which occupied the centre of the parcels on the tea wagon as it was wheeled to the guest of honor's chair, came in for admiration and minute examination. A potato pounder formed the body and the back of a large wooden stirring spoon gave plenty of space for drawing the lady's face, while a dish mop formed the blonde tresses and a "bouquet" of clothes pins hung gracefully (?) from one arm. A gay duster did duty for dress and wrap.

A happy hour or more was spent together, with chat and laughter abounding, and with a dainty lunch served by Mrs. and Miss Byam the gathering was brought to a close.

BOYS THROWN OUT THROUGH CAR TOP

Four Lads Were Going Home When Car Went Off Bridge.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 23.—Scholars of the Zion Church Sunday School, at Petherick's Corners, were practising yesterday morning for their Christmas entertainment and at noon two young sons of Mrs. John Petherick, a boy named Ingram and another named Barnum, started for home in an auto belonging to Thomas Petherick. At the foot of a steep hill on the ninth line something went wrong with the steering gear and the car went over a bridge into a creek. The four children were thrown through the top of the car, but escaped serious injury. The auto was wrecked.

Natives of Papua are, in most cases, very superstitious, and go in fear of the witch-doctors.

In 1913 England exported nearly 30,000,000 tons of coal; this dropped to 25,000,000 tons last year.

OMEMEE LIVERY ARTICLES SOLD

Proprietor Has Taken Up Farm Work—Village Without Livery.

CLUB SOCIAL.

OMEMEE, Dec. 23.—Mr. Jermyn Palmer held a very successful sale of his livery equipment on Tuesday afternoon, Mr. W. Howden being the capable auctioneer. As Mr. Palmer purchased and moved to a farm last fall, he required some of his horses, and only two were disposed of at the sale. All the vehicles, harness, robes and other articles that go to make up a livery, were disposed of at a good figure. Many anxious buyers were present from Lindsay and Peterboro. This is the first time in many years that Omemee has been without a livery, and it will be a great inconvenience to travellers and citizens during the winter months, especially.

Tannery Club Euchre.

Last Thursday night was 'Ladies' Night' at the Tannery Club rooms, when two fine geese were donated as prizes to the winners in progressive euchre by Mr. W. S. Edwards, president of the company, and Mr. Bennett, president of the club. There was an enthusiastic gathering, and the seasonable prizes were won by Mesdames Leiper and Clement, two of the new residents of the village.

Christmas Entertainments.

On Monday evening entertainments were held in the Continuing Presbyterian Sunday School and also the Anglican. In Christ Church Santa Claus distributed a large number of gifts, which had been placed on a huge tree, gayly decorated with colored lights.

Numerous recitations were given by the children, after which a series of lantern slides were shown, depicting the more significant side of Christmas. The Rev. A. T. Weir explained the slides in a very interesting manner, and the entertainment, which was unlike other years, was thoroughly enjoyed.

On Christmas Day services will be held in this church at 8 a.m. and also at 10.30, and on Sunday evening a carol service will be held.

In the Presbyterian Sunday School room a hot supper was served to the scholars, followed by a Christmas tree.

Ladies' Aid Meeting.

On Thursday afternoon, about fourteen members of the Ladies' Aid Society of Trinity United Church met for their regular monthly meeting in the Sunday School room. The president, Mrs. William Henderson presided. The Scripture lesson, from Psalm 27, was read by Mrs. Bushnell, after which Mrs. H. Lamb led in prayer. Reports were given by the secretary and treasurer, the latter showing a balance in the treasury of $278.98.

It was unanimously decided that all sick members of the congregation and also those who are shut in, should be remembered with flowers at Christmas, and the flower committee, Mrs. Wm. Henderson and Miss L. Parsons, were authorized to purchase them.

Mr. F. G. Sandy and Mrs. H. Lamb were a committee appointed to mark the new table linen and towels.

A discussion took place in regard to purchasing a small stove for the infant class-room of the Sunday school in which all future meetings of the society could be held, and thus save the fuel it takes to heat the entire basement. A committee of two ladies were appointed to purchase same, and have it set up before the next meeting.

The small debt which was still on the shed was brought before the meeting, and the ladies decided to wipe the debt entirely off. This leaves the Trinity United Church, which was repovated a little over a year ago at a cost of over $500 and the new shed, which cost over $2,900, free of all indebtedness.

The meeting closed with the benediction by the president.

Sunday Services.

The Sunday services in the Presbyterian and United Churches were bright with Christmas hymns and other music. Rev. Mr. Cameron occupied the pulpit in the Continuing Presbyterian Church in the morning, and delivered an eloquent discourse, the hymns being appropriate to Christmas.

Rev. E. W. Rowland, the pastor, occupied the pulpit in the United Church at both services. In the morning he spoke on "Christmas time," and the choir rendered two appropriate carols, entitled "See, the Millions Marching Onward," and "Memories of Bethlehem." The evening subject was taken from Luke ii., 8: "And there were shepherds in the same country, abiding in the field, and keeping watch by night over their flock." The special music consisted of an anthem, "A Song of Praise"; solo by Miss Mary Lowe, "Night of Nights," and a carol by the entire choir, entitled, "Carolling on." Next Sunday, the services will also be bright with Christmas music.

CAMPBELLFORD RESIDENT DIED VERY SUDDENLY

Heart Disease Was Cause of George Hormell's Death.

GOING TO THEATRE.

Fell Unconscious on Sidewalk and Died Few Minutes Later.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 23—George Hormell, left his home last evening to attend the Regent Theatre and when he reached the steps leading to the entrance he suddenly staggered and fell to the sidewalk. It was found by several passersby who went to his aid that he was unconscious and he was at once carried in Frederick's paint shop near the theatre where he was attended by Dr. E. F. Richardson. The stricken man never spoke but died 10 minutes after being taken into the shop. Dr. Richardson pronounced death due to heart disease and Dr. W. F. Loucks, the coroner, who was called later, was of the same opinion. No inquest will be held. The remains were moved to the undertaking parlors of A. C. Watson and Company and prepared for burial.

Although the late Mr. Hormell was an old resident of the town it was some time before he was recognized by those who went to his assistance as there was nothing on his person by which he could be identified. At last one of his fellow employees called at the show and solved the mystery.

Wife Was in Theatre

A sad feature of the tragic occurrence was the fact that the wife of the dead man was in the Regent Theatre at the time, having preceded her husband who was to join her later. Captain Stephens of the Salvation Army was called in to prepare Mrs. Hormell for the shock of the news of her husband's sudden death and he told her, at the suggestion of the doctor, that Mr. Hormell had been taken ill at home and that she was wanted. On their way to the Hormell residence the unfortunate woman, who appeared to fear the worst, insisted upon knowing what had occurred, and Captain Stephens finally told her the truth. She was almost overcome by the shock but when she reached her home, neighbors gathered and rendered all the aid possible in the effort to comfort her.

Worked In Paper Mill

The late Mr. Hormell, who was about 50 years of age, had been employed at the paper mill for about nine years and resided in one of the houses near the factory. He had always enjoyed good health and his sudden end was a surprise to his friends and associates. He was a member of the Masonic order and the funeral, the date of which will be announced later, will likely be held under the auspices of that Society.

Besides his wife he is survived by one son, James. Arnold Parsons, of the Standard Band staff, is a nephew and lives at the home of the deceased.

The addition of flowers of sulphur to ordinary fertilizer in French experiments is stated to have added 15 per cent. to the yield of potatoes, 30 per cent. to that of turnips, and a large percentage to that of tomatoes. It is claimed that the sulphur, besides correcting excessive alkalinity in the soil, tends to increase the starch in potatoes and to promote the development of foliage.

PRESENTATION TO DEPARTING TEACHER

Pupils Gave Tortoise Shell Set and Read Address—Deplored Pranks.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Dec. 23—On Friday afternoon, December 18, the pupils of Mt. Pleasant public school gathered together at the closing hour to present their teacher, Miss Alberta Russell, who is leaving the school at the end of the year, and who has accepted an opportunity to become a member of the teachers' staff in Toronto, with a beautiful set in tortoise shell and a powder case in tortoise shell. Miss Grace Best made the presentation and Miss Helen McLean read the following address:

Mount Pleasant, Dec. 18, 1925.

Dear Miss Russell, — We, your pupils for the past two and one half years want to take the opportunity of telling you how much we love you. Maybe we did not show this feeling when often our mischievou prank or perhaps sleepy brains have provoked you beyond endurance. However, now, when you are leaving we do realize just what you have been to us and we can never forget the high ideals you not only told us about, but your own example of patience and honor has given us the desire to mould into our characters their qualities of patience, love and honor. Words cannot express our feelings, but we know you would not be leaving were it not to further your own education and while you will be meeting new pupils in Toronto that you may not forget us. We would ask you to accept this little gift which is really only a small way of showing our love to you. May this clock tick many successful and happy days for you and may it also remind you of past days spent at S.S. No. 2 Mount Pleasant.

Signed on behalf of the pupils,—Grace Best, Dorothy Morden, Harvey Downer.

Miss Russell, although completely taken by surprise, thanked the pupils for their great kindness and thoughtfulness toward her in a few well chosen words.

CHRISTMAS CONCERT SUCCESSFUL EVENT

OMEMEE, Dec. 23.—Santa Claus made his first appearance in Omemee on Friday evening, when after a splendid and seasonable programme had been rendered by the scholars of the United Sunday School, he arrived with his sleigh bells, just in time to be heralded by a group of children who encircled him on the platform while they sang "Hurrah! for Santa Claus.' Mr. Harry Lamb was the representative of this jovial and welcome friend of the children and dressed in a scarlet coat, knickers and hood to match, with his long flowing beard, and white leggings not only looked his part, but charmed the little folk with his pleasing manner and good-natured remarks.

The weatherman was anything but favorable for an occasion of this sort, but, nevertheless, the Sunday School room was well filled with scholars, their parents and other interested friends, and all were delighted with the varied programme in which both Primary and Senior pupils excelled themselves; many tiny tots having appeared for the first time on the public platform.

This entertainment and annual treat is provided by the Ladies' Aid of the Church ,who assisted Santa in the distribution of about 160 well-filled bags, containing an orange, popcorn, gum and a quantity of home-made candy; the superintendent, teachers and many adults not being forgotten.

Sunday School scholars were admitted free of charge, while a nominal fee of 25 cents was charged the grown-ups, and the proceeds amounting to almost $25.00 was donated to the Sunday School.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 23, 1925.

THE PEOPLE SHOULD KNOW.

The importance of the coming municipal election is accentuated by the fact that the appointment of Ald. Crowe to a civic position, necessitating his resignation from the Council, means that the duty of selecting a successor to fill the balance of his term, until the end of 1926, will fall upon the Council.

Five Aldermen and a Mayor are to be elected, and with another Alderman to be appointed by the Council the New Year's election practically involves the composition of seven-elevenths of the Council.

The policy of the city for 1926 will be determined by the vote of the electors a week from Friday, which makes it all the more essential that all candidates should make themselves clear as to their views in regard to civic issues, particularly the Collegiate Institute question.

If there are among those seeking election to the Council men who believe that the new Collegiate Institute should be built without consulting the people, they owe it as a duty to their fellow-citizens to make their position plain.

The electors should know what policy they are voting for if they support any particular candidate who may be in the field, and the issue is too important to be evaded.

It should be faced squarely by every candidate who is seeking the support of the electorate.

MR. GRAHAM'S FUTURE.

The rumour that Hon. Geo. P. Graham, veteran Minister of Railways and Canals, has decided to retire from the Government, and that if the King administration succeeds in coming through the session still in power Mr. Graham is to be appointed to the Senate, will be of interest everywhere.

There is probably no member of Parliament more popular among his fellows in the House, regardless of their political affiliations, than is the well-known "George P.," who has warm friends in all parties, both in and out of Parliament.

His appointment to the Senate would be regarded by Liberals, Conservatives and Progressives alike as a fitting reward for the many years he has given to the public service.

This opinion seems to be so general that the Border Cities Star, in fact, advocates that if Mr. Meighen finds himself in power as a result of the development of the coming session that he appoint Mr. Graham to the Senate, adding that "it is doubtful if many Conservatives would object."

The departure of the venerable Minister from public life would mean the loss of a colourful personality, for Mr. Graham's geniality, good humour and courteous regard for others have made him popular in the official life at Ottawa and among Canadians generally.

A RURAL TRIUMPH.

The theory that farmers as a class are unsympathetic toward urban problems and indifferent to urban prosperity is to some extent given the lie by ber of Commerce, the results of which were announced the essay competition arranged by the Peterboro Chamyesterday.

The school children of the county were invited to write essays on the subject, "Why Peterboro is Eastern Ontario's most important industrial and shopping centre," with prizes offered for both urban and rural schools, and a grand prize for the contestant submitting the best essay.

And a rural student, Anna B. McMurray, a pupil of School Section No. 5, Douro, walked off with the grand prize.

This country girl was able to present more potent arguments in favour of Peterboro as a shopping centre than were the boys and girls of the city, her essay being awarded a score of 88 marks.

Incidentally, the competition should have a very good effect in drawing the attention of the younger generation to the desirability of shopping in the home city, as against mail-order trading.

Propaganda along that line is in the general interest, and the Chamber of Commerce in inaugurating such a contest hit upon a happy idea that should have beneffcial results.

ALD. CROWE'S APPOINTMENT.

While there is often an inclination to criticize the appointment of a member of a civic body to a position in the public service in the gift of that body, there is not likely to be any complaint about the action of the City Council in selecting Ald. Crowe as operator of the city's new sewage disposal plant.

Ald. Crowe has served his fellow-citizens faithfully as a member of the Council over an extended term of nine years, and it would have been a scurvy return for his service if it had been considered as a barrier to his accepting the position.

In his career as Alderman Mr. Crowe has shown a commendable frankness in making clear his attitude on every public question, and even those who did not happen to agree with all views, admired the fearless manner in which he took a stand.

He has interested himself more deeply civic problems than many of his colleagues, and has taken great pains to secure valuable data from other centres as to the handling of municipal affairs.

The dean of the Council will be missed when the Aldermen get together around the executive table or in the horseshoe formation at Council meetings, and his common-sense manner of weighing civic questions will also be missed.

Citizens who have failed to show even a trace of Ald. Crowe's zeal to serve his fellows in the municipal field will not object to his long service being recognized by a civic appointment.

Fairly certain that many boys in the U. S. would rather be "Red" Grange than President.—Toronto Telegram.

Prosperous time. Those in which you pay instalments on ten things instead of one.—San Francisco Chronicle.

WORKING OUT A FUTURE.

There is an over-supply of teachers in Ontario, and we are told by teachers themselves that about 40 per cent. of those who trained last year are unable to secure schools. What the teachers claim is undoubtedly correct, because there was one primary school in the north end of Middlesex that had 250 applications for one vacancy.

That situation no doubt has a bearing on the request made by teachers to the Minister of Education that the granting of certificates be made possible only by a more difficult process. They would have model schools done away with and also the present plan by which a student secures credit for each paper successfully passed. Normal School examinations they would make more difficult, and add another year of professional training after a teacher has taught for two years.

Apart entirely from the standards of education, the case illustrates a failing we have as a people of following the line of least resistance, of going where others have gone before, and of doing the same thing that others are doing. A student takes the prescribed course as a teacher, passes the examinations, and then seeks an employer. The great majority of school graduates, outside of some of the professions, do exactly the same thing. They secure their schooling, perhaps specializing in certain lines, and almost invariably the next move is to seek some person who will give them employment.

We have illustrations in many of our most successful businessmen of another idea, of those who from the start seemed possessed of the ambition to work out their own plans; they did not seek some person to employ them, but rather selected a course that forced them to exercise their own initiative in the development of something they would own and control. Changing habits of the people, different methods of living, have served to point to new lines of effort to those who have the desire to make their plans accordingly.

The professions are crowded, and teaching perhaps more than any other. Our schools are turning out graduate scholars each year, nearly every one of whom will seek a chance to work for some person else. As a nation, we might do much worse than stress the importance of trying to develop the idea of our young people planning their own futures more than we have succeeded in doing.—London Advertiser.

GETTING AND BEING.

Speaking to the English Association in Toronto on Wednesday, Professor W. L. Grant, Principal of Upper Canada College, said some harsh things about the "average boy" of school-leaving age in this Province. Though it was not so much against the boy as against the defects of the educational system that the Principal declaimed. That system, he said, produced a young fellow who went out into life "a sentimental Philistine, his mind a chaos of trivialities, his language a weird mixture of street vulgarisms and with his hope pinned to a destiny that need have no other recommendation except lucrativeness." This is certainly severe, and perhaps unwarranted. But there is undoubtedly some truth in it, and it is worth while considering whether something cannot be done to improve the situation. Young people have no control over educational methods, but they should have control over themselves. It certainly is not fair to blame it all on to the system. No schools, for instance, would deliberately teach "a weird mixture of street vulgarisms." They are acquired outside, a jargon invented by the young people themselves, against which it is wise to be constantly on one's guard. These vulgarities, however, are not the worst offense, in the mind of the principal. He went on to talk of the compositions of the secondary school and college students, declaring that they were marked by a "commonplace correctness and bare lucidity, from which the last spark of originality had been carefully extinguished." So, both in school and out, the complaint comes down to the same thing—lack of originality, slavish conformity to a pattern in school and foolish aping of the habits and language of the street outside. The thing to do, therefore, is to cease to be an imitator and to strive with all one's might to develop one's natural talents along independent lines.

The charge that the standard of success set up by most young people is the degree of material prosperity attached is, without doubt, justified in many cases. In the discussion aroused by Principal Grant's speech another professor expressed the hope that "some time within the next two or three generations Canada would become civilized, and the materialistic attitude of the present day have disappeared." But why should we have to wait for two or three generations to pass by before the reproach is removed? The young people of today have the remedy in their own hands. Money, though a desirable commodity, is not the only thing to be considered, nor even the main thing. The best things of life, the happiest, the most useful, the completest and the most satisfying, are the spiritual and are not to be purchased with dollars and cents. It is possible to be enormously rich and thoroughly miserable, and poor but entirely contented. No one would deliberately choose to be poor, however, and there is nothing wrong about encouraging the desire to be rich. The wrong comes in when character is sacrificed to sordid ends, when the desire to "get" exceeds the desire to "be." For it is what we are, rather than what we have, that counts.—Hamilton Spectator in an editorial for young people.

TORONTO LIVESTOCKS

TORONTO, Dec. 22.—Today's business was quickly disposed of and the pens were almost bare after the first hour. The principal trade was in butchers' cows, which sold steady. One choice export bull brought $5.60 a cwt. One mixed bunch of good handyweight butchers' sold at $6.75 a cwt., and one fat heifer brought $7.25 a cwt. Any butchers' cattle were firm with Monday's prices. A load of rough feeders, 850 lbs. each sold at $5 a cwt. Nothing of any consequence is expected on the market the balance of the week.

Calves showed up perceptibly today after the first sales at about steady prices and bids were dropped a dollar to a dollar and a half a cwt. Sellers seem to be satisfied that a lower market will have to be made if the supply is to be sold.

Lambs were steady. The principal supply was an eastern shipment of 200, which sold at 13½ cents a pound, but the shipment was about two-thirds bucks. Choice sheep were firm at 7½ cents a pound.

There is no definite market on hogs. The packers are bidding $12.50 a cwt. f.o.b., while the sellers are trying to get $12.75. The run this morning is only a little over 300.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 22 (Canadian Press).—Sales of Ontario and Quebec No. 2 white oats wer emade at 52 1-2; No. 3 white at 51 1-2, and No. 4 white at 50c per bushel, ex-track. Canadian western grades were steady.

A very firm feeling prevailed in the market for all lines of millfeed under a good steady demand for supplies, and sales of odd straight car lots of shorts were made as high as $33.50 per ton, but there was no actual change in prices announced.

The trade in potatoes showed no improvement and the market was quiet with an easy undertone, but prices showed no further change. The demand was limited owing to the fact that buyers in most cases are well supplied for the balance of the year, when it is expected there will be a little more activity. Car lots of Quebec varieties were quoted at $2.40 to $2.50 per bag, and New Brunswick Green Mountains at $2.65 per bag of 90 pounds, ex-track.

The trade in cheese was also dull, and the market was featureless, there being no indications for an improvement in demand from foreign buyers in the near future. The tone was about steady with current receipts of No. 1 white and colored cheese quoted at 18 1-4 to 18 1-2c per pound.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 22 (Canadian Press). — Unfavorable harvest weather for Argentina had much to do with turning the wheat market decidedly upward today in the last part of the Board of Trade session. United States Government crop estimates issued after trading was ended were construed as moderately bullish on wheat and corn, but bearish on oats. Closing quotations for wheat were strong, 1-4 to 2 1-8 cents net higher, new style, December $1.67 1-4 and May $1.63 1-8 to $1.63 1-4. Corn finished at 1-2 to 1 cent advance; oats 8 cent off to 2 1-8 cents up, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to 22 cents gain.

In contrast with the late strength of wheat values considerable depression was shown earlier as a result of advices pointing to likelihood of enlargement of yield in Argentina. The earlier reports from Argentina told of good weather. On the other hand, late news emphasized word of rains in Southern Argentina, the section where cutting and threshing of wheat is now principally going on and where absence of moisture is urgently wanted. Meanwhile, indications that export demand for North American wheat was still flat tended to bring about price setbacks for the time being, and so likewise did month-end readjustment of December accounts here.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, Dec. 22 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today as follows: Sterling, demand, $4.85; sterling, cables, $4.85 3-8.

EGGS AND POULTRY

OTTAWA, Dec. 22 (Canadian Press).—The egg situation generally is unchanged today. Toronto poultry market is firm while a slight decline is reported from Montreal.

Toronto—Eggs unchanged. Poultry firm, turkeys 42 to 48, geese 24 to 25.

Montreal—Egg prices unchadged. Unseasonable weather and increased offerings have brought about a turkey price drop, selling best lots ranging from 41 to 42.

FULFILLMENT.

All does not pass with the summer's rose,
All is not gone when the swallow goes,

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 23.—The annual Christmas tree and entertainment of the Baptist Sunday School was held on Friday afternoon and evening. The programme was a varied one and began with a sleigh drive, the children being brought back to the Sunday school in time for tea provided and served by the teachers and ladies of the church.

This was followed by an entertainment in the auditorium of the church at which the pastor, Rev. W. H. Howard presided, and the following programme was rendered.

Howard; Recitation, Velma Johnson; Chorus, The Little Band; Recitation, Alex Nicholls; Duet, Eva and Jack Hendren; Recitation, Stella Rosebrough; Solo, Beatrice Kidd; Pantomine, The Little Band; Recitation, Marjorie Roseborough; Tableau, The Little Band; Recitation, Phyllis Bolton.

Presentation to Pastor.

After the programme was over, Mr. Joseph Nicholls read the following address to Rev. and Mrs. Howard and Messrs. W. MacDonald and Ben Nicholls presented them with a handsome table and rocking chair.

ADDRESS— Lakefield, Dec. 11th, 1925

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Howard:

We, the members of the Lakefield Baptist Church, and congregation, take this opportunity of assuring you of the warm affection with which we hold you in our hearts.

Just a year ago you came to labour among us and during that time we have grown to love you. If it be God's will may you be spared to us many more years. May God's richest blessing be with you in your work here.

We beg of you to accept this chair and table as a tangible evidence of our appreciation of your services.

Wishing you a very very merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Signed on behalf of your church and congregation—

W. MacDonald,
Ben Nicholls,
Jos. Nicholls.

Although completely taken by surprise Mr. and Mrs. Howard each gracefully expressed their gratification at the expression of affection of their people, manifested in this very delightful manner.

Attendance Prizes.

The prizes for attendance at Sunday school were presented by Mrs. S. Hunter, the superintendent.

Class II.—Alice Nicholls and Fern Bolton (equal), 49 Sundays; Edna Howard, 46 Sundays.

Class III.—Wallace Hendren and Elwood Northey (equal), 45 Sundays; Emene Robinson, 41 Sundays.

The next item on the programme was the presentation of gifts from the Christmas tree, each gift was accompanied by a bag of candy and nuts, the adults in the audience also receiving candy and nuts. The entertainment was of two-fold value as it not only gave a delightful Christmas treat to the children but also a very agreeable congregational re-union.

Pinegrove School Concert.

The annual Christmas entertainment of the Pinegrove school was held on Friday evening last, with a large crowd present and a most successful evening's entertainment. Rev. S. A. Kemp occupied the chair in a most acceptable manner.

Miss Nina Young, the teacher, is to be congratulated on the success of her efforts for, while she received the co-operation of parents, pupils and friends of the school, the responsibility of its success rested on her.

The following is the programme.—1, Chorus, "O Canada;" 2, Welcome, seven boys; 3, Chairman's Address, Rev. S. A. Kemp; 4, Recitation, Ernie Bell; 5, Recitation, Howard Bell; 6, Christmas Play in three Acts, "Santa's Predicament," smaller children; 7, Recitation, Trueman Dunford; 8, Chorus, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing;" 9, Recitation, Ralph Darling; 10, Dialogue, "Making a Cake;" 11, Recitation, Muriel Bullock; 12, Solo, Mildred Coones; 13, Boxing Bout, two boys; 14, Dialogue, "Reading the News;" 15, Chorus from the Kitchen, Trueman and Etta Dunford; 16, Drill, "Fan Fairies," four little girls; 17, Dialogue, "Pat Entertains," three boys; 18, Song, Ernie Bell and Dorothy Coones; 19, Dialogue, "Meeting of the Minstrels;" 20, Reading, Miss Ora Dunford; 21, Dialogue, "Cora's Callers;" 22, Drill, "Scarecrows A-roaming," seven boys; 23, Reading, Edna Hockaday; 24, Song, Roy Dunford, "Whiter Than Snow;" 25, Dialogue, "Waiting For the Doctor;" 24, Ruler Drill; 27, Dialogue in two Acts, "Our Awful Aunt;" 28, Chorus, "Santa Claus is Here."

After this number Santa presented the presents to the children, Mr. R. H. Little taking the part of the genial saint.

The numbers were all so good it would be unfair to make comparisons as each boy and girl and each adult performer did their utmost to make the concert a success.

The G.W.V.A. and the Ladies' Auxiliary are having the annual Christmas tree for Veteran's children on Christmas afternoon in the Town Hall.

The annual Christmas tree of the United (Presbyterian) Sunday school will be held as usual in the School-room on Christmas Eve.

CARS CRASHED AT KINGSTON CORNER

Pedestrians Had Narrow Escape When Cars Ran on Walk.

KINGSTON, Dec. 23—When two autos collided at the corner of Division and Clergy Street, Mrs. E. G. Somerville, her young son and six-months old baby had a miraculous escape from death. One of the cars ran up on the sidewalk and crashed into the baby carriage smashing it into kindling wood, but outside of a severe shock the baby is none the worse ot the terrible experience.

Mrs. Somerville and her two children had just turned the corner on their way home half a block away, when the accident occurred. And strange to say the drivers of the cars that figured in the accident, two young men named Payne, residing near Gananoque, are brothers. The slippery condition of the roadway is blamed for the accident. How the baby escaped instant death is hard to imagine by people who happened to be at the corner when the accident happened.

PASTOR ROBBED.

Burglars Entered House During Absence at Church.

KINGSTON, Dec. 23 (Special)—Burglars secured an entrance to the home of Rev. W. H. Raney, pastor of Queen Street Methodist Church, while members of the family were at church and ransacked the place. They secured $2.50 but overlooked larger sums. The house was turned topsy-turvy from top to bottom. The thieves were evidently looking for the receipts of a special collection taken up at the church Sunday morning.

RICH ORE FIND.

KINGSTON, Ont., Dec. 23 (Canadian Press).—A rich "find" of ore is reported from the Ore Chimney Mine at North Brook as the result of blasting operations on Saturday night last, large quantities being uncovered in the world. The vein carries galena and native silver and previous assays of ore from the mine showed uranium, gold and lead. The news of the find was hailed with delight at North Brook and in the surrounding district.

The mine is owned largely by Buffalo capital and the chiefs of the organization have been apprised of the "find."

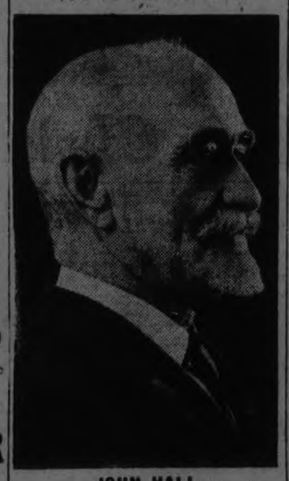
PRE-ELECTION GOSSIP IN CAMPBELLFORD AGREES THAT THERE SHOULD BE NO GENERAL ACCLAMATION

NOT A CANDIDATE.



JOHN HALL,
Member of Campbellford Board of Education, who will not seek re-election because of poor health.

G. A. Kingston Mentioned as Successor to Mayor A. J. Meyers.

ECONOMY TALK.

Two Councillors Willing To Retire To Avoid Election Expense.

CAMPBELLFORD, December 23.—About all that is definitely known here with regard to the coming municipal election is that there is to be a nomination meeting in the Regent Theatre next Monday night; that Mayor Meyers will not be a candidate for re-election; that Reeve Davidson and Deputy-Reeve Palliser will be out to succeed themselves; that Councillor Abernethy will again stand for the council, and that Councillor Moore will also be a candidate. Councillors Stone, Wiggins and Cole are saying nothing, being as hesitant about declaring their intentions as a Scot swain. As for the mayorality, figuratively speaking, the office, armed with a lantern, scoured the town looking for a candidate and its Diogenes-like quest ended with the locating of G. A. Kingston, who has been a member of the council, and Finance Minister for the past two years.

Talk of Acclamation.

So far not a single new man has signified his intention of being a candidate for any one of the above positions. It was different in former years when those ambitious to serve the public were always ready to have the announcement of their intentions appear in the press well in advance of the official nomination. Perhaps the reason for this apathy is the fear that even with the expenditures in 1926 held down to the lowest possible limit the tax rate is sure to increase, as the first payment on some of the new debentures falls due next year. For an increase in the rate a new council would likely be held responsible even if they were in no way to blame.

The present councillors are all for economy now. They see that at least $200 can be saved the taxpayers by avoiding an election and permitting the return of a mayor, the members of the council and a Water and Light Commissioner, by acclamation. Councillors Moore and Wiggins at least are in favor of this course and are willing to retire if their doing so would assure the return of others without opposition.

Those who are in favor of an election by acclamation (and these are by no means confined to members of the council) propose the following slate:

For Mayor—G. A. Kingston.
For Reeve—C. H. Davidson.
For Deputy Reeve—C. W. Palliser.
For Water and Light Commissioner—A. J. Meyers.
For Councillors—W. J. Abernethy, R. H. Cole, S. J. Moore, Walter S. Wiggins, J. N. Stone and Alex. McDonald.

The vacancy caused in the council by the retirement of Mayor Meyers, it will be noted, would be filled, according to the above slate, by Alex. McDonald, who was a member last year, and who made a creditable record. Mr. McDonald is a returned man, and there is at present no veteran of the Great War in the council.

No Chance for Acclamation.

But there is no chance for an acclamation except perhaps in isolated instances. All plans to avoid an elec-

LI'S SHATTERED ARMY RETREATS

Halted For Last Stand at Tientsin—Casualties Great.

DEFENSE BROKEN.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press).—The army of Li Ching-Ling, Governor of Chihli, which has been retreating before the troops of Marshal Feng Yu-Hsiang, halted on Tuesday afternoon to make a last stand for Tientsin.

Terrible Attack.

LONDON, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press).—The army of Li Ching-Ling, Governor of Chihli, is in full retreat to Tientsin, says the Daily Mail's correspondent on the Yangtsun front. By a terrible attack yesterday, Marshal Feng Yu-Hsiang's troops of the National People's Army drove Li's forces back to their main defences and then broke through this line also. The casualties on both sides were very great.

LIVE STOCK PRICES HIGHER THIS YEAR

Heavier Trade With Britain and U. S. A.

OTTAWA, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press).—Higher prices and increased bulk of trade for Canadian livestock and meat commodities have prevailed so far this year. A report from the Federal Department of Agriculture shows an improvement in the market, home and abroad, for these commodities.

The report says:

"In November this year, at the five principal markets in the country, top prices compared with the corresponding month of last averaged: Butcher steers $7 against $5.84; veal calves $9.25 against $7.83; select bacon hogs $13.35 against $9.93, and good lambs $12.91 against $12.08.

"Exports for the respective eleven months, 1925 and 1924, show as follows: cattle 177,474 against 170,913; beef 29,587,400 lbs., against 17,893,200 lbs.; bacon 117,842,900 lbs., against 101,780,700 lbs.; pork 16,347,900 lbs. against 620,200 lbs.

"The increase was principally in trade with Britain, but in all but cattle and beef there was also an increase in the trade with the United States.

EMPHASIZED SERVICE.

Minister in Sermon Said Should Be Christmas Ideal in Life.

WARSAW, Dec. 23.—There was a good congregation at the United church. Rev. H. B. Herrington gave the last address on the Christian hope. The text was from 1 John, 3-2, "We know that when He shall appear we shall like Him for we shall see Him as He is." He mentioned the idea of hell, purgatory and heaven, as held until about the beginning of Protestantism. He mentioned Dante's description of hell and seven steps of purgatory, to a heaven of eternal rest and joy. But our future being to be like Jesus must mean service, joyous, happy service, as each one is fitted. All are not capable of doing the same, but all will see Christ and reflect His image in the future life, as they are able, and each will be happy in the service rendered. Christmas service will be held next Sunday.

There was the regular service in the Anglican church and the Christmas service will be held next Sunday afternoon.

Rev. Walter Cox was in the village Friday and administered Sacrament to "shut-ins" wishing it.

Mr. Sargent and son motored to Dunsford and back on Thursday.

CROP ESTIMATE OF U. S. REVISED

Corn Worth Nearly Two Billions—Cotton Exceeds Billion.

LATEST FIGURES.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press).—Revised estimates of this year's crop production, issued Tuesday by the Department of Agriculture, showed a number of changes from the preliminary estimates announced last month.

Reductions were reported in the size of the corn, wheat and white potato crops, while increases were shown for oats and tobacco.

The changes from the preliminary estimates, the Department announced, represents readjustments based upon later and fuller information, particularly the preliminary figures of the United States census for 1924, now becoming available.

The total value of the crops was not announced, but unofficial calculations, based on December 1 farm prices as given by the Department of Agriculture, place the value of this year's corn crops at $1,954,991,594, the wheat crop at $947,820,840, cotton at $1,337,541,276, with cottonseed valued at $191,489,920 additional, the white potato crop at $605,110,896, and the tobacco crop at $246,987,780.

The corn crop this year was placed at 2,900,581,000 bushels, as compared with 3,013,380,000 last month, a reduction of 112,799,000 bushels. Wheat production has been revised to 660,365,000 bushels, against 607,272,000 bushels last month, a reduction of 27,907,000 bushels. The figure for oats was increased to 1,501,909,000 bushels from 1,470,385,000 last month, an increase of 31,524,000 bushels; that for white potatoes was reduced to 323,243,000 bushels from 346,503,000 bushels last month, a decrease of 23,260,000 bushels, and that for tobacco was increased to 1,349,660,000 pounds from 1,243,226,000 pounds, an addition of 85,434,000 pounds.

FARMERS PRODUCE BILLION AND HALF

Tremendous Wealth From Harvest—Honey Crop Heavier.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 23 (Canadian Press)—"Canada has just finished harvesting a billion dollar crop from her fields and returns from her studs, herds and flocks will easily total another half billion dollars," states a bulletin issued by the Department of Agriculture. "Agriculture," continues the statement, "is responsible for a return to the people of produce valued at something over $1,500,000,000 this year.

The bulletin employing these figures is urging the promotion of bee-keeping in Canada and announces that large quantities of nectar are annually going to waste in Canada. It is one of the farm industries which has still far from producing its maximum. One beekeeper near Lethbridge, Alberta, produced more honey this year than was produced by the entire province in 1924. In Manitoba the honey crop has trebled in three years and in Saskatchewan the reported crop of 1924 was over 66 times as large as that of 1918.

MISSIONARY HOME.

Dr. Jessie Findlay on Furlough From Union Medical College—There Two Years.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press).—Dr. Jessie Findlay, after two terms of missionary service in India is home on furlough from the Union Medical College, situated at Wellore, near Madras. She was principal of the Timpany Memorial School in Cocanana, India, between the years 1908 and 1920, after which time she returned to Winnipeg to study medicine with her sister. Both were then called to Union college by the Northwest Baptists, where they are engaged in training Indian women in medicine.

Indians Chose Rapid Travel Government Won't Pay Bill

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(United Press).—The United States Government has frowned upon the too rapid modernization of its Indian wards.

Two young Indians recently wanted to return from Kansas City, Mo., to the Osage Indian Reservation of Pawsuska, Okla. The trip by train would have cost them a total of $16.04, but they declined to use such an ancient mode of travel. One made the trip in a commercial airplane and the other took a taxi cab.

When the cab and airplane company presented their bills, amounting to $264, the superintendent of the Osage Agency refused to pay on the ground that the companies should first have obtained the consent of the Indians' guardians for the use of the novel methods of travel.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs Burke has upheld the superintendent's decision.

GRAVE CONFLICT IS PROPHESIED

Tchitcherin Says Britain and United States Have Great Differences.

U.S.A. WON WAR.

BERLIN, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press)—The Communist newspaper "Wrote Fahne" (red flag) quotes Foreign Minister Tchitcherin of Soviet Russia as declaring he foresaw grave conflict between Great Britain and United States which was already discernable in their differences over Chinese policy, Britain's attemp-at commercial penetration of South America and the fight over rubber prices. The real victor of the world war, he continued, was the United States which now was meddling in all the affairs of the world.

CITY EXTENDED.

Size of Glasgow Has Been Increased Nearly 50 Per Cent.

GLASGOW, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press).—By a special bill put through Parliament the boundaries of the city of Glasgow have been so extended as to increase the acreage of the city by about one half. Portions of Dumbartonshire, Lanarkshire, and Renfrewshire to the extent of 10,500 acres are being taken in. The value of the areas is about a quarter million pounds sterling. The reason for the extension is the overgrowing of the city and the shortage of houses. The corporation had bought several large areas for houses.

TWO GROUPS STEM WAVE OF OPTIMISM

Northern Industrialists Coming to Aid Financial Streess of France.

PARIS, Dec. 23 — (Canadian Press).—A wave of optimism which followed the announcement of a plan of northern industrialists to come to the rescue of the Government and and it in overcoming its financial distress is receding. Two big French industrial associations, the General Federation of French Producers and the National Association for Economic Expansion, are declared to be throwing cold water on the project. They hold it is understood that the plan might be worthy of the adhesion of all French industries but as a final touch to and not as a basis of the financial reform plan elaborated by the Government.

Contact Heat Puts the Speed into SPEEDIRON

PAT'D and REG'D. 1925

WHEN a boy pokes his finger into a pie hot out of the oven, he is instantly made aware of the meaning of "contact" heat, just as you would be if you put your finger on a hot iron.

When you put your hand near a hot iron you feel "radiated" heat.

When you set a kettle or pan on the Speediron Element in a McClary's Electric Range you get contact heat.

There is no air space to waste or radiate the heat. The heat can't go anywhere but upward into the bottom of your pan or kettle, because the bottom of the Speediron Element is specially and thoroughly insulated, preventing heat from going down and forcing it to go up through the bottom of the cooking utensils.

That flat, even top surface and the insulated bottom of the Speediron Element forcing the heat up, put the speed into Speediron—the speediest protected element ever designed.

McClary's New Element, Speediron, is made in three parts held together by one bolt. The whole unit lifts out almost as easily as you lift a stove lid—no screws or bolts or wire connections to unfasten. With the unit out it is a simple matter to unscrew the bolt and lift off the iron protector. The burned out heating coil is then easily and quickly replaced with a new one. Then you drop the unit back into place and the Speediron Element is ready for service again.

No liquids, forks, dirt or anything else can get into the coils of McClary's Speediron Element—the electric range element without an "if."

Come and See It

If you have an Electric Range now you will want to see this new, splendid improvement, because you know all about Electric Range troubles now. If you are going to buy an Electric Range you should see the Speediron Element in McClary's Electric Range—the trouble-proof Element. The new Speediron Elements are now on view at all leading dealers. Come and see it—today.

McClary's new Element—Speediron—was originated, developed and perfected in McClary's Electrical Engineering Department—is patented and registered by McClary's, used exclusively in McClary's Electric Ranges. It is the greatest achievement in Electric Ranges ever brought out and makes McClary's Electric Range the absolute leader of all Electric Ranges.

FARM NEWS AND PROBLEMS

The Evening Examiner Wishes Its Farm Readers A Merry Christmas

Pagen Custom Survives In Burning The Yule Log

Christmas Observance Was Borrowed From Scandinavian Festival of Juul—Romans Burned Huge Log on the Feast of Sol—Honored in England.

There is something of the pagan and primitive in every one of us, and there are few people who do not find keen enjoyment and delight in watching the fantastic play of sparks and flames i an open fire.

At this season of the year the mere mention of the Yule-Log suggests warmth, comfort, good-will and happy gatherings, but it may not be generally known that the custom of burning the Yule-Log is an old pagan practice which used to be celebrated on the day of the Roman Feast of the birth of Sol, on the 25th of December.

This Christmas ceremony spread to many countries and nations, and was directly transmitted to us by our Scandinavian ancestors, who at the Feast of Juul, at the winter solstice,used to kindle huge bonfires in honor of their God, Thor. In feudal times in Merrie England, the bringing in and placing of the ponderous log on the hearth was the most joyous of ceremonies. The venerable log, destined to crackle a welcome to all comers, was drawn in triumph from the heart of the forest. Each wayfarer raised his hat as he passed, knowing that it was full of good promises and that its flame would burn out old wrongs and cause the liquor to bubble in the wassail bowl, that was quaffed to the drowning of ancient feuds.

Then, after having served its purpose on Christmas Eve, it was carefully preserved until the next Christmas, when its charred remains were used to light the new Yule-Log.

FEW COWS SOLD AROUND MADOC

Good Year for Milk is Reason for Farmers Retaining Stock.

GOOD DIVIDENDS

MADOC, Dec. 22.—All the factories have paid off, and declared their dividends, which are better even than last year.

Milch cows are scarce. Half a dozen buyers have been in town lately wanting milch cows to ship by the carload, but farmers are holding back as they hope for as good a year next year for cheese as this has been. Cheese has been about five cents higher all through the season at corresponding periods than last year.

BROOD SOWS NEED ROUGHAGE

Mangels Seem to be Best Food Before Farrowing.

GOOD RESULTS

(Experimental Farms Note.)

Roughages in some form or other are necessary in the ration of brood sows. Among other uses these mechanically assist in the proper digestion of the more concentrate parts of the ration. In the Report of the Dominion Animal Husbandman for the year ending March 31, 1924, the results are recorded of a test in which alfalfa hay is compared with alfalfa meal. Two lots of pregnant brood sows received a ration of mixed meal and roots. In addition, one lot of five sows was fed alfalfa meal at the rate of one pound lot of three sows was given uncut alfalfa hay in racks. In all 192 pounds of meal was fed and 196 pounds of alfalfa ha,. The physical condition of both lots of sows was equally good. The average number of pigs farrowed by the alfalfa meal fed sows was 11.8 per litter, these weighing 28.55 pounds. The sows which had hay averaged 11 pigs per litter, these weighing 2. 5 pounds. The latter group of sows farrowed 93.9 per cent of good pig or 10 per cent. more than the sows which had meal. These results would, therefore, give hay somewhat the advantage over the medl for brood sows.

During the previous two years a test was conducted in which beet pulp was compared with pulped mangels for brood sows. In these two tests the beet pulp ration was not only the more expensive but the sows on this have smaller pigs and fewer pigs per litter. The ten sows fed mangels and meal averaged 12.3 pigs per litter or 2.4 pigs more than the ten sows on beet pulp and meal, while the litters weighed 32.4 pounds at birth or seven pounds more than those from the sows fed beet pulp. Mangels would, therefore, appear to be the more suitable roughage for pregnant brood sows.

In tests of this nature the factor of heredity, of course, enters, but aside from this the results are significant. —W. G. Dunsmore, Asst. Animal Husbandman.

WESTERN CATTLE EXPORTS.

SASKATOON.—Saskatchewan's cattle export trade for 1925 has already broken for the province all records established since the British embargo on Canadian cattle was lifted. With 93,300 head of cattle exported from the province during the first ten months of this year, compared with 70,651 at the same date last year and 50,737 in 1923, the prospects are that 100,000 will be reached in 1925 for the first time since the embargo was put into force many years ago.

Seaweed Table Delicacy To Japs—Highly Nutritious

TOKYO, Dec. 23 (Associated Press).—Seaweed in Japan is a dinner delicacy—for the Japanese. In fact, the harvesting of seaweed is one of Japan's large industries.

Of the many species of the weed, gathered from the bottom of the sea, the Japanese Tangle (Laminaria Japonica) is most popular because of its flavor and refreshing taste. This weed grows abundantly in the cold seas off Hokkaido and is harvested during the summer months. The yearly harvest off Hokkaido alone is estimated at 200,000,000 pounds.

While this seaweed is relatively cheap, food chemists claim it is very nutritious and contains much "Vitamine A," the food element lacking in polished rice.

WINTER MULCH FOR PROTECTION

Many Plants Should be Covered With Soil, Leaves or Straw.

SNOW IMPORTANT

(Experimental Farms Note.)

Snow is one of the most important mulches for winter protection but, unfortunately, in some parts of Canada, it does not come soon enough to afford the necessary protection from severe frosts or sudden changes of temperature for certain plants that we desire to grow; nor does it remain long enough to protect the plants from sudden temperature changes and hard frosts in spring.

Where one is not sure of snow coming early and remaining late in the spring and, where there is little snow in the winter, it is desirable to protect many plants with some kind of covering other than snow. Soil is one of the best of such covers or mulches, hence, in many parts of Canada, it should be used to protect grape vines, raspberries, roses, and other rather tender woody plants that can be readily covered by it. At Ottawa such a means of protection has been found very desirable. After soil, the next best covering, erhaps, is leaves and, where these are readily available, they should be used to afford a protective mulch and for additional protection where it is desirable but not very practicable to use much soil. On the prairies where leaves are not abundant, straw may be used with good effect. Especially on strawberries, both there and in the East, is straw valuable to protect from sudden changes of temperature in winter where the ground is bare and also to delay growth in spring until danger of severe frosts is over. Strawy manure applied just before winter sets in also makes a good mulch for herbaceous plants, as it protects both the roots and crowns and helps to hold the snow.—W. T. Macoun, Dominion Horticulturist.

OVER 70 BUSHELS TO ACRE

LETHBRIDGE.—One of the best yields of wheat reported during the present season was threshed by Lyman Bullock, and yielded over 500 bushels from a field of seven acres. This was pedigreed fall wheat, which will be kept specially for seed. It was grown on irrigated land. The heads were of great size and 80 kernels or more to the head were not uncommon.

CHRISTMAS FARM LORE

By Maude E. Sargent.

Most of the old-fashioned customs and beliefs with regard to domestic animals and birds at Christmastide are fast dying out, but in a few parts of England, the ancient belief lingers that horses and cattle kneel in their stalls at midnight on Christmas Eve, or, as some say, on the Eve of the Epiphany, and adore the newborn Saviour.

In Northamptonshire, Warwickshire and other Midland counties, there was a legend that cattle turned towards the East, and sheep went in procession on the hills, while in the West of England it was supposed that the cattle, when they knelt in their stalls to worship the Christ-Child, received the gift of speech, and foretold all the events that were to happen in the parish during the next twelve months. It was said in some districts that if you knelt and wished at the same moment that this happened, you would gain your heart's desire, a belief which also prevailed in Ireland, where the horse, the cow and the donkey were considered "blessed beasts" because they were supposed to have been in the stable at Bethlehem on the first Christmas Night and people wished to see them kneel in adoration.

In other parts of the country, and in the Channel Islands, Brittany, Switzerland and some places in Central and Eastern Europe it was thought to be wise to avoid the stable and cowhouse after dark on Christmas Eve, lest, when the animals obtained the gift of human speech, one should hear them mention one's own name among the list of those doomed to die during the year.

The custom of giving an extra feed to the domestic animals and fowls at Christmas is by no means extinct even now, in many parts of the country. In Scotland the feast was given instead at New Year, as we read in Burns' "Auld Farmer's Address to his Mare":

"A guid New Year I wish thee, Maggie!
Here's a ripp to thy auld baggie!"

A "ripp," or "repe," was an old name for a handful of corn; in thisc case, no doubt, it meant oats. Many old-fashioned farmers took a special supply of food to each animal in stable and cowhouse at Christmas and the sheep and pigs, too, had their holiday fare. In Ireland a similar custom prevailed, and the calves, in particular, were given a special drink of sweet milk as a Christmas treat. Good folks in olden days declared that beasts and birds should all share in the Christmas fare and rejoicings.

In Gloucestershire, and other counties where the quaint old custom of "Wassailing," prevailed up to a few years ago, each horse and cow on the farm was mentioned by name in the curious "Wassailers' Song" which was chanted by the bearers of "the Wassail-Bowl."

The dogs and cats had no lack of good things during the "Twelve Days" of Christmas and judging from ancient songs and stories, they were able to help themselves to unusual dainties just then:

"And dogs thence with whole shoulders run,
So all things then aboundeth."

In Sweden, where the domestic animals and fowls also had extra fare for Yuletide, great virtue was attached to the "Yulestraw," which was strewn on the floor at this season. Some of it was carefully kept and given to the cows before they were driven to their Summer pastures. It was also put in the nests of fowls and geese when it was supposed to preserve them from witchcraft, cause them to fatten, and insure a plentiful supply of eggs and young birds in the coming year.

Part of the Swedish Christmas cakes, known as "Yule-hogs," and often made in the form of a pig, and baked on Christmas Eve, used also to be dealt out to the fowls, and domestic animals, either at Christmas, or mixed with corn on other days. It was given to the horses before the spring plowing began.

In Scandinavia, too, when the old Christmas ceremony of "wishing" was kept up, the head of the house used to go to the hearth and strike the Yule-log with a fire shovel, and as the sparks blew out, he breathed a good wish for his horses, cows, sheep, goats, pigs, fowls, etc. Then some of the ashes were collected, and either heaped on the log to burn or set aside till next Yuletide, with a piece of money hidden in them.

In many parts of the continent the ashes of the Yule-log were strewn in water, and given to horses and cows to drink as a protection against witchcraft. In some districts in rural France it was thought that cattle could be kept in good health for the year by giving them a drink on Christmas Eve, directly after their owners returned from the Midnight Mass, and before they entered the house.

The strange custom of Wassailing once prevailed in Herefordshire, and some places this practice was reserved on New Year's Day instead of Christmas Eve, or Epiphany Eve, when bonfires were lighted in the fields, and the farmers and their friends and servants went out to the wheatfields to drink each other's healths by the ruddy blaze and returned home to supper, at which the housewife always provided a large round cake with a great hole in the middle. This was not cut at supper, but directly afterward the whole party followed the farmer, or the bailiff, to "the wain-house," where the master with a cup of strong ale or cider in his hand stood opposite the finest of the oxen and pledged him in a very curious old toast. The rest of the party did the same with the other oxen, mentioning each by name. Then the big cake was produced, and put with much ceremony on the horn of the first ox, who was then tickled to make him toss his head. If he tossed off the cake, so that it fell behind him, it was the mistress's periquisite; but if it fell in front of the ox it belonged to the master, the bailiff, or the cow herd.

In some Staffordshire parishes where a similar custom was observed, the farm servants took a bit flat cake, pierced it with a pole, and fastened it to the horn of a n ox, repeating quaint lines as they did so to wish their master and the cattle good luck in the coming year. Then the men and boys ranged up behind the ox, and made it toss its head, and if the cake fell forward the boys claimed it, but if it fell behind the men had it.

The eggs laid by fowls and ducks on Christmas Eve were formerly connected with some strange superstitions. They were boiled hard, the yolk removed, and the hollow filled with salt; girls ate such eggs fasting at bed-time, and went to sleep hoping to dream of their future husbands.

In many parts of Europe, as well a, in our own Isles, girls used to go to, and listen at the fowl-house at midnigh on Christmas Eve, or New Year's Eve often knocking at the door of the build ing. If a cock crowed at the noise they were sure that they would be married that year, but if a hen cackled it was a sign that the maidens would not wear a wedding ring before the next Christmas dawned.

In olden days in North-Eastern Scotland, all the four-footed animals of a farm were served with unthreshed corn for their first meal on Christmas morning and "the clyack sheaf," which was stored up by itself at harvest in readiness for "Yeel," or "Yule," was gives to the oldest beast on the farm—house donkey, cow, bullock or sheeps. In some places this practice was reserved on New Year's Day instead of Christmas.—From "The Animal World."

Norse Myth Tells Why Mistletoe Grows In Tree

Was Hung Up by Goddess Whose Son It Slew—Forbidden to Touch the Earth—Holly Berries Were Made Red by Drops of His Blood.

Christmas decorations bring to mind some of the old legends regarding their origin. For instance there is the Scandinavian story of the mistletoe and holly, which runs as follows: Baldur, the most beloved of the gods, had a premonition that death impended. So his mother, Prigga, besought everything on earth to swear not to harm her son; but in her request, she overlooked the mistletoe. Loki, the god of destruction, disguised as an old woman, visited Prigga and learned of the oversight. Then he hurried to where the gods were assembled, amusing themselves by hurling all manner of missiles at Baldur, all being turned aside. Loki, with an arrow made of mistletoe, pierced Baldur's heart. A few drops of blood fell on the holly tree which has borne red berries ever since. Baldur's mother was given the mistletoe to do with as she saw fit, provided it did not touch the earth, and to show she bore no ill-will, she hung it up and every one who passed under it received a kiss as a token that instead of hatred and jealousy, the mistletoe now stood for love and forgiveness.

The custom of decorating with evergreens dates back to ancient times. In Rome there was the Feast of Saturn, when foes were reconciled and all the city held high holiday. The fir tree was held in high regards and at this feast, halls and houses were hung with green boughs. In England, in the days of the Druids, the houses were decked with evergreens, and farther north the Teuton tribes celebrated at this period, the Festival of Thor. Among these peoples the festivity was known as Yule-tide. During this season was the peace of the gods, and it could not be desecrated by work.

Threshers Passed Time In Unearthing Fine Fox

One day recently, when threshing operations were in progress on the farm of Mr. Patrick Leahy, one of the men engaged noticed a hunter closing up the entrance to a foxes' den. After the day's work was done and supper over, someone suggested digging the burrow out to see if Mr. Reynard was entrapped. So, forthwith, digging commenced and a fine specimen was caught, killed, skinned and sold, the price obtained being twelve dollars.

The animal put up a game fight but with sticks and other weapons in the hands of the men, the battle was soon over. The following took part in the chase and in the proceeds: Messrs. Thos. Fitzgerald, Patrick Leahy, William Forsythe, William Tighe, Alex. Edward Jr., and Rae Carlow.

LITTLE WOOL USED TO CLOTHE WOMEN

Well-To-Do More Stylish Than Comfortable, Says Salvation Army Authority.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 23.—(Canadian Press.)— In every city the Salvation Army has its industrial plants, where the salvaging of cast-off clothing takes place. Here Mapor W. H. Byers notes, in reference to increased activity, that the quality of the goods is not what it was years ago. "The women are wearing garments that expose them almost to their deaths. Not much wool in things nowadays, according to the fashions. It is wool that the poor are asking for. But wool seems much harder to get this season than it was a year ago. The well-to-do are more stylish than comfortable. But they are kind when our man calls. Some of the things are sold for very small prices which help pay the staff, and other things are given away."

FEW TURKEYS ON DOURO FARMS

Command a Fine Price at Present—Farmers' Wives Kept Busy.

PREPARING FOWL

DOURO, Dec. 23.—Besides the usual Christmas prdparation rush, local housewives have the distasteful job of preparing turkeys, geese, ducks, etc., for market. The "dry-plucking" done in an out-building is a cold, disagreeable job. But the hardship is forgotten when the cheques come, as turkeys especially, are a fine price. Mr. P. G. BUFFALO HERDS TAX CAPACITY

Efforts of Canada to Preserve Animals Successful—Now Have New Problem.

MAY BE SLAUGHTERED.

OTTAWA, December 23. — Canadian Press. — Canada's efforts in the past 18 years to preserve the Buffalo from extinction, have been so succesful that she will soon be faced with the problem arising from a lack of space at the buffalo national park, Wainwright, Alta.

At present a herd of 8000 animals is located at the Wainwright Park, and the anticipated annual increase next spring is 2,000, bringing the total to 10,000 head. The provisions ordinarily, however, afford protection for 5000 animals only.

The situation will have to be met, it is learned at the Department of the Interior by the slaughter of a large number of the herd or the shipment of many for the distance of 700 miles to the wood buffalo park, near Fort Smith, in the North West Territories

SIX STATES BACK ILLINOIS IN SUIT

Michigan Would Prevent Lake Waters From Flowing Southward to Channel.

CHICAGO, Dec. 23. (Canadian Press).—The Attorney Generals of six states between here and the mouth of the Mississippi River have agreed to back Illinois in the Lake Michigan diversion suit brought in the United States Supreme Court by Michigan, Wisconsin and other states to prevent any lake water flowing through the drainage canal into the lower navigation channel. In this action representatives of Louisiana, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas, who conferred here yesterday with the Chicago Association of Commerce officials, took the ground that their interests were identical with those of Illinois. It was maintained that a 10,000 cubic foot a second flow is necessary to maintain permanent water levels in the Lower Mississippi and assure a year-round navigation.

RADIO LICENSES ARE REQUIRED

Inspector Will Check Up Unlicensed Receivers Shortly.

FEE IS $1.00.

The owner of every radio set in the Dominion is required, by law, to pay a license fee of $1.00 per annum. The proceeds from these fees are used for the control and administration of the broadcasting service in Canada and for the improvement of reception conditions from preventable interference of all classes.

During the past week or so the Department through the medium of the Press, has given warning to the owners of unlicensed receiving sets that they should obtain a license for the same without delay, and a final warning is issued to owners of sets and a recommedation that they secure a license at once.

As a measure of justice to the very large number who have already paid for and obtained licenses, the Deaprtment is going to start rounding up unlicensed receivers next week and it would be indeed sad for any one to spend the holiday season with a police court summons hanging over his head for the sake of a $1.00 fee.

The Department has a lengthy list of names of owners of unlicensed receiving sets in this city and district. If you have not already got a license, your name may be on this list.

The Radio Branch gets no enjoymen out of taking any one to Court, and your dealer, the post office and Radio Inspector are selling licenses.

LEGISLATION FOR QUEBEC SESSIONS

Natural Resources and Church Union to be Considered.

QUEBEC, Que., Dec. 23 (Canadian Press) —Legislation regarding the natural resources of the Province of Quebec will be the outstanding governmental legislature at the third session of the sixteenth legislature of the Province which opens on January 7.

It is expected that the government will provide for the creation of forest reserves, and also take further steps to safeguard the forests, including those under license to cut. There will be some legislation as to waterpower, and possibly as to asbestos, though it is not expected that there will be an embargo on the export of raw asbestos, as has been mentioned from time to time. What the legislature is liable to do, however, is to favor companies which manufacture the raw materials in Canada, and this can readily be done by an adjustment of the royalties by the enactment of a sliding scale which will allow of rebates of royalties, in whole or in part, on such raw matter which is manufacured in the country.

The Church Union bill will come before the legislature again. Last session the legislature in giving what amounted to a six months hoist to the Union bill expressed its readiness to enact a bill should the legislature of Ontario do so. Ontario has done so, and the procedure laid down in that Protestant province will be followed here. The antis do not intend to oppose the Union, bill but will want amendments to provide that they at least retain the Montreal Presbyterian College, and that some provision be made for minorities of assenting Presbyterian churches.

There has been some talk of a general provincial election in the province following upon the conclusion of the next session, but there is lack of authority for such a presumption and the normal belief is that the legislature will have its usual four sessions before the government again appeals to the people.

OPPOSITION TO DEEP WATERWAY

Chairman of U. S. Committee Says That Arguments Are Not Convincing.

VESSELS TOO SMALL.

ALBANY, N.Y., Dec. 23 Canadian Press).—The reports of commissions investigating the proposed deepening of the St. Lawrence River for a ship canal to the Great Lakes cannot be taken as convincing arguments for the project, in the opinion of S. Wallace Dempsey, chairman of the House Rivers and Harbors Committee, the Albany Knickerbocker Press will say in a copyrighted despatch today. His statement is in reply to a recent address of Charles P. Craig, executive director of the Great Lakes-Tidewater Association, made at Rochester, and in which Mr. Craig advocated the participation of the United States in the deepening project.

Such an improvement to the river would not make of the Northwest of this country a sea base, the chairman said, drawing comparisons between the size of vessels using the Panama Canal and those which navigate the St. Lawrence into the Great Lakes to show that only comparatively small ocean-going vessels, carrying a relatively small annual tonnage could be used to reach lake ports.

In Europe the average height of land above the sea is 930 feet. In Asia it is 3,180 feet.

IN POLICE COURT

Two youths clashed this morning in a legal engagement before His Worship Magistrate O. A. Langley, the bone of contention being $3.00 which the defendant claimed was due him in wages. For two hours the contestants, vested in the powers of counsel, argued the case, firing random volleys of evidence in the general direction of the meagre target.

The magistrate, after due deliberation and careful weighing of the submissions, delivered a verdict favoring the defendant, granting $2.10 of the sum in question. As the costs of the action amounted to $5.25 another illustration is furnished concerning the high price of litigation.

The plaintiff alleged that he had worked for longer hours and at a higher rate than was allowed by the defendant.

During the year ended March 31 about 135,000 houses were erected in this country.

MARRIED FIFTY YEARS, COUPLE WILL HOLD UNIQUE RE-UNION AT CHRISTMAS SEASON OF THIS YEAR

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Baker, of Warkworth, Will Celebrate Golden Anniversary.

NATIVE OF STIRLING.

Established Carriage Factory Products of Which Are Still in Existence.

(By A Staff Reporter)

WARKWORTH, Dec. 23.—Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Baker, who are among the oldest and most prominent residents of this village, will on Thursday celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding and it is expected that all of their 10 living children will be present to wish their venerable parents many happy returns of the day. Mr. Baker is a native of the village of Stirling but when he was nine years old his parents moved to Norham. Three years later they took up residence in Warkworth. When their son grew up he went back to Norham where he established for some years a carriage factory. Those were the days when all kinds of vehicles were made by hand, when the workmanship was of high standard and only the best material was used. There are still in commission in this vicinity, sleighs, wagons and buggies that were turned out years ago from Mr Baker's factory.

Married In 1875.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker (the latter's maiden name was Charlotte Taylor and she was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Taylor of Port Hope) were married by Rev. M. Sims who at that time was the Methodist minister at Norham, the ceremony being performed at the residence of a relative of the bride on the River Road a short distance from Campbellford. The young couple lived for some years at Norham but when carriage making ceased to be a profitable business owing to the competition of the large factories in the cities they moved back to Warkworth which has ever since been their home. Here they have a farm of 93 acres, 30 acres of which is planted to fruit trees. Mr. Baker for some years carried on a thriving business buying eggs from and selling American coal oil to the farmers of the vicinity, but now, still active as many a man of 50, he devotes all his time to the cultivation of his farm.

In Public Life.

Mr. Baker has a unique record as a member of the Percy Township Council, for though he was deputy-reeve for two and reeve for the same number of years he never sat in the County Council at Cobourg. His municipal service was rendered back in the '90's when that body was constituted differently than it is today, the members being known as commissioners instead of reeves and deputies.

Mr. Baker served for years as member and chairman of the School Board. He has for 40 years been church warden and for the past 60 years a member of the Anglican choir, still taking part in the musical services, his voice as strong and as melodious as in the days of his young manhood.

Ready To Serve Again

One year ago Mr. Baker offered, in the interests of community harmony to re-enter municipal life. Deputy-Reeve Nelson soon after the election of 1924 was unseated on a technical, or more correctly speaking, he resigned when his election was challenged, and he offered to fight it out again with his former opponent or with any other man who might be brought out against him. To avoid another election, Mr. Baker at the request of a number of ratepayers, offered to serve out the balance of the term if given the office by acclamation. Mr. Nelson, however, thought he was entitled to a vindication and in the by-election which followed was returned by an increased majority.

Raised Large Family.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker have raised a family of 12 children, 10 of whom are living, all holding good positions in the various communities in which they reside. These are: Malcolm, a merchant in Hastings; T. G., in business in Campbellford; Mrs. Harold Wilson of Hastings; W. A., who is in the real estate business in Miami, Florida; Mrs. (Rev.) Russel McGillivary of Burlington, whose husband was formerly Presbyterian minister here; Mrs. J. Musgrave of Corbeyville; Miss Blanche at home; Wallace of the local telephone exchange; Mrs. George Baker, whose husband is a teacher in the Collegiate Institute in Picton, and Miss Helen, who is teaching at Milford. Mrs. Charles Summerly, a daughter died one year ago last August and Collin, a son, lost his life in the Great War.

PRE-ELECTION, ETC.

tion have been shattered by the announcement of A. L. Riendeau that he is a candidate for the commissionership and that he will stand regardless of whether he is opposed or not.

Mr. Riendeau's authorized announcement introduces a new element into the situation. He has been urged to stand by responsible citizens who recognize in him a live business man who is one of the heaviest taxpayers in town, and one who has had experience in municipal life.

"Let the Examiner publish the fact," said a voter on Tuesday, "that there is a move to pull off an acclamation here and see how the people will wake up and the candidates come forward. Don't be surprised if every man now in office is opposed, and if there is an entirely new council in 1926. I believe that J. A. Anderson will yet be induced to contest the reeveship and that a man can be found to run against the slated candidate for the mayoralty. There is dissatisfaction with the present state of civic affairs and this dissatisfaction is sure to find expression at the nomination meeting. An acclamation implies that the people are asleep or at least indifferent—but they are anything but that."

For School Trustees.

The retiring members of the Board of Education are Dr. H. O. Richardson, D. W. Douglas and John Hall. Mr. Douglas states definitely that he will retire. He has served for six years, two as chairman, and took a leading part in the building of the new high school. His growing private business takes all his time and attention, and he is through with public life.

John Hall was elected two years ago but he is in poor health and says he will not stand for re-election. His colleagues will all regret his retirement as no trustee has ever rendered the public more valuable service or devoted more time to the duties of the office. He spent day after day at the new High School supervising the work of laying out the grounds, giving expert service to the public without compensation.

Dr. Richardson, himself a teacher early in his career, was well equipped for membership on the Board when he was returned at the head of the polls two years ago. He advocated an important improvement in the public school system, one the necessity of which is recognized by every educationist, the engaging of a special teacher to take care of the backward pupils, who though they may be behind in their class work, could, if given the proper attention, be fitted to become useful and prosperous citizens. The board was short of funds so that it was impossible to give effect to the doctor's policy.

Dr. Richardson is anything but an office seeker but he will be on the board in 1926 if no wire pulling is necessary to secure the position.

The Junta Dissolved.

The Junta, mention of whose activities was made in these columns some days ago, has been dissolved, but perhaps it would be more correct to say that it has been absorbed by the larger body of voters who are opposed to a civic election by acclamation.

REV. A. F. KELLY NOW MONSIGNOR

Ceremony of Investiture Was Performed By Bishop O'Brien.

MANY CLERGYMEN.

On Thursday, December 17, in the Church of the Sacred Heart at Trout Creek, Ont., the Rt. Rev. A. F. Kelly had conferred upon him the signal honor of being created a Domestic Prelate, with title of Monsignor.

Solemn Pontifical Mass was celebrated by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien of Peterborough, who also performed the ceremony of investiture.

The sermon for the occasion was given by his Lordship the Rt. Rev. D. J. Scollard, Bishop of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.; His Lordship in a logical and eloquent exposition of Catholic doctrine dwelt, on the dignity and perogatives of Christ's holy priesthood and emphasized in a particular way the additional honors and dignity that necessarily flow from the rank to which the Rt. Rev. Pastor had been elevated.

The music for the occasion was ably furnished by a specially trained choir of Powassan, which rendered in a very fitting fashion the "Missa Brevis" by Montani.

Rt. Rev. Mgr. Kelly was the recipient of three congratulatory addresses, each accompanied by a substantial presentation. The addresses were representative of the Sacred Heart Church, Trout Creek; St. Joseph's Church, Powsasan, and St. John's, Alsace.

At 1.30 p.m. luncheon was served in the fine parish hall at which upwards of 20 priests, representing the dioceses of Peterborough, Sault Ste. Marie and Pembroke were seated.

In the evening at St. Mary's Hall an entertainment was held in honor of the great occasion, the main feature of which was a very interesting and instructive lecture by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien on the subject, "An Audience with the Holy Father"; also a short historical play depicting scenes of a missionary nature in the parish of Trout Creek.

Monsignor Kelly enjoys the unique and unusual position of having been parish priest of Trout Creek for 32 consecutive years. Thus the Holy Father for his long years of arduous labor and for his many priestly qualities has seen fit to honor him and his parish by the high honor of Domestic Prelate of the Papal Household.

WASHINGTON, December 22. — Canadian Press. — A project for a polar flight has been presented to the United States war department by W. D. Mayo, chief engineer for Henry Ford, but the officials have decided that congressional authority would be necessary for government participation.

PREACHER LEFT GREAT MESSAGE

AT MARMORA CHURCH.

MARMORA, Dec. 23.—The special preacher at St. Paul's Church last Sunday morning was the Rev. A. B. Payne of St. John's College, Winnipeg. The reverend gentleman selected as his text, part of Matt. 21-5: "Behold thy King cometh." 'Again", he remarked, "we have entered into the last Sunday of the Advent season. It comes natural that we should take reckoning this day of what has been gained in this season of spiritual worth. First of all, what is the purpose of Advent? What have we been taught? What lessons have we gained? Let us go back briefly to see how it found its place and part in the church's serices. For the coming of Christ there must be preparation. The message of John concerning the first Advent was a simple one, "Repent ye." His message had two thoughts, "The King" and "The Kingdom". O that the children of the Church of the living God more understood and appreciated more fully the true import of the Christmas season. What would it mean to us if Christ were taken out of it entirely? Then there is the further thought. What are the fundamentals of our Christianship. We hear of problems confronting the church. We speak of the materialistic age in which we live. But we are forgetful of those things which are essentials in our heritage of the Catholic faith. Our faith is catholic because the great commission is "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature,baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost." So to have full appreciation, the children of the church must go back to the beginning, to their entrance into the church, when each were changed from a child of Adam to a child of God. By this means, we can understand a little better, the great place of Advent as a season of preparation for the feast of the Nativity.

But why do we lay stress on this? Because it is a part of our faith. Because we believe that God permitted His Eternal Son to come down and partake of our human nature. If our religious beliefs amount to anything, our thoughts will be directed one way and that in the direction of the joys coming through Jesus Christ. When we realize what the Kingdom is and have some thought of the King, let us also realize our own particular share and part in that Kingdom. Baptism admits us into the Kingdom. What kingdom? A kingdom of warfare. Through baptism, you belong to the church militant. The Kingdom of God is not of this world. It is not a visible kingdom and its gifts too are invisible. We are called upon to play the part of a soldier of the Cross, yet never to receive a visible gift. Faith will help us, however, to receive the peace of God which passeth all understanding. Faith will teach us the true spirit of Christmas. We don't come to the house of God simply because we wish to become holy. Neither do we love God simply because we are afraid of the consequences of not loving Him. There is a big difference between learning to be holy and being holy. In the Holy Communion, we come to receive Christ that we may give back to Christ the true spirit of worship, that we may radiate in the world around us the reflection of the face of our Father in Heaven. We forget too often the elementary lessons in our religion. Yet they are essential here as in every profession of life. You cannot change elementary factors. They remain the same. The Sacraments of the Church must be deemed as essentials. They are the Divine channels whereby we receive and assimilate into ourselves of the life of God. Communion brings the warrior into the conscious presence of the Son of God. His presence within is the light that leads us on. But we fall into temptation. The day you do not fall into temptation you have no place in this world. What is the sustaining grace of God as you fall?

God calls to us and says "Come out, my child, of that line where you have been wounded; he takes us aside out of the line to be restored by pardon and peace." In conclusion, the preacher declared he was there to give a message of preparation as found in the clarion call of the Lord's forerunner which has rung down the ages, "Repent ye, for the Kingdom of Heaven it at hand."

SYNOPSIS

Connemara Moore, instead of announcing her engagement tonight, as she was expected to do, stole away from Aunt Celimena's, being assisted in her escape by young David Lacy, whom she had never seen before. There followed hours of wild adventure, in the company of strangers who talked much of rum-running. Now Lacy, aboard a motor boat, believes he has refound Connie—who was lost—but the woman he is addressing keeps her face averted.

CHAPTER XII.—Continued.

"I'm beginning to think I'm in earnest. I'm wishing we were both out of this. I'm wishing we were out somewhere on the plans of Kansas where's a train once a day and the biggest excitement of the year is a church supper followed by stereopticon slides of the Holy Land."

"Don't be silly," said Aunt Celimena, who was really having a better time than she had had for years.

"I'm silly because I'm scraed," said David Lacy. "Don't you know that's the way frightened people always act in fiction? Think of the noble heroes of the war jesting under shell fire. The more certain the death, the higher the grade of humor."

Aunt Celimena cleared her throat again. "How much more dangerous do you think our situation will have to become before the quality of a certain gentleman's levity becomes—shall we say, heightened?"

"Unkind," said Lacy, "but I laid myself open to it. It's difficult not to swat the easy balls hard, even though you put them out." He stopped. "I feel I shall be of service to you yet, though, before this little joy ride is over."

"I feel you have been already," said Aunt Celimena. Then she turned her face full upon him and by the palish light of an intermittent moon she studied his features with what might be considered ill-bred intenseness.

"My God!" said Lacy.

"Yes," she said, "I thought so. It was Auteuil. Your face comes back to me now, slowly, and completely lacking in pleasurable associations."

Lacy stared. "Your face doesn't come back to me at all, but I must say that the present sight is shorn of glamour."

"Naturally you don't remember me," snapped Aunt Celimena. "You were not looking at me but at someone else."

"I always said I had a record for taste and discrimination," murmured Mr. Lacy.

"And now," said Aunt Celimena, "where is my niece?"

"Niece?"

"Connemara."

"Well, considerably safer than we are," said Lacy.

"What do you mean?"

"Why, since you're not she, she escaped with McTish."

"Who's McTish?"

"Oh, a man of parts," said Lacy noncommittally. "I think you'd like him, and with any luck we'll meet up with him again some time this night."

"Young man," said Aunt Celimena, "was it my niece's plan to be abducted by you this evening, or your own?"

"Or possibly a collaboration?" suggested Mr. Lacy.

"It will make considerable difference to me in the altering of a certain document." Her face was grim. "My lawyer, Mr. Brewster, is on board too."

"How prepared you are," murmured Mr. Lacy. "Do you always travel with one? Now if one gets a cinder in one's eye how convenient to have one's solicitor there to sue the railroad without interfering in any with the journey."

"You're an absurd and irrelevant young man," said Aunt Celimena.

"I'm only a scared young man," said Mr. Lacy. "That's really true. I happen to know who these gentlemen are who are acting as crew on this purloined vessel and I happen to have a hunch about their destination. There is not perfect amity in their midst, which is our only hope of salvation. But in any event, this is destined to be a spirited journey."

"What, if I may ask, is our destination?" said Aunt Celemena.

"A ship at sea. A curious ship that has been a long way. It has come from the land of slow moving rivers, junks, and yellow-skinned sailors. Forests of exquisite beauty crowd down to the edge of the black rippled waters. Poisonous lilies grow upon its surface, flamingoes and mocking birds flash back and forth above their brief reflections. Black fishes with silver fins leap up like shadows on a wall and——"

"Beautiful," said Aunt Celimena, "but unimportant."

"You're right," said Lacy. "Well, that's where the boat started from. It's shy a lot of papers, decorated with official stamps, that other boats carry. It took it a long time to get here. No short cuts through the Panama, owing to the inquisitive nature of certain officials regarding the cargo."

Aunt Celimena's eyes opened wide. "How do you know?"

He shrugged his shoulders. "I'm just guessing."

"Listen," commanded Aunt Celimena. Two figures had come closer in the dimness.

Pooch and Swede were discoursing. "I tell you again you're a fool to run for it," said Pooch, "with all this party on board. The thing to do is to land somewheres and beat it."

"Beat it," retorted Swede sharply. "Don't you know we're as sunk now as we would be if we went through? Might as well die for a sheep's a lamb, I always say."

"Look here, I won't stand for no rough play," said Pooch uneasily.

"Then look the other way if you're so sensitive. I mean to bring back what we started for. If it seems we got too many extraneous souls on board, why, there's ways of thinnin' out a passenger list." Swede paused and looked at his companion with opprobrium. "Don't be so durn delicate."

"It's sense I'm talking. I tell you it's dangerous." Pooch strained his eyes out to sea. "You know what I'm afraid of."

"Just the ghost of a Scotchman."

"If it was only a ghost," said Pooch "I wouldn't be so particular. But I tell you there's no ghost about him. None whatever. I'm expecting to see his red head bob up on every wave. I tell you I know that pelican now. He's an old bird in the business. If I'd ever guessed he was going to be mixed up in the deal, I wouldn't have touched it, not for five times fifty thousand. An' that's flat. Say," he added thoughtfully, "you got any notion how he happened along so pat tonight? You an' Doc figgered you'd covered up your tracks pretty good, but this here don't look like blind luck, to me. Looks more like there's been a leak somewheres."

The Swede swore with heartiness and some inventiveness, yet Pooch, whose ears were keen in the face of danger, was sure he caught a note of apprehension in the other's tones. He whistled between his teeth shrilly.

"So——" he exclaimed. "There was a leak!"

"Leak," Swede said furiously, and spat. "Hell! He was the leak himself, the red-headed blankety-blank——" He improvised freely for half a minute, and then continued more quietly. "What'd you say to his holdin' down a job for more than six months with the Shanghai Line—in the old man's private office too. He only blew tonight. I got a message tippin' me off, from the Big Noise himself. It's the whole damn show busted wide open; that's how good a leak it is."

Mr. Pooch drew a long and painful breath, and swallowed hard, twice.

SACRED CANTATA GIVEN AT CHURCH

Trent River Concert Was Well Patronized—School Entertainment.

TRENT RIVER, Dec. 23.—The sacred cantata, "The Shepherd Prince," was held Friday night at the church and was well patronized. The participants took their parts exceedingly well considering the short time they had for preparation. Suitable solos and choruses were rendered during the evening. A playlet "mock marriage ceremony" was well rendered by pupils of the public school, having been given the previous night at the school concert. After the entertainment was over, Santa Claus appeared and distributed the usual gifts from the tree. Home-made candies were also handed to all the children. A small admission fee was charged and over $34 was realized.

The public school concert held on Thursday night came off very successfully and there was a good attendance. The programme was well rendered and Santa Claus was present to distribute the presents from the tree.

Dr. Robert N. Boyd returned to Ft. William on Thursday.

Mr. John Boyd left on Friday to spend the winter at Ft. William with his son, Dr. Boyd and family.

SALES INCREASE OF DAIRY PRODUCTS

Cheese Leads Higher Values With Butter and Milk Close Followers.

United Dairymen Cooperative, Ltd., the big co-operative cheese-selling organization, whose head office is in Peterborough, Ont., has issued a statement covering the company's sales during the past season through its Montreal, Belleville and Toronto offices, with comparative figures for 1924. These figures show in an impressive manner the greatly increased prosperity that has come to the dairy farmers of Eastern Canada this year through the enhanced value of dairy products.

During the eight months ending November 30, 1924, the company sold 141,925 boxes of cheese for $2,025,323.00, or an average price of $14.27 a box for the season. This year during the same period it sold 166,163 boxes for $3,208,426.00. This is an average of $19.30 a box, and represents an increased value per box over last year for the season of $5.04 or 37%.

While the value of butter, whole milk, and other dairy products has not increased in proportion to the increased value of cheese, there has been an advance in these products also. Were it to be figured out it would probably be shown that the dairy farmers of Eastern Canada this year, and more particularly those of Ontario and Quebec have received fully $50,000,000 more for their dairy products this year than they did last year. Reports presented at the annual meetings of cheese factories which have sold their cheese during the past season through United Dairymen Cooperative, Ltd., show that they have received prices ranging from aroud 21c W lb. to, in one case at least over 22c a lb. for the season. The Coopera tive Company has had not only a large increase in its sales this year, but the prices it has obtained for its factories have been so satisfactory additional factories are voting to sell co-operatively next season.

BANKRUPT CASES STAGED WITH CARE

Organizers Display Sangfroid of Pickpockets Charges King's Counsel.

MONTREAL, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press).—Fraudulent bankrupt cases are organized with the same care as bank robberies. The organizers display the sangfroid of pickpockets, and in some cases they are advised previously by competent legal authorities as to how far they can go and what the penalties will be if they are caught.

These statements were made by Philippe Brais, K.C., Crown prosecutor, at a luncheon of the members of the Merchants' Association here Monday during the course of serious strictures against the existing system under which, he asserted, those guilty of fraud against their creditors receive inadequate sentences.

TWO MEN HELD UNDER WARRANT

Detective Promises Developments in Murder Case of Mrs. Dupuis.

MONTREAL, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press).—Interesting developments have been promised by Captain Detective Mercier, acting chief of detectives, at the re-opening of the inquest on Wednesday into the murder of Mrs. Romuald Dupuis, who was found in her home with her throat cut and several wounds in the head on the night of December 16th.

Captain Mercier stated Monday that the police were holding two men under warrants from the coroner as material witnesses. He refused to state the nature of the developments, or in which direction they might be expected to throw light upon the killing of Mrs. Dupuis.

PLAYING OUT FIRES

Howard Coonley, of the Chemical Warfare Service predicts that fires will some day be extinguished with sound waves, and whows in a laboratory experiment that such a thing is possible. Bursting into song:

A lady, she was standing in
A window all afire.
The angry flames lept upward, but
Her accents rose still higher.
O firemen, do not long delay,
Strike up a lively air
And save my darling Pekingese,
So lovely and so fair.

The gallant firemen played some jazz
Upon that house so warm
And saved the lady and her pet
From danger and from harm,
But soon from all the neighborhood
There came an angry sound—
They'd put out all the furnace fires
In seven blocks around!

4100—You will gain material and financial success only through plugging away at your job. Yours are not strong characteristics. You are peace-loving, even-tempered kind, and inclined to take things as they come without asserting yourself in defence of your rights. You have charm and affection, but lack initiative and force. You are more loved than feared; you threaten more than you are likely to execute. You have good mechanical ability and would do such work with skill. You are better at copying than at originating, but may develop creative skill. Your mentality is strong and healthy. Develop enterprise and make others see your capabilities. You have excellent perception of relative size, and like harmony of proportion.

The above replies to your query. You lack self-assertion. If you are worth the raise or promotion—go get it. You have abundant ability; are you applying it in the right direction? You were born on a Saturday. Your colors are gold and white.

Judy (Lakefield)—You are reserved and retired and must endeavor to overcome shyness and assert your capabilities. You have outstanding personal charm, an affectionate nature, and the ability to make others happy. Your mentality is active and creative, but you have allowed your vision to become limited. Seek broader spheres of activity. You are logical, but fresh in your thoughts. If developed, you should be a good writer of either prose or poetry. Respect the rights of others; be self-assertive without becoming domineering. You have great versatility of talent, but have not pursued any one line to perfection. You have a courageous spirit, but are not contentious by nature. You have good powers of self-government and can keep a secret when necessary. Analyse yourself and apply your mentality to self-development along the line of your choice. You were born on a Sunday. Your color is flame, in all its lovely, indeterminate shades, ranging from rose through certain hues of orange and yellow to gas blue. You forgot to give the date in February of which it was your intention to inquire.

Babe—You have a good degree of self-respect and independence, but should seek capable advice before entering on any important venture, and should not travel life's seas alone. You will find your personal charm and tact better in controlling others than endeavors to force issues. You are appreciative of art and like reading emotional stories when written by an artist hand. With study of form and continuity, you should be a good writer of prose. You are generally quite buoyant and sanguine, full of good cheer, and like to make others happy. Delight in surprising those whom you love. Cultivate a broader sympathy with the world; don't allow your mind to become self-centred; study the meanings of men and things. You are dexterous and artistic in forming and carrying out improvements, and could make a happy, beautiful home. You should marry young, choosing carefully a mate who will be complementary to your artistic nature. To-day is not favorable to gambling, but patriotism or charity may change the outcome. You were born on a Saturday. Your characteristics vibrate to no color, hence your keynote is black, the absence of color.

England—Yours are characteristics of joy, and your chief delight is in seeing others happy. You have high mentality, and would have been successful in business or science. You are an interested and acute observer of daily events, have a wonderful ability to read and understand men; are a practical observer of things around you. You have music ability, but not developed. You are friendly and easy to get along with, but are liable to overwork in the interests of others. You are sincere but not wrapped up in religion. You are adaptable and easily satisfied, except for one longing which has not been fulfilled. You have not read aright the description of what I offer in my readings. I do not tell "fortunes" or read the stars. I cannot tell you in what year you will make a trip to England. I read character. It tells me that you appreciate travel and change and benefit by it, but character does not tell when an event will transpire. Your color is opal. You were born on a Saturday.

M.E.N.—You will not gain success in work for yourself, but must carefully associate yourself with others in most enterprises. Yours are not strong characteristics, although you are self-satisfied and have abundant poise. You are conservative; not given to new enterprise; and have more wish than ambition. You mistake my abilities and offer. I am not a fortune teller or a prophet. I cannot tell you when your apprenticeship will end. I read character — not the stars. And from that I tell you that you will have to work harder than you do now if you are going to get anywhere even after your apprenticeship is out. Instead of consulting the Oracle you should be consulting books in the library or studying at home to better your position and get a toe-hold on the bottom rung of the ladder of success. Snap into it. Do instead of dream. It is alright for the artist and inventor to dream, but a man who must earn his living by a trade must do more. Don't marry young, and don't take a mate who will be a clinging vine to hold you down. You were born on a Monday. Your color is purple.

PROTECTION FOR TURKEY ALONG NORTHERN COAST

New Treaty With Russia Would Close Black Sea Ports.

TEXT PUBLISHED.

Neither Party to Agreement Will Take Any Action Against the Other.

MOSCOW, Dec. 23 (United Press and Canadian Press).—Under the neutrality treaty just concluded between Russia and Turkey, the latter country, in event of hostilities over the Mosul award to Britain, would have a certain measure of protection from a Black Sea attack, since Russia would close her ports to hostile ships.

The treaty has been published and its text conforms to the United Press outline of it yesterday from Berlin, giving neutrality provisions in event of attack upon either nation, and allowing each nation full liberty of action in its relations with other powers outside their scope of the treaty. It stipulates:

First—Neither country shall attack the other;

Second—In the event of military or naval action against either party by one or several countries, the other party agrees to remain neutral;

Third—Neither party shall participate in any union or agreement of political, economic or financial nature by one or several other Powers directed against either contracting party.

The agreement, which was signed at Paris, December 17th, by M. Tchitcherin, Soviet Foreign Minister, and Tewfik Rushdi Bey, Turkish Foreign Minister, has to be ratified by the legislative bodies of the two countries.

FUNDS WERE VOTED.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press).—Dry members of the House yesterday successfully defended all appropriations carried in the annual treasury-post office supply bill for prohibition enforcement for the next fiscal year.

On the first showdown of the session on prohibition, an amendment to prohibit the employment of "fraud, deceit and falsehood," in the use of funds appropriated for the purchases of liquor as evidence, was defeated by a vote of 139 to 17. The remainder of the enforcement funds, slightly more than appropriated last year, were approved without change or serious opposition as reported by the appropriations committee.

Christmas Concert

A crowded attendance welcomed the annual Christmas concert in the Park street Baptist Sunday School, and a splendid entertainment was carried out by the teachers and scholars, a feature of the programme being each class coming to the platform and presenting gifts which will be used to alleviate the suffering in needy cases, and bring a little Christmas cheer where otherwise there might not be any.

Miss Timm, who has been the pianist for the Sunday school for the past three years, was presented with an Eversharp Pencil-Wahl Pen in a box, and the following address was read by Mr. O. S. Matchett, secretary of the school, and the presentation made by Mr. A. Thompson, assistant superintendent. The address follows:

Peterboro, December 22, 1925.

Your willingness to fulfill your duties as pianist on many other occasions has also been deeply appreciated.

We cannot let you sever your connection with our school without in some way expressing to you the deep love and esteem in which you are held.

We would ask you to accept this gift and may God's richest blessing rest upon you wherever your lot may be found in His work.

Signed on behalf of the Park St. Baptist Sunday school:

Welbourn, president of the W.M.S. of the church, both of which were greatly enjoyed by the children of the Band. Santa Claus appeared later in the afternoon with a bag of candy for each child present. A feature of the meeting was the presentation of a lovely plant by her Sunday school class to Mrs. (Rev.) Buckley, who is a life member of the Mission Band.

CHRISTMAS DAY ON THE FARM MUCH LIKE CITY CELEBRATION

Typical Farmer of Fiction and Joke Books Cannot Be Found.

NO SUPERSTITIONS.

Dances, Radio and Other Common Place Affairs Occupy Day.

Christmas Day is spent o n the fam in a way that does not differ very greatly from Christmas day in town or city. This, largely because the farmer himself is pretty much like the city dweller.

In Canada at least there is no such thing as the typical farmer. The farmer of to-day, when dressed in his good clothes, is often indistinguishable from the lawyer or merchant.

The Farmer In Fiction.

The Peterborough farmer, like his confreres all over the Dominion, has to be bracketed with the Mounted Police, and other typically Canadian institutions in that he obstinately refuses to adjust himself to the pictures drawn of him, by fiction writers with a limited stock of ideas, a copious supply of trite phrases and descriptions and a high blood pressure.

Everybody knows the "mountie" of fiction. Somebody like Sergeant Malone in "Rose Marie," a dashing, amorous sort of gentleman who "always gets his man," dividing his life between philandering with the beauties of the great wide open spaces, and running murderers, hold-up men and claim jumper to earth. It is come as quite a shock to many of us, to learn that after all, the picturesque, red-coated guardians of law and order, are very human individuals who, once in a while, realy allow the wicked one to slip through their hands.

While the Canadian farmer has not suffered such a great transformation at the hands of the novelist and scenario writer, there is no doubt that he does not conform in the least degree to the descriptions we have of him in innumerable stories and plays.

Old Superstitions.

For instance, he has long ago cast off even the semblance of adhering to the customs and superstitions which our forefathers brought with them from the old land. He scoffs at the old idea that on Christmas Eve the bees all join in singing "Gloria in Excelsis," or that the cattle bow in adoration before a vision of the Child in the manger unseen by mortal eyes. The first settlers always very carefully avoided entering the stable just as the stroke of midnight ushered in the great day of festival. Why? Because at that hour the horses in the stalls received the gift of human speech, conversing complaining and talking scandal just like their lords and masters. On Christmas morning at least Balaam's ass had nothing on the Clydesdales and Percherons of Peterborough County. Woe betide the inquisitive farmer who became an eavesdropper to the uncanny conversation. Death, said the old superstition, would be his portion, before the year came to a close.

The Hired Man's Fate.

There is a very apochryphal story of a hired man who was determined to hear the gossip in the stable. Shortly before 12 o'clock on the 24th of December, he posted himself in an empty stall. Sure enough, as the hour struck, the horses began to talk. This is what he heard. One horse groaned and said, "Pulling up those inclines is real hard work." The other replied, "Yes, and we'll be pulling a strange load next week."

"What load?"

"Big Bill, the hired man. We'll have to pull his coffin to the grave."

Bill heard no more. He fled in horror. One week later, so the story goes, he was dead. Therefore, listening to the talk of the horses was a thing to be avoided.

Nor does the farmer of to-day approach his stable at the mystic hour. Not because he shares his great grandfather's trepidation, but for the much more respectable reason that he is snug in bed at that time.

The Yule Log.

The old man burned the yule log with a great deal of ceremony. Each Christmas log was kindled from a small piece of the tree used in the previous year, specially kept for the purpose. This little portion of wood was carefully guarded. Lying in a corner all the year round its magic influence counteracted the machinations of His Satanic Majesty and a small chip thrown into the fire was sufficient to quell the most violent storm. At least, the old farmer thought so.

His descendant of to-day still burns the yule log, around Peterborough at least, but he burns it in 18 inch or two feet lengths and in a box stove or pipeless furnace, which, if less romantic than the old-time hearth, is infinitely more efficacious in heating the house.

The Girl With the Milkpail.

The farmer's daughter has also changed considerably during the passing of the years. Who does not know the traditional conception of the singing milkmaid with her pails? If the milkmaid of to-day is rosy it is through her use of rouge. Her song is the latest bit on the vaudeville stage. She dresses in the height of fashion with taste equal to that of the most fashionable lady in the city. She has invariably a high school education, is sometimes college bred, can talk with ease on immigra. tioneugenics, and other abstruse subjects, and is inclined to laugh at the Christmas superstitions of her ancestors.

The Changes of Time.

Thus, time and progress have combined to make the farmer's Christmas day a festival which he observes in the same spirit and in pretty much the same manner as does his brother in the city. Every farm household that includes young children has its Christmas tree. In many homesteads Christmas, as in urban households, is a day of reun'o n when all the scattered members of the family gather round the parental board. No farm table is without its turkey or its goose on Christmas day. No work is done beyond the necessary chores of milking the cows and feeding the stock. Horses are usually rested on the festival-day. Some farmers extend the Christmas spirit by giving the horses a little extra feed.

No "rustic" amusements mark th evening. A fair proportion of the younger generation find their way into town and the time is spent at the theatre or movie picture show just as the city dweller put in the night. They stay at home, sing, dance, play cards, listen in on the radio, or to the gramophone—just as well be done in hundreds of homes within a stone's throw of George Street.

MEMBERS RECEIVE DEGREES OF I.O.O.F.

Several Advance To Third and Fourth Degrees of Order.

Oddfellowship in this city is coming to its own, as evidenced by the splendid gathering at the regular weekly meeting of Otonabee Lodge No. 13, Monday evening, when five members were advanced to the Third, or Degree of Truth, and became entitled to all the rights and privileges of the three degrees of Oddfellowship.

The fourth degree conferred at the close of the meeting also had a large attendance of the members, and all those privileged to be present, and participate, joined in voting the genial Warden "a jolly good fellow," and thus ended another perfect night in the promulgation of good fellowship.

CHICAGO GREETS CHRISTMAS WITH HAIL OF BULLETS

Four Murders and a Suicide Usher in Holiday Festivities.

FACTIONS WAR.

Two Policemen—Long Term Friends Quarrel—One Killed, Other Suicides.

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—(Canadian Press.)—Four murders and a suicide in pre-Christmas outbursts of gang feuds, pistol fights and robberies, were under police investigation to-day.

War between liquor factions was held responsible for the deaths of Joseph Brooks, a soft drink parlor owner and alleged dynamiter, and Edward Harmering, county highway policeman. Their bullet riddled bodies were found slumped in the rear seat of a Sedan, abandoned in south side park.

Two relief policemen, friends for years, quarrelled in the lobby of the Central Trust Company in the business district. One shot and killed the other; then, as his crony fell, he was stricken with remorse, turned his pistol against his head and shot himself.

Caught in a cross fire between two robbers and the owner of a drug store, Leo Real, 23, drug clerk, working his first day in the store, was shot to death.

TURK TRIBUNAL GREATLY FEARED

Has Had Fifty People Hanged For Rebellion Against Reforms.

ACTION UNTIMELY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press).—The attention of the public has been diverted from the Mosul affair by the arrival in Constantinople of the tribunal of independents, which is dreaded in Turkey as the Cheka (or Soviet inquisition) is in Russia. As in the case of the Cheka there is no appeal from the tribunal's judgement and executions ordered by it are carried out immediately. The tribunal arrived from a tour of Anatolia, having sat at Erzerum, Caesaoea, Marash and other places, which it sentenced about 50 persons to be hanged and 100 others to various terms of imprisonment for participation in recent reactionary movement against Mustapha Kemal Pasha's reforms.

The majority of the victims were Hodjas, or religious leaders, who compelled their followers to throw away their western hats ordered worn by Kemal and don the fez and turban. Twenty-five accused men will be haled before the judgment seat in Constantinople.

A coincidence of activities of the tribunal with the Mosul decision is regarded as very unpropitious for the Government, just when a united front is desired for a possible mobilization in an attempt to influence Great Britain.

K. OF C. ENTERTAIN ORPHANAGE KIDDIES

Many Useful Gifts Presented, as Well as Toys.

There was a very happy group of children entertained at the assembly hall of the Knights of Columbus' rooms last evening, when the knights gave their annual Christmas treat to the children of St. Vincent's Orphanage. The little things went off at an early hour with their arms filled with gifts, the tiny girls clinging to pretty dollies; the small boys gazing with pride at brand new hockey sticks.

Through the kindness of Mr. A. G. Crowe, manager of the Capitol Theatre, whose co-operation was stressed with much gratitude by the chairman of the evening, Mr. James Doris, two very entertaining pictures were provided for the children's programme last night. They shrieked with delight at the comedy an "Our Gang" production entitled "Tire Trouble," with the freckle-faced, snub-nosed boy of the movies much in evidence, along with his tubby little companion, equally well known, and the small black-faced Topsy. The second film was a cartoon fable, "A Message from the Sea,' and proved equally popular with the small guests of the evening, 27 of whom were little boys and 10 little girls, all resident at St. Vincent's Orphanage. The film machine was operated by Art Costello, who, along with several of the committee appointed by the knights, assisted Mr. Doris with preparations, and also led in the community singing from song sheets. Sarsfield Sheehy presided at the piano.

A resplendent Santa Claus, in the Conventional red plush attire and snowy whiskers of St. Nicholas, addressed the children briefly before the distribution of gifts. Mr. George Lynch gave good service in this capacity, and gentlemen assisting in the distribution of toys and gifts from a large Christmas tree plentifully decorated with tinsel and colored ornaments, were Messrs. J. Doris, A. Costello, S. Sheehy, T. McDonald, W. Scollard, and Dr. J. F. O'Brien.

The children received a quantity of useful and pretty things, the little girls getting tuques, scarfs and dolls the little boys gloves, handkerchiefs and hockey sticks, each child also being given large bags of candy, nuts and fruit and small boxes of candy given by Mr. A. G. Crowe, manager of the Capitol Theatre.

The entertainment for the evening all very much enjoyed by the little tikings who were guests of honor, included a vocal solo by A. Costello, and a recitation, "The Night Before Christmas," by J. J. Doris. Several choruses were given by the knights from the song sheets, and the children of the Orphanage also contributed their share to the programme, including several choruses, very well sung, and two recitations by little Thomas Mourigan and James Allen.

NINE KILLED BY COAL MINE FIRE

Rescue Parties Have Penetrated Through Mine, Reporting All Out.

FIRE STILL BURNS.

BELLAIRE, Ohio, December 23.—Canadian Press. — Fire believed to have started when a fall of coal short circuited the electric light lines took a toll of nine lives at the Webb mine at Shadyville, a few miles south of here last night. Two other miners are in a serious condition in Bellaire Hospital suffering from shock and gas. Rescue parties early to-day had penetrated to all portions of the mine where men were working when the fire started and reported that no more men were in the mine. An unofficial check of the force known to be working corroborated this assertion. Early to-day the fire was burning fiercely but little effort has been made to check it until rescue work was completed.

Sensational Price Jumps In Chicago Wheat To-day

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—(Canadian Press.)— Jumps in price, seldom equalled except in the time of the war, took place in the wheat market to-day, to the extent of 9 1-2 cents a bushel on some trades. Big buying that accompanied the rise in values was the immediate result of a government crop report indicating that the United States has already cut into the carry-over from last year by about 15,000,000 bushels and that large imports from Canada into this country are in prospect despite the duty of 42 cents a bushel.

On the advance, profit-taking sales became of large proportions and reactions from the top figures ensued, but down turns were as a rule just transient, although prices remained about the maximum, opening 2 1-2 to 9 1-4c. higher, new style, Dec. 176 to 176 1-2, and May 167 1-2 to 170 was followed by numerous wild changes, December dropping back temporarily to 171.

CHICAGO, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press).—Wheat prices shot skyward to-day as a result of the suggestion in the Government crop report that the United States already has shipped abroad wheat that is needed at home. Opening prices ranged from 2¼ to 9¼ cents higher than yesterday's close, December touching $1.76.

Consolidated West Dome Lake was the leader of the morning in activity closing at noon one point higher at 19. McIntyre sold at 22.75 and Lake Shore at 8.99.

Narrow List Shows Agility Unwarranted by the Season

TORONTO, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press)—There was little of the expected holiday dullness on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, Twin City leading the transactions in providing a spectacular feature. Heavy dealings in Twin, Brazilian and Smelters more than made up for the narrowness of the list dealt in. Twin City was sold three and a half points higher at 76 1-2, on a turnover of almost fifteen hundred shares. The morning close at 75 1-2 was a two and a half point gain from yesterday. Brazilian advanced to 82 3-8, receding to 81 7-8 at the close for a gain of a point and three eighths. Smelters climbed to 166 1-2 easing a point to close at 165 1-2, which was a point and a half higher than yesterday. The list was generally firm. Atlantic Sugar Preferred advanced a point at 81 and Abitibi three quarters at 72 1-4. Standard Bank was marked down three at 196.

BRITISH ANSWER U.S. COMPLAINTS

Says Americans Acted With Wheat as British Did With Rubber.

PROTECTIVE SCHEME.

LONDON, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press). — London newspapers have been chary of commenting editorially on the United States resentment against high British rubber prices, but today some of the writers break their silence.

Their main arguments are that prices are as much against British consumers as those of United States, that it is difficult to understand how the United States "the home of protection" can complain against a protective scheme, and that the United States acted identically regarding cotton and wheat.

"If we had tried to raise the price of wheat to starving Europe," says The Morning Post, "we should not have the face to complain of limitation of the price of rubber."

The Daily News finds the United States indignation "distinctly amusing," and adds, "If England is laughing up her sleeve, it is the first time since the war that she has had the opportunity."

POLICE BLAMED BY COMMISSION ON CHINESE RIOT

Failed to Take Timely Precautions—Officers Resigned.

LIBERTY FORGOTTEN.

Citizens of Foreign Colonies Failed to Take Account of Principles They Spread.

PEKING, China, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press). — The conclusions of Justice Elias F. Johnson, resulting from the inquiry into the shooting affair at Shanghai on May 30 last, were made public to-day by the dean of the diplomatic corps. Justice Johnson, a member of the bench of the Philippine Islands, was the presiding officer of the International commission charged with investigating the disorders in Shanghai which began with a strike demonstration and culminated in the killing of a number of Chinese.

Justice Johnson arraigns the police authorities for failure to appreciate the gravity of the situation or to take timely precautions. He charges the foreigners in Shanghai with failure to take into account the principles of liberty and independence which they themselves have spread in China and recommends various reforms of the Shanghai administration.

The British and Japanese members of the investigating commission, on the other hand, find no laxity in the police precautions and consider that no other course was available than the one pursued.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 23 — (United Press). — British Police Commissioner K. J. McEuen and Inspector E. W. Everson have resigned from their posts as a result of the investigators' findings in the investigation of the Shanghai shootings of rioters May 30 last. The Municipal Council ("Foreign") will pay $75,000 to the families of the dead. The British and Japanese judges exonerated the police, but the American representative, Justice E. Finley Johnson, while finding that the police firing on the mob was justified under the circumstances blamed the police for permitting the situation to develop so seriously. McEuen was blamed for visiting the races and leaving his duty at such a critical time.

MINING IS AFFECTED BY LABOR SHORTAGE

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, December 23. — Canadian Press. — Mining operations in South Africa are being seriously affected by a shortage in native labor, the president of the Chamber of Mines here says, and he declares that the shortage has been created artificially by the Hertzog government in support of the so-called White Labor policy advocated by the Labor party. The President of the Chamber of Mines states that owing to the prosperity of agriculture there has been a substantial decrease in the number of natives in the country coming to the mines and the government has refused to permit an increase in the number of natives easily obtainable from Portuguese East Africa.

Several buildings were destroyed and a number of others damaged, the total loss being estimated to $1,000,000. The firemen were crushed under a falling wall.

Yuletide Legends of Birds

By Marjorie Howe Dixon

Some saythat ever 'gain st that season comes
Whereon our Saviour's birth is celebrated
The bird of dawning singeth all night long. —Shakespeare.

Legends of birds are as old as history itself. Many and quaint are the ones associated with the birth and life of our Master. The reference above shows that the great poet was familiar with the old story of the cock's crowing at midnight, at the Saviour's birth, a legend dating back the fourth century.

There seem to be many more stories connected with the crucifixion than with the birth of Jesus. Robins, swallows and owls have in this way become almost sacred because of some pretty story about them. These legends are told to the youngsters of many countries, and have created a feeling of affectionate regard for the birds, resulting in many pretty customs, designed to show forth their love.

For this reason, among the rural villages and farms of northern Europe, where Friend Robin stays all winter, he is especially remembered by the children. Grain is scattered about on the roofs for his Christmas, and he is offered shelter in barns and haystacks.

What They Do In Sweden.

In Sweden the good farmer, assisted by his children, takes a sheaf of unthreshed wheat and ties it to a pole for Robin to feast upon. The children watch for his coming, and have all sorts of little thrills over his pleasure in their gift.

Alas for the poor little wren. It fares most unhappily this season in Ireland and on the Isle of man. Customs, the origin of which is lost in the mists of time, decree that little wren must die.

On the Isle of Man, it happens thus. Amid great excitement the wren is sought and killed and tied to a stick. It is then carried from house to house while a crude rhyme is recited, and money is besought. Finally it is buried with great solemnity in the graveyard, with singing of dirges.

It is thought by Mr. Ingersoll, to whose book, "Birds in Legend, Fable and Folklore," we are indebted, that this may be traced back to the early hatred the Christians felt toward the Druids. The wren was the Druid Bird. From its chirpings the priest drew auguries, and thus the poor little bird became an object of disapproval, if not hatred to the Christians. The killing of it became the symbol of the severance of all connection with Druidical practices. Variations of this savage custom are found in Ireland, belonging to both Christmas and St. Stephen's Day.

Turkeys For Christmas.

If he but knew, the turkey, too, would dread the approach of Christmas. We think of this bird as the one that should be served on Thanksgiving, because the Puritans, who did not observe Christmas to any extent, handed down to us this custom. While they, no doubt, were influenced by the fact that it was found in great numbers here, in those hard days, still they may have brought the custom from England with them.

Going back a good ways, boar's head was the special Christmas dish. Then came the religious struggles when the "English Dissenters" and "Papists" were continually at swords' points. The Dissenters could not countenance anything savoring of Catholic practices. And besides, turkeys were abundant during those troublous days of the Reformation. So the "noble bird" became the special meat for Christmas, and still is.

Another legend of a bird has come down to us, varying in different countries. As told by the peasantry of the English Midlands, a mother had a large lump of dough, which she promised to bake for Jesus. Her daughter reduced the size of the lump, until when it finally went into the oven, it was very small indeed.

However, as it baked it swelled to enormous size, and the girl exclaimed, "Heu, Heu." The sound suggested that of an owl and the girl was forthwith transformed into that bird. Ophelia says, in Hamlet, "They say the owl was a baker's daughter," a reference to this old legend.

Baker Changed to Cuckoo.

In Northern Germany, a baker's man was the guilty one, and the Lord changed him to a cuckoo. He wore a dun coat, and thus the cuckoo wears one, too, with white spots on the wings where flour was sprinkled.

There are many stories of owls. One sad little legend tells that the owl at one time had a sweet voice and sang charmingly. Unhappily it was present when Jesus died, and since that day it cannot bear daylight, and cries "Cruz, Cruz." This story comes from Spain.

From Russia comes the legend that all the farm animals are able to talk on Christmas Eve, from midnight until sunrise. This is because Christ was born in a manger. Would one could slip away some Christmas Eve and hear them! The legend does not say what they talk about, but perhaps they have far more curious legends than any we can gather from ancient chronicles, be our sources ever so many.

A proverb from Cornwall will furnish us with a wise maxim.

"He that hurts robin or wren
Will never prosper, boy or men."

The Secrets Of Charm

By Lucrezia Bori

Slim Hips!

How attractive that phrase sounds when it is used to describe such a characteristic in a particular person, and how desirable it sounds when a person who longs to possess such hips says it over to herself.

In which class are you? Are your hips slim enough to satisfy you, and to make you appear at your best in the new frocks of the season?

It has been said that the secret of youth is slim hips, and certainly, hips of sylphlike slenderness are the natural accompaniment of youth, just as they are too seldom the accompaniemnt of the more mature woman.

Here is a Good Quick Exercise toBene..t the Hips.

Now, the woman who does not lead a very active life, and even many of the women who do, must work if they are to possess twenty's hips at forty. But it can be done.

Dozens of actresses of the stage and screen, women whose fortunes depend directly upon their figures, manage to do this. So can you. But you must make up your mind to the fact that you will have to exercise.

And let me encourage you by saying that I'm sure the need of exercise won't be a hard fact for you to face, once you try it and see how easy it becomes for you to run through a list of exercises, any morning and night.

Here is a good, quick exercise that you will find not hard to do, and which I am sure will fill you with a desire to go on and get the fullest benefit from similar simple and exhilarating exercises:

Straighten and bend again rapidly, this time touching your left hand to your right foot.

Keep this up in rapid succession until you find yourself becoming tired.

Never keep up an exercise after you become particularly weary. Over-doing will make you lose your taste for the exercise, and you will not gain the full beauty value. Rest a while and repeat. It's a much better way.

By exercise I don't mean spasmodic efforts whenever the notion strikes you, but to obtain the desired results you mut be methodical and regular in your routine. Exercising, no matter how strenuous, if it is only indulged in once or twice a week, can never bring the results tha a daily regime will show. And don't think that you will see the desired results in a week. It may take a month or more before you show any benefits at all, but if you are persistent you can attain the slimness of hips of which I write.

Not only that, but you will find that your health is greatly improved. You will feel the buoyancy of youth creeping through your entire being. Your eyes will sparkle, your cheeks will show the natural radiancy which means perfect health. Your mental attitude will improve. And you'll bless the day that you commenced the regular exercising which brings the health and happiness which is bound to be yours if you are patient and persistent.

And this last thought is the one I wish to impress most on you, for it is the only way to health and beauty.

Envy and wishing will never bring you the gift of health and beauty. The woman whom you may envy because of her charm and beauty, you may be sure works persistently to retain the slim lines of youth. We cannot all be beautiful, but the beauty of charm and poise is a greater gift than that of a lovely face.

So often the womap of more matronly lines has difficulty in finding cloth frocks which just fill her needs. Many of them are either not quite dignified enough in character, or else they swing to the other extreme and are older in appearance than she wants.

The dress above is ideal for the cloth frock which combines youthfulness and dignity. The material is beige kasha, and the trimming is of heavily corded brown ribbon.

The graceful sleeves, the straight line at the front and the deep V neck are all points which induce slenderness of appearance.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

Dear Annie Laurie:

I am coming to you for advice. I have been going with the only girl I will ever love for about a year. We think alike in lots of things, and want a home some day.

Well, when I told her she was the only girl for me, and wished to become engaged to her, why, she said she did not care for me in that way but did not want that to stop us from going together.

I have been going with her for some time since then. When I asked her if there was anyone else, she said there was not.

This girl that is so much to me likes her good times as all girls do, and thinks if she becomes ngaegd that it will kill that good time.

Now I like a good time as well as anyone but I do not dance and she does. Well, I do not want to be a kill joy or anything like that but I see where there is joy in a home that will sure pass all other joys in the world.

I know she cares for me very much, but she does not see the joy that is in a married life though.

How can I get her to see the joy that I see in a home that we could have?—a joy that will pass all joy. The joy of loving each other, and the love of God blessing that home with little ones, which we both love.

Kindly accept my thanks.

PUZZLED.

Puzzled: Perhaps you had better give her more time to think about it. Bernard Shaw says we shouldn't attempt to do to others as we would be done by, because they may have different tastes than we have. If you are a sober-minded young man who doesn't care for dancing, and whose idea of happiness is the very praiseworthy one of settling down in married life with the girl you love, it might be a good idea for you to look for a young lady who has the same ideals, don't you think so? Of course, if she is the only girl you could ever love, as you say, the next best thing to do is wait and see if she doesn't come your way eventually. But do not try to force her to see life as you do. The Lord must have known what He was about when he made people different from each other, and efforts to change another's ideas usually end in failure —The world is full of women.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am coming to you for advice, not for myself but for a friend of mine. One of my old pals is in a dickens of a fix over a girl he met not long ago. He says he's in love with her, etc., but they don't go out together now. They went out for a short time and quit. I don't know why; I don't think they had a quarrel as she always speaks to him. But he says they had a little misunderstanding and quit going out together. Now since then he hasn't been the same; in love, I guess. I have never been in that situation myself (yet) so I told him I was no Annie Laurie so I decided to write to you for him. He knows it.

However, he says this girl is the only one he will ever love. He sees her quite often and she always speaks. I know her too. She is no doubt a nice girl, and she does not often be seen with fellows. She hasn't a steady so don't you think he has a chance yet? I told him to go ahead and ask her to go out some night, but he's a little shy, as she refused him once since they quit going out together. He tells me all his confidential affairs, but naturally I would not put them in print. But I just want you to tell me how my old pal can get back with this girl again. She really is a nice kid, not bold or loud in her action, but a modern girl. I know she thinks a good deal of him but I guess she must be a little shy too, so I want to fix matters kind of straight before Christmas, as every one should be happy around that time.

So, dear Annie Laurie, please tell me what to do in this matter as I want to help the old man out and see him smile more often. Thanking you. OLD PAL.

OLD PAL: Would is throw a wrench in the machinery if you were to meet the young lady casually and give her some idea to the state of mind of her young man? She may not have the remotest notion that he cares very much for her. Outsiders in these cases appear to have the faculty of judging much better than the stars in the drama or tragedy, as it may turn out. I don't see anything very hopeless in this situation. If the young man thinks she is the only girl he will ever love and she doesn't go out with a "steady", and they had only a slight misunderstanding, what is to prevent a reconciliation? Christmas is a singularly appropriate time for making up quarrels, as you say. Why can't he ring her up or meet her on the streets and stop to have a chat with her? It requires a little courage on his part, perhaps, but probably, from what you say, he thinks it would be worth it. He (or is it yourself perhaps) should remember that "faint heart never won fair lady".

ONCE UPON A TIME — RIP VAN WINKLE—VIII

(WASHINGTON IRVING)

by W. J. ENRIGHT.

THE STORY UP TO NOW

IN A VILLAGE AT THE FOOT OF THE KATSKILL MOUNTAINS THERE LIVED RIP VAN WINKLE. HE WAS A GREAT FAVORITE WITH EVERYONE BUT HIS WIFE, WHO SCOLDED HIM BECAUSE HE WOULD DO NO WORK. ONE DAY AFTER HUNTING IN THE MOUNTAINS HE STARTED HOME AT DUSK. HE MET A STRANGE LITTLE MAN CARRYING A KEG, AND HELPED HIM. FINALLY THEY CAME TO A HOLLOW IN THE WOODS, WHERE THEY FOUND MANY LITTLE MEN PLAYING AT NINE PINS.

AS RIP AND HIS COMPANION APPROACHED THE LITTLE MEN, THEY SUDDENLY STOPPED BOWLING AND STARED AT HIM WITH SUCH FIXED, STATUE-LIKE GAZE AND SUCH STRANGE UNCOUTH FACES THAT HIS HEART TURNED WITHIN HIM AND HIS KNEES KNOCKED TOGETHER.

HIS COMPANION POURED THE CONTENTS OF THE KEG INTO LARGE MUGS AND MADE SIGNS TO HIM TO WAIT UPON THE COMPANY. HE OBEYED WITH FEAR AND TREMBLING. THEY DRANK THE LIQUOR IN SILENCE AND RETURNED TO THEIR GAME.

BY DEGREES RIP'S FEAR LEFT HIM AND HE VENTURED, WHEN NO EYE WAS FIXED UPON HIM, TO TASTE WHAT WAS IN THE KEG. HE FOUND IT VERY MUCH TO HIS LIKING.

Christmas at Corncob Corners

by Raymond Knister

Blue dusk filled the world, flooded the farm and seeped through the window panes, when young Joseph wakened. Christmas morning! Of course it was early—maybe it was night yet. He had dreamed that his stocking was full of crumpled paper. He would just have to get up, if it were only one o'clock. He lay in agony for an age, which might have been a minute, and then he stirred. Who knew what might be in the stockings, oranges, candy, toys, to say nothing of unimaginable big things that couldn't get into them? Would there? Perhaps he was dreaming again, and would wake up and find it wasn't Christmas at all. But Walter was awake, too, and it kept Joseph going to jump out of bed first.

Hearts in their mouths, they felt their way into the hall, past mother's door, past Allie's door, and it was darker than ever on the stairs. But down in the sitting-room there was a red glow from the stove, and the coals showed dull through the isinglass. Oh, they shivered, with bare feet. Only the wooden clock ticked. It must be night yet, and in the dark they stumbled on the rocker of a chair. But near the stove, that was the place! There hung the stockings, plainly bulging in the glimmer, on the knobs of the family group frame. That would have to take the place of a hearth, mother had said; but it was high. "Get a chair," said Joseph. The faces of all those relatives in the picture frame seemed to glow at them in the firelight.

"Wait! Me, too, now!" came a whisper, and Allie stepped from the stairs, all white. They all got chairs and, exploring the stockings, put their toes up to the nickeled stove. They sighed in ecstasy over the presents. "Just what I wanted. O, how could Santy know?" But every other minute one of the boys would have to jump up and go to the table again to look things over, and come back sucking hard candies. "Won't I scoot with these skates!"

"But look at my doll!" An hour and a half later their parents found them there, and then the house woke up, with wishes, kisses, laughter, exclamations; and time passed so quickly again that father was in from the chores and they did not need the lamp for breakfast like an ordinary morning, and Allie blew it out while Joseph held his hand above the globe.

After breakfast there were more chores. Allie was lucky; being a girl she could stay in with all the wonderful things which had appeared so suddenly from nowhere, and see mother fix up everything for the Christmas dinner. But Joseph and Walter took some of the candies in the pockets of their sweater coats to suck while they pumped the water.

It was real winter now, not all muddy like it had been right until day before yesterday. A white Christmas, their father called it. "I'm glad it ain't a green Christmas!" They tugged at the pump handle, and the black sulphur water ran down, away along the trough to the big trough in the barnyard, and the steers came out of the barn and the shed, forty of them, and not one of them knew it was Christmas! And they all sipped the water, and looked about, and breathed frost, and supped more. Soon father appeared at the stable door and told them that was enough, for now.

It was warmer in the stable, where father was putting straw in the stalls for the horses. "Do you think Jessie would eat candy?" Walter asked gravely, rubbing his nose with his red mitten. "You might try." The little boy walked in beside the road-horse, and, yes, she snorted, and was afraid she would bite the red mitt, but she champed the candy all right. "Good horsey."

"Suppose we go and get the mail before we go to the house," father said, and all three walked down the lane, along the row of pines. The old trees sounded kind of sorry; but the sun was bright, and made fine silver wires of cobweb floating out. . . .

Just in time. There was the mailman; red cheeks between his coat-collar, driving away from the high tin mail-box. They couldn't see him put things in it. "Merry Christmas! I suppose they've loaded you down to-day," says father. "Oh, loaded down, nothing, but I am loaded down with the things people leave in their boxes for me. Thanks for those apples, young man." The mail man called back as his horse took a trot, and the boys on the bridge waved at him. The water wasn't frozen in the ditch; it was deep, clear brown, and the weeds standing or tipped in it were like little snow-covered trees. "Come on, boys."

In the house there were letters, parcels from more people than they could remember. Aunts, uncles, father's mother and father in the States, mother's people in England. Then just as things got strewn in a fine pile on the table, in came old Mr. and Mrs. Ogg, that lived on the next farm, and they'd been asked over for Christmas dinner. "Merry Christmas!" "Same to you!" They took off their wraps. "Well, well, well," said Mr. Ogg, and his white mustache moved. He always made the boys think he was pleased and awfully surprised to see them, and patted them on the heads. He had three magnificent red pencils with rubbers on the ends for them, and a big book of white paper. They made him sharpen the pencils.

Mr. Ogg and father sat in the dining-room and talked, and it was funny, because they didn't mention it being Christmas very often, either. In the kitchen Mrs. Ogg sat and rocked and talked to mother whether she was in the pantry or not. Once when she was, Joseph whispered to Mrs. Ogg, "I got up at four o'clock this morning to see what was in my stocking!" He drew back and they looked at each other in astonishment. "My! Did you really?"

The old lady was impressed, but forgot right away, and went on talking. So the boys brought all their presents in from the other room to show her. "And this one's Allie's!" Allie came out of the pantry and saw them, then she ran to the sitting-room and showed her presents herself.

The men passed through the kitchen and went to the barn, but the boys stayed in, and watched mother and Allie sew up the goose, and cracked nuts. "Goose is good! Goose is good! Goose is good!" With every word Walter hit the table with a fork. "Mother, make young Walter stop! He's hitting the table!" Then they had an army battle on the floor, until Joseph said, "I'm hungry" in a surprised way. They waited and waited, and played some more and got hungrier, and then the men came in. "We thought we'd fix the stock all up. Now we won't have to go near 'em till night."

"Father, come and see our army! We got a grand army!"

"But, sons, it's dinner time. Wait till afterward."

And then there was dinner. There was the goose, great and brown. "He looks like an Indian goose," said Joseph. And there was dressing, and potatoes, and gravy, and celery, and cranberries and everything—and pudding, but the children were to have jello and whipped cream instead. It was all wonderful, except that once, when nobody was saying anything, Mrs. Ogg said, "Joseph was telling me he got up at four o'clock this morning to see his stocking."

"Oh!" thought Joseph. "Women! You can't tell them anything——" He was going to burst right out, but nobody seemed to notice, and dinner went on the longest time, everybody saying interesting things, until he and Allie and Walter got up from the table and left the rest talking. They danced up and down in the sitting-room, exulting anew. "Oh, I am so happy, so happy!" It was a kind of song. They looked out of the window at the poor old fields and the snow. There was the oats field brown with stubble and weeds, and then the smooth wheat-field beyond showed nothing but a curtain of snow streaming over its surface in the wind. But every once in a while the waves would be thin, and there would be sunlight. . .

It seemed they had only begun to play when mother made them go to bed, to be rested up for the entertainment to-night. And when they woke up and rushed downstairs in the dusk of late afternoon they asked, "Can we take the sleigh?" Father had it all ready, in case the snow got deep enough, they knew. But he and Mr. Ogg were at the barn doing the night chores. Soon they heard the voices of the men, and old Mr. Ogg pulled his mustache and raised his eyebrows. "Well, well, the weesters are up, are they?"

Supper wasn't like any ordinary supper, yet it wasn't so exciting as the sleighride, with the bells, and after that the program in the town hall at Corncob Corners, with something funny they had never seen before. It was called a tableau, and it was like school, only quieter. And there was one piece in which they got up and sang with all the other children, and mother promised them something nice if they stood nice and straight. Coming home they went to sleep before the sleigh came to Mr. Ogg's place.

And next week father read out loud in the Corncob Expositor a message of thanks from the mailman: "May the dove of peace always hover over your ridgepoles. . . " And he smiled, and they thought Christmas was a long way behind. But soon it would be "New Year's."

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Everybody has a fear of Bright's disease. That is one of the ailments we all dread. It is probable our feeling is not justified by the actual facts. With proper care and suitable diet, the majority of kidney ailments can be controlled, if not actually cured, provided the treatment is started early enough.

Kidney diseases begin with congestion. The first factor in all inflammations is congestion, an over-supply of blood. There can be no inflammation without congestion. Unless it is speedily relieved, then, we must regard congestion with some anxiety, because it may end in real disease.

The beginning of Bright's disease is called "Active Hyperemia," or "Acute Congestion." In the infectious or contagious diseases, or after exposure to cold, there may be severe kidney congestion. The organs become swollen and tender.

Unless promptly attended to, there may develop actual inflammation of the kidneys. Then we are dealing with acute Bright's disease.

The causes are the same as those which produce active hyperemia—cold, fevers and poisons. It may be a symptom of pregnancy. Such simple diseases as tonsilitis, chronic indigestion and certain skin diseases, may result in kidney involvement.

The most familiar symptom of acute Bright's disease is dropsy. The eyelids, the cheeks or the ankles may be swollen. On pressure of the finger, a dent is left which is slow to disappear. The flesh over the tops of the shoes is swollen and other parts of the body may show evidence of dropsy.

Except in a very severe case there is little, if any fever. There may be sickness at the stomach and occasional attacks of vomiting. Persistent headache and pain across the back are other symptoms complained of by some.

A mild form of acute Bright's disease, or acute nephritis, as it is called, may not be serious in and of itself. The trouble is, however, there are complications which are liable to add to the unhappiness of the victim. Bronchitis, pleurisy, pneumonia and other lung diseases are not far away, if there is a persistent nephritis.

By giving the right attention early enough an acute Bright's disease may be controlled. The first necessity is to keep quiet. Rest in bed is essential. The theory of treatment is to take off the kidneys all the work it is possible to turn to other organs. To this end the bowels and skin are called on to work harder. An open bowel and free sweating are important.

The milk diet is a favorite prescription. Milk diluted with carbonated water or lime water is frequently the order of the doctor.

Don't get scared to death if you are told you have a touch of Bright's disease. With care on your part you will fully recover.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DAVID MEETS AN INTERESTING LITTLE WESTERNER

"Gracious me!" David exclaimed as he almost stumbled over a quaint little slim-bodied animal about eight inches long, and of a yellow-brown tint. "Who-in-the-world-are-you-any-way?" he asked all in one breath. "If you were not so long, I'd call you a chipmunk."

"Thank goodness, I'm not a chipmunk," said the little fellow. "You wouldn't have seen me this time if I hadn't caught my foot in this trap now so that I can't get away. If this is your trap, please unfasten it and I'll promise not to run away."

"Trap!" cried David as he stooped and loosened the iron rod from the little fellow's foot. "Indeed it's not my trap. I'm a friend of Squeedee and Happy Giggles, and you know they wouldn't harm anyone. There you are. Does your foot hurt very much?"

"Well, it isn't broken anyway, so there's something to be thankful for," declared the little fellow with the dark and light stripes running down his yellowish-brown back. "You see, the farmers out West here, don't like the Thirteen-striped Gophers and they are always trying to trap us," and his close-cropped ears gave a merry twitch. He opened his funny little squirrel-like mouth to laugh and David saw his long, yellow sharp teeth. "Some folks think we should be protected because of the stripes and white spots on our backs. They say we look patriotic, while others want to get rid of us."

"I'm Not a Chipmunk"

"I'm mighty glad, Mr. Thirteen-striped Gopher, that I happened along in time to let you free," said David, wrapping a piece of his clean handkerchief around Mr. Gopher's hurt foot. "I've never seen anything like you before."

"Then I guess you've never seen my house," answered Mr. Gopher. "Come along and we'll go right over." Limping along on his three short legs, he led David to a hole, half hidden under a clump of grass. They wound in and around a long, narrow tunnel under the ground until they finally reached a big round chamber. Here Mama Gopher and her ten little babies were snuggled on a soft bed of dried grass.

She was all excited when she saw David, but she quieted down when her mate told her how David had helped him out of the trap.

David took the bit of handkerchief off of Mr. Gopher's foot and Mama Gopher licked and cleaned it just like David had seen his dog do when he had a hurt paw.

"I certainly thank you, David," she said, tears in her eyes. "I wish some kind man would buy this part of the country and not allow the hunters to set traps."

An idea came to David and he clapped his hands.

"I have it. Move over into my Daddy's ground," he cried excitedly. "He doesn't let anyone set traps on his ground and if he finds them hunting around his weeds, he makes them get out. Come on, I'll help carry the youngsters."

Mama and Daddy Gopher talked it over and decided to move. David and Mama Gopher watched the children while Daddy Gopher made a newhome on David's Daddy's place. By night the dear little family were safe and snug. Now, when David has nothing else to do, he goes down to visit with his new friends. I'm sure if ever you visit David, he'll take you down and introduce you to this interesting little Gopher family.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 24.

A very propitious sway of the planets will add to the cordial spirit of this day, especially for those in the employment of others and those identified with large corporations and with lodges and societies. The former may be prepared for advancement, recognition or other form of favor from their superiors and the others may have pleasant surprises or valuable secret agreements. It is warned, however, that money should be used judiciously and that all papers be signed with care.

Those whose birthday it is are under excellent prospect for advancement, honors or favors during the year, but they should sign all papers cautiously and should not risk money in speculation or loans. A child born on this day may be expected to succeed best in the employment of others as it may be inclined to be reckless in handling its own money and in making bad bargains.

Easy Lessons in AUCTION BRIDGE

New Series by WYNNE FERGUSON

Author of "Ferguson on Auction Bridge"

Copyright 1925 by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 21

One of the best known bridge players was asked the other night what he considered the greatest quality for a player to have and he replied without any hesitation: "The ability to play losing cards well." Think that over carefully for it is a regular lesson on the game. Learn to play your losing cards well and the good ones will take care of themselves.

One of the most unusual succession of hands ever known was held by a well-known player the other night and as they are very good illustrations of the preemptive or shut-out bid, it is well worth while to discuss them. The three hands were held in succession and are as follows:

Hand No. 1

Hearts — A, 10, 9, 8, 7, 5, 3, 2
Clubs — J, 9, 2
Diamonds — A
Spades — K

The dealer and second player passed and third player, holding the above hand, bid four hearts. All passed and he failed to make his contract by three tricks. His opponents, however, had an easy game in spades so the shut-out bid saved the game.

Hand No. 2

Hearts — 7
Clubs — K, Q, 9, 7, 6
Diamonds — none
Spades — A, K, Q, J, 9, 7, 6

The dealer passed and the second player, with the above hand, bid four spades. All passed and he made five odd. In this case the shut-out bid probably made little difference.

Hand No. 3

Hearts — A
Clubs — A, Q, J, 7
Diamonds — A, K, Q, J, 9, 7, 5, 4
Spades — none

The dealer with the above hand bid five diamonds. All passed and he made a little slam. The opponents could have made five odd in either spades or hearts. In this hand, also, the shut-out bid made little difference. The hands, however, are remarkable for being held in succession by the same player, something that probably will not happen again in a decade.

The hands given in the preceding article were illustrative of the proper bidding of two-suit hands and are well worthy of careful study. The question in each case is, what would you, as dealer, bid?

Hand No. 1

Hearts — A, 10, 9, 8, 7
Clubs — A, 10, 8, 7, 6
Diamonds — 7, 6

Spades — 6

The proper bid with this hand is one club. If overbid by either opponent or by partner, bid the heart. The reason for preferring the club to the heart as the first bid is that partner is more apt to overbid the club than the heart and so gives you a better chance to bid both suits.

Hand No. 2

Hearts — 8
Clubs — 6
Diamonds — K, Q, 9, 4, 2
Spades — K, J, 10, 7, 6, 5

With this hand the better bid is one spade. The spades are much stronger than the diamonds and should be rebid before showing the diamonds. For that reason the one spade is preferred to one diamond.

Hand No. 3

Hearts — none
Clubs — A, K, Q, 10, 4
Diamonds — 10, 7, 6
Spades — A, K, J, 10, 7

In this hand both suits are of fairly equal value so one spade should be the first bid. If overbid, show the clubs.

Hand No. 4

Hearts — A, K, Q, 7
Clubs — K, Q, 10, 8, 7, 6, 5
Diamonds — none
Spades — Q, 6

With this hand, one club is the proper bid. Clubs should be rebid at least once before showing the heart suit. The clubs are so much longer and stronger that the hand will undoubtedly give the best results with that suit as trumps.

Hand No. 5

Hearts — A, 8, 6
Clubs — K, J, 9, 5, 3
Diamonds — K, J, 9, 5, 3
Spades — none

This is a very doubtful hand. It is really a sound pass but the two-suit character of the hand makes it a tempting proposition to bid. If you do decide to bid, one diamond is correct. Whenever the two suits are of fairly equal value, always bid the higher value first.

Hand No. 6

Hearts — K, Q, 8, 4, 3
Clubs — Q, 10, 9, 8, 7
Diamonds — 7, 2
Spades — J

This hand should undoubtedly be passed. Hand No. 5 is on the border line but this hand is just under. Pass with the firm intention of bidding the hearts on the next round if the bidding makes such a course expedient. These example hands comprise most of the usual types of two-suiters, and the bidding as given should be carefully studied.

M'GRAW NOT TO CHANGE GIANTS

Louisville Recruit Replaces Southworth in Outfield—Groh at Third.

KELLY AT FIRST.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22 (Canadian Press).—In marked contrast to the steps for reconstruction taken by the Yankees and to his own policy of former years, Manager John McGraw Tuesday indicated that the team with which he fought a losing battle against the Pirates for the 1925 National League pennant will be retained substantially intact to renew the championship drive next season.

Declaring that he intended to retain Heinie Groh at third base, despite his uncertain physical condition, and to restore to first base his all-round star, George Kelly, after having refused an offer from Cincinnati to exchange Kelly for outfielder Eddie Roush, McGraw said he expected to make but one change in his line-up. This will place a new acquisition from Louisville, Albert Tyson, in the outfield post held last season by Billy Southworth.

STRIBLING HAS $250,000 SAVED

Youth Has Made More Money in Ring Than Most Champions.

SPORT NOTES.

William Stribling, son of Pa and Ma Stribling, of Macon, Ga., has $250,000 in stocks and bonds tucked away in a safety deposit box and he is not of age.

Young Mr. Stribling, while not a champion, has made more money than about 85 per cent of the champions boxing has known.

If you asked Mr. Stribling about the matter he probably would tell you:

"Prize fighting is a brutal sport, but boxing—that's business."

And it seems very much that way since young Mr. Stribling has been a simon-pure boxer during his brief ring career. The fact that Mr. Stribling is not a fighter has been fully established.

There is nothing mysterious about the growing popularity of basketball and hockey, says H. J. Salsinger, in The Detroit News.

Here are two sports that provide constant action, and what the crowd wants is action.

There are lulls in other sports. Baseball has more dull moments than any other major game. Football has less than baseball and so has boxing, but both football and boxing has their listless minutes.

In basketball and hockey the action is continuous.

In both sports the patronage is about equally divided between the professionals and amateurs. The professionals play much the better game, but the amateurs are just as interesting, if not more so.

Hockey, in future years, will be a leading sport on this side. We know of no game that more completely satisfies the American taste and demand in sports. It has speed, color, dash. Its competitive worth is as high as anything in sport we know of.

Mr. Cornelius McGillicuddy, of Philadelphia, has already told friends that he expects to start Joe Hauser at first base with the opening of the 1926 season.

Hauser was out of the Philadelphia line-up last season with a smashed knee cap. It was reported last August that he had fully recovered, but that Mr. McGillicuddy risked the loss of the pennant to keep Hauser out and prevent him from receiving a permanent injury.

In Hausers place, Mr. McGillicuddy used Poole, who proved himself the worst first baseman in the American League, despite the fact that he led the first basemen in the fielding averages. That simply proves what fielding averages amount to.

Hauser is not alone a good fielder, but one of the best-hitting first sackers in the game. The Athletic might have won the pennant had he been able to remain in the line-up.

SPORTING NEWS FROM OSHAWA

Intermediate and Junior Teams All Along Lake Shore Ready.

SCHEDULES DRAWN.

OSHAWA, Dec. 23.—With their winter wraps all ready, and roaring to go, hockey players and enthusiasts along the lake shore got a set back through the mild weather over the week end and the conveners of hockey groups pulled the one best bet when they advised representatives not to schedule Ontario Amateur Hockey Association games before the Christmas holidays.

The schedule as announced in the intermediate series of Eastern Ontario calls for section "B" of group No. 1 to open on Friday, January 8th with Belleville at Trenton and Brockville at Kingston; section "C" opens on Monday evening, January 28th with Oshawa at Bowmanville and Cobourg at Port Hope; Cornwall of section "A" gets the bye and will play off with the winner of section "B".

Intermediate group No. 3 opens on Tuesday, January 5th with Uxbridge at Whitby and Port Perry at Cannington; Lindsay opens at home on Friday evening, January 8, with Cannington as the opposing team.

With the switching of Oshawa Intermediates back into the old group with Cobourg, Port Hope and Bowmanville, whereas they were first placed with Lindsay, Cannington, Uxbridge, Port Perry and Whitby is pleasing to the management of the Oshawa team, as it will save considerable expense and many inconvenient trips, but the general opinion of the fans is "new teams and new faces" would have acted as a stimulant to the great winter sport.

Oshawa's indoor sport for the winter months is to be basketball and three teams will be grouped with outside competition. The Intermediate ladies' team which won the championship of the Ontario Ladies' Basketball Association last season, will again operate and Cliffe James has enough candidates to form two squads, which he has arranged with the non de plumes of "Pirates" and "Ramblers."

The Y.M.C.A. boys' juvenile team is entered in the Ontario Baseball Association, the grouping for which is now being arranged. Coach Kirkland's High School team has been grouped with Scarboro, Mimico, Weston and Brampton to be known as "Interscholastic Group."

Oshawa Church Hockey Association have decided to operate four entries this year—Senior, Junior, Juvenile and Midget and when the time expired on Saturday for the receiving of entries twenty six teams had sent in their credentials—six in the senior, five in the junior, seven in the juvenile and eight in the midget.

The inside dope on the material for the Oshawa intermediate hockey squad for this year gives Dick Smith for goal; Carter, formerly of Port Hope and Ellis of the Toronto Mercantile League on the defence; Rowden centre; Houck and Stevens of Uxbridge, Lott formerly of North Bay and Lowe for the wings; Walt Fair is to coach and Walter Lett business manager.

The Oshawa junior line up will include Leveque for goal; Harrington an ex-Toronto player and Jack Loew on the defence; while for the forward line the following are candidates—Doc Rowden, Bill Conlin, Fredd Starr, T. Johns, formerly of Sudbury, Olive Spafiton, formerly of Toronto, Art Black, Harold Smith.

INSIDE GOLF.

Maker of 61 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful tenener," says "Chick" Evans

By CHESTER HORTON

When you turn the shoulders to the right in the back swing, the right leg of course should be stiffened somewhat against this turning, so that the body will not sway. This stiffening should not be a rigidity, but just enough resistance to hold the body in place. The right hips will move back, describing a little circle of its own, but the player need not be much concerned about his hips—they will act naturally. Also be careful not to let the left shoulder dip downward as you turn to the right. It turns away from the ball, not toward it. Taking the clubhead back a little from the ball, clubhead back a little from the ball, ders to the right, disregarding the club, will illustrate to any player the difference between real pivoting "above the waist," and merely twisting the entire body around, which is not pivoting at all.

CHARITY BOUTS.

Rickard Has Full Card For To-night.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press).—Pugilists of the far west, the south and the east were gathered here yesterday to engage in intersectional ring battles at Madison Square Garden tonight for charity. Heavyweights, light heavyweights and flyweights, including the new 112 pound champion, Fidel La Barba of Los Angeles, are on the card.

La Barba's contest with Lew Perfetti of New York has been limited to six rounds under a boxing commission rule, because he has not yet reached 21 years, and will not involve his title. It will be the semi-final to a ten-round match between Mike McTigue, former light heavyweight champion, and Tigers Flowers, the negro battler from Georgia.

A second ten round match will bring together George Godfrey, Alabama negro, and Martin Burke, Louisiana heavyweight.

New Years Bill

NEW YORK, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press). — Promoter Tex Rickard yesterday completed a card of three ten-round bouts for a show to be staged in Madison Square Garden on New Year's Day, the main event of which will bring together Dave Shade, California welterweight, and Roland Todd of England.

Sailor Friedman of Chicago, who recently extended the welterweight champion, Mickey Walker, in two keenly contested title fights, will oppose Willie Harmon of New York in the semi-final. The third match will pit Joe Dundee, Baltimore lightweight, against Sammy Baker of Mitchell Field.

Delaney, the Canadian boxer, put up a stubborn argument in his recent bout at New York with Berlenbach, the [illegible] decision against him was not well received. Delaney gave away much weight to the conqueror of Jack Reddick. The photo shows Delaney down in the ninth round after being shoved off his feet by the husky champion. WORLD'S FUTURE IS PORTRAYED Destiny of Universe is Discussed by Sir Oliver Lodge.

CLASH OF ATOMS

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 22.—(Canadian Press Despatch.)—Sir Oliver Lodge, the great scientist, drew an awe-inspiring picture of the possible future confronting the physical universe in reply to the question: Will the world come to an end? asked at the Charing Cross Medical School. It would seem, he said, the universe as a vital and going concern must have had a beginning and must have an end. The beginning was the formation of nebulae 200 million years ago. The end would apparently be the disappearance of matter and the existence once more of ether filled with perpetual remnants of radiation travelling out in all directions towards infinity with the speed of light at a date incomparably remote.

But was that the end? asked Sir Oliver. Need there be any end or any beginning? He doubted whether the idea of termination in any form was tenable and advanced the theory of the dust of the universe, driven to the confines of space by the pressure of light, receiving the waste radiation being ironized by it and chemical activity coming into bull blast. Thus would begin once more the clash of atoms, the formation of nebulae, the birth of stars and ultimately of planets.

NEW UNIVERSITY.

Devon and Cornwall Raising Funds For One at Exeter.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 22 (Canadian Press).—Devon and Cornwall are taking a great interest in the effort which is being made to provide a university for South-West England, at Exeter. More than £10,000 has been subscribed, including £1,000 from the Prince of Wales, who is chairman of the college. Devonian and Cornish associations in England and the Dominions are being asked to subscribe. The Streatham Hall estate which was presented to the college two years ago, is to be the site. It has been extended by 120 acres. It is hoped to provide for 1,000 students. Research work will be the most important activities at the University as the place adapts itself particularly to such service. Streatham Hall during the war was a hospital, and many Canadians went through it.

STORMS IN FRANCE CAUSE HEAVY LOSS

Streets Blocked By Fallen Debris of Razed Buildings and Walls.

PARIS, Dec. 22. — (Canadian Press).—Heavy storms again are sweeping France and parts of Spain. Paris and its environs suffered greatly. Buildings were razed and walls blown down. Several of the streets were blocked by fallen debris, and one of the important highways leading out from the city was similarly affected.

Scores of injuries and material damages amounting to several millions of francs, were the results of the storm of hurricane intensity which swept France last night as a culmination of the worst spell of weather experienced for many years. The storms began with the arrival of December, and they have been roaring ever since. The centre of last night's hurricane was the coast of Normandy, where deaths occurred.

In Paris the Eiffel Tower station at midnight registered a south-westerly wind of nearly 100 miles an hour. The streets this morning were strewn with the wreckage of signs torn from store fronts, chimneys, and roofing slates.

Near St. Nazaire an English steamer broke her hawsers and was driven ashore, while reports along the Atlantic seaboard from Bayonne to Dunkirk tell of heavy damages.

MAY LOWER TARIFF.

OTTAWA, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press)—Indications are for a lowering or even complete removal of the tariff barrier against Canadian feeder cattle going into the United States to winter, J. D. McGregor, prominent cattle breeder, of Brandon, Man., announced upon his return from the south. The large corn crop and the lack of feeder stock to absorb the supply, according to Mr. McGregor, has brought about quite a change of front among farmers of the middle Western States.

SIX ARE NAMED FOR MAYORALTY

in committees, and the deliberations of these committees are sent on to the Council for ratification.

The Finance Committee, one of the most important, has been ably handled by Alderman Phelan, who has given the work earnest and careful attention. Alderman Phelan's training fits him perfectly for the position of finance chairman, and the citizens are to be congratulated on having him as one of their representatives in the City Council.

The work of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, under Alderman Jones, chairman, has had careful attention, and during the present year part of the city has been rewired and stronger lights established at regular intervals, which will more equally distribute the lighting system, with very little extra cost to the city. Through this installation the street lighting system will be under control and can be turned off and on as required. Other sections of the city will be treated in the same way as soon as the Utilities Commission can handle the work.

The equipment of the Fire Department is in good order, and each year finds addition to the equipment, which keeps it up to date and no large extra expense is requested in any one year but rather a budget of expenses to cover the work of the department is handled economically to provide pieces of equipment to make the department efficient. All members of the department cooperate to maintain the department as economically as possible.

Alderman Turner is chairman of the Parks and Railways Committee and has given much time and attention to the improvement of the parks of the city, and the work has only been limited by the amount of the appropriation, which has not been sufficient to do all the work desired.

Board of Works.

The Board of Works, under the direction of Alderman Fife, is one of the busiest committees of the Council, but the work has been looked after promptly and carefully by Alderman Fife, who has had the co-operation of all departments to obtain the best results. The Board of Works is directly connected with the engineering department, and I submit it is not wise to curtail the expenditure of the Board of Works too much as we have certain fixed overhead charges which are increased or decreased in proportion to the amount of work done. If the appropriation in this department is not sufficient to keep the engineering staff busy during the year then we have a carrying charge without results. If, on the other hand they can be kept busy continuously, the cost is proportionately reduced to ratepayers. During my two years a start has been made on storm drains by establishing the outlet and working up until the trunk storm drain has almost reached Sherbrooke Street. This work should be continued from year to year until the city is covered.

Last year the paving programme was continued at the north end to the boundary, a section on Water, Murray, McDonnel and Aylmer Streets, which improves travel in the sections covered and one might suggest some paving each year as advantageous as against no paving for a number of years and then a lot at one time. Street cleaning is one of the health problems which all municiplities are considering, and was a matter of research and discussion by the Council. After weighing the matter carefully and considering the various means employed for street cleaning, the Council awarded a contract to the Dominion Dustless Sweeper Co. for one of their machines, which not only cleans but removes the dust and dirt entirely. This machine is doing good work and is splendid for sanitary street cleaning at small expense.

The Manufacturers' Committee, under Alderman Meyers, has had a quiet season as there has not been much movement in industries locating during the past two years. With the improvement in industrial conditions we may look for industrial development and investment and Peterboro can confidently expect to get a share of the industries looking for new locations.

The Property Committee, under Alderman McIntyre, has had careful attention and nothing has been neglected.

Altogether, I wish to pay tribute to my colleagues during the past two years, who have earnestly endeavored to discuss various problems submitted from time to time in the best interests of the whole community.

Police Commission.

As a member of the Police Commission I am glad to report little difficulties straightened away which came to me when I took my seat on the board. The work of the department is being carried on harmoniously and the euipment has been kept up to requirements.

I am also a member of other boards of the city such as the Nicholls Hospital Board, the Public Library Board, Children's Aid Society Board, Protestant Home Board and the Board of Health. The work in these various interests is being carried on by broadminded men and women who give the time and attention necessary to carry on effectively and efficiently. We are indebted to these public spirited citizens for carrying on the work of these institutions.

The Board of Health have had regular meetings during the year and I have in mind some steps in advance which we might take in the interests of public health. I believe a full time Medical Officer of Health will be advantageous to the city and suggest an officer can be obtained with very little extra expense. This is a question which I trust will engage the attention of the local Board of Health early next year.

With reference to the Isolation Hospital I am of the opinion it would be advantageous to make it free to city patients as at the present time about $1000 is collected in fees which represent about one tenth of the budget. From this you will see we are contributing nine-tenths to support this institution, and I think there are many advantages in making it free to more than offset the small amount collected.

I am not a member of the Peterboro Health Association but from time to time I come in contact with their work and can speak very highly of the good they are doing among the children with nourishment and fresh air.

I was very much gratified to read a few days ago the annual report of the Well Babies' Clinic, ably supervised by Dr. Birnie, and noted with pleasure the growth of the work. These health bodies are dealing with the city's best assets and we owe them one and all a debt of gratitude for the time and care given to the work.

Thinking of the city hall staff and alterations which have been made in the various departments it seems to me the personnel of the employees and the space arrangements are as near perfect as possible. The Assessor's Department will be moved downstairs as soon as the room is ready, and when this change has has been made all the city officers will be on the ground floor with the exception of the Sanitary Inspector and the Relief Officer.

Just here a word of thanks and praise should be expressed to the members of the City Trust who look after and handle the investments of the city, as well as city property. The commission keeps city property up to date with regards to repairs and painting and no request is submitted which does not receive careful and prompt attention.

Pleasant Years

In conclusion, I have spent two pleasant years as Chief Magistrate of the city—years which have added to my education and broadened my knowledge of civic administration. A number of matters which have been under discussion for some years have had attention and have been dealt with in a practical way such as the sewage disposal plant, which has been considered during the past 12 years, and is now nearing completion. The system of storm drains has been commenced and substantial progress made. Raw sewage going into the river at different points has been curtailed, and with the new sewer to be constructed on Simcoe street to take care of industries along the water front, will take sewage out of the river at this point.

The city is in splendid running order, every department functioning properly, consequently whoever is elected your representative for 1926 will accept office under splendid conditions.

I wish to thank my colleagues and city officials for co-operation during my terms of office and especially do I wish to thank the public press interpreting my various little addresses in the best possible way and presenting them to the public.

Alderman J. O. Fife said Peterborough needs a man with vision and needs a busy man. He quoted from his platform of three years ago—storm drains, sewage disposal plant; permanent road building programme; sewage connections. Now we have the storm drains advanced to where we need $10,000 more whether it raises your taxes. Alderman Fife outlined the work that had been done, and pointed to the need for vision. He would deal with the school question later, but any opposition he received would be from bachelors and men without children, he said.

Robert Hicks.

Robert Hicks said he would not take up much time, as he would hold a public meeting later, at which he would outline his platform fully. He took a firm stand on the Campbell Flour Mills charges, declaring there is no ground for the complaints. Quoting from a letter from the Colonial Weaving Co., Mr. Hicks said he had attached a cheque to say the allegations are without basis in fact, and invited Mr. Hall to attach his cheque for a like amount. The matter could then be submitted to arbitration—the speaker named W. R. Morris and the City Solicitor as possible arbitrators—and the amount put up by the loser could go to charity.

Mr. Hicks recalled the work done in regard to the Filtration Plant during his term in office, pointing out the saving effected. He would deal with this fully at his public meeting, he said. If the manufacturers in the city had paid what they owed for water, Mr. Hicks charged, then there would not have been a deficit when he took over.

Challenge to R. R. Hall.

Referring to Mr. Hall as "The Lord Northcliffe of Peterborough,' the speaker offered him 30 minutes on the platform at a meeting he has planned for December 29 in Victoria Hall. "I will resign, if elected," he said, "if it can be shown that I make any mis-statements."

In concluding, Mr. Hicks declared himself fully in favor of public ownership and against the capitalists who would take away the people's interests in their own utilities.

Gordon Matthews.

Gordon Matthews said he would stay with the campaign. His father had been chairman of the Utilities for eighteen years, and he desired to follow in his footsteps. Personally, he had no criticism to make of the present Commissioners. He would stand on his merits.

Conscience Of Department Store Santa Claus Impells Him To Give Up His Annual Fall Job

The man who has simulated Santa Claus in a department store in the pre-holiday periods of the last six years announces that he will doff his synthetic whiskers for all time on this coming Christmas Eve. He is convinced that he isn't made of sufficiently stern stuff to be a genuinely successful Santa Claus.

He find it painful to offer unfounded encouragement to a boy who eagerly asks him to send an electric train on tracks, with two switches, a tunnel and an automatic safety signal, to an address in poor district, and says that by Christmas Day he can feel thousands of pairs of childish eyes fixed upon him, shining with tears instead of hope, mutely accusing him of making promises he knew he could not keep.

Often he is tempted to discard his disguise and admit to the youngsters that he is merely an imitation Santa Claus and that it isn't in his power to bestow the completely furnished, six-room dollhouse. When handed a letter by a little girl who wants a baby sister, he feels as if he were using the mails to defraud.

I'm a doorman for eleven months each years," the store St. Nicholas said, "and I put in the twelfth wearing whiskers, a red suit, a red nose and black boots. I'm sort of King to the kids, and they certainly act as if they were my subjects. My job is to promise them everything they tell me they'd like to have. Occasionally the mothers whisper to me about reminding the children that I don't listen to the requests of anybody who doesn't practice on the piano or go to bed without arguing.

"After this Christmas I'm going to be a doorman for twelve months each year. Then I won't have to hear little boys beg me not to forget to bring them a red automobile and a fireman's suit, when down in my heart I know that they'll be lucky if they get a peppermint cane.

"May be it would be mean to tell them there ain't any Santy Claus—and then again maybe it wouldn't."

SERVICE UNCHANGED TO PORT M'NICHOLL

C.P.R. Has Decided Not To Make Change in Schedule.

Mayor J. J. Turner received the following letter from H. C. Grout this morning in connection with the proopsed change in the schedule of the Peterborough—Port McNicoll train by the Canadian Pacific Railway authorities.

"Upon further considering the matter it has been decided to make no change in the present train service between Peterboro and Port McNicoll.

"I do wish, however, to let you know that I appreciate very much the attitude which you have displayed in connection with this and all other matters which have come up from time to time in which this Company is concerned, and it is in no small measure due to your friendly and in every way fair treatment that this decision was reached in this case."

TWAS EVER THUS.

(By Jeanette)

We don't recommend that very tender-hearted people should read the following article, because it is a sad story, and sad stories should not be read at Christmas-tide.

It is about Joseph and Josephine and their fate. Joseph and Josephine are twins of about a fortnight old, and they were separated this morning, possibly for life. Their paths may possibly cross again but it is not at all likely, because their destinies will run in different channels. Josephine, in a home far removed in many ways from that of Joseph, will probably settle down to an existence of exemplary domesticity, while her brother will just as probably take up the career of his kind. Born just two weeks ago, their early history is shrouded in mystery. Their father disappeared before their birth and even his name is unknown to those who have taken care of them ever since. Their mother had other children to look after and so Joseph and Josephine were committed to the care of the police. Their stay in the Police Station, however, where they were treated with the best of care, was short, for they were adopted almost immediately, one of the members of the staff deciding to undertake the future upbringing of Joseph, and Mr. Solomon Siegel adopting Josephine, who was all ready to go home with him in his car, this morning. Pretty little blue-eyed things like these, with cuddlesome ways and small baby faces, had no difficulty in finding a safe harbor.

Although Joseph and Josephine are twins, they did not evince any particular sadness at being separated for life. Their chief concern appeared to be that they should be fed and petted and so, perhaps, after all, their fate is not as sad as might appear at first reading. There was not even the tiniest of "meows" out of Josephine as her benefactor gathered her up to take her home this morning, and Joseph, who had just partaken daintily of a saucer of milk, was absorbed in the process of chasing a shoe-lace belonging to Sergeant Deannard.

Constructive Forces Work On New York Exchange

NEW YORK, Dec. 23 (Canadian Press).—Constructive forces were again at work in today's stock market, which apparently ignored the continuance of stiff call money rates. Buying was on a broader scale with bullish enthusiasm engendered by the sensational advance in wheat futures, the continuance of freight traffic at a million car weekly rate, and reports of heavy steel consumption contained in the weekly trade reviews.

NEW YORK, December 23. Canadian Press. — An invitation to meet Paul Berlonbach in a contest for the world light heavyweight boxing championship next February 5th, is the prize for the winner of the Mike McTigue-Tiger Flowers ten round bout at the Madison Square Garden in the Christmas fund benefit tonight.

BIG CIRCUS SCENE IN GRIFFITH PICTURE

Imposing Sets Also Feature New Film, "Sally of the Sawdust"

D. W. Griffith's latest production for United Artists Corporation "Sally of the Sawdust," which features Carol Dempster, W. C. Fields and Alfred Lunt in the principal roles, is announced as the feature attraction for tomorrow at the Capitol theatre.

The interiors were made at the Paramount Long Island studio, and included among other imposing sets, a huge circus and carnival scene for which one whole stage was set aside. Exteriors were filmed in Greenwich, Conn., and along the Motor Parkway and other locations in various towns and villages on Long Island.

In the supporting cast were a number of leading stage players. Glenn Anders of "They Knew What They Wanted," played the chief heavy role; Alfred Lunt, playing the title part in "The Guardsman," had the leading juvenile role. Others prominent on the stage who appeared in this picture were Effie Shannon, Florence Fair, Charles Hammond, Dorothy Bicknell and Marie Shotwell. Erville Alderson, who acted in the capacity of Mr. Griffith's assistant, also played one of the important characters in the story. Mr. Alderson has been seen in other Griffith pictures, notably "America" and "Isn't Life Wonderful."

"Sally of the Sawdust," was adapted to the screen by Forrest Halsey from a stage play in which Madge Kennedy and W. C. Fields played a year on Broadway, in New York.

AT THE REGENT

STAR OF PICTURE AT LOCAL HOUSE STARTED ASSEMBLING ARSENAL WHILE HE WAS RANGE RIDER.

Buck Jones, William Fox cowboy star, whose latest western picture, "Durand of the Bad Lands," which opens at the Regent Theatre, is described as being the best of his career, is the possessor of a most varied assortment of weapons—of all sizes, kinds and descriptions.

Buck's hobby dates back to his days on the range when he commenced accumulating "six guns"—the first of which now holds an honored niche in his elaborate guncase. Each year on the range, through years in the Army, then with wild west shows, and finally in the "movies"—brought several odd additions to the collection. With the rise of Buck to fame, his "hobby" assumed more auspicious proportions as modern rifles, shotguns, pistols and other arms augmented his unique group.

Rifles bearing the names of Kragg, Mannlicher, Winchester, Savage, Remington, Mauser, Enfield and Marlin gilsten from their respective places in the cabinet. They range from the powerful 30-30 to the tiny 22-calibre rifle.

The latest addition to Buck's miniature arsenal is a new silver-mounted six-gun which the big Fox star now uses in his pictures. This brilliant piece of "hardware" was a gift from Mrs. Jones on Buck's most recent birthday.

"Durand of the Bad Lands" was directed by Lynn Reynolds with Marian Nixon, Malcolm Waite, Carold Lombard, Luke Cosgrove and James Corrigan in leading supporting roles.

HOUSE BUILT IN VERY FEW HOURS

Sanitary Ice Company Puts Up Ice House at Street Corner.

ARTISTIC STRUCTURE.

A novel small house went up over night in Peterboro and was all ready for inspection this morning. It is the miniature house erected by the Sanitary Ice Supply Company at the corner of George and Charlotte streets, composed of small blocks of the Company's ice output, with its attractive whiteness. Of the Old English type of architecture, it is a very artistic small affair with its top surmounted by a waving flag, a door of real wood with metal braces, leaded glass windows and door centred by bright holly wreaths, and a canopy over the entrance from which is suspended an antique lantern, its white sides lettered with "House of Purity."

Fowl Very Plentiful on Market To-day—Prices Vary.

FEW CARTS PRESENT.

The basket section of the market was filled with a real Saturday-morning crowd to-day, for the mid-week Christmas market. Downstairs, in the open section, only a few carts stood at the curb and buying was listless as compared to the brisk barter upstairs.

Fowl was very plentiful, the lordly turkey and the succulent goose abounding in favor, and coming in large sizes. Eighteen and twenty pound turkeys could be bought at 35c and 38c and 40c a pound, the lighter-weight birds selling at 42c and 45c a pound. Chickens came at 23c to 25c a pound, ducks at 25c, and geese at 23c to 25c. Butter was 45c a pound and eggs were 6? a dozen.

On the open market, ducks were 25c a pound, geese the same price, and turkeys 40c. The supply was limited below stairs.

Potatoes were scarce this morning, the available supply selling at $2.75 a bag. Pork was 20c and 22c a pound, beef 10 and 12c.

A visitor to the market this morning on routine business was the Inspector of Weights and Measures who made the rounds, checking up some of the offerings.

OBITUARY

MRS. WILLIAM BEST

The funeral of the late Mrs. William Best took place on Monday afternoon, from her late residence at 475 Gilmour Street, to the Little Lake Cemetery, after services at All Saints' Church.

With the passing of the late Mrs. Best the community lost one of its outstanding women, not in a public sense, possibly, because Mrs. Best's life was one of a quiet, unassuming type, but outstanding in the quality of its service to neighbors, family and friends alike. The keynote of her church life was voiced in the words of Rev. J. D. Paterson at her bier, when he said "Her hand was seen at the head of all operations in the ladies' department of the church," and her memory will live long in the minds of those who knew and loved her as one of the most helpful and charitable women of the community, always ready to do good in neighborly ways and at the bedside of the sick. In her 91st year, she retained almost to the last, even after a wearing illness of five years, borne with uncomplaining cheerfulness and patience, her brightness of mind.

Educated thoroughly in the schools of her native Yorkshire, she was an accomplished musician and linguist. She came to this country in her youth, where she met her husband, the late William Best, who pre-deceased her a quarter of a century back. They were among the pioneer residents of the district which later became known as Best's Station. She was an ardent and active worker in the foundation of St. John's Church, Emily, and on her removal to Peterborough, became interested just as actively in the affairs of All Saints' Church.

She is survived by one son and two daughters, Dickson Best and the Misses Bessie and Bertha, all at home.

JOHN GEORGE BROWNE.

There passed away early this morning, at 514 Aylmer Street, a well-known and highly respected citizen of Peterborough in the person of John G. Browne, eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Browne.

The deceased was an Anglican in religion and a devout member of St. John's Church, having been a choir member for forty years. He was of a quiet, unassuming nature, and had made many warm friends who will regret his passing.

Left to mourn his loss are three sisters and three brothers: Mrs. M. E. Seymour, Mrs. R. McGill Hood, and Miss Jennie, of this city; G. J. and C. F. Browne, also of Peterborough, and A. D. Browne, of Chicago, Ill.

The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, from the residence of Mrs. R. McGill Hood, 514 Aylmer Street, to the Little Lake Cemetery, with services conducted by Rev. Dr. Blagrave, rector of St. Johns Church.

DEATH.

BROWNE.—At Peterboro, on Wednesday, Jan. 23, 1925, John George Browne.

Funeral on Thursday at 2 p.m. from 514 Aylmer Street.

City Child Is Burned When Gasoline Explodes

A tragedy was narrowly averted today, when Edward Dormer, junior, of 428 George Street, threw gasoline into a lighted stove. The gasoline exploded, resulting in the youngster being badly burned around the face and neck, luckily escaping serious injury. The fire brigade was promptly on the scene and extinguished the resulting fire before any property loss had been incurred.

Fire Chief Gimblett emphasized the danger of using gasoline for such purposes and said that he hoped that a warning of this nature would prove a lesson to people who endangered their own lives and those of others by dangerous practices of this kind.

School Question Looms Large In Debating Election Issues At Nominations For Aldermen

Candidates Who Mention New School Express Opposition to Project Unless Sanctioned by Vote of the People —A Plank in Many Platforms.

SEVERAL NEWCOMERS DECLARE DEFINITELY THEY WILL QUALIFY

Dr. John J. Craig Speaks for Board of Education in Challenging Statements Made by Alderman Hancock and Frederick Tuggey and is Heckled.

Peterborough should be known as more than a gateway to Kawartha lakes. In favor of broader education but against entering into expenditure blindfold.—John R. Marshall.

Best service to ratepayers.—Robert S. Cotton.

For Sunday bathing and keeping up financial stability of the city.—Nagle E. Phelan, either as Mayor or Alderman.

* * *

Cut down capital expenditure. Opposed to building new school without a vote of the people.—W. J. Hancock.

* * *

Practical work for benefit of the city.—W. H. Lytle, not yet definitely decided to run.

Cut down taxation. Opposed to new school. — Frederick T. Tuggey.

Opposed to building new school without an appeal to the people. Would make no promises.—Sidney Whatley.

Last night's nomination proceedings when names were brought forward for the Aldermanic Board of the City Council eclipsed the meeting earlier in the day when nominees were put up for the Mayoralty, the Board of Education and the Utilities Commission. Twenty-four men were named to contest the five seats vacated by the usual annual retirement of Aldermen, and of these six definitely declared their intention to allow their names to go on the ballots, while only one definitely declared he would not qualify.

The Council Chamber was crowded, even standing room being taxed, and many stood out on the landing throughout the proceedings. There was more lobbying and more discussion on the side lines than at the morning session, the applause for the various speakers was more spontaneous; and criticism from the gallery quicker and more pointed.

As at the morning meeting, City Clerk S. R. Armstrong presided.

A diversion was caused when Mr. Rightmeyer challenged the action of the Council in "railroading" ex-Alderman Joseph Crowe into the position of caretaker at the new sewage disposal plant, vowing that he had no vote for any of the Aldermen concerned.

Biggest Slate

The twenty-four nominations yesterday constitute something of a record in Peterborough municipal politics. It is necessary to go back to 1919 to find the next nearest, and only eighteen were nominated in that year. Last year the number was twelve; in 1924, eleven. While only one of those nominated last night has definitely withdrawn, it is probable that many will fail to qualify. The general opinion among old performers in the municipal ring seems to be that there will be a round dozen remaining in the fray when the dust settles at nine o'clock tonight. The only definite knowledge is that out of twenty-four on the starting card, only five can finish within the money.

That the school question is paramount in the minds of electors and candidates alike was proven last night by the attention paid by those who seek election and the applause given every declaration against Council's putting through the measure without reference to the people direct. Most of those who announced their candidature declared strongly against the proposal that the Council should vote the money bylaw through without allowing the citizens to vote. A few did not declare definitely, but left the impression that they opposed the measure. Four ignored the school issue entirely.

John Marshall.

John Marshall said he felt every citizen must give certain services to the city at some time, and in response to many requests he had assented to offer himself as an Aldermanic candidate. He felt that Peterborough should be known as more than a gateway to the Kawartha lakes, and it is up to the business men of the city to make it known commercially.

On the question of education Mr. Marshall said he is absolutely on the side of broader education, but not to enter into expenditures blindfold. Business administration, broader facilities and better transportation are in his platform.

Protecting His Interests In Heroic Rescue Of Boy

While skating, a boy fell through the ice, and was rescued by his companion at grave risk.

A bystander remarked on the boy's valour, and asked him why he took so grave risk. "Don't you know" he asked, "that you might have fallen in too?"

"Yes, but he had one of my skates on", the boy answered.

The above story was told by Alderman W. J. Hancock at the nomination meeting last night, as illustrating his reason for desiring a return to the City Council. He has a big stake in the city he said, and wishes to protect his own interests. In doing that he may help others.

NEW LAMPS ON HUNTER STREET GIVE GOOD LIGHT

Eight Holophane Refractors Replace Five Magnetite Arc Lamps.

ARE 300 WATTS

Hung in Centre of Road, They Will Not be Shaded by Trees.

Hunter street east was all lit up like a Christmas tree last night, the new street lights having been turned on for the first time. Fast work by Foreman Harry Beatty and his Utilities linemen resulted in the lights being ready for the last two nights of Christmas business, as the lanterns were received only yesterday morning.

Eight holophane units are suspended in the centre of the street, and contain 300 watt incandescent lamps. These replace five magnetite arc lamps which were placed along the north side of Hunter street some years ago. The lamps are placed from a short distance east of the end of the bridge to the corner of Hunter street and Armour road. At the corners of Mark and Rogers streets and Armour roads the lanterns are of the four-way refractor type. The lights midway in the blocks and the three in the long stretch from the bridge to Mark street are two-way refractors, throwing almost all of the light along the length of the street.

Comparison between the new lights and the sixty watt incandescent lights on most of the city's streets showed that at a distance of 200 feet from the new light and about 30 feet from the old one the shadows were equal, while on Armour road, where there are few house lights to confuse the shadow cast was sharp and well defined for a distance of over 150 feet.

Navigation Along Coast of Brittany Tied Up Two Days.

PARIS, Dec. 24.— (Canadian Press)—The storm which has swept over France seems now to have fairly abated. The trans-Atlantic liner De Grasse was able to depart from Havre yesterday after the subsidence of the violent winds and heavy seas which held her in port for several days, and which prevented a pilot from boarding the liner Savoie before she reached the protection of the breakwater.

The coas tof Brittany felt the full force of the gale, and navigation from Douarenenes, an important fishing town was interrupted for two days, while at Lorient, on the north coast, the gale lasted ten hours, causing much delay to trains had considerable damage to vessels moored in the harbor.

Mr. Hall Rejects Invitation to Talk; Matter is One of Simple Legal Right Commission Must Enforce, He Says

My attention has been drawn to your report of the civic nomination meeting at which Mr. Robert Hicks challenged me to meet him on the platform at Victoria Hall on the 29th inst., and he also said that he was willing to submit the Campbell Flour Mills case to the City Solicitor and Mr. W. R. Morris for their decision, and he mentions some cheque which each of us is to issue to abide the result to be handed to charitable work.

If I thought for one moment that any useful prupose would be served by discussing the claim against the Campbell Flour Mills Co. at a public meeting, I would not hesitate to do so, nor would I hesitate to lay all the facts before the City Solicitor and Mr. Morris, were it not for the fact that such discussion and reference would produce no results and would not be binding on the company.

I represent certain ratepayers and power and light users who are not satisfied with the course Mr. Robert Hicks and his fellow Commissioners have taken.

It is quite apparent that Mr. Hicks is honest and sincere in the course he is taking, otherwise he would not have worked himself up to a white fever heat in the cause of charity, or red fever heat in a meeting where everything would begin in talk and end in talk with the claim against the Campbell Flour Mills Co. still in the air.

There is nothing to get excited about. The Commissioners according to the evidence that has been submitted to me have been guilty of a plain neglect of public duty in not enforcing the payment of this claim and for that reason Mr. Hicks should be given a rest so that his nerves may be quieted in calm repose.

I made an application on behalf of certain inhabitants, ratepayers, and power and light users of the city of Peterborough to use the name of the Peterborough Utilities Commission to bring an action against the Campbell Flour Mills Company Limited to enforce the payment of this claim of $20,000.00 against them.

If this action is successful, less the ordinary costs and expenses of carrying on litigation, the city taxpayers will be the gainers without any risk or loss in a sum that will far exceed ten thousand dollars.

If this action is not successful, then the taxpayers of Peterborough will not be out of pocket the twentieth part of one poor scruple.

Ample security will be furnished to carry out this proposal.

The merits of the claim are well founded. A 750 barrel mill was operated on 75 horse power. It has never been done before. It has never been done since. It never can be done again unless Mr. Hicks can use his white and red heat for motive power purposes. In the meantime the voter might be well advised to vote for the impartial observer, because without in any way imputing his motives, he will want to justify himself and that can be better done by the Court in the calm judicial air of a Courtroom where there are no stormy blasts from the under regions.

Of course I am assuming that no contract has been entered into by the Commission with the Campbell Flour Mills Co. that will prejudice the City's claim. It would be unjust to do so. I am sure our trustees will not and would not do so. Everyone knows that a lawsuit is often won or lost where the scales do turn in the estimation of a hair.

Yours truly,
R. R. HALL.

Too Near Christmas For Robber To Leave Money

NEW YORK, Dec. 24 (Canadian Press)—Christmas is no time for a hold up man to get sentimental is the opinion of the one who held up a Broadway millinery shop and stole $900 from the cash drawer last midnight. Mrs. Pauline Turner, proprietor of the shop, and her sister during the three minutes the armed man was in the store begged him to leave a little money behind.

"Nothing doin'" he replied. "It's too near Christmas."

HOLY YEAR ENDS DOOR IS CLOSED

Official Ceremonial To-day Marked By Gorgeous Robes of Prelates.

THOUSANDS PRESENT.

ROME, December 24. Canadian Press. — Pope Pius XI, picturesquely clad in pontifical robes of rich medieval designs and surrounded by ecclesiastical dignitaries, whose sumptuous attire for such occasions is famous the world over, to-day performed the ceremony of closing the holy door of the Basilica of St. Peter, the mammoth mother church of Roman Catholicism.

The ceremony officially brought to a close the year of Pinitence and Pardon specially marked on the Catholic calendar once every quarter of a century.

Several thousands of pilgrims, together with multitudes of Romans, men occupying positions of state and members of the historic Roman aristocracy, composed the 70,000 persons who filled the great Basilica and its massive portico to-day, to bear witness to the time honored solemn ceremony. Other thousands without number congregated in the spacious St. Peter's square, covering virtually every flagstone between the weather worn cloisters designed by Bernini, which skirt two sides of the square, knowing that they would never see any part of the ceremony, but hoping to receive vicarious spiritual benefit from such close proximity.

Fred Tuggey Tells People Times He Went To School

While declaring his candidature for the City Council, and setting forward his qualifications to judge on the school question, Mr. Tuggey last night read to the nomination meeting a list of the number of times he attended school. The document he had, he said, was unique, and few people could give so accurate a statement of their youth. The record read:

Year.	Times at School
1887	353
1888	395
1889	409
1890	331
1891	360
1892	440
1893	370
1893	370
1894	380

Chinese Students Celebrate When Tientsin Is Captured

BERLIN, Dec. 24.— (Canadian Press.)—Chinese students of Berlin rioted in a restaurant following word of the reported capture of Tientsin by General Feng Yuh Siang.

Beer glasses, plates and cups were freely used and ten of the rioters, who were from the Communist Democratic ranks, were injured before the police could intervene.

SMITH UNABLE TO RAISE MONEY TO PAY HIS FINE

Raney Says He Couldn't Raise $25,000—Amount is $100,000.

REFERENCE COURTESY.

Attorney General of Ontario Has Only Standing of Private Prosecutor.

TORONTO, December 24. Canadian Press. — W. E. Raney, the former Attorney General, who has been actively endeavoring to get a parole for Peter Smith the former Provincial Treasurer of Ontario, now in the penitentiary, said to-day that he thought it impossible for Mr. Smith to raise the $100,000, which he was fined when convicted.

"I do not think Mr. Smith could raise $25,000," said Mr. Raney. "He has an interest in a glass works which is not paying a dividend, and the rest of his assets, I believe, are tied up with the bank. The Attorney-General, if he had so wished, could have made a seizure of the assets to pay the fine, but he had not done so."

Mr. Raney contended that the reference to the Attorney General by the Federal Minister of Justice, was just a mere courtesy as the Attorney-General had no other standing than that of any private prosecutor.

AMBASSADOR TO REPRESENT U. S. A.

H. S. Gibbson, Minister to Switzerland, Going to Arms Meeting.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24 (Canadian Press).—Hugh S. Gibbon, United States Minister to Switzerland, is to represent the United States in the preliminary gathering at Geneva, under the auspices of the League of Nations, to arrange for a conference on the limitation of armaments which ought to come along next summer.

President Coolidge conferred yesterday with Senators Borah, Moses, and Lenroot relative to a Congressional apprporiation to defray expenses.

FREE MOVIE SHOW.

Knights of Columbus Have Arranged Special Treat For Kiddies.

Through the kindness of Mr. A. G. Crowe, manager of the Capitol Theatre, the Knights of Columbus are giving a free show to the children of the city at the theatre on Saturday morning at ten o'clock, and hereby extend an invitation to children to be present and have a real jolly time. There will be a programme of moving pictures, candies for the children, and special dances on the stage, by little Moira Coutts and Sophia Yeotes. The children of the city are invited.

THE WEATHER.

This morning showed a temperature of ten above zero, as compared with yesterday morning's zero. Snow was again falling, and we will now have fair sleighing for Christmas Day. An old proverb says: "A green Christmas makes a fat churchyard," meaning thereby it is not conducive to good health to see the ground bare of snow at Christmas. At this time I would like to extend my warmest greeting to every reader of these notes. While I may at certain seasons hand out some "cold" facts and figures, I desire that my Christmas greeting to you, reader, wherever you are, or whoever you may be, may have the warmth of a midsummer day, and that you may indeed have a happy Christmas, as well as a merry one.—W. P.

DEPORTING WIFE OF ROBERT SCOTT

She Insists That She Doesn't Know Where Her Much Wanted Husband Is.

DETROIT, Dec. 24. (Canadian Press).—Deportation to Canada faced a young woman who yesterday gave her name as Ethel Howard, but who later, under questioning, admitted she was the wife of Robert Scott, upon whose head the police of Cook County, Illinois, have placed a price. Scott is wanted in connection with killing a clerk in a Chicago hold up. His brother Russell is serving a life sentence in an Illinois asylum for the insane on the same charge, having escaped hanging after a sensational fight against great odds.

Mrs. Robert Scott insists she does not know her husband's whereabouts. "He left me more than three years ago," she said. "We lived together about six months."

JUDGE'S DECISION FAVORED M'TIGUE

Both Fighters Mingled Freely—Award Jeered and Cheered.

NEW YORK, December 24. Canadian Press. — Mike McTigue, the former worlds light heavyweight champion, last night won the judge's decision over the Atlanta, Ga., negro, Tiger Flowers, in a furious ten round fight at the Madison Square Garden, the feature contest of the Christmas fund boxing show.

Discarding his customary defensive style to trade punches with the southern fighter in every round, McTigue met the vigorous assault of his foe with solid rights to the body and head. Flowers replied with terrific hooks which several times turned McTigue around. They fought toe to toe throughout and at the conclusion boos were mingled with the shouts of approval over the verdict.

McTigue weighed 171½ and Flowers 165½.

THE FIRST CHRISTMAS.

(St. Luke, 2nd Chapter, 7th to 14th Verses.)

And she brought forth her first born son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the angel of the hord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone about them: and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people.

For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign unto you; ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying:

Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, good will toward men.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS.

On the eve of the year's most joyous and most significant festival of the year, the Examiner asks to be allowed to join in that this happy Christmas season may bring a real understanding and happiness to all its readers.

On no other occasion is there such a display of thoughtfulness and consideration for others as at Christmas. The practice of gift-giving, commercialized though its critics may say it is, is responsible for much unselfishness and kindly consideration for the happiness of those around us, and the spirit of good-will and kindness that is developed at this season would be a wonderful boon to humanity if its influence could be carried up and spread through the twelve months of the year rather than confined to the last month.

Wonderful, too, is the manner in which Christmas plays on the heart-strings of those away from home.

At no other time in the year do the thoughts of absent ones of the loved ones therein crowd in upon us so insistently as at Yuletide.

And so Christmas brings with it happy family reunions, to which the sons and daughters return from their homes far to spend the festive anniversary under the parental roof of home.

The Examiner hopes that Peterboro will experience many such joyful reunions tomorrow, and that they will be crowded with happiness that will dwell in fond memory throughout the new year that is coming.

May the spirit of Christmas visit every home, rich and unpretentious, in this city tomorrow—and may peace and good cheer be everywhere enthroned.

THE MUNICIPAL PROSPECTS.

The last time for the qualification of candidates for municipal honors. At 5 o'clock tonight it is impossible to accurately forecast the municipal political situation beyond the point of certainty that there will be contests for the Mayoralty, Utilities Commission, Board of Education and Council.

The prospects are that there will be a three-cornered fight for the Mayor's chair, with Ald. Fife, ex-Ald. Dr. Holloway and Ald. Nagle Phelan as the aspirants. The Utilities Commission contest will be a straight fight between Robert Hicks, retiring member of the Commission, and Gordon Matthews. Ex-Ald.
